MR. HARDY AT BROCKVILLE.

The Old Party, Old Surplus and New Leader.

A FULL REPLY TO MR. WHITNEY.

Brockville's Enthusiastic Reception—They Cheered the Premier and Greeted Him With a Mighty Shout—A Magnificent Speech—Mr. Dana Appreciated—The New Candidate—The Campaign.

Brockville, Feb. 2.—If any evidence were wanting of the enthusiasm which prevails among the Liberals of Brockville it was afforded at the gathering from all parts of the constituency in the Opera House last evening. Notwithstanding that the roads had been blocked by the storm and that the thermometer had sunk to a point at which consideration for personal comfort rendered a stay within the home circle doubly inviting, the people came from all directions and crowded the Opera House to the doors to hear the Premier of the province.

They Cheered the Premier.

An address of welcome was read to Hon. Mr. Hardy by the Mayor on behalf of the Liberal Association of Brockville. The Premier on rising to respond met with a most flattering reception. A mighty shout went up and the cheering was loud and continued as he bowed his acknowledgments. He returned thanks for the handsome address, the language of compliment which it contained being, he assured them, more than his deserts, but as the language of friendship he accepted it, although too flattering. He paid a touching tribute to the memory of the late Mr. Fraser, and referred in complimentary terms to the eminent services of the retiring member, Mr. Dana, whose retirement had been a surprise to him. The statement that the duties of the responsible position of whip had never been more ably discharged than by Mr. Dana was received with applause. Brockville had, he said, sent many eminent men to represent it, but never had it sent the superior or the peer of Christopher Finlay Fraser, a man among men, upon whose shoulders, had he lived, the mantle of Sir Oliver Mowat would have fallen instead of on those of the speaker. It had been his privilege to labor with him in the defense of the rights of the province, and to assist in that struggle by which its territory was preserved intact to the people of Ontario. Taking up the record of the Government, Mr. Hardy referred to the useful and progressive legislation which had been enacted for the protection of the workingmen, and reminded those present that the late Mr. Fraser had originated some of these great legislative provisions. The cause of labor, he said, owed as much to him for those amendments as to anyone who had in the first had to do with the laws governing labor questions. He quoted with gratification the tribute to the sincerity and thoroughness of the legislation on this subject paid by the Dominion Trades Congress, of which some seven or eight important measures had been carried through during the first year of his administration. When, he said, the Trades and Labor Council of Toronto had united with one voice to say that the advance in labor legislation was such that it was of little use to demand anything else, it was reason for the Government to congratulate themselves and to draw the attention of the workingmen of the country to the advantages they enjoyed under that legislation. Mr. A. W. Wright, a Conservative, and one of the principal officers of the Knights of Labor, had also declared that "Ontario has not much to learn from any State in the Union, and is immeasurably in advance of most of them in relation to her labor laws." As Mr. Hardy enumerated the various Acts which had been placed upon the statute book, all designed to protect the working classes in their rights and to preserve them, to afford an easy means of asserting and maintaining those rights, and for the amelioration of the condition of the toilers, there was frequent and hearty applause. There is in Ontario as full and complete a code of labor laws as any nation of the earth can produce, and they are in advance of most of the States of the Union, and there are few from whom we can learn anything in that respect. The advantages of the ballot system in use in the province in the detection of fraud were pointed out. It is the system which is in use in England, where it has worked satisfactorily, and it provides no means of tracing how men vote except in a court of law or in a scrutiny. The greatest vindication of the numbered ballot was the experience in the last Dominion elections, where unauthorized and unofficial ballots had been struck off on the printing press, and were in use in certain constituencies, notably in Manitoba. There is no crime that should be punished with greater severity than the attempt to substitute fraudulent ballots, and the numbered ballot would be a great check upon such practices.

Manhood Franchise.

Farmers' sons had been given the franchise by the Liberal Government, and this was followed up later by the manhood suffrage franchise, and now every young man of 21 years of age and a British subject, who has been a resident for one year in the province or three months in the municipality, may boldly walk up in the light of day, register his name and claim his ballot side by side with the man who owns his millions, and his vote counts for just as much and weighs in the country just as much as that of the greatest magnate of the land. (Cheers.) That was the crowning feature of the various Acts granting to the young man full autonomy, recognizing his full manhood, his ability to judge the right and to have a voice in the management of the affairs of the country; and, to round it off, the Government had provided for manhood suffrage registration in cities and towns, where every young man who ought to be on the list can walk up and have his right to vote recorded. The Government have also traversed the whole circle of legislation relating to the law on municipal matters, on matters of assessment, of education and of agriculture. In not one instance had they been behind, but they had been in advance of public opinion. In administration had the Government been behind? The Opposition had nothing serious against them. Mr. Marter had been put up to discover scandals, and had unearthed the $12.50 marine glass, which they could not find afterwards in the public accounts; the $40 premium paid on an insurance policy; the commission paid for selling bricks which were made at the Central Prison, and the John Simpson matter. These were the sum of the "great" scandals which marked the record of twenty-six years' of administration. Mr. Whitney had accused the Government of stealing his timber policy, but he had assured the hon. gentleman that no man would ever be convicted of larceny on such a charge. (Laughter.)

The Pigsty Policy.

The Opposition instead of devoting the last hours of the session to framing a policy upon which to seek the suffrages of the electors had occupied their attention with the "swinarium" or "hogorium" issue. He would not go into the evidence, but gave the statements of the Opposition an absolute and unconditional denial, and ridiculed the idea that the people of this province should be asked to degrade themselves by making this an issue in the campaign. The policy of the Opposition changed with each election. As Mr. Willison of the Globe had aptly described it, four years ago it was "No Popery," and now it is "No piggery." (Laughter.) They had a few years ago an "egg" policy, then it was the "hen;" last time it was "the calf with a cough," and true to instructions they now had a "pigsty and pig" policy. Apparently they must have a live animal in it.

Alien Labor Question.

On the previous evening Mr. Whitney had announced his policy as just the opposite to that of the Government. Before the election was over he would have more to say to Mr. Whitney upon that. It was a fatal admission, because he had voted with the Government in a large proportion of the Acts of the House. The Legislature votes sums of money to railways every year almost, and Mr. Whitney drew a resolution, which he handed to Mr. Carnegie to move, providing that no persons who is not a British subject or who had lived a year in Canada should be allowed to work upon the construction of subsidized railways as a condition of the grant. The Government pointed out that the effect of this would be to stop immigration from European countries, and he drew an amendment providing that the residents of any country which had an alien labor law which prevented Canadians working upon their public and other works should not be allowed to work on our railways. (Cheers.) Mr. Whitney said the Government was coming down, and he and his followers abandoned their own resolution and voted with the Government. The Opposition had declare that the Government were piling up the provincial debt, but when a deputation recently waited upon the Government for a grant, Mr. Crawford, one of the leaders of the Opposition, Mr. Meacham and Mr. St. John were with them and asked the Government to increase the railway debt, after having in the strongest language in their power over and over again mourned our having accumulated a liability of about two and three-quarter millions of dollars—let them call it what they please, it is about two and three-quarter millions as it at present stands. The Mail and Empire makes it up from $5,000,000 to $9,000,000, but generally states it at $5,150,000, that is when it includes railway certificates and annuities. But the way it does is to include the interest for the 40 years the annuities are to run. After returning to the cry of the Opposition that it is time for a change and the applicability of such a cry when there is reason for it in the public interest, he expressed confidence that the electors of Brockville will repeat the history of the past so that this good riding with its Liberal majority will return a standard-bearer who is not only popular but will be an ornament to any Legislature in any province—a man almost unsurpassed as a platform speaker in the province, a man whose name shot into the air as one of the coming men of this province and who maintains the honor of the riding. (Cheers.)

Mr. Graham.

In introducing Mr. Graham the Mayor proposed three cheers for the candidate, which were given with a will, with a tiger, and it was some time before the applause subsided sufficiently to allow him to proceed. He said that owing to the lateness of the hour—11 o'clock—it would be impossible for him to go into the public questions as fully as he had anticipated, but he would, at the risk of wearing the audience, say a few words concerning his candidature, as he believed that when a man asks the votes of the electorate he should have some reasons to present why he asks for their support. He then presented his platform—the old policy, the old surplus and the new leader.

FOR 48 CENTS A WORD

You Can Now Cable a Message Direct From Canada to Jamaica.

Montreal, Feb. 2.—The Canadian Pacific Railway announce that their direct cable connection between Halifax and Jamaica is now open for business. The rate from Montreal to Jamaica is 48 cents per word. The old rate between those points, which has been in existence for some years, was $1.10 per word. Heretofore telegrams between England and the West Indian Islands were sent from the landing of Atlantic cable in Nova Scotia through Canada to New York, thence to Florida over the Western Union lines, and from there over the International Ocean Cable Co.'s lines to Cuba, along the shores of Cuba via the Cuba Submarine Cable to Jamaica, entailing endless delay. Press and market reports furnished the West Indian Islands were also transmitted through the same source. Hereafter press and market news will be sent from Canada. This, with the cheaper rate, it is expected, will largely influence trade between these two countries.

THE HUB UNDER SNOW.

Railroad Traffic Blocked—Hundreds of Dead Horses Lying in the Streets of Boston.

Worcester, Mass., Feb. 2.—At seven minutes to 12 yesterday communication with Boston was established by telephone with the Gazette office in this city, via Fitchburg.

Boston is completely blockaded. Only two or three street cars are running on Washington street and railroad communication is practically cut off. Over two hundred horses were killed by falling trolley wires and by exhaustion last night, and their carcasses are lying in the streets, most of them being on Tremont and Washington streets, and in East Boston. No fatalities or accidents to people have been reported up to noon. The railroads are blockaded and the trains which left the city last night are stalled. Reports from all points heard from unite in telling of the deep snowfall and high winds.

The Boston streets, with the exception of Washington and Tremont, which are partially cleared, are impassable for pedestians and barges have been put in service to accommodate traffic.

NOMINATIONS YESTERDAY.

London, Ont., Feb. 2.—The Liberals here nominated Col. F. B. Leys. The choice was unanimous.

Delta, Ont., Feb. 2.—On account of the unfavorable weather, the Liberal convention for South Leeds, which was to have been held here yesterday, has been postponed until Saturday, Feb. 5.

Cayuga, Ont., Feb. 2.—At a meeting of the Independent electors of the County of Haldimand, held in the Court House yesterday, Mr. John Senn of York was elected to contest the county in their interests.

Emsdale, Ont., Feb. 2.—The Conservative convention for Muskoka and Parry Sound was held here yesterday and resulted in the renomination of Mr. W. R. Beatty, M.P.P. Other candidates put up were Capt. Knifton of Parry Sound and James Edgar of Sundridge, but Mr. Beatty won on a ballot.

Walkerton, Ont., Feb. 2.—A convention of Independent electors was held at Formosa yesterday for the purpose of nominating a candidate. Mr. Aaron Moyer, merchant, of Walkerton, and Mr. W. R. Thompson, manufacturer, of Teeswater, were the only candidates nominated. Mr. Moyer retired after addressing the meeting, and the nomination of Mr. Thompson was made unanimous. He accepted.

Dicks Has Money.

Detroit, Feb. 2.—Arthur A. Dicks, alias Roscoe, in jail here on a charge of assault, preferred by his daughter, is preparing to furnish the bonds of $5,000. He drew $3,500 from a local bank, and besides holds a certificate of deposit for $12,000. He is now looking around for two persons who, for a money consideration, are willing to go his bonds. Justice Sellers has learned of this, and intends to see that the Prosecuting Attorney is notified before the bail is accepted. Dicks is the man who was tried in Toronto some time ago for murdering his wife, the alleged object being to collect insurance money on her life. He was acquitted.

Black Diphtheria on Crow's Nest Road.

MacLeod, N.W.T., Feb. 2.—Black diphtheria has broken out among the men on the Crow's Nest Pass Railway. Two young men from Nova Scotia have succumbed.

Suffered Agony With Pains in the Stomach—Hood's Cured.

The testimonials in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla are as worthy of confidence as though they came from your most trusted neighbor. They are written by honest people who are grateful for the cures accomplished by this wonderful medicine. Read this statement:

"I was afflicted with severe pains in my stomach from which I suffered much agony at times. I was afraid to go any distance from home for fear of having an attack. I was treated for neuralgia of the heart without avail. At last my mother wrote and urged me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have her letter before me at the present time and it reads as follows: 'My dear child, it grieves me to learn that you suffer so with your stomach. Do get a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and let me know the result, for I am confident

It Saved My Life.'

I am glad to state that I abided by my mother's advice and I am now healthy and strong. I never think of being without Hood's Sarsaparilla in the house. It is a great help to mothers while nursing. I have given it to my baby with satisfactory results. I cannot state all I would like of the many benefits I have known Hood's Sarsaparilla to give to other sufferers. I gladly recommend it." MRS. TO BE IN WOODSTOCK.

The Ontario Cheese and Butter Makers' Association Making Progress.

The Ontario Cheese and Butter Makers' Association is completing arrangements to hold its first convention in Woodstock Feb. 23rd and 24th. The organization took life at the recent Western Dairymen's convention at London, although there has been a feeling for some years that there was work for such an organization.

Messrs. T. D. Barry, Ingersoll; W. Edgar, Culloden; Levi Smith, Ingersoll, and F. H. Brooks, secretary, of Holbrook, were in Woodstock recently arranging the details. They interviewed Mayor Mackay and other town officials, and made satisfactory arrangements for the reception of the visitors on the dates named. Arrangements are also being made with the railways for special rates, and prominent dairymen are expected to address the convention. Further particulars will be given later.

OMEMEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Parties driving to Peterborough last Saturday suffered a great deal from the cold but report the roads in fine condition.

Those who had the good fortune to go and listen to General Booth from here came back much profited and strengthened and will renew the work here with vigour.

The Rev. W. McCann, who has laboured here successfully in the Episcopal church for the last eight or nine years, has decided to go into the mission work in foreign fields. His place will not be easily filled here or that of Mrs. McCann, his esteemed wife.

The Reform meeting held here in the Bradburn Hall in the interests of Mr. Austin, was addressed by the candidate and Messrs. Stewart, Anderson, Barrister and Lindsay. Mr. Harry Nugent, one of our leading farmers, filling the duties of chairman in an able manner. The candidate made an excellent speech and gained favour here when it was known his intention of pursuing the same course and thoughtfulness of the north end constituents of the County of Victoria as that of his neighbouring able representative of Peterborough. Mr. Austin will get a sweeping vote north and his chances are very promising of victory. Messrs. Anderson and Stewart made two excellent addresses for the Government, and gave a chance to the large audience to ask questions or speak. The few questioners, who proved to be only interrupters, were clearly and satisfactorily answered. A number of ladies were present and Mr. Austin was delighted with his reception.

The Eastern Methodist church (known as Middle Road) will hold a grand concert here on Saturday night, introducing the new feature of having the remarkable child Mamie Chambers, and it bids fair to attract a large crowd at the Bradburn Opera House. Admission 25c.

The Omemee Methodist Sunday School anniversary is to be held on Feb. 13th, and promises to be one of the best ever held. Dr. J. N. Thompson is the capable superintendent.

MISS MOWAT'S FIRST.

Initial Function Under the New Regime at Government House—Charming Scene—Brilliant Gathering.

Toronto, Feb. 2.—The first official reception at Government House under the new regime took place yesterday afternoon, and, notwithstanding the severity of the cold, was a brilliant affair. Miss Mowat received in an artistic and most becoming gown of white cashmere, trimmed with otter, and made a very charming hostess in her new and responsible position. Beside her stood her father, His Honor the Lieut.-Governor, who beamed a welcome upon the numerous visitors in his new home in his well-known amiable way.

Government House has been recarpeted and decorated, and everywhere there prevails an air of comfort and elegance. The conservatories are full of beautiful palms, ferns and blooming plants. Under the central arch of the greenhouse a gently plashing fountain has spreading green lily pads in its basin, with here and there a purple blossom, under which the golden sunfish glance like sunbeams. Easy chairs, with rugs, and tiny tables for the tea service, were here in numbers, and the bright wintry sunshine poured in from the west, so that this became one of the sitting-out places at the pretty reception. Dainty refreshments were served in the long north room off the conservatories, from which the guests passed to the great hall to register their names. Among the guests at this first function were the retired occupants of Government House, Sir George and Lady Kirkpatrick, the latter wearing a most becoming gown of handsome black and white satin, black coat and hat.

NO OLD NEWSPAPERS THESE.

This Woman Wore an Article of Apparel of Considerable Value.

Winnipeg, Feb. 2.—Abraham Tibbets, the Boston leather dealer, caught by the Canadian Mounted Police, while fleeing from that city, was arrested just after having read the account of his flight in a Boston despatch published in the Winnipeg Free Press. Sergt. D. E. Rossiter had boarded the train at Qu'Appelle in plain clothes, and did not locate the couple for some hours, as they kept themselves locked in a state-room, and he finally had to force the door. Both Tibbets and the woman protested their innocence and bluffed a good deal. On searching the woman $36,000 in bills and bonds were found in her bustle. They also had about $3,000 worth of jewelry. The baggage had not yet been searched. United States officers are expected at Regina on the next train.

DRESDEN CITIZENS

Honour Dr. Dodd, the Discoverer of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Hundreds of Lives Have Been Saved by the Famous Remedy in Dresden District—Mr. A. McIntosh one of the Rescued—He is Proud of the Fact.

Dresden, Feb. 1.—Deep interest is taken by a large proportion of the people of this district in the proposal to mark the closing year of the 19th century by the erection of a monument, to perpetuate the memory of the famous Dr. Dodd, the discoverer of that great life saver, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

This greatest medicine ever known to man has saved many lives in this town. It it safe to say that there are not a dozen families in Dresden that do not use it. Every man you meet can tell you of the most remarkable cures that it has effected, to his own personal knowledge.

Mr. A. McIntosh, the genial proprietor of the Clifford House, Dresden, is proud to number himself among the thousands who owe their lives to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Eight years of suffering from Bright's Disease, and the failure of every medicine and every doctor he employed, had caused Mr. McIntosh to think there was no hope for him.

Finally the sick man heard of the cures being effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills. He bought a supply. Seven boxes cured him completely. Now he is hale and hearty, strong and healthy. "I wouldn't be without Dodd's Kidney Pills for any amount of money," he says.

No remedy under the sun except Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Paralysis, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Gout, Gravel, Stone in Bladder, all Urinary Diseases, Diseases of Women, and all other Kidney Troubles.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists, at fifty cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, or will be sent on receipt of price by The Dodds Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

OTTAWA, July 31st, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Company, Ltd., Ottawa, Ont.

GENTLEMEN,—On the advice of a friend I tried one bottle of your famous rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline, and to my surprise it cured me of rheumatism, from which I have suffered for many years.

It also cured me of dyspepsia, from which I was suffering at the time, so that I feel now like a new man.

I have tried several remedies for rheumatism, some of which did me a certain amount of good, but nothing that I have taken has done so much for me as your Phrenoline, and I have much pleasure in recommending it to other sufferers.

Yours very truly,

A SPRING CAMPAIGN

Declared to Be Necessary by Gen. Sir William Lockhart.

22 BRITISH SLAIN RECOVERED.

Nineteen Lives Lost by the Wrecking of the Mail Steamer Channel Queen—Struck a Rock Off the Guernsey Coast and went Down—General Cable News.

Bombay, Feb. 2.—A despatch from Mamani gives further details of the disaster on Saturday last to the fourth brigade of the British troops operating on the frontier near Shinkamur. General Westmacott, who has just returned to Mamani, after visiting the scene of the fighting, has recovered 22 bodies of the British slain and inflicted heavy loss upon 300 of the enemy who opposed him. The British lost one man killed and had eight men wounded in the latter engagement.

General Sir William Lockhart, who has just been relieved of the command of the frontier forces by General Sir Arthur Power Palmer, sails for England on Saturday next. In an interview he has expressed the opinion that a spring campaign against the tribesmen will be necessary.

A TERRIBLE FAILURE.

Gen. Sir Henry Havelock-Allan on the Indian Campaign—Notes Written Just Before His Death.

London, Feb. 2.—The Daily Mail yesterday morning published the diary kept from Dec. 12 by General Sir Henry Havelock-Allen, who was killed by rebellious tribesmen on the Indian frontier last month. He lengthily recorded his impressions of the campaign and the general situation on the frontier. Writing from Peshawur three days before his death, he said:

"The whole thing has been a dead failure from being undertaken on too small a scale and without adequate calculation. It will be a costly mistake. The burden will fall on the overtaxed Indian people, who are already broken down by famine and pestilence and the beginning of sedition. A strict account ought to be demanded in Parliament of the causes of the deplorable failure. The mistake must have originated either from some controlling influence at Simla or Calcutta being used to thwart the military commanders, or, what is less probable, by orders from home not to make a big job of it.

"What would have been the state of things if it had occurred three or four months hence, when we, perhaps, are engaged with Russia, whose advance parties were stirring up strife and unrest among these Afridis tribes, who would then be most formidable enemies?"

A day or two earlier General Havelock-Allen wrote: "Reading between the lines of the accounts from the frontier it is certain that the Afridis are not at all subdued. They are, in fact, defiantly pursuing our troops and escorting us out of the country."

Commenting on the diary, the Mail says:

"This is a damning criticism by a competent and independent observer, whose verdict every day's news is tending more and more to justify. It is a terrible indictment and must be answered. Nor can the possibility of blame attaching to people in high places be permitted to stand in the way of a ruthless inquiry."

NINETEEN LIVES LOST

By the Wrecking of a Mail Steamer Off the Island of Guernsey.

Plymouth, Feb. 2.—It is reported that the mail steamer Channel Queen has been totally wrecked off the Island of Guernsey. The Channel Queen, ran between Plymouth and the Island of Jersey. It appears she struck on the rocks during a fog yesterday morning and sank.

The Channel Queen's engines were reversed when the rocks were seen, but it was then too late. The first boat load reached land and sought help of the fishermen, who made gallant rescues, although the heavy sea prevented their boat from approaching the wreck. The survivors had to be dragged by ropes through the sea to the rescuing boats. The captain was the last to leave the wreck.

The latest report is that 19 were drowned—the chief engineer, three stokers and fifteen passengers—including 14 Breton onion sellers, who were drowned in their cabins when the sea swamped the vessel. The rescued passengers lost everything, even their clothing.

WISDOM OF CHATHAMITES

Dodd's Kidney Pills are First Favourites With Them.

Chatham, Jan. 17—The druggists of this town report most extraordinary sales of Dodd's Kidney Pills during the past few months. Every citizen is thoroughly acquainted with the sterling merits of these wonderful pills, which are admitted to be the only medicine that will completely and positively cure all blood and kidney diseases.

J. J. O'Brien of this place publishes the statement that he was cured entirely of kidney disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills, after all other remedies had failed.

Hundreds of other cures of Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Paralysis, etc., are known of here, and Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only medicine used by our citizens in cases of diseases of the kidneys and impure blood.

Napoleon's Loss.

It is said that but for an attack of indigestion, brought on by over eating, Napoleon would have won Waterloo. Great issues depend on good digestion—good digestion depends upon Burdock Blood Bitters. "Two years ago my wife was very ill with dyspepsia. Six bottles of B.B.B. cured her, and she has no return of the malady." Wm. Day, Fort William, Ont.

GENERAL CABLES.

The Queen's Speech—Swiss Village Burned—Injunction Against Lady Sykes.

London, Feb. 2.—The Cabinet met yesterday in order to complete the Queen's speech on the reassembling of Parliament.

Berne, Feb. 2.—The village of Weissenburgbad, in the Berne Oberland, has been destroyed by fire. Only the original hotel was saved.

London, Feb. 2.—There has been an epidemic of threats to kill theatrical people since the murder of William Terriss by Richard Arthur Prince. A man named named Francis Carroll, described as an actor, was remanded yesterday on the charge of threatening to murder Miss Florence St. John, the actress.

London, Feb. 2.—An injunction prayed for by Sir Tatton Sykes was granted in the Chancery Court yesterday restraining Lady Sykes and a pawnbroker from selling family heirlooms which Lady Sykes had pawned. Notice of appeal has been given in the case of Jay versus Sykes and wife, which resulted on January 18th in a verdict in favor of the defendants.

AMERICA'S BEST DOCTORS

Say Dodd's Kidney Pills Are the Only Cure For Bright's Disease.

Ingersoll, Jan. 24—Only a couple of weeks ago the remarkable recovery of farmer G. J. Cooke from Kidney Disease, through the agency of Dodd's Kidney Pills, was reported.

Now the whole town is talking of a yet more extraordinary cure by that God sent medicine.

Michael Sherlock was cured of kidney and bladder disease of five years' standing by a course of treatment with Dodd's Kidney Pills, and makes public statement of his case.

The most eminent physicians on the continent now pronounce Dodd's Kidney Pills the one and only sure, unfailing cure for Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Dropsy, Lumbago, Lame Back, Female Disease and all other kidney and blood disorders.

ALMOST A MIRACLE.

OTTAWA, Sept. 9th, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Co., Ltd., Ottawa:—

GENTLEMEN,—I hardly know how best to express my appreciation of your valuable rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline. My son Gordon, who is 9 years old, has been a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism for the past two years; was so bad at times that he had to be carried about on a mattress; was attended by two city doctors apparently without the slightest benefit; spent 10 days at Caledonia Springs, came home with no marked improvement; took three bottles of a Homeopathic remedy now being extensively advertised, which did not relieve him in the least. I was beginning to give up all hope of his recovery, when by chance I mentioned the case to a friend who strongly advised me to give Phrenoline a trial.

I did so, with the result that when my boy had taken only half a bottle he was able to get on his bicycle and ride like any other boy around the block.

I certainly feel that I cannot say too much in praise of your medicine, and shall do all I can to make known its value to others.

Yours very sincerely,
(Signed) REUBEN CLARK,

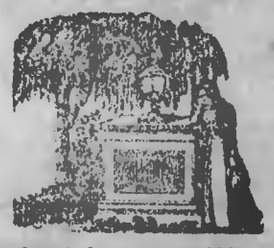
High-Grade Cemetery Work

AT A MODERATE PRICE.



The element of permanence which attaches to the erection of any memorial to the dead renders it highly desirable that no mistake be made in the selection either of design or of material.

A mistake is a serious matter. Let us help you to make a right decision. Our specialty is the erection of monuments which are unique without being grotesque, and artistic without being over-decorated.

We manufacture from all first-quality granites, and as WE SELL DIRECT TO CUSTOMERS, we save the latter all agents' profits. Then, too, there is a decided advantage for the buyer in dealing with one responsible firm for both the manufacture and the setting of a monument.

All our work is guaranteed, NO CHARGE being made if not strictly according to contract. Write us for designs and estimates.

Still Another Highly Successful Meeting.

LARGE ATTENDANCE OF ELECTORS.

Addresses by Messrs. Stone and Stratton—Public Questions Dealt With—Enthusiastic Reception of the Candidate—Smith Solid for Mr. Stratton.

Last night, in spite of the intensely bitter weather, there was an unusually large attendance of the electors at the meeting held at Selwyn in Mr. Stratton's interests. The only feature of the meeting to be regretted was that with a few exceptions the gathering was composed entirely of Mr. Stratton's friends, and as he came to call not the political righteous, but political sinners to repentance, the latter were deprived of the benefit of the convincing arguments advanced why the Government and its supporter in this riding should receive a new expression of popular approval.

The chair was occupied by Mr. William McIlmoyle, who stated that the object of the meeting was to hear an address on public questions from Mr. Stratton, who had for twelve years represented—and represented well—the riding of West Peterborough. (Cheers.)

Mr. E. B. Stone was the first speaker, and set forth in general terms the reasons why the electors should retain in power the present Government, and also retain the services of a member like Mr. Stratton, who had not only creditably but ably represented West Peterborough, and had successfully guarded and advanced its interests.

Mr. Stratton opened an able address by remarking that when his opponent entered the field he (Mr. Stratton) expected that he would propound some new policy for the government of the Province. But such had not been the case. No improvement was proposed in our municipal system and naturally enough, for under the present Government's wise legislation it had been brought to the highest position of any similar system in the world. No new financial policy was suggested in place of the policy that had resulted in the expenditure of millions in the interests of and for the

and all accomplished without one dollar being improperly expended and with five million and a half of suplus assets. General charges of extravagance were made by the Opposition in this campaign, but no proof was forthcoming. They made no specific charge because it was impossible to do so. Nor did the Opposition show in what better way they would manage our finances and if they couldn't propose anything better, wasn't it wise to let well enough alone. (Cheers.) Mr. Stratton reviewed the financial record of the Government and detailed how expenditures had been wisely and liberally made, what great sums had been returned to the people to lessen local taxation. Peterborough County had received in this way under the Liberal Government three quarters of a million of dollars and other counties had been liberally dealt with. Altogether in thirty years ninety-three millions of money had been spent and not a dollar had gone astray. (Cheers.) Was not something to be proud of, for, after all, the question was not how much money was spent for necessary services, but was it spent wisely, fairly and squarely? (Applause.) After referring to and satisfactorily explaining the Engledue Deal," he dealt with the school book question, showing the unfairness of Mr. Garvin comparing a cheap novel in its last stage of existence with a live, well made, well bound school book with a limited sale. Mr. Stratton also repelled the slander that he had used his representative position in his own interests in connection with financial corporations of which he was president, and conclusively showed how baseless it was. In conclusion he asserted that his bitterest opponents could not point to a single act that had discredited him as a representative, and he appealed to his audience as to whether they would pass over the claims of a representative who had served them faithfully, and the claims of the efficient and progressive government he had the honour of supporting. (Cheers.)

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the chairman and cheers for the Queen and Mr. Stratton.

ANOTHER PIONEER GONE.

Death of a Former Resident of Monaghan in the West.

The Stratford Beacon contains the following reference to the recent death of Peter Nesbit Laing, who will be remembered by old residents of the county:—

"Another of the oldest pioneers of North Easthope passed into the great beyond early Friday morning in the person of Peter Nesbit Laing, who was 89 years, 11 months and 14 days old, having been born in the year 1808, on the ship "Nesbit," while on a voyage between Leith and London. He was a son of the late Robert Laing, a native of Berwickshire, Scotland, who came to Canada in 1830 and lived about nine years in the township of Monaghan. The deceased was married in 1839 to Helen Laing, also a native of Berwickshire, who survives him. They came from Peterborough to North Easthope in 1841 and lived for a time on the farm now owned by Mr. Harry Paterson. From there they moved to the farm now occupied by Mr. Geo. McCallum, where they remained for nine years. He disposed of this property and retired to Stratford for three years but desiring to return to farm life, he purchased the property formerly owned by the late Jas. Riddel, where he resided until his death. Of his family of nine, two passed away in infancy. The others are still living with the exception of one, Peter, who died Sept. 1895. Robert, the eldest, lives in Howick; William, at home; Mrs. R. W. Patterson, of Shellmouth, Man.; Mrs. O. Bowie, of Morden, Man.; Mrs. Andrew Riddell and Mrs. Stephen Capling, of North Easthope. The deceased was the eldest of a family of six, three brothers and three sisters, the only one now living being Mrs. Robert Goodfellow, of Peterborough. Mrs. Laing, who helped him bear his joys and sorrows through life is now past four score years of age. During the last five years of his life the deceased was blind, although his memory was good. In politics he was a staunch Reformer."

Amongst the surviving relatives in this part of the country is Mrs. Robt. Goodfellow, sister of the deceased, and four of her children, viz: Mrs. Josiah Robertson, of Aylmer and Lake streets; Mrs. McCannon and John Goodfellow, all of town, and William, who resides on the gravel road just outside of town.

THE PROPERTY COMMITTEE

through its chairman, Mr. J. J. McBain, reported as appended:

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Property Committee beg leave to submit their report and statement of wood purchased for Board of Education:

Edw Trenaum, 115 cords first class body hard wood, sawed, 2x4 feet long, per cord at	$ 5 30
Levi Campbell, 20 cords first class green body maple at	3 20

Jas Lillico, 30 cords green hardwood, mixed, at	2 50
Geo Walton, 2½ cords sound body elm and ash	1 75
Wm Houghton, 21 cords first class dry body tamarac	? 25

I herewith attach written contracts for nearly all the above wood purchased, a large portion of which has already been delivered at the different Public schools and Institutes. You will observe that the contracts call for strictly first class sound body wood, to be paid for when wood is delivered, properly piled and measured.

The above is about all the necessary supply of wood required for the season, and next winter, and on the whole the quality is most satisfactory, and the prices as reasonable as should be expected. To our personal knowledge the Board has never had a better or more satisfactory supply of fuel at so moderate a cost as they have on hand and secured at the present time.

In fact your Property Committee consider the entire school property throughout to be in a good and satisfactory condition. While we must admit that it is true some expense has been incurred during the past year repairing the property and having new roofs placed on several of the buildings, it was absolutely necessary for the best interests of the schools, which your committee considers economy in the end. However, very moderate expenditure should keep the property in the present good condition for some time to come.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. J. McBAIN, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

INSPECTOR WALKER

then presented his monthly report as appended:

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN.—For your information the following, taken from the annual report, is submitted:

During the year 1897 there were enrolled on the Public school register 1,731 pupils, 873 boys and 858 girls. The average attendance was 1219 or 70 per cent of the enrollment. The total number of pupils exceeds that of 1896 by 36, while the average was 11 less. This decrease was no doubt due to the mark of irregularity during the months of October, November and December. During the first half of the year the average attendance was 1,246 or an excess of 28 over that of the preceding year.

The attendance in the different schools was as follows:

Schools.	Roll.	Aver.	P.C.
Central	616	439	69.6
South Central	566	389	71.8
Park street	221	151	68.7
Barnardo Ave	218	152	70.7
George street	128	85	66.1
	1731	1219	70.1

Of the pupils 49 attended less than 20 days, 133 between 21 and 50 days; 256 between 51 and 100 days: 261 between 101 and 150 days; 246 between 151 and 200 days. 103 pupils between the ages of 8 and 14 attended less than 100 days.

The classification of the pupils was as follows:

Part I Reader	453
Part II "	309
Second "	229
Fourth "	302

The kindergarten had an enrolment of 224, with an average of 86. The former was 17 and the latter 7 less than that of the preceding year.

Of the teachers engaged 1 holds a first class provincial certificate, 26 second class provincial and 1 a county board certificate. The average experience of the teachers is 12 years and they have been employed in Peterborough for an average time of 6½ years.

It may be of interest to note the average ages of the pupils in the different grades in the present month. They are as follows:

	No. on Roll.	Average Age Years & Months
Senior IV	114	14	2
Junior IV	126	13	2
Senior III	114	12	4
Junior III	129	11	8
Senior II	121	10	10
Junior II	141	10	4
Senior Part II	126	9	8
Junior Part II	151	8	10
Senior Part I	123	7	10
Junior Part I	173	7
	1,386	10	5

There is also submitted for the consideration of your Committee on Appointments a report of the December promotion examinations. It may here be stated that the results were for the most part satisfactory. Nine hundred and forty pupils wrote and six hundred and ninety-one, or seventy-four per cent., of these succeeded in being promoted. The Junior Third grade, however, was somewhat disappointing, only forty-seven per cent. of this class having passed, and a marked weakness appearing in almost every subject

All of which is respectfully submitted.

D. WALKER, Inspector.

The report was referred to the Supervision Committee.

A SPECIAL COMMITTEE

then submitted the following report through its chairman, Dr. Burnham:

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Special Committee, to whom the appointment of headmaster for the Park street school was referred, beg leave to report that after considering the two names submitted to them, recommend that Mr. Gillespie, of Bailieboro be appointed to the position, salary to be as per schedule. Mr. Gillespie commences his work to-day. All of which is respectfully submitted.

GEORGE BURNHAM, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

Mr. Edgecumb introduced a discussion concerning the management of the Kindergarten system. He, with others of the Board, thought it was too complicated, especially as concerning the South Ward School.

Messrs. McBain and Stevenson moved the following resolution as affecting the matter: "That hereafter the directors of the Central and South Central Kindergartens each have charge of their own Kindergartens, and that each director train her own assistants."

Dr. Burnham and Mr. McKee moved in amendment that the question of the Kindergartens be referred to the Supervision Committee and the Inspector.

The amendment was lost and the original motion carried.

Principal Fessenden, of the Collegiate Institute, appeared before the Board with a communication which he had received from the Department of Education, in which it was stated that the Department considered it inadvisable for Collegiate Institutes to offer scholarships or special prizes, as this had a tendency to draw pupils from other schools, which they should properly attend. The Department declined to furnish the standing of pupils at Departmental examinations for this purpose.

As the Nicholls Scholarship money is granted for this specific purpose, and will be lost to the schools unless utilized in the manner directed, it is hoped that an exception to the new ruling will be made in favour of the Peterborough schools. A committee composed of Messrs. Hill, Burnham, Hamilton and Hayes was appointed to act in conjunction with Principal Fessenden in appealing to the Minister personally in regard to the matter.

The Board then adjourned.

Not a "Negro Show,"

"A Romance of Coon Hollow," which appears at Bradburn's opera house on Wednesday, Feb. 2, is not a negro show in any sense of the word. The name is taken from a picturesque hollow in the mountains of Tennessee. The acting company is composed of all white people who carry a troupe of singing and dancing darkeys, without which no picture of southern life would be complete. This is the fourth season of this sterling melodrama, but its first appearance in this town. The company is a large one, consisting of twenty-eight people. They carry all their scenery, electrical and mechanical effects, using none of the local theatre's, except its drop curtain.

DEAR SIR,—I most heartily thank you for the prompt manner in which you settled my fire claim. My barn and contents were burned a few days ago and were insured in the Northern Assurance Co., through your agent Mr. Thos. I can only say that those having insurance in the Northern Assurance Co. may rest satisfied that, should unfortunately a fire occur, the claimants will be to say the least fairly dealt with.

I have the greatest pleasure in voluntarily giving this testimonial. Yours very truly,

"A Ten Pound Boy."

Many women seem to have been denied the precious gift of motherhood because of some weakened condition of the special organism which makes motherhood possible; but in the great majority of cases such a difficulty is not by any means incurable. In thousands of instances Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, by restoring the natural, healthy condition of the organs distinctly feminine has been the means of conferring upon childless women the one inestimable blessing.

A Georgia clergyman, Rev. G. H. Akridge, of Pelham, Mitchell Co., Ga., in a letter written to Dr. Pierce, says: "We had been married six years without offspring, when my wife commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I then wrote to you for advice, and your instructions were to give 'Golden Medical Discovery' alternately with the 'Favorite Prescription.' This we did. The result is restoration of my wife to good health and a ten pound boy. In honor of the world-famed Dr. Pierce, I have named him Pierce. 'Favorite Prescription' is certainly the medicine for invalid women."

The vast experience and skill which Dr. Pierce has acquired during his thirty years' practice as chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N.Y., has made his name known and his medicines recognized as standard remedies in every civilized country on the globe. His great thousand-page illustrated book, the "People's Common Sense Medical Adviser" has had the greatest sale of any medical work in any language. A free edition has been published and a paper-bound copy will be sent to any family absolutely without charge except the mere cost of customs and mailing which, is 3t one-cent stamps. Send these with your address to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y., or if preferred send 50 stamps for a heavier cloth-bound copy.

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic.

CHINESE AGREEMENT.

Surprise in Pekin at England's Action.

THE OPENING OF PORT ARTHUR.

No British Understanding With Japan—The Engagement at Kotal—The Losses Occurred in Recapturing the Ridge—Preparing to Make Reprisals—Other News by Cable.

Pekin, Feb. 1.—It is supposed that Great Britain's withdrawal from Port Arthur and her ceasing to exert pressure for the opening of the port of Ta-Lien-Wan, which actions are regarded as incredible and suicidal to British interests and prestige, were owing to her disbelief in the existence of a secret treaty between Russia and China. But the Chinese Government quotes this treaty as the reason for Russia's presence at Port Arthur, and Russian despatches to the Tsung-Li-Yamen allege that the occupation of Port Arthur is in accordance with the treaty.

The German admiral has taken measures locally for the redress of the killing of the German sentry at Kiao-Chou, but serious results are not anticipated.

Manchester, Eng., Feb. 1.—The Manchester Guardian hears that the difficulty in the far East has been solved by the opening of Port Arthur to trade, on the same terms as Kiao-Chou, Great Britain withdrawing her demand for the opening of Ta-Lien-Wan.

London, Feb. 1.—It is announced on the best authority that talk of an Anglo-Japanese plan of campaign in certain eventualities is unfounded. No such matter has occupied the attention of the statesmen of the two countries, and no agreement exists between England and Japan except the common desire to secure the free development of trade in China.

As regards Port Arthur, the Russian fleet, according to the same authority, is only there for winter quarters, and the statement as to a Russian occupation are unfounded. China is willing that the English warships should anchor there if required.

London, Feb. 1.—The Odessa correspondent of the Times says a volunteer fleet will convey in the quickest time practicable over 10,000 Russians to the far East. The first cruiser, with 2,000 men, will leave within a few days.

Constantinople, Feb. 1.—The Russian auxiliary cruiser Saratoff, belonging to the volunteer fleet, with 12 quick-firing guns and 1,600 troops on board, passed through the Bosphorus yesterday on her way to Vladivostock.

HUMAN SACRIFICES

On the Altar of Diabetes, Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

Hardly a family in the country is free from Diabetes. Great thirst, failing sight, numbness in the thighs, bleeding gums, swollen ankles, emaciation, nervousness, pale or turbid urine, loss of sexual power, decaying teeth, pains in the loins or small of the back, are all positive signs that Diabetes is in the system.

Do you know how it ends? IN DEATH. A premature, horrible, agonized, pitiful death. The victim has no peace, no ease in life. His days are filled with tortures. His nights are waking dreams of agony. He longs to die, yet fears the terrors of his end. He dies, a bloated, fetid, repulsive mass of corruption. That is the only end of unchecked Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it. They drive it out of the system thoroughly, create new, clean blood, rebuild the diseased kidneys, and restore robust health.

A VERY SERIOUS AFFAIR.

Details of the Fight in India in Which the Yorkshire Regiment Suffered the Heavy Losses.

Calcutta, Feb. 1.—General Sir Power Palmer (who succeeds Sir William Lockhart in the chief command) is preparing to make reprisals for the disaster to the Yorkshire regiment. Sir William Lockhart will arrive here to-day.

Further particulars of the disaster are to hand, from which it appears that a combined movement was planned to cut off the retreat of a number of Afridis who had been driving their cattle to graze on the Kajural Plain, west of Bara Fort. Two columns marched from Ali Musjib and Jamrud to block the way north; a third column from Bara marched westward over the plain toward the hills; while a fourth, consisting of the Yorkshire Regiment of Sikhs, advanced from Mamani with a view of getting to the rear of the Afridis and preventing their escape towards Bara Valley. The first three columns performed their allotted movements without loss, meeting with very few of the enemy. The fourth, under Col. T. J. Seppings, left Mamani early Saturday morning.

The leading troops reached Shinkumar-Kotal at half-past 10, and, finding no opposition, Col. Houghton, with the Sikhs, proceeded about a mile to search the caves.

On the arrival of the main body at Kotal it was discovered that a company of Sikhs had somehow been withdrawn from the high ridge on the west, the key of the position, which the enemy forthwith occupied. To retake this involved heavy losses. Lieut. Dowdall was killed while charging at the north of the pass. The enemy's losses were severe, as they charged to within thirty yards of the troops.

About midday the troops began to return to the camp, the enemy harassing the rear guard and left and causing many casualties. The rear column cleared the pass about 5 o'clock with the assistance of Gen. Westmacott, who came up with two guns and four hundred rifles on receiving Col. Seppings' message that the force had become entangled.

The retirement was conducted admirably, the officers speaking in the highest terms of the gallantry of the troops. Lieut.-Col. Houghton's body had been recovered and search parties have started for the others. The column has been reinforced by 725 men from Bara, and Col. Stuart with fifty infantry, two guns and a squadron of cavalry will move to the north of the pass.

CAPTURED THREE ENGLISHMEN.

The Tourmaline Was Landing Stores on Moorish Coast and Got Caught.

Tangier, Feb. 1.—The British steamer Tourmaline, it is officially announced, while attempting to land arms and stores on the South Coast of Morocco, was intercepted by the Sheriffian steamer Hassani, whereupon she opened fire. The Hassani reciprocated and captured one of the ship's boats with three Englishmen. The Moorish troops then demolished the villages favorable to foreigners, executing numbers of the inhabitants.

A JEALOUS WOMAN'S CRIME.

Mrs. Patrick Canavan Poisons Her Twenty-Year-Old Sister.

Woodstock, N.B., Feb. 1.—A dreadful tragedy is reported from Johnsville, a village about 30 miles from here. There lived there Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Canavan, Mrs. Canavan's mother and her sister, Minnie Quaker. The wife became jealous of Minnie and decided to do away with her by poisoning. She went to Bristol, a village some ten miles from her home, and purchased some strychnine, which she said was to destroy foxes that were killing her chickens. Then she returned home, and putting it into a decoction of tea, gave it to her sister to drink. Minnie died in a few hours.

An inquest resulted in a verdict of murder against Mrs. Canavan, and she has been arrested. She is to be arraigned here before Magistrate Dibblee. The deceased was about 20 years old. The prisoner has one child only.

MAJOR RUCKER'S REPORT.

Capt. Ray Seized Supplies in the Name of the Government and Is Feeding Everybody in Need.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 1.—The War Department has received advices from its agent at Dyea, Major L. H. Rucker. In one despatch dated Jan. 12, the Major says that W. H. Rank, just in at Dyea from Dawson, Dec. 16, had despatches from Captain Ray, the army officer sent into the mining country by Secretary Alger to report upon the conditions there. Rank says that Ray, who was at Fort Yukon, had seized all the supplies of the Alaska Commercial Company and of the North American Trading Company in the name of the Government, and was issuing them to the people, selling at the company's prices to those who could afford to pay, and giving to those unable to pay. There were 600 people at Fort Yukon. Rank further said that Ray would ask the Government for 500 troops to be stationed at Circle City and vicinity. Jan. 12 Major Rucker reported that a number of parties had just come in from Dawson and "all appear to have accumulated a supply of dust and nuggets." They were going back in the spring, and came out for amusement. There was no starvation at Dawson.

Major Rucker reports at length upon the plans he has prepared for the relief parties to be sent out by the Government. He says that it will require 115 mules and 130 Juneau sleds to transport 120 tons of supplies at Lake Lebarge, ready to send down the Yukon River to Dawson when the ice will permit. He proposes to divide the route into three sections. The Major has worked out all the details of the expedition, but while submitting them according to his instructions, he adds that he recommends strongly that the Government contract with one of the railway companies to take in the supplies. One at least of these roads will be open by the time the supplies reach Dawson, he says, and he encloses an offer from one crossing the Chilcoot Pass, to take in 150 tons of supplies or more, for 16¼ cents per pound, delivered at Lake Lindermann.

OGILVIE AND DAN ROSE

Have Made an Arrangement to Publish Klondike Report in the U. S.

Buffalo, N.Y., Feb. 1.—William "Klondike" Ogilvie, the famous Canadian surveyor, was in Buffalo yesterday with Dan A. Rose, the Toronto publisher. The gentlemen were here looking after the publication in the United States of Mr. Ogilvie's book on the new gold fields. The work is to be done by the Matthews-Northrup Company of this city.

Mr Ogilvie, of course, was interviewed, and told of the wonders of the new Eldorado; gave advice as to the best way of reaching the promised land; told of the temperature, and as to the best time to make a start.

McKenzie and Mann Contract.

When asked if the Dominion Parliament would ratify the contract entered into by the Cabinet with Mackenzie and Mann, Mr. Ogilvie said that the assent of Parliament is only formal.

Asked if the railway when built would be able to run throughout the winter, Mr. Ogilvie said that the first winter it would not, because there would be no preparations made for that, but after that it possibly could run all winter.

AN OFFICIAL REPORT.

An Interview With the Government at Ottawa in Regard to an Insolvency Law and Its Provisions.

Ottawa, Feb. 1.—An important deputation, representing the Canadian Bankers' Association interviewed the Government yesterday morning on the subject of insolvency. The deputation consisted of D. R. Wilkie, president of the association, and General Manager of the Imperial Bank; Thomas Fyah, Merchants' Bank of Canada; B. E. Walker, Bank of Commerce; D. Coulson, Bank of Toronto; M. J. A. Prendergast, Banque de Hochelaga; R. D. Gamble, Dominion Bank; G. P. Reid, Standard Bank; H. S. Strathy, Traders' Bank; George Burn, Bank of Ottawa; also W. W. L. Chipman, secretary of the association, and Z. A. Lash, Q.C., counsel.

Official Report of Proceedings.

Representatives of the press were not admitted, but at the close the following official report was handed to the newspaper men.

Mr. Wilkie explained that the banks were not willing to give up any privileges which the Bank Act conferred. This Act to them as the charter of any corporation was the bank's charter, and was as sacred to it. The question of solvency was quite different from the Bank Act, and no change in this Act was necessary to any insolvency legislation.

Mr. Walker of Toronto said that the labors of the banks, the boards of trade and the Government during the session of 1896, when the Insolvency Act was before Parliament, showed that, except upon one question, there was no material difference between the banks and the boards of trade. That question was as to the rights of holders of negotiable paper in ranking upon the state of endorser. With reference to this, the banks asked simply for legislation similar to that in force in England, and under the Act of 1877 in Canada, and if this were granted their opposition to an Insolvency Act would disappear; but if what they believed to be a gross injustice were attempted to be forced upon them, they would be compelled in simple self-defence to use all the legitimate means to oppose the legislation.

It has been said that the banks sought double ranking, but this term is incorrect and misleading. The banks do not object to value their securities. All they ask is simple ranking, and their unimpaired rights under the contracts of the maker and endorser which they buy and pay full value for.

Mr. Lash Explains.

Mr. Lash explained that the statement as appearing in the press that he had said that the banks were willing to surrender some of their privileges, was entirely erroneous, that no one had ever spoken to him on the subject, and that the gentleman to whom this statement had been ascribed had come to him for the express purpose of saying that they had made no such statement.

Mr. Fielding thanked the deputation for the information they had given him and said that their representations would have full consideration when the Government took up the subject.

The Decline in Wheat.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—January wheat sold off to-day from $1.08½ to $1.03, and closed at $1.04. The decline was caused by liberal offerings by one broker. The break in January was strongly reflected in the futures, which had ruled weak all day on a decline at Liverpool, and other bearish statistical news. The price of May went below 94⅝c. Letter brokers were credited with good buying of May on the decline, but other heavy longs unloaded. May closed at 94⅝c, a decline of 2c since Saturday.

English Diplomatic Salaries.

The London Standard says: Our most highly paid embassador is the British representative in Paris, who receives £9,000. Britain's embassadors to Germany, Austria-Hungary and Turkey receive £8,000 a year each. The representative in St. Petersburg has the next largest salary, £7,-800, while £800 less is considered enough for the British embassador who takes up his residence in the Eternal City. For some reason, known only to the diplomatic mind, our representative in Washington is much worse off, receiving but £6,500 a year, though he has probably to work far harder for his country. The embassador to Spain receives £5,500, while the representatives in China and Persia draw £500 each less. The heads of the legations in Japan, Brazil and Egypt each receive £4,-000, but Lord Cromer has besides £1,000 as a "personal allowance." The British agent at Pretoria, who is paid by the colonial office, receives only £3,000 a year.

Dairy Products and Infected Places.

Toronto, Feb. 1.—Dr. P. H. Bryce has been notified that in a certain dairy district in Perth County dairy products are being sent out from infected places. In one case a family afflicted by diphtheria is selling butter. The secretary of the Provincial Board of Health referred his correspondent to the law which provides for the seizure of such products and for the compensation of the owners for their loss.

The New York Tribune says the consolidation of the Lake Shore Road with the New York Central is simply the initial step in a project to bring all the Vanderbilt lines under one management. SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC

TRADE MARK.

Robson Brown, of Valetta, July 28th, 1891, says:—

"I am sorry under the circumstances to write to you, but I feel it my duty, as I have been troubled with Dyspepsia for years, took dollars' worth of medicine and pills, but got no relief until I commenced taking your Sloan's Indian Tonic. I think I have taken 8 or 10 bottles in all, and I feel as if I have got a new lease of life, I feel so much better. I was in the habit of keeping a bottle in the house so when costive I would take a dose or two with instant relief. Now I am troubled with costive spells very often, and it was the only medicine that gave me instant relief. It seems as if I have lost my best friend. Now I would like to hear from you by return mail, as I would like to have a bottle as soon as possible.

Mrs. H. Palmer, of Ridgetown, Ont., says: I was afflicted for a number of years with Erysipelas and Neuralgia in my face, and one bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me entirely, and I would recommend it to others, either for erysipelas or neuralgia.

Mrs. Henry Hale, of Blenheim, Ont., says: Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me of Malarial Fever and Chills and Neuralgia. When I was down sick in bed I purchased a bottle of the Tonic and it cured me entirely, and I have not been troubled with Fever or Neuralgia since.

Price $1, or 6 for $5.00. All Dealers or Address

Free Trial To Any Honest Man

The Foremost Medical Company in the World in the Cure of Weak Men Makes this Offer.

HEALTH AND ENERGY ASSURED.
HAPPY MARRIAGE, GOOD TEMPER, LONG LIFE.

In all the world to-day—in all the history of the world—no doctor nor institution has treated and restored so many men as has the famed ERIE MEDICAL CO. of Buffalo, N. Y.

This is due to the fact that the company controls some inventions and discoveries which have no equal in the whole realm of medical science.

So much deception has been practised in advertising that this grand old company now for the first time makes this startling offer:—

They will send their costly and magically effective appliance and a whole month's course of restorative remedies, positively on trial without expense to any honest and reliable man!

Not a dollar need be advanced—not a penny paid—till results are known to and acknowledged by the patient.

The Erie Medical Company's appliance and remedies have been talked about and written about all over the world, till every man has heard of them.

They restore or create strength, vigor, healthy organs and new life.

They quickly stop drains on the system that sap the energy.

They cure nervousness, despondency and all the effects of evil habits, excesses, overwork, etc.

They give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Failure is impossible and age is no barrier.

This "Trial without Expense" offer is limited by the company to a short time, and application must be made at once.

No C. O. D. scheme, no bogus philanthropy nor deception, no exposure—a clean business proposition by a company of high financial and professional standing.

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, BUFFALO, N.Y., and refer to seeing the account of their offer in this paper.

THE CRUSADERS.

Who They Are and What they are Doing.

On Monday evening last, although the weather was of the most disagreeable kind, the Crusaders, composed of Mr. H. J. Rines, baritone, Mr. B. Rines, tenor, and L. B. Spafford, elocutionist, drew a large audience to Association Hall.

These gentlemen are brought here under the auspices of the Royal Templars, and the meeting which they held at the conclusion of the church services on Sunday evening was well patronized, and bespoke a good attendance at the subsequent meetings which they intend holding all this week.

The meeting was opened by singing of "Rescue the Perishing." This was followed with prayer by Mr. B. Rines.

"The Best Friend to have is Jesus," was then well sung by the Messrs. Rines with guitar accompaniment.

Romans xiv chapter was read as the lesson by Mr. H. J. Rines. He said that in this conflict we were fighting "For God, and Home and Native Land," which was then most feelingly sung by the Messrs. Rines.

Before reciting the poem entitled "The Yorkshire Cobbler," Mr. Spafford, who is an expert cartoonist, drew a sketch of the old cobbler. Mr. Spafford is also an able elocutionist, and his selections are always much appreciated by the audience.

"Just keep along the Middle of the King's Highway" was then very acceptably sung by Messrs. Rines, with guitar accompaniment. Mr. H. J. Rines remarked that if one has broken away from or is trying to break away from an evil habit, he should "Just keep along the Middle of the King's Highway."

There is no trouble to find sympathy for the temperance cause, but what the temperance cause wants is practical sympathy. There is quite a majority of men who will not go against their party. There was once a man who was lying drunk and a lady put a handkerchief over his face. He reasoned thus when he came to: "I am a drunkard but not a thief." Then, where did I get this handkerchief? He then found the name of one of the most popular ladies in his town on the corner of the handkerchief. By this simple act he was won over to the right side. He thought no one thought enough of him to do a kind act for him. There are some people who will not say much for fear of what other people will say. You need organization every time. The temperance people need to get together and fight intemperance collectively. In some towns temperance people are divided into little cliques. All should join hands and work together. There are some workers who are willing to do anything but what they are given to do. Sacrifice a little of your reputation; never mind what people say about you. Put down this cursed liquor traffic.

"Keep the ball rolling" was then sung by the Messrs. Rines with guitar accompaniment.

Before the lecture on "They want you; which will have you?" a hymn was sung by the audience, and a series of view illustrating the evils of intemperance and scenes in the Holy Land were shown, which were interspersed with verses of popular hymns.

The lecture was thus illustrated and well delivered by Mr. H. J. Rines.

SCALY SKIN HUMOR

Body, Head, and Arms Covered With Spots Like Drops Of Mortar.

Skin Came Off in Layers. Doctors Useless. Suffered for a Year Without Relief.

Almost Given Up Hope. Cured in 8 Weeks by CUTICURA. Skin Nice and Clear as a Baby's.

I was afflicted with an obstinate skin disease, called by some doctors Eczema and others Psoriasis. My body, head, and arms were covered with spots like drops of mortar, and which came off in layers of dry scales. I suffered for over a year without relief, and consulted several doctors but without aid, and I had almost given up hope, as my case was a bad one. I happened to see an advertisement about CUTICURA REMEDIES and got them, took them according to directions, and in eight weeks I was as well as ever. I consider myself cured, for my skin is as nice and clear as a baby's. I cannot express in words the thanks to you for what the CUTICURA REMEDIES have done for me.

GEO. REABURN, Hanover, Ontario, Can.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are beyond all doubt the greatest skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies of modern times. They are no long-drawn-out expensive experiment. A warm bath with CUTICURA SOAP, a single application of CUTICURA (ointment), the great skin cure, and a full dose of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, greatest of blood purifiers and humor cures, will afford instant relief, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy, permanent, and economical cure of the most torturing, disfiguring, and humiliating of itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, pimply, and crusted skin and scalp humors with loss of hair, when all else fails.

Sold throughout the world. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Sole Props., Boston.

SCHOOL REPORTS.

Parents and guardians are urged to insist on seeing them each month, and to have them returned promptly. In this way their good effect can be greatly increased.

Any person who knows of any pupils absent from school without good cause, will please report them at once to Truant Officer Alex. Fitzgerald or any of the teachers.

A PLEASANT EVENING.

Given Under the Auspices of the Murray Street Baptist Young People's Union.

The B.Y.P.U. of the Murray street Baptist church held a very successful informal "at home" Monday evening to which the young people of the Park street church, Lakefield church, and Gilmour Memorial church were invited.

Although it was a stormy night the lecture room of the church was well filled.

The programme consisted of solos, duets, trios and quartettes, all of which were admirably rendered. Short addresses were delivered by the visiting clergy. At the conclusion of the programme refreshments were served and a pleasant and profitable evening was brought to a close by the singing of "God be with you till we meet again."

COUNTY ORANGE LODGE.

Officers Elected at the Annual Meeting which was Held Last Evening.

The severe weather and snow did not dampen the enthusiasm of the county Orangemen, as they turned out in large numbers to the annual county meeting last night. There was a large amount of business before the Lodge, including the reports from the officers, which showed the order to be in a flourishing condition. The election of officers resulted as follows:

H S Armstrong	County Master
W M Graham	Deputy County Master
Rev Mr Armitage	County Chaplain
Sidney B Weir	County Secretary
Dr J A Burgess	County Treasurer
J Hetherington	County Fin-Secretary
G Sloan	County D of C
S Campbell	County Lecturer
A McCarthy	Deputy Lecturer
G W Ball	"

The newly-elected officers were duly installed by Past County Master Bro. J. B. McWilliams. The next meeting will be held in the Orange Hall, Lakefield on the 1st Wednesday in June at 8 p.m.

QUARTER OF A MILLION.

This was the Turnover Value of the Stock Handled by H. P. Kennedy This Year.

In a chat with H. P. Kennedy this morning he stated that during the past year his turnover in stock had amounted to over a quarter of a million dollars. He had purchased in that time over 6,000 cattle, besides several thousand hogs, sheep and lambs and all had been sent to the American markets. The prospects, he thinks, are as good for trade this summer with just as strong prices for light feeding steers. He is shipping two carloads of stock this week to Buffalo and is buying every day on the market.

TROUBLE AT THE Y.M.C.A.

A Mischievous Young Man Monkeys With the Electric Switches.

For some time past a young man who is allowed the privilege of the reading room at the Young Men's Christian Association has taken a particular delight in tampering with the electric light switches in the building.

On Monday evening his pranks caused all the lights to go out on the lower flat, and they could not be restored until an electrician had been sent for.

The offender is known and the Executive Committee has his case in hand. He will probably be given an opportunity of making an explanation in the police court in a few days.

A Sure Cure For Consumption.

There is no such thing. Scott's Emulsion comes the nearest to it, but even that will not cure advanced cases, but taken in time it will cure this disease.

THE LADIES' AUXILIARY

Of the Young Men's Christian Association Met Yesterday.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. met yesterday, Mrs. (Sheriff) Hall, president, in the chair.

Several accounts were presented and passed.

Mrs. J. C. Brown, who was a delegate to the Provincial Convention, was present.

It was decided, owing to the small attendance, to call an adjourned meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 15th, when Mrs. Brown will give her report. Members are requested to note this change.

Cracking The Acorns and Blotting Out Prices

These are the days in which people are buying where they can buy cheap. They don't care a fig for commercial ethics. They dote on Bargains. Cheapness captivates them. When once the people are convinced that a store really sells GOOD GOODS CHEAP their patronage is secured. If its prices are at cost, well and good; if below cost, so much the better.

Blotting Out Oak Hall Prices

and writing them down to a fraction of their former selves, is what we are busy doing every day with the Oak Hall Stock. These altered prices speak for themselves. All the price tickets show that Oak Hall Prices are back numbers, although the Clothing is UP-TO-DATE.

A TALK ON TEA, YES, EVERYBODY READ IT

A lady from a village near Peterborough called on us last week and said that she wanted to get some of that fine tea that she had seen advertised in the "DAILY EXAMINER" and sold at the People's Prize Tea Store, 323 George street. After critically examining the tea she made a purchase of a quantity and promised to send her friends to buy from us, as she said our tea was clean, beautiful and bright—no dust, no mixing or deception—the grades are the very best. Another lady in town says that her mother will not have tea from any other store than ours. She buys the very best Ceylon Tea which cannot be excelled in strength and purity. Another gentleman says what on earth do you do with the large quantity of teas that I see at your establishment. Some of the large chests of Ceylons must be valuable and come up to money; yes, they do but the people soon buy them up. You have a large stock of Canned Goods which could be a credit to any store in town; yes we have, and we are selling 3 for 25c. A prominent party in town offered to take the lot and give us a cheque for the amount, but we promised to give the working people the benefit of this bargain and we are doing it. We have a fine assorted stock of choice Groceries, Teas, Sugars, Spices, Canned Goods, Butter, Lard, and our own raising of Pickled, Smoked Salted Hams and Bacon, completely eclipsing anything on the market. We do not destroy the meat with salt or saltpetre, but cure them on the very best smith da which are a secret to ourselves. Our own home made Pickles at 10c per bottle, our own Jams, Jellies—pure articles and at prices to suit all. Come to the best, get the best, and save your money by buying at the PEOPLE'S GROCERY, 325 George Street.

SALISBURY BACKS DOWN IN TA-LIEN-WAN.

A Storm of Indignation Aroused in England.

THE EXPLANATION OF THE TIMES

An Important Bargain May be Making—A Half-Hearted Denial—Combination of Russian and German Bankers—Gen. Lockhart to Remain in India—Cable News.

London, Feb. 3.—A wave of indignation has swept over the press throughout the country at Lord Salisbury's alleged backdown at Ta-Lien-Wan. Conservatives no less than Liberals bewail the supposed retreat from an unassailable position, on the ground that Great Britain, supported by the United States and Japan, might have safely defied Russia. It is understood that the Government is angry with the Times for revealing the position. The Standard this morning, in the course of an editorial expressing its regret, assumes that since there is no official information to the contrary, the Times' version of the situation is correct. It says: "This will be painfully felt in the course of the pending bye-elections, especially as the story suggests suspicions of a larger and wider surrender." The editorial concludes by advising the Government to let the country know as speedily as possible exactly where it stands.

The Pekin correspondent of the Times says: Col. Woronoff, the new Russian military adviser to China, has commenced his duties, and the German military instructors have been notified of the non-renewal of their contracts.

Berlin, Feb. 3.—An article in the St. Petersburg Novoe Vremya, which has attracted the attention of Europe, declares that France and Germany supported Russia's determination and opposed England with reference to Ta-Lien-Wan, and hence Lord Salisbury, it is claimed, is obliged to consult with his colleagues before the meeting of Parliament as to the best way to beat a retreat if Great Britain wishes to avoid an open conflict with Russia.

BRITAIN'S HUMILIATION.

London Papers Condemn the Government for Withdrawing the Demand for Opening of Ta-Lien-Wan.

London, Feb. 3.—The afternoon newspapers yesterday comment in the most severe terms upon the alleged withdrawal of Great Britain's demand for the opening of the port of Ta-Lien-Wan. Some of them refuse to credit the report.

The Globe says: "No wonder if the opponents of the Ministry regard it as a national humiliation when its supporters are unable to find a reasonable excuse for it. The public was led to believe that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach and other Cabinet Ministers meant what they said, so the Ministers have only themselves to thank if they lose prestige at home and abroad through the withdrawal of the Ta-Lien-Wan demand. England, with her vast naval strength and enormous resources, has the game in her own hands if the Ministers will only play it with the necessary spirit."

An official statement on the subject, just issued, is as follows: "No communication can at present be published concerning the Times' Ta-Lien-Wan report, or the negotiations as a whole. The negotiations thus far are absolutely confidential. Many telegrams from China contain statements not only going far beyond the Government's information, but, in some instances, quite as variance with known facts."

The Times' Ta-Lien-Wan announcement created much surprise and excitement among politicians and was eagerly discussed at the clubs. The Liberals vigorously denounced the reported backdown of the British Government, while the Conservative members of the House of Commons did not conceal their bitter disappointment. Many declined to credit the report until it is officially confirmed, and a prominent Conservative in the afternoon offered a Liberal opponent to pay a substantial sum to a public charity if the backdown was confirmed. The Liberals declare it would be a humiliating surrender to Russia, and a severe blow to British interests and prestige. The members of the late Cabinet are already communicating with each other with the view of using the matter as a point of an attack upon the Government during the debate upon the Queen's speech at the reassembling of Parliament.

TIMES' COMMENTS.

"The Greatest of All Our Trade Interests Is Peace," Says the Thunderer.

Discussing editorially the despatch which was printed in its columns yesterday from Pekin, stating that England had definitely withdrawn her conditions requiring the opening of Ta-Lien-Wan, the Times says:

"The fact of such withdrawal is, of course, consistent with the adoption of entirely different policies upon our part. It might be on one hand an unworthy and humiliating surrender by a statesman, who, having promulgated a great policy and defended it with brave words, had to run away from it on the first show of the opposition it was certain to provoke. On the other hand, it may be a judicious example of the old and tried diplomatic method of adding. In the first instance, to the terms of a bargain some particular object which it was not really desired or expected to attain and afterwards sacrificing this superfluous article in order to secure the real ends in view.

"But while it is logically compatible with either of these alternatives we are entitled to assume that the second policy is that which is being followed by Lord Salisbury.

"On this assumption the withdrawal of the condition is no more than a graceful concession effected on the principal of do ut des, the gift on our part being that of the privilege of access to a not particularly desirable port, and the consideration we receive the acceptance of the more essential terms of our offer. This is what has approximately taken place. The Government will have deserved the congratulations of the nation upon its successful conduct of the delicate and momentous negotiations. Russia's objections to a free port at Ta-Lien-Wan are not unintelligible, and if she has offered some reasonable compromise on this point, and also discontinued her opposition at Pekin to the remaining conditions of the British loan, sensible persons in this country will see no reason to cry out at the deference shown her susceptibilities.

"If, on the other hand, our Ministers could be supposed to have deferred to her in this matter without having secured an adequate equivalent in return, they would unquestionably have to answer for their conduct to public opinion; but it would be unjust to Lord Salisbury and his colleagues to entertain any supposition of the kind on the evidence before us."

Referring to the report from its correspondent at St. Petersburg that a combination of German bankers have arranged with Russian bankers to furnish China a loan of 100,000,000 roubles, the Times says: "It is, of course, possible that the story is not without foundation. There is not much doubt that Russia can procure the money if she can induce China to enter more deeply into her books. She is well versed in the habits of Chinese officials and has an almost intuitive perception of the motives determining their acts. It is quite possible that timely and judicious appeals to these might result in some such diplomatic triumph as is rumored in St. Petersburg. If so, our position is clear. We are committed to our treaty rights, and both parties of the state, with the whole country at their back, are pledged to enforce them. Upon that subject retreat or vacillation is impossible. We are not going to be either forced or jockeyed out of our trade with one of the most lucrative markets of Asia.

"While we believe, however, that the successful conclusion of a British loan to China upon the terms proposed, even without the opening of Ta-Lien-Wan, would confer a great advantage both on that country and the nations of the world, we do not see why a failure of the negotiations should be immediately followed by the grave consequences anticipated in some quarters. It is neither to the interests of Russia nor any other power to provoke a contest with this country, and unless we are provoked by some deliberate attack on our rights it is quite certain that we shall do nothing to disturb the tranquility of the world. Our trade has many interests, it is true, for which we are prepared, in case of need, to fight; but the greatest of all our trade interests is peace."

Winnipeg Department Store Fails.

Winnipeg, Feb. 3.—The well-known firm of George Craig & Company, conducting the extensive departmental Main street store, made an assignment for the benefit of their creditors yesterday to S. A. D. Bertrand, official assignee. The news created quite a sensation in mercantile circles. The statement of the assets and liabilities has not yet been published.

Cadets Recommended.

Kingston, Ont., Feb. 3.—Col. Kitson, Commandant of the Royal Military College, has recommended two of the senior class cadets, Arthur Cecil Dean of Quebec and Cadet Allison Smith of Halifax for the two extra commissions offered in the Imperial Army for immediate acceptance. The Governor-General's approval is now expected.

FIRE AT WINNIPEG.

The McIntyre Block Completely Destroyed.

A TOTAL LOSS OF OVER $400,000

In the Heart of the City This Fine Block Was Situated—Many Retail Firms Burned Out—The General Loss Was Likewise Heavy—The Insurance Companies Interested.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 3.—The McIntyre block, the principal business block on Main street, is in ruins, with nothing but bare walls standing. The fire started at 7 yesterday morning, probably from a live wire or a chimney. The direct cause is not known, and a northwest wind was blowing it rapidly, so that nothing was saved worth speaking of. The fire doors in the building were left open, which allowed the flames to spread. The basement and ground floor of the four-storey building were occupied by leading retail stores; the first floor by lawyers, doctors, contractors and insurance men; third floor by representatives of eastern wholesale houses, carrying large quantities of samples, and the top flat and some of the third floor by lodge rooms. The University of Manitoba had class rooms and chemical laboratory in the building.

The total loss on the building and stocks aggregate $400,000; total insurance, $225,000. The total annual premium income of Manitoba is $600,000. The loss is, therefore, about one third of that yearly income from insurance.

The origin of the fire is still a mystery. A plausible theory is that electric wires caused the conflagration, as no furnaces were located in the part that caught fire first, and the building was heated with hot water.

The following are some of the principal occupants of the block on the ground floor:

Criterion Hotel, loss $6,000; McKay Bros. & Norris, drygoods, loss $30,000, insurance $22,500; Miss Maycock, fancy goods, loss $9,000, insurance, $5,500; E. Furner, millinery, $25,000; John Ereinger, tobacco, loss $11,000, insurance $5,000; J. A. Payne, wall paper, loss $9,000, insurance $4,000; A. G. Morgan, boots and shoes, loss $18,000, insurance $11,000; T. J. Porte, jeweler, loss $5,000, insurance $3,000; George Velie, wines, loss $20,000, fully covered; A. Taylor, stationery, loss $24,000, insurance $18,500; Richards & Bradshaw, loss $14,500, no insurance; Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company lost all their books and fixtures, $150, no insurance; Dr. Dalgleish, loss $4,000, insurance $700; H. Vivian, barrister, loss $1,000, no insurance; C. E. Carbert, barrister, loss $400, no insurance; Hough & Campbell, loss $20,000, insurance nothing; Kelly Bros. & Co., loss $500, no insurance; Paterson & Howard, loss $1,500, no insurance; Gilmour & Hastings, loss $1,500, no insurance; George W. Baker, barrister, $500 loss; A. R. McNichol, Mutual Reserve Fund Life, loss $500; F. Harris, agent cigars, loss $6,000.

On the second floor were several representatives of wholesale eastern houses, carrying samples from $500 to $2,000 in value, among them being: T. O'Shaughnessy, W. L. McKenzie, W. H. Gerhardt, J. M. McDonald, R. R. Gallagher, E. H. Taffe, T. H. Middleton, F. G. Crawford, E. H. Slater, J. N. Jackson, W. Williams, W. S. Rough, Strachan & Course and T. Moore.

On top floor were University of Manitoba, loss $8,000, insurance $1,450; Prof. Kenrick, loss $700, no insurance; Prof. Bryce, loss $100, no insurance; Prof. Laird, loss $700, no insurance; C. O. F. Unity Hall, loss $2,500, insurance $1,200; William Kirkland, loss $100, no insurance; Knights of Pythias, loss $1,800, insurance $1,200. The Oddfellows lost as follows: North Star Lodge, loss $500, insurance $300; Friendship Hall trustees, loss $2,000, insurance $1,200; Workmen lodges, lodge supply only, loss $200, no insurance; K. McQuade, caretaker, loss $500, insurance $300.

Other residents' losses, furniture, $1,500.

At 11 o'clock, while down in the basement of Velie's liquor store, a fireman named Buchanan was severely scorched by a case of spirits bursting and igniting. He was taken to the fire hall, where he was attended to. About 1 o'clock the north wall fell with a terrific crash through the roof of C. H. Wilson's furniture store, and cut through the three-storey building like a knife, razing it to the ground; loss $6,500, insurance $2,500. Incidental losses, such as plate glass in buildings near the block, and goods stored in the block, will total up another $3,000.

Insurance companies interested are: National Insurance Co., $4,500; Imperial, $2,500; Canadian, $16,000; London, $3,550; Manufacturers', $500; Union, $15,000; Sun, $11,000; Quebec, $8,000; Royal, $10,450; North British $6,000; Caledonian, $4,500; Norwich Union, $3,500; Manchester, $4,300; Connecticut, $3,000; Western, $3,225; Queen, $3,500; British American, $3,500; Phoenix of London, $3,000; Phoenix of Brooklyn, $3,000; London & Lancashire, $9,000; Alliance, $3,650; London, Lancashire & Globe, $5,000; Hartford, $15,000; Lancashire, $5,000.

The Merryweather was the only engine to stand the battle against the flames for five hours. The others were compelled to shut down during the morning for some time, while the Merryweather fought the fire with four streams.

The loss on building is $125,000, insurance $75,000.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Dear Sirs:—I think it my duty to let you know what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I was suffering with severe headaches daily and also with catarrh. One day a paper was left at my house and in looking it over I read of your great medicine's value to my fellow sufferers. I reasoned that if it cured them, why would it not cure me, although I must own I had some doubts about it, as I so-called cures which had failed even to relieve me. At last I procured a bottle and after taking all the medicine the headaches had left me and my catarrh trouble was much better. Daily Examiner.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1898.

THE WAY OF THE PARTY.

At Kingston on Tuesday night Mr. J. P. Whitney, leader of the Ontario Opposition, and Col. Matheson, financial critic, arraigned the Ontario Government for its series of omission and commission. In one case, to Col. Matheson's mind, the two forms of sin were combined in one—omission to buy supplies for public institution by tender, and commission in going down to a grocery and feloniously and of malice aforethought saying: "Send us up a dozen pounds of tea." (Applause.) According to the report of the Mail Col. Matheson was not quite fair and gave the impression that no supplies for Ontario institutions were bought by tender. Col. Matheson is now on the stump and is equally reckless as he was in his pre-session campaign. If he wished to be an honest witness and tell the whole truth he would have told his hearers that the bulk of supplies for our public institutions were bought by tender, publicly invited—such as coal, wood, flour oatmeal, etc., while articles that could not be conveniently bought by tender, or which fluctuated in price and might be much cheaper a few months after a tender was accepted were bought in the cheapest market. Col. Matheson condemned this manner of expending $800,000 of the people's money on our public institutions. But he didn't tell his audience that with all this alleged extravagance, the cost per inmate is less than in any similar institutions in the world. The average yearly cost per inmate in our asylums for the past seven years was $139.97, and last year the cost per inmate was $126.35, or deducting revenue, only $106.39. Results are better evidences of economical management than general denunciations on the stump. Col. Matheson also held up the Dominion system of obtaining supplies as a model. It may be so now, but it didn't yield very happy results when the party he belongs to was in power, and judging by the record of that party it is is very improbable that Mr. Whitney and his friends will do any better than the Ontario Government, or even any better than the late Dominion Government. The officials belonging to Mr. Whitney's party, who "managed" the St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary seem to have had a good time in the way of boodling. The investigation shows that one man was $30,000 short in his accounts; that goods were bought at high prices from political friends, and then stolen from the store; that the guards sold goods to the convicts; that outside dealers were allowed access to the prisoners to get their orders for food; that when flour was selling in Montreal for $4.80 a barrel, no less than $8.75 was paid for it by the prison providers; and that a foundered and worthless horse, alleged to be the property of Mr. Ouimet, the Minister of Public Works, and now a judge, was sold for use about the prison for $115. Mr. Justice Burbidge, of the Supreme Court, cannot afford to ignore the grave charge that, when he was Deputy Minister of Justice, he took back to the Warden a report sent by the latter to Sir John Thompson, and asked the man to modify it. The document has been found, and Mr. Burbidge should be asked by Mr. Mills to tell what he knows about the matter, so that Mr. Whitney, Col. Matheson and his other followers can be able to tell the people of the beautiful results of the Dominion system of tendering for supplies for public institutions under the same party which we are now asked to accept as honest and capable custodians of the interests of the Province of Ontario. The leopard does not change its spots.

ONTARIO'S FINANCES.

Attention having been called to the fact that some of the figures relating to the provincial finances in the Liberal campaign literature do not agree, it may be well to explain the apparent discrepancy. It must be remembered that the speech of the Treasurer, Hon. R. Harcourt, was delivered on the 14th of December, and contained a statement of the finances for only ten months, while the figures on the Record of the Liberal Government, which was issued at a later date, are for the year, with one exception. That exception will be found on page 170 of the Record, item 3 of the Liabilities of the Province, Quebec's share of collections on account of Common School Lands for 1897 not being included, the figures not having come in when the Record was issued. The surplus is there stated to be $5,124,062 86. In a leaflet issued at a later date on Ontario's finances Quebec's share is included, and makes a difference of about three thousand dollars in the surplus, which at the end of 1897 amounted to $5,121,345 24. In stating the surplus, therefore, it will be well to use the figures on the last page of the leaflet instead of those on page 170 of the Record.

Some apprehension has also arisen from the fact that the figures of Revenue and expenditure on page 168 of the Record are less in amount than those appended to Hon. Mr. Harcourt's speech, lest the assertion should be made that the figures were "cooked." A careful reading of the figures will show that there is no reason for such an assertion. The table in the Record is for "ordinary" that is "controllable" revenue and expenditure "under the supply bill," and does not include Drainage Debentures (municipal and tile), Railway Aid Certificates, Annuities, or expenditure on capital account for the new Parliament buildings and the Brockville Asylum, which are provided for by statute, are uncontrollable, and do not come under the Supply Bill at all.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. GARVIN seems to be highly gratified at the success he says he gets out of Mr. Stratton's meetings. Then why doesn't he attend more of them? He is invited and welcome. Mr. Stratton likes nothing better than an opportunity to knock holes in Mr. Garvin's lath work logic and pricking his argumentative bubbles.

The most convincing argument in favour of the good rule the Liberal Government has given the Province of Ontario, is to be found in the fact that the Opposition does not, cannot, deny it, but tries to take credit for it. The Ontario Opposition finds its maximum of usefulness where it is, and where the people will keep it.

THE Opposition candidate seems to think that a successful meeting is one in which his friends are in the majority. This shows that he doesn't expect to convince anybody. He seems to find comfort in the forced vociferations of a few howlers, who echo his windy declamations. The man who hopes to win must, depend on something better than wind.

THE Opposition candidate, Mr. Garvin, his stumpers and his organs, have complained of personalities, yet the campaigning staff that appears in the local organ is principally composed of flippant personalities, varied by brag of the howling that is done at campaign meetings. The people want something more than brag and howl to convince them.

SINCE 1888 when the Department of Agriculture was established the Ontario Government have placed upon the statute book thirty-four distinct acts specially designed to promote the interest of the farmers, and have expended since 1872 the large sum of $3,956,045 to advance the interests of agriculture. Yet Mr. Whitney and his stumpers tell us the Ontario Government has neglected the farmers and that the Opposition will do much better. Is it likely? Not very much.

THE Opposition organs and orators claim that the Opposition are responsible for placing most of the good laws on the statute books. Then if that is so, as they claim, they are doing more good where they are than they would do if they were on the Treasury benches, where they would be too much occupied in making ducks and drakes of Ontario revenues to give attention to passing good laws.

NEEDLESS DYSPEPSIA

A Simple, Sure and Easy Cure in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

If your house were infested by rats, what would you do? Allow them to multiply, to grow big and fat, and destroy your property? No, you would drive them out. Your health is more precious than your house. Are you equally sensible and careful with respect to both? Have you Dyspepsia? Will you let it ruin you, or will you drive it out?

It is very simple and easy to get rid of it. All you have to do is to take one or two of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablet after each meal. They'll do the rest.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets do more than cure all stomach troubles. They tone and strengthen the stomach so quickly yet gently, that it is enabled to do its own work and digest any indigestible food naturally.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets furnish the one and only reasonable treatment extant for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, etc. The larger white Tablets digest the food, giving the stomach a chance to rest, and at the same time they strengthen and restore it, giving it new vigour and vitality. The smaller brown Tablets ("Brownies") that are in every box, regulate the bowels, and carry off the waste matter, preventing the formation of poisonous gas in the stomach.

Dood's Dyspepsia Tablets, each box containing full double treatment, can be purchased from all druggists, at fifty cents a box, or will be sent, on receipt of price, by the Dodds Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

ENNISMORE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

During the past week while Mr. T. P. Hickey, of Emily, and his hired man, Wm. Murphy, were working at a hollow pine stump, their attention was attracted by a strange noise, which, however, attracted little attention, but in felling the tree the noise increased, and upon investigating the cause, were surprised to find a hive of bees. They at once notified their neighbours and together they cut off about fifteen feet of the tree, which was found to contain honey throughout its length. They removed about fifteen gallons of bright, silver coloured liquid, which they divided amongst the neighbours, having sufficient to feed the bees until spring.

Wise Men Know

It is folly to build upon a poor foundation, either in architecture or in health. A foundation of sand is insecure, and to deaden symptoms by narcotics or nerve compounds is equally dangerous and deceptive. The true way to build up health is to make your blood pure, rich and nourishing by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Pills act easily and promptly on the liver and bowels. Cure sick headache.

ELECTION CAMPAIGN.

More Liberal Candidates Have Been Nominated.

MR. A. PATTULLO IN THE FIELD.

Hon. John Dryden Addresses a Good Meeting in Centre Grey—How the Campaign Proceeds—The Number of Candidates So Far Nominated—Mr. Pattullo's Address.

Toronto, Feb. 3.—The campaign proceeds apace. For the 94 constituencies there are now in the field 80 Liberals, 77 Conservatives and 19 Independents. The nominations of yesterday were those of Mr. Andrew Pattullo, by the Liberals of the banner Liberal riding of North Oxford; Mr. J. Loughrin, by the Liberals of Nipissing; Mr. C. W. Chadwick, by the Conservatives of West Algoma, and Mr. Thomas Crawford, by the Conservatives of West Toronto. There had been rumors that Mr. Crawford would find an opponent for the nomination, but they proved groundless, and he carried the convention in a manner that must have been satisfactory to himself.

MR. DRYDEN IN CENTRE GREY.

A Good Meeting at Flesherton Addressed by the Minister.

Flesherton, Feb. 3.—Last evening a large and enthusiastic meeting was held in the Town Hall here in the interest of the Liberal candidate for Centre Grey. Though the roads were in an almost impassable state and the weather exceptionally stormy many came from the extreme parts of the constituency to hear the addresses given by the Hon. John Dryden and Mr. John Boland, the candidate.

Mr. Boland reviewed briefly the record of the Liberal Administration, which has given the people of Ontario twenty-six years of uninterrupted progress and good government. The weakness of the policy of the Opposition is clearly shown, he said, by the fact that their candidate in this riding has been appealing to passion rather than to reason and to a sense of justice. The Liberals have adhered to a clean campaign thus far, and will so continue till the election is over.

Hon. John Dryden, on rising to speak, was received with prolonged applause. He commenced by giving a general review of the legislation and administration of affairs in Ontario under the Liberal regime. The speaker next exposed the methods of bookkeeping adopted by the Opposition in their endeavor to deceive the electors in respect to the surplus of assets which the Government have accumulated during twenty-six years of Liberal rule. Mr. Dryden proceeded to deal with the establishment of the traveling dairy and the dairy schools, and the benefits accruing therefrom. In connection with the fruit industry, Mr. Dryden referred to the experimental stations, the spraying instructions, and the present efforts to exterminate the San Jose scale. The appointment of officials to superintend these institutions was defended from the attacks of members of the Opposition. The timber policy of the Government was presented in a fair and clear manner, showing that every citizen who took pride in "British fair play" would not violate a contract entered upon in good faith. The speaker next dealt with the advantageous educational policy of the Government, contrasting it with that proposed by the Opposition. In conclusion, Mr. Dryden referred to the changing policy of the Conservative party in Ontario during the past twenty-five years. Appeals to passion have failed to detach the people from supporting good and honest government.

The Liberals in this constituency are thoroughly organized and feel confident that Mr. Boland (who is a farmer born in the riding, and who has held municipal positions in Artemesia Township for years) will redeem the riding by a good majority.

MR. PATTULLO'S NOMINATION.

Unanimous Choice of a Large Convention of North Oxford Liberals.

Woodstock, Feb. 3.—One of the largest and most representative gatherings of Liberals ever held in North Oxford assembled in the Town Hall here yesterday, the occasion being a mass meeting of the Reform Association of the North Riding. The meeting was called for the purpose of deciding on the nomination of a candidate for the Legislature, either at the meeting itself or by a convention to be called subsequently. A large number of representative men were present from every municipality of the riding, in spite of the state of the roads. Indeed, it was remarked that the meeting was peculiarly a rural gathering, as the representation from the Town of Woodstock was not specially large. Mr. D. R. Ross, President of the Association, presided. After some opening remarks from the chair, Mr. Pattullo, the late member for the riding, was called upon and received very warmly. Mr. Pattullo gave a masterly review of the work of the Legislature during the two sessions in which he has been a member. He did not deal at great length with the provincial issues of the present campaign, but he paid a very warm tribute to the ability of Mr. Hardy and his colleagues, saying that his impression as a member of the House was that the province had lost nothing by the retirement of even so great and successful a statesman as Sir Oliver Mowat when they were able to fill his place with Mr. Hardy. Mr. Pattullo then dealt with is own record in the House, more especially on the license question, and placed himself in the hands of the meeting, saying that he was quite ready to accept the decision either of the association or of a convention to be held subsequently.

After a number of representative Liberals from different parts of the riding had spoken in very warm terms of Mr. Pattullo and his record in the House, a discussion took place as to whether a nomination should be made at once or a convention called. It was decided to call for nominations, each gentleman nominated to express his wishes as to whether a selection should be made at this meeting or at a convention, and to pledge himself to abide by the action of the party. The following gentlemen were nominated: Messrs. Andrew Pattullo, ex-M.P.P., J. Soper Mackay, Col. James Munro, D. R. Ross, E. L. Sutherland and Walter Murray. All of these retired but one, Mr. E. L. Sutherland, who expressed a preference for a convention, and did not state whether he would abide by the decision of the meeting.

After a brief and very spirited address by Mr. Pattullo upon matters which had come up during the meeting, a resolution was put making him the nominee of the party. It was carried unanimously by a standing vote, amid the very greatest enthusiasm. It is conceded that the meeting was a triumphant success for the Liberal candidate, and that any opposition to him from any quarter would be hopeless. A peculiarity of the situation is that in Woodstock and some other parts of the riding there are Conservatives as warmly in favor of Mr. Pattullo as his own party friends. His election by acclamation is probable.

Dear Sirs,—Constipation for years has been my chief ailment; it seemed to come oftener in spite of all I could do. However, some time ago I was told to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which I have done, with the result of what appears now to be a perfect cure.—Truly yours

CLINTON'S CALAMITY.

Great Sympathy for Mr. Doherty—150 Men Lost Their Tools and Occupation.

Clinton, Feb. 3.—The disastrous conflagration that took place here yesterday morning and totally consumed the entire Doherty Organ Company's works, and also the fine residence of Mr. William Doherty, has struck this town an awful blow. Over 150 men, besides losing all their tools, are thrown out of work and the men are at a loss to know what to do. The Doherty Company's works has been practically the mainstay of the town, and Mr. W. Doherty, the founder of the institution, is one of the most popular citizens of the town and the greatest sympathy goes out to him in his big loss from everybody here. Business is almost suspended here and nothing is talked of but the fire and what the company will do to rebuild. The Town Council hold a special meeting yesterday and offered a loan of $25,000 for 20 years, which Mr. Doherty will likely accept.

CATARRH! F. F. C. C.

Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure.

A POSITIVE CURE FOR CATARRH AND COLD IN THE HEAD.

This effective remedy for Catarrh and Cold in the head is a fume inhalent—it goes direct to the seat of disease and gives relief in a marvellously quick time. It will cure the slightest cold in the head almost instantly, and, if faithfully and persistently used, it will cure the most stubborn and long standing cases of chronic catarrh of the head—it never fails to do its work—it is easily applied—it is harmless to use—you simply take a small portion of the remedy in the palm of the hands, rub the hands together, then partly open them and inhale the fumes from the remedy into the throat and nose, and rub a little of the remedy on sides of the nose and temples.

Dear Sir—I have been using catarrh remedy of different kinds for the last fifteen years, but find "Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure" the best I have used, and have no hesitation in recommending it to any one troubled with catarrh or cold in the head.

Yours sincerely,
W. HARPER,
Hardware Merchant.

Dear Sir—I take pleasure in giving my testimonial to the efficacy and value of Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure. I was induced through a friend to give it a trial for catarrhal cold in the head; the result was marvellous. I cannot speak too highly of its merits. I can faithfully recommend it to anyone troubled with chronic catarrh or cold in the head.

ALMOST A MIRACLE.

OTTAWA, Sept. 9th, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Co., Ltd., Ottawa:—

GENTLEMEN,—I hardly know how best to express my appreciation of your valuable rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline. My son Gordon, who is 9 years old, has been a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism for the past two years; was so bad at times that he had to be carried about on a mattress; was attended by two city doctors apparently without the slightest benefit; spent 10 days at Caledonia Springs, came home with no marked improvement; took three bottles of a Homeopathic remedy now being extensively advertised, which did not relieve him in the least. I was beginning to give up all hope of his recovery, when by chance I mentioned the case to a friend who strongly advised me to give Phrenoline a trial.

I did so, with the result that when my boy had taken only half a bottle he was able to get on his bicycle and ride like any other boy around the block.

I certainly feel that I cannot say too much in praise of your medicine, and shall do all I can to make known its value to others.

Yours very sincerely,

High-Grade Cemetery Work

AT A MODERATE PRICE.

The element of permanence which attaches to the erection of any memorial to the dead renders it highly desirable that no mistake be made in the selection either of design or of manufacture.

A mistake is a serious matter. Let us help you to make a right decision. Our specialty is the erection of monuments which are unique without being grotesque, and artistic without being over-decorated.

We manufacture from all first-quality granites, and as WE SELL DIRECT TO CUSTOMERS, we save the latter all agents' profits. Then, too, there is a decided advantage for the buyer in dealing with one responsible firm for both the manufacture and the setting of a monument

All our work is guaranteed, NO CHARGE being made if not strictly according to contract. Write us for designs and estimates.

IN A BLOCK OF ICE.

A Pair of Scissors and a Silver Half Dollar Found Frozen in the Centre.

Mr. H. Calcutt has a big force of men busily engaged in filling his huge cold storage vaults with ice, and as 300 tons are needed everybody is bustling around the brewery these days.

Yesterday Mr. Billy Payne, who is engaged in caulking some of the cracks, noticed a pair of scissors right in the centre of a big block of very clear ice. He split the block open and was surprised to find a silver half dollar frozen in beside the scissors.

The boys think "Billy" should "set 'em up" after such a find.

"KLONDYKE" OGILVIE.

He Comes to Town at the Request of an Old Friend who Spent Several Seasons in the North With Him.

Mr. William Ogilvie, of Ottawa, who has recently returned from the Klondyke and is about to publish a book on the country, came to town yesterday at the request of Mr. Charles Gladman, in order that his opinion might be obtained as to the effectiveness of steam in thawing out the frozen earth in the Klondyke gold diggings.

The test took place this morning, the Water Company's boiler being used for the purpose. After steam was up the frost was melted out of the ground to the depth of a foot in three minutes. In the second test only two minutes was required. With 100 feet of pipe attached the steam test was then tried on the macadam in the street, and in seventeen minutes the frost was thawed out to the depth of a foot.

In a lecture recently delivered, Mr. Ogilvie related the difficulties experienced by the miners in excavating in the winter, and in consequence of this, Mr. Gladman, who is leaving with a party for the Klondyke in the near future, was anxious to have this expert's opinion. It was explained to him that it was proposed to take one of Best & Matheral's 900 pound boilers with the Peterborough party. These boilers could be taken apart and the weight distributed amongst the party. The heaviest piece would not weight 100 pounds.

Mr. Ogilvie was much pleased with the idea, and stated that under the present conditions the miners could only excavate about a foot per day. Every night a fire was built and kept burning until morning, when the embers were removed and the dirt excavated to the depth of about a foot, when the frost would again be encountered and progress stopped until the fire had again been kept going for another night. After much toil the rock is reached, generally at a depth of twenty-five feet, and here the nuggets are found. No digging can be done in the summer, as the shafts would quickly fill with water, which is present in large quantities, being created by the melting of the snow and the frost in the ground. The miners therefore spend the summer in washing the dirt which they excavated in the winter.

The Peterborough party will also probably take a pump and engine with them, and the boiler can be used in summer for generating steam to operate the pump, which can be used in keeping the shaft clear of water.

Mr. Ogilvie declines to say much about his experiences in the Klondyke as his book is now in the publishers' hands, but he states that last January the temperature averaged 61 degrees below zero, and on several days when there was wind the miners dare not venture out of their shacks.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

Hockey and Other Items of Local and General Interest.

HOCKEY.

The Peterboroughs left for Toronto this afternoon to play the Osgoode hockey team. The team is accompanied by Mr. R. J. Fife, the president.

Yesterday's Globe contains the following reference to some well known Peterborough hockeyists: "Montgomery, the point player, is the father of the game in Peterborough. He captained the team when it held the championship. He is a shrewd, clever player, and is in the Ontario Bank. He is popular wherever he goes.

The officers of the Peterborough Club are not honorary. They are all enthusiasts and are present at every meeting of the executive. President Fife is a druggist, and there is no more active supporter of the game than he.

Captain Phelan of the Peterborough's, is a widely known athlete, and is one of the best hockey players in the province. In lacrosse he is also prominent as a fast and reliable player. Captain Phelan is doing his best to bring the senior championship to Peterborough.

Secretary W. A. Buchanan of the Peterborough Club is a busy man. He has to look after the two clubs, senior and junior, of that town. He has always taken a livelier interest in hockey than any other game.

Hollingshead, of the Peterborough's, is filling the place of Adams, perhaps one of the best men at cover-point in the province, and he is filling it to perfection.

CURLIANA

The Norwood Colts passed through this morning on their way to Lindsay, where they are drawn to play against the colts of that town in the Midland District Colts Association series. The Peterborough Colts left at noon to play the winners.

BICYCLE CLUB'S MEETING.

EDWARD LECLAIRE.

MR. PETER HAMILTON RE-ELECTED CHAIRMAN

OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION LAST EVENING.

He Accepts the Office, but States That he Does not Again Wish to be a Candidate, as no Member Should Hold the Office for a Longer Term Than Two Years.

At the inaugural meeting of the Board of Education last evening there were present Messrs W. B. Bamford, W. H. Hill, J. J. McBain, W. H. Wrighton, W. G. Ferguson, Henry Denne, Dr. Burnham, John McKee, L. M. Hayes, Dr. Caldwell, Peter Hamilton and Jas. Stevenson.

Secretary W. G. Morrow called the board to order and stated that Messrs. W. B. Bamford, W. H. Hill, Jas. Stevenson and J. J. Hartley had been re elected as Public School trustees, that Messrs. P. Hamilton and H. Denne had been re-appointed by the council as High School trustees, and Mr. L. M. Hayes had been re-appointed as High School representative of the Separate School board, that the newly-elected members had signed the necessary declarations and called on the board to elect their chairman for the ensuing year.

On the ballots being counted by the Secretary, was declared to be re-elected as chairman.

MR. PETER HAMILTON

The announcement was received with applause.

Mr. Hamilton thanked the members for the confidence which they had shown in him by favouring him with a second term in the chair. He hoped that he would be pardoned if he suggested a change in the manner of selecting a chairman. One gentleman had been so highly thought of some years ago that he had been retained in the chair for seventeen years. At a later date another member had been honoured by a long term in the same position. Still he did not think it was in the interests of the Board that any one member, through his ability or through the influence he possessed, should occupy the chair for a longer term than two years. He would suggest, therefore, that an unwritten rule be hereafter followed by the Board to the effect that the term of office of a chairman should cease at the expiration of two years. There were always a sufficient number of members who were equally capable of filling the office. If it was it should be passed around, and if it was a position of responsibility it should be shared. The question could be made a matter of honour amongst the members and when a chairman's term of office had expired he would naturally expect that he could not again be a candidate. In concluding, Mr. Hamilton again thanked the members for re-electing him, stating he would do his best in the interests of the schools and would expect to fill the chair for this year only. This suggestion had been a delicate matter to touch upon, but he felt that it was in the interests of the Board.

That Mr. Hamilton's remarks met with the approval of the members was signified by the applause which followed his brief address.

On motion of Messrs. Denne and Stevenson, Messrs. Caldwell, Bamford, Hill, Wrighton and McBain were appointed a committee to strike the standing committees for the year.

After an absence from the Board room for half an hour the committee reported as follows:

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Committee appointed to strike the standing committees for the year beg leave to report as follows:

Finance Committee—Messrs W B Bamford, Dr Burnham, W H Hill, L M Hayes, J J McBain, and the Chairmen of the Property and Supervision Committees.

Supervision Committee—Messrs Dr Caldwell, J J McBain, Jas Edgecumbe, J J Hartley and John McKee.

Property Committee—Messrs W G Ferguson, Robert Fair, W H Wrighton, Henry Denne and Jas Stevenson.

Committee on Appointments—The whole Board.

Visiting Committee—Same as last year.

The first named on each committee to be the convenor.

All of which is respectfully submitted,
DR. CALDWELL,
Chairman.

The report was adopted without discussion, after which the Board adjourned.

BRUIN REMAINS OUT.

That's a "Sure" Sign of an Early Spring, the Veterans Say.

Yesterday was Candlemas Day, when, according to an old adage, it is in order to "throw candles and candlesticks into the sea," meaning thereby that the duration of daylight each day is sufficiently long to do without candle light. Another legend of Candlemas day is that the "bear" leaves his den, where he is supposed to have dozed coolly during the winter, for the first time to see the prospects of fine weather. If the sun shines bright at noon, the hour set for the appearance of brain, and he sees his shadow, he is supposed to conclude that he is six weeks in advance of spring, and returns to take a further snooze for that period, during which time cold weather settles down over the country. But the reverse being the case, and his shadow is not in evidence, he remains on earth and at once starts out on a foraging trip, sure signs of the advent of an early spring.

It is stated that Bruin left his hole according to programme, and did not see his shadow. He is still out and, of course, an early spring is certain.

MISSIONARY MEETING

In St. John's Church Last Night—Addresses by Dr. Parkin and Rev. G. Warren.

A missionary meeting under the auspices of the congregations of the Church of England in town was held in St. John's church last night. After a short service conducted by the Rev. H. Symonds, the particular objects of the meeting were outlined by Rev. Mr. Davidson, who referred to the deficit in the Diocesan Missionary Fund and the noble efforts by the church in Toronto towards the removal of that responsibility.

REV. MR. WARREN.

Rev. Geo. Warren, of Lakefield, then spoke of what the laymen had done and that he thought they were unable to do much more than they had been doing. Still they were not awake to the needs of the mission churches nor had they the true desire for church extension. He referred to the continued decreases in the contributions to the Mission Fund of the diocese during the last few years of financial depression, which would necessarily prevent the Mission Board extending their work or impair the efficiency of the missionaries. The present condition of affairs should arouse each member of the church to perform the part which was his in the work of the church and would be the voice in the wilderness again proclaiming the mission of the church to spend itself, and of each member to be a servant in the cause. It would ward off two greater calamities which always face the church, namely, that of "abiding alone," and that of being ignorant of the state of the Church. The Laodicean luke-warmness might suit the world, but it was not the spirit of the great command to "Go into all the world," where the field is "white unto the harvest."

DR. PARKIN.

Dr. Parkin, after referring to the great advantage to the Church in the employment of the diverse gifts of laymen in the business affairs of the Church, while the clergy were more and more allowed to devote themselves to the spiritual, said that the ordinary development of the church was on the missionary plan and according to her marching orders. As towns in England of 30 000 population some years ago now had 100,000, and the Church had spread out to minister to them, so had she gone on to minister to those who had left the Motherland for far-off fields. The duty of the Church to the moving population was a serious one, and it made a great difference whether she followed to minister to those who were removed from immediate contact with the Gospel and Christian training or did not. The Diocese of Toronto had extended the work to the population which had spread over the country and away from the larger centres till now there are 45 missionaries and 100 churches and 40 other stations. These missionaries receive an average stipend of less than $550, half of which is paid by the Mission Board, but unless the defict were made up the Board would have to close some of these missions. The total deficit is $10,000 of which the city of Toronto is assessed for two-thirds, which they have paid, and the remainder of the diocese is asked to make up the balance, of which Peterborough and Ashburnham are assessed for a total of $544 44, outside the Widows' and Orphans' Fund. The country places are doing their part nobly, as shown by one place practically made up of some three different families, who have paid their assessment in full.

A most fervent appeal was made on behalf of the work and the gifted speaker showed the weight of responsibility which rested upon an Empire, in which so many of her people are spreading to the colonies, to see that these are taught the principles of Christianity and that the people who are the seed of the nations of the future are properly trained for that future. It makes a great difference whether a man has Christ in his heart and is taught and trained in true principles, and the future of this great Dominion depends much upon such training of those who are forming the the population. The church should at once free itself of all incumbrances and be ready to face the coming great changes with a free hand. Our gold fields are attracting the world and many are turning to our shores to fill up the agricultural districts. Let the first fruits of returning prosperity be devoted to this noble work and personal interest and sacrifice turn us from selfish enjoyment to serve the best interests of the church and state.

THE BIBLE SOCIETY'S ANNUAL MEETING.

THE REPORTS FOR THE YEAR WERE PRESENTED.

Peterborough is not a Large Branch of the Society but it is a Most Important one and Contributes Generously to the Funds Required to Carry on the Work.

The annual meeting of the local branch of the Bible Society was held last evening in St. Paul's church and the usual order of the opening exercises was varied by a musical programme given by the "Crusaders," assisted by Messrs. Harvey and Skitch. The innovation proved a pleasing one.

Sheriff Hall, President of the Society, occupied the chair. Beside him were seated Rev. Dr. Torrance and the speaker of the evening, Rev. G. J. Cliff, of College street Baptist church, Toronto.

Rev. S. J. Storey led in prayer, after which Rev. Dr. Torrance read Psalm xix. as a Scripture lesson.

Rev. J. G. Potter, Secretary of the Society, was then called upon to present the annual reports. He stated that although Peterborough was not a large branch of the Society, yet it was a most important branch and had done a great deal towards the work, as would be shown by the contributions which had been made. The reports were presented as follows:

JOHN CRANE, Treasurer.

The reports were adopted.

Rev. G. J. Cliff, of the College street Baptist church, Toronto, was introduced to the audience by the chairman, and in opening made some humorous allusions to his experiences as an Englishman upon first arriving in Canada. The speaker was not in a position to make any statements regarding the work of the Bible Society, as he knew nothing of its operations, so confined his remarks to the Book itself. No book, he stated, in the present age was so largely read. From it the greatest philosophers and thinkers of the age draw their inspiration. The books which grew from it were more largely read than the most popular novel of the day. The supreme thing in the book is character. Rank and wealth and everything a man thinks great are insignificant as compared with Divine grace. No matter what greatness or rank a man achieves on earth, unless he becomes great in the sight of the Lord, it will all amount to nothing. This book is the book of the people. It occupies the supreme place, because it appeals to the lowliest as well as the highest.

There are three great movements which have powerfully influenced the old land and which arose directly through the teaching of this book. They were all democratic in spirit. The first was the Reformation—the morning star of the Reformation was John Wycliffe. He had that practical turn of spirit which belongs to the old land. The prime mover was Hugh Lattimer, but it would have amounted to nothing unless there had arisen in England, humble, honest men who were listening to the word of God. The second great movement was that of Puritanism. England was made great through the word of God. The third movement was the revival of the 18th Century. The men who did the rough hard work of that revival were mighty in their work. The revival of the last century was democratic and its spirit was humanitarian. William Carey arose to apply the great thought of the expression of the church of God. Then there was John Howard to scour the prisons of Europe, and Wilberforce with his mighty passion. Look to the most progressive nations on earth. They abide closely by the teachings of the Book. Loyal to its teachings, they are strong in those things which make a nation great in these days.

While of late there has been a revival of the criticism of the Bible, there has also been a revival of humanitarianism and a revival of biblical studies. Carlyle and Ruskin owe their inspiration to the Scriptures, and whilst democracy reigns, the power of the Scriptures still continues unimpaired. At the close of his address the speaker was made the recipient of a hearty vote of thanks on motion of Rev. A. T. Dykeman and Rev. S. J. Shorey. In acknowledging the courtesy, the speaker took occasion to move a vote of thanks to the chairman, Rev. Dr. Torrance.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Sheriff Hall.

Vice Presidents—the Ministers of Peterborough.

Secretary—Rev. J. G. Potter.

Treasurer—John Crane.

Executive Committee—Dr. Scott, James Garrow, H. P. Kennedy, D. W. Dumble and A. L. Grover.

The death of Lucy May, widow of the late Joseph Craig, occurred yesterday at Toronto General Hospital, where she was undergoing an operation.

The deceased was born in Oshawa, but was brought up in Peterborough, her father being the late Arthur May. She married Joseph Craig, at that time a printer in Peterborough, and shortly afterwards removed to Hamilton, where her husband was connected with the Spectator, but afterwards established a paper in Fergus. During the Mackenzie regime at Ottawa Mr. Craig was appointed a special excise officer. He lived in Berlin, Prescott and Belleville, dying in the latter city about seven years ago. Mrs. Craig and her family continued to reside in Belleville until her death yesterday. She leaves one son, Charles, a barrister at Tweed, and three daughters. Mrs. Moss, of Brantford, and Misses Ida and Lucy, of Belleville. Mrs. Craig was a sister of Councillor May, of North Monaghan, and Mrs. Arthur Armour, of town. Mr. John May, Walkerton, and Mr. Wm. Death Sometimes Spares.

A pathetic story of fact is told by an ex-Confederate soldier of one dark night on the skirmish line during the war. When on the instant that his musket was aimed to kill a Union picket the latter, suddenly inspired with a sense of his own defenceless condition, began to sing those beautiful words: "Cover my defenceless head with the shadow of thy wing." The Confederate withheld his fire. He could not fire. The picket's life was saved.

Death sometimes spares the one who seems marked to be his victim. Let no one despair, even in the darkest hour. Many a man who seemed picked out for death by consumption has found respite and safety through the use of that wonderful "Golden Medical Discovery," which Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., invented thirty years ago, and which has brought new life and hope to almost countless thousands of men and women.

Every day brings a multitude of letters to Dr. Pierce, telling gratefully what his medicines and his advice have done to restore health and happiness to homes where hitherto sickness and misery had reigned supreme.

A gentleman living in Stillwater, Washington County, Minnesota, Mr. C. J. McNaney, writes: "In the spring of 1884, I was taken ill with consumption, and after trying everything I could hear of and doctoring all summer my physician said I had consumption, and that my left lung was nearly gone, and that I could live but a short time. About twelve bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery brought me out all right, and I cured myself of two more attacks of the same trouble. I am satisfied that the 'Golden Medical Discovery' will cure consumption if taken in time. I consider it the best medicine in the world for the diseases for which it is recommended."

THE COTTON GIN.

How a Woman Helped Whitney to Perfect His Great Invention.

"Recollections of Washington and His Friends" is contributed to The Century by Martha Littlefield Phillips. They were taken down from the lips of the author's grandmother, who was the youngest daughter of General Nathanael Greene. The following is one of the stories:

"During my life at Dungeness a circumstance occurred there of some historic and scientific interest and in regard to which much erroneous statement has been made. I refer to the invention of the cotton gin by Eli Whitney and my mother's connection with it. The facts, briefly stated, were about as follows: While spending the previous summer at Newport, R. I., my mother became acquainted with Mr. Whitney and grew much interested in the outcome of the experiments he was then making in the interest of his projected gin. To assist in his enterprise, my mother invited him to spend the following winter at Dungeness, where an abundance of cotton and quiet could be assured. Mr. Whitney accordingly came to Dungeness, and diligently pursued his experiments, a room in the fifth story having been specially fitted for his use as an inventor. One morning he descended headlong into the drawing room, where a number of guests were assembled and excitedly exclaimed, 'The victory is mine!' In deep sympathy with him the guests and hostess went with him to his workshop. Whitney set his model in motion. For a few moments the miniature saws revolved without hindrance and the separation of the seed from the cotton wool was successfully accomplish, but after a little the saws clogged with lint, the wheel stopped, and poor Whitney was in despair.

"'Here's what you need,' exclaimed my mother in her clear, decisive way, and she instantly seized a clothesbrush lying on the mantel and held it firmly to the teeth of the saws. Again the drum revolved, and instantly the saws were cleaned of the lint, and the last requirement of the great invention was satisfied.

"'Madam,' said Whitney, overcome with emotion and speaking with the exaggeration of gratitude, 'you have perfected my invention!'"

A Windsor Citizen Finds Relief, Strength and Health.

Windsor, Jan. 31.—The talk of the town for some days has been the astonishing case of John M. McDonald, of 150 Langlois Ave. For years past he has been a martyr to Rheumatism and Dropsy, which defied the skill of physicians and the power of medicine, until he lost hope completely. Recently Mr. McDonald bought a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and began using them.

Words fail to express the surprise and delight of the patient, his family and friends, when after a few days use of the Pills, he began to mend.

Continued use of Dodd's Kidney Pills has cured him completely. To-day Windsor has no healthier, stronger citizen.

JAPAN IS FOR WAR.

The Eastern Situation is Reported Critical.

THE RUSSIANS IN MANCHURIA.

Conditions of the Chinese Loan—Great Britain's Insistance Concerning the Yang-Tse-Kiang Valley Customs—Menace From Russia—Great Britain's Demands May Precipitate a Conflict.

London, Feb. 2.—A despatch to the Daily Mail from Nagasaki says:

The far Eastern situation is very serious, and it is believed that Japan is most actively preparing for war.

The Pekin correspondent of the Times says that Great Britain has definitely withdrawn her demand for the opening of Ta-Lien-Wan.

The British warships, according to a despatch to the Daily Mail from Shanghai, left Port Arthur of their own accord. The same despatch says it is reported that three Russian cruisers are steaming off Ta-Ku, at the mouth of the Pekin River, on the Gulf of Pe-Chi-Li.

The Daily Mail's Hong-Kong correspondent says that telegrams from Hainan announce the revolt of tribes in the interior of the island.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 2.—The Novoe Vremya mentions a report to the effect that in consequence of the failure of the Anglo-Chinese loan negotiations, a new combination between Russia and Germany has been started in the financial spheres of St. Petersburg to furnish the loan. The paper adds that a number of Berlin financiers have arrived in St. Petersburg to participate in the arrangement.

London, Feb. 2.—According to a special despatch from Shanghai the critical point of the Chinese loan negotiations was Great Britain's insistance that the British should always remain at the head of the Yang-Tse-Kiang Valley customs and assume their full administration in case of default.

The despatch adds that several thousand Russian troops, which have been guarding the trans-Siberian railroad, have entered Manchuria with the consent of the authorities at Pekin.

Pekin, Feb. 2.—Germany has demanded further concessions, in the shape of railroads in the Shan-Tung peninsula, as compensation for the assassination of the sailor Schulz.

London, Feb. 2.—Sir Richard Webster, the Attorney-General, speaking at Ventnor, Isle of Wight, last evening, on the Chinese trouble, said that the United States was supporting England's policy with surprising unanimity. He declared that if Great Britain were compelled to fight for this cause and should lose, the British people would have a "quick and glorious death, instead of the slow starvation which the loss of trade would mean to the nation."

MENACE FROM RUSSIA.

Britain's Demands May Precipitate a Conflict—Opening of Ta-Lien-Wan Will Not Be Permitted.

New York, Feb. 2.—A despatch to the Herald from London says: There is a startling despatch in the Daily Telegraph to-day from St. Petersburg. This paper's correspondent there has had interviews with a Russian admiral, now chief of a squadron, and with an eminent Russian diplomatist. Their declarations, therefore, if true, have semi-official weight. Practically the declaration it contains amounts to a menace on the part of Russia towards England, that unless England chooses to acquisce in the policy being pursued by Russia in the far East, war is inevitable

If this despatch is not a fake, Russia has thrown down the gage The depatch is:

"St. Petersburg, Saturday.—"I have had a conversation with a Russian admiral who has been appointed to the post of chief of squadron, concerning the situation in the far East. This officer in the course of his remarks said: 'Nearly the whole of the marine forces of Russia will be despatched to the far East, for it is necessary for Russia to place herself in a position of naval strength in Chinese waters equal to that of Great Britain. Russia will not permit the opening of a new port either at Port Arthur or at Ta-Lien-Wan. We shall soon see that Germany will say the same thing with regard to Kiao-Chou and the Bay of Samsah, while France will prevent the opening of the Siam Gulf and Nankin as free ports.'

"'Russia, France and Germany will permit no European power to carry out any such attempt against their interests upon the pretext of encouraging Chino-European trade, for under that condition the power in question would become the real mistress of China, directing both her politics and her finances.'

"I also called upon a celebrated Russian diplomatist, who said:

"'The conditions of the loan of £12,000,000 which Great Britain has offered to the Chinese Government are directed principally against the interests of Russia and France, and for this reason our Ambassador at Pekin will, together with his French colleague, struggle to prevent China from accepting the British overtures. By the opening of Ta-Lien-Wan as a free port, the value of Port Arthur as a naval station would be diminished. In the spring Great Britain will no longer occupy herself with the Chinese question, and will certainly not take the offensive, finding, as she will, the necessity of devoting her strength and her energy to India, where a revolt infinitely more serious than the Sepoy mutiny is about to break out. There Russia will be able, without difficulty, to penetrate through Afghanistan and the Pamirs to the Indian possessions of Great Britain, to whom she will dictate terms. We have enough troops and well fortified frontiers, with outposts well connected in the rear with our reserves, by railways and telegraphs, and we could, in the course of a few days, place upon the Afghan frontier an army of 100,000 men. Your perceive that all the chances are on our side, and we do not fear the threats of England.'"

Economy and strength are combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla. Every bottle contains 100 doses and will average to last a month.

MEMORIES.

Once more, once more, my Mary, dear,
I sit by that lone stream
Where first within thy timid ear
I breathed love's burning dream.
The birds we loved still tell their tale
Of music on each spray,
And still the wild rose decks the vale,
But thou art far away.

In vain thy vanished form I seek
By wood and stream and dell,
And tears of anguish bathe my cheek
Where tears of rapture fell,
And yet beneath these wildwood bowers
Dear thoughts my soul employ,
For in the memories of past hours
There is a mournful joy.

Upon the air thy gentle words
Around me seem to thrill,
Like sounds upon the wind harp's chords
When all the winds are still,
Or like the low and soullike swell
Of that wild spirit tone
Which haunts the hollow of the bell
When its sad chime is done.

I seem to hear thee speak my name
In sweet, low murmurs now.
I seem to feel thy breath of flame
Upon my cheek and brow.
On my cold lips I feel thy kiss,
Thy heart to mine is laid—
Alas that such a dream of bliss
Like other dreams must fade!
—G. D. Prentice in New York Ledger.

Wanamaker Turned Bricks.

The early days of John Wanamaker were not easy by any means. When only a lad of 5 years, he made bricks, or, rather, assisted in making them, for his business was to turn them in the sun until they were evenly baked. For this labor he received 2 cents a day and sometimes cleared 10 cents a week, but it must be remembered that there were many rainy days when the force of youthful "workmen" had to be laid off. John's first real rise to fortune was in the days when, as office boy, he saved money enough to start in business for himself. He worked as assistant in the office until he had climbed up to $6 a week, and then, seeing that he could get no more, he bought a little stock of cheap furniture and started in to be a merchant.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A MAN'S LOVE.

Not the pleasantest thing on earth is a lone man's life in a Mexican mining camp. Which thought, in all its force struck Savitz in the commencement of his second year in Pinal de Amoles. The first year he had not noticed it so much. When a man has a hitherto mismanaged mine and concentrating plant to put on a paying basis that will please gentlemen of the ilk of those who owned the London Mining and Concentrating company, limited, he has not time to speculate over the loneliness and general melancholy of his headquarters. And Savitz was not a man who particularly minded loneliness. He thought he had a future ahead of him. There was a fortune to be made for somebody in this abominable, walled in Mexican camp, and he was the man to make it. Besides all of which there was a girl off there in London who was waiting and praying for his success and the raising of his salary. He was very fond of the girl.

There are some God forsaken spots in Mexico. Pinal de Amoles was of these the most forsaken. And when Savitz, after 14 months' desperate struggle, finally had the mill and the mine running in tiptop order and began to see rosy visions of a "rise" within the next 12 months—the directors were not gentlemen to be hurried—the dreariness began each day to sink deeper into his soul.

To get an occasional newspaper and the weekly letter in a big square white envelope Savitz had to ride 40 miles over a rough trail road to the station to which the burros packed. He could have sent a mozo, but he preferred to go himself—it broke the monotony. Not that there was anything to see en route, save cactus and clumps of mesquite, and the bleaching bones of cattle, and now and then a heap of stones, surmounted by a rude cross, marking the place where some lonely traveler had been robbed and murdered.

Half way between the ferrocarril and Pinal there was a sort of Indian pueblo, however, where lived old Joaquin, the owner of several burro trains. And coming back from the station one glowing hot day Savitz stopped to speak to the old rascal about the hiring of some burros for the freighting of mineral to the railway. Joaquin unfortunately was exceedingly drunk; so was his wife, and Savitz was perforce obliged to speak to a very pretty half Indian girl who was taking care of the couple of "shameless ones."

Her name was Dolores, she told Savitz shyly, and she was the niece of old Joaquin. Her home was over near the coast—oh, many leguas away—four or five days; she did not like her home. It was very triste. She liked the amusement and the dancing. And Joaquin, her tio, was very "amable" but for the drinking.

Now, Dolores was more than pretty. She was downright beautiful, with an appealing mixture of Indian and Spanish charm and eyes and hair of old Castile, and she was spotlessly clad and sweet and fresh—in fact, the first pretty woman that Savitz had laid eyes upon for many a long month. Wherefore he told her that perhaps he had best do nothing about the burros just then, until Don Joaquin was recovered. And he would come back in a few days, the day after tomorrow, perhaps manana. And then he said "Adios—hasta la vista, senorita," and rode away, a sweet dark face, with Spanish eyes and crimson lips, haunting his eyes and fancy.

Of course he went back and hired the burros the very next day. The day after that he found that he needed several more animals. That necessitated another visit. Something else came up, too, in a few more days. Again was it "necessary" that he see Don Joaquin, who by this time was beginning to chuckle to himself, seeing opportunity for a good bargain. He was a poor man. Why therefore should he support a muchacha who could do better for herself than could her poor tio? Besides the which he (Joaquin) needed badly the sum of 500 pesetas to invest in new burros for the trail. Surely the senor could afford that. As for the girl—carramba, he would arrange that.

Now, Savitz was not a thorough scamp. He had thought it all over to himself and reasoned out matters and finally told his conscience that the thing would hurt nobody. Here was the girl, a born lady at heart and pretty as they make them, in the power of this dirty old Indian thief who would sell her to the diablo himself for 100 pesos. Why not engage her as his housekeeper to look after his clothes and keep the place decent? There could be no possible reason against it. He would see that she was well paid and her life would be pleasant. What wrong was there? As well his housekeeper as the abused and beaten wife of some brute of a muleteer.

So Tio Joaquin received the sum of 300 pesos, with Dolores in exchange under the strict understanding that the senor was in another year to be married, when his wife perhaps might object to a housekeeper, at which time Dolores would be returned to her uncle or her coast home with full and sufficient pay for her services. To which the worthy tio assented eagerly, with assurances that the above would be explained at length to Dolores, which, of course, the old wretch had no intention of doing. Dolores was a good girl and wore the image of the Virgin around her lovely throat—well knew the tio that she would never consent to anything not good. So he told her that in the country of the white senor the marriage law consisted merely of taking the woman you cared for to your own home upon the payment of a certain sum of money. Of course it was different from their own country, where one must go before the registro and the padre and sign many papers, thereby causing much trouble and many expenses. Of a verity, it was of no importance.

Dolores loved the "white senor." When Indian and Spanish women love, they do it with heart, soul and body, and it is possible that she might have gone to Savitz even without the assurance from Tio Joaquin that it was a "marriage in verity." Quien sabe, however; Dolores was a good girl and said her prayers every night and every morning.

Men are, after all, not wholly without heart and conscience; even to some of them memory remains for feeble pricking now and then. In the long after years the recollection of this one year in the little Mexican mining camp when Dolores was with him was the one thing that marred the peace and content of Savitz's life.

Like many Mexican-Spanish-Indian girls, Dolores was a strange and most sweet mixture—without doubt a baby in mind. Innocent, trusting, the thought of the outside world, other men, other women, other things, came never to her. Savitz was her idol, the one thing in life. To make him comfortable and happy, with the house always clean and sweet, perfumed with the "flowers of San Juan" and the hundreds of big purple violets that swarmed all over the garden; to be always at his beck and call, for him alone, were to her life. With all the passion of the Spaniard and the steadfastness of the Indian she loved this man. To think of his death was the one trouble and sadness of her life. In her girdle she wore a tiny dagger always. To Savitz she never explained, but long ago she had resolved that when he died, if it was before her, this dagger would help her soon to join him, the "light of her soul."

For Savitz it was at first an amusement and a source of some comfort, for Dolores was sweet and faithful, and she worshiped him with heart and soul, which at first he liked. Later it bored him, and he began to tire of velvety black eyes and Castilian love songs and black hair with red roses in it. And day by day longings grew stronger in him for the fair sweet face and the gray English eyes and the woman who could understand. A doll, a plaything, was good for a time, but for one's life companion one needs a woman. So that when a letter came from the London Mining and Concentrating company, limited, one day, with news of the long expected "rise," Savitz first kissed the picture of his English sweetheart and then thanked God, and then began to prepare for a hasty trip home to get his bride—the directors permitted it.

As for Dolores, understanding that her lord was going away to his tierra for three years, but would surely return to her after that, she could only be brave and helpful, with her own tiny, trembling hands packing his clothes and forcing herself to smile now and then. Her querido must not see her triste. It would grieve him. She must hold up until he had gone. After that she could cry her soul out. He would not know.

She was to go home to the coast, said Savitz, and live there, where he would come for her afterward. Tio Joaquin, no! For the tio was a drunken man and a beast, and Dolores must not even see him. No, she must be good and brave and a comfort to him, as she always had been, and go back to the coast home. And here was money. It was enough for her whole lifetime.

The leave taking was over. Savitz galloped off down the trail, with the kisses of one woman fresh on his face, to marry and bring back in her place the woman from over the seas.

Dolores watched until his form could no longer be seen. Then she barred herself into the bedroom and knelt there for hours alone, praying to the Virgin. But there are times when the Virgin doesn't help. Dolores didn't know it, however. That same afternoon she departed for the coast home.

Twice had the snow tree bloomed out in spotless white, and twice had the time of the violets come and gone after the departure of Dolores. The casita where the Indian girl had once been mistress was now covered with vines and lovely English creepers that grew and flourished in the sweet mountain air, when one warm, perfect moonlight night a slender figure, wrapped in reboso and tapalo, toiled slowly and wearily along the trail. A portero's house had been built some time before at the hacienda wall, and to get in you had first to arouse and speak to the portero, who was an Indian.

He knew the woman Dolores, and while he vaguely answered her questions and heard her sob out that no matter if "her lord" was far over the seas she must at least see his house and the place where he used to sit and his hammock in which she had often swung him the man was wondering in what manner he could break it to her. Pues, it was an ugly thing! Desperate, he begged her to come quietly after him and first peep through the window.

Somewhat disturbed, though not knowing why, Dolores crept on after the Indian until they reached the long window that opened from the patio on to the sitting room. With heart beating, she gazed eagerly in. Was it possible that he could have returned?

In his great chair Savitz lounged, and, nestled up against its arm, knelt a fair woman with sweet, grave face and deep eyes. Her head was against his shoulder, and together they were studying out some plan for the mill workmen—the woman who could understand!

Pedro the Indian turned his face away, but there was nothing to see or hear. A woman's heart can break quietly and often does. In a moment Dolores thanked her guide and turned softly away. Pedro knew better than to follow her, being also an Indian. He merely gazed after her with a pitying shake of the head as she toiled along the path to the trail and then passed out of sight on the mountain side. —Gilbert Cunningham in Argonaut.

Bound to Be Modest.

"If a girl wears a bicycle skirt that comes within two inches of the tops of her shoes, there can be no question as to her modesty, can there?" she asked.

"Certainly not," was the unsuspecting reply.

"Because," she went on, "I am very anxious to keep well within the bounds of modesty and propriety."

The question being thus settled, she straightway purchased a pair of bicycle button boots that reached to her knee.—Chicago Post.

Wanted Authority.

"Ethel, what are you doing with that concordance?" "I'm looking through the B's, grandma, to see if there is anything in the Bible about bicycle riding on Sunday being wrong."—Household Words.

The Original Organ Grinder.

When barrel organs, once the usual accompaniment of the magic lantern, came into use, a native of the province of Tende was one of the first who traveled about Europe with this instrument.

In his peregrinations he collected money enough to enable him to purchase from the king of Sardinia the title of count of the country where he was born—for which, probably, in a time of war he did not pay above 1,000 guineas.

With the remainder of his money he purchased an estate suitable to his rank and settled himself peaceably for the remainder of his days in his mansion.

In the entrance hall of his dwelling he hung up his magic lantern and his organ facing the door, there to be carefully preserved till they moldered to dust, and he ordered by his will that any one of his descendants who should cause them to be removed should forfeit his inheritance and his patrimony revert to the next heir, or, in failure of a successor, to the hospital of Tende.

Only a few years ago the organ and lantern were still to be seen carefully preserved.—Pearson's Weekly.

The camel is a beast of great strength and endurance. Nothing hurts it until the proverbial "last straw" is added to its burden. The human digestive system is very much like a camel. It is really astonishing how much abuse it will stand. Sometimes, however, something worse than usual will be eaten, and will go through the stomach into the bowels, and there it will stick—that's constipation. Nine-tenths of all human sickness is due to constipation. Some of the simplest symptoms are coated tongue and foul breath, dizziness, heartburn, flatulence, sallowness, distress after eating, headaches and lassitude. A little thing will cause constipation, and a little thing will relieve it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a certain cure for constipation. They are tiny sugar-coated granules, mild and natural in their action. There is nothing injurious about them. Sold by druggists. TRADE MARK.

Robson Brown, of Valetta, July 28th, 1891, says:—

"I am sorry under the circumstances to write to you, but I feel it my duty, as I have been troubled with Dyspepsia for years, took dollars' worth of medicine and pills, but got no relief until I commenced taking your Sloan's Indian Tonic. I think I have taken 8 or 10 bottles in all, and I feel as if I have got a new lease of life, I feel so much better. I was in the habit of keeping a bottle in the house so when costive I would take a dose or two with instant relief. Now I am troubled with costive spells very often, and it was the only medicine that gave me instant relief. It seems as if I have lost my best friend. Now I would like to hear from you by return mail, as I would like to have a bottle as soon as possible.

Mrs. H. Palmer, of Ridgetown, Ont., says: I was afflicted for a number of years with Erysipelas and Neuralgia in my face, and one bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me entirely, and I would recommend it to others, either for erysipelas or neuralgia.

Mrs. Henry Hale, of Blenheim, Ont., says: Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me of Malarial Fever and Chills and Neuralgia. When I was down sick in bed I purchased a bottle of the Tonic and it cured me entirely, and I have not been troubled with Fever or Neuralgia since.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The municipal council of the township of Smith met at the town hall, Bridgenorth, on Monday the 10th January, according to statute, and after filing the necessary declarations of office and qualification, the members took their seats. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. The council ordered $10 to be placed in the hands of P. A. Kearney, to be used for the supplying of necessaries to the family of Thos. Sullivan. Hopes Fulfilled.

The following letter tells what people think about Laxa-Liver Pills:

DEAR SIRS,—I gladly testify to the virtues of Laxa-Liver Pills. I used to be troubled with severe headaches and constipation for a long time and took these pills hoping for a cure, and my hopes were rapidly fulfilled. I have found them a never-failing remedy, and heartily recommend them.

GALWAY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

We are called upon to chronicle the death of two of our residents this week. Mrs. William Wright, who died in confinement last Tuesday and was buried in the Kinmount cemetery Thursday afternoon, came from Rochester, N.Y., about a year ago and made her home at Mr. Ames Wright's. His son William, however, chose her for his wife and they were married last summer. The child was buried in the same coffin, lying in its mother's arms.

Miss Johanna Flaherty, who has been seriously ill on one or two occasions during the past year, took a relapse and passed peacefully away last Thursday and was laid at rest in the Roman Catholic Cemetery. Deceased was a daughter of Mr. Thomas Flaherty, an old resident of this place, and she was about twenty-one years of age. Mr. and Mrs. Flaherty have the sympathy of the community in their sad affliction.

Mrs. Terrence McGee, of Cavendish, who has been seriously ill for some time, was taken home to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reid, where she will be well attended to.

Mr. McConnell and family, who are making preparations to go to another part of the Dominion, were surprised last Friday evening when a large number of friends and neighbours unexpectedly assembled to offer some tangible expression of their appreciation towards himself and family. Mr. Cobin, who was present, was called upon to read an address, which he did as follows:—

To Mr. Wm. McConnell and family, of Galway:

Dear Friends,—It would be very ungrateful of us, your immediate neighbours and friends, if we would not avail ourselves of this our last opportunity of showing at least some little act of kindness towards yourself and family in return for the many favours we have received at your hands, both spiritually and temporally. You have never tired nor spared your time and talents in preaching the gospel in this neighborhood on numerous occasions, and more especially at times when our little settlement had scarcely any communication with the older settled portions of the township on account of bad roads, and when this part was little more than a mass of unbroken forest and dismal swamp, and when we were unable to support a regular minister, you were always ready and willing to work in the Lord's vineyard. As a neighbour and citizen we have always found you to be straightforward and strictly honest. If any of us stood in need of a favour you were always found ready and willing to assist as far as in lay in your power to do so. As you are about to leave this section of country and go to our sister province, Manitoba, to join with your two sons who preceded you there about two years, we take this opportunity of showing the high esteem in which you are held by us, by presenting you with this easy chair, not for its intrinsic value, but the spirit which prompted the givers. Hoping that there are still in store for you many years to enjoy it, as well as years of usefulness. And to you Mrs. McConnell we show the same gratitude, hoping you will accept this cruet as a slight token of love and remembrance from us. And not having forgotten Miss Annie McConnell, we are pleased to bestow to you this lemonade set and pair of kid gloves, which you will please accept in the same manner in which it was given. And lastly, to you Willie McConnell, we have pleasure in presenting you with this pair of kid mittens. In conclusion we join in wishing you many years of usefulness and prosperity in your new home to which you are about to depart to, knowing and feeling confident that you will ere long gain the good wishes of a large circle of friends there as you have done here. Our loss will be their gain

Mr. McConnell replied in suitable terms on behalf of himself and family. He said he hoped that he would be spared to visit Galway at some future time and should we never all meet again he hoped we would all meet in that place where parting is no more.

It is supposed that Mr. George Martin and Mr. Robert McKee will also leave with Mr. McConnell for the Northwest.

Their friends at Ewen will no doubt miss very materially those three families.

HAVELOCK.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

It is a sad duty to have to report the death of the wife of Mr. Edward Chapman at the early age of 31 years. She leaves behind her a loving husband and four small children to mourn her loss. She died on Sunday morning last, Jan. 30, and on Monday at 11.10 a. m. her remains were borne to the C. P. R. station followed by a large concourse of friends, to be conveyed by C. P. R. to Seeley's Bay for interment. The late Mrs. Chapman was a pattern for youth, she was adored by those of her own years and admired by those of gray hairs. To known her was to respect her and her death, after an illness of ten days, cast a gloom over the village. Mr. Chapman has the sympathy of the whole place in his great bereavement.

Mr. Thomas Curtis has purchased Mr. F. E. Harper's furniture and undertaking establishment. As Mr. Curtis is a shrewd business man we have no doubt as to his success.

The Klondike Flier's (C. P. R.) first trip was made to-day. She was due here at 12 43 but did not get here until 3 30 owing to the snow blockades. All passenger trains were double headed to-day. Snowploughs are running both ways out of Havelock and the C. P. R. yard is filled with freight cars.

NORWOOD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. Scovell, Public School Principal, has brought his better half here to reside.

Miss B. Kidd, Warsaw, visited here Saturday.

Mr. Joe Boyd, an old High School boy, visited here a few days ago on his way from Rossland to New York city.

Mr. Sam Ross has returned from St. Mary's.

Mr. H. E Ford is visiting his sister, Mrs. J. Jury in Bloomfield.

Miss Lizzie Cameron is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. Mehaffy, in Milton.

Mr. R. J. Stuart is to Montreal this week.

Mrs. H. G. Buck is visiting in Warkworth.

Mr. R. Gould, an old Norwood boy, was here last week.

A new treasurer's book has been ordered for the village treasurer.

Rev. J. F. Somerville entertained his Bible class Friday evening.

The Public School teachers had a half holiday Monday on account of the very cold weather.

Mr. D. H. Booth has secured the agency for the Stearns Bicycle Co.

The new passenger trains on the C P R. pass through here at 12 55 p.m. and 3.15 p.m.

The north end of Finlay & Son's factory was so cold on Tuesday that the men had to stop work.

On Wednesday evening our hockey club drove over to Campbellford and played another match with Belleville. During the first few minutes Ashe succeeded in scoring two goals, and things looked very favourably for Norwood, but the Belleville boys watched Ashe very closely, and the minute he got the puck threw or four were on to him. After that the Belleville score gradually grew, and they won by a score of 11—6.

The High School Hockey Club played the Warsaw team here on Thursday. Although the Warsaw boys held their own at Warsaw they were completely lost on the rink here, and the home team won by a score of 13—1.

Encouraged by their success they are looking for other teams to defeat and are trying to arrange a match with Campbellford for Friday evening.

NEGROES DRIVING OUT WHITES.

A Reign of Terror at Belize, British Honduras—Blacks Using the Torch.

New York, Feb. 3.—A special to the Press from New Orleans says: A letter has been received here from Belize, British Honduras, under date of Jan. 28, which states that a reign of terror exists at that place. The negroes, constituting fifteen-sixteenths of the population, have given out that they intend to drive out every white man in the place, and, with this end in view, have applied the torch right and left.

On the night of Jan. 26, 14 houses owned by white citizens were burned by incendiaries. The negroes threaten that they will continue their warfare until not a store or house owned by a white citizen is left standing. The population of Belize is about 8,000. Of the white residents, one-half are Americans.

THE SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

Prosperity of the Country and Good Credit—The Yukon Railway and the New Gold Country—Introduction of New Liberal Members—Formal Business—Inquiries in the Senate.

Ottawa, Feb. 4.—The Commons chamber was well filled when Mr. Speaker Edgar called for order at precisely 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The babel of conversation ceased and the members turned from their mutual greetings and felicitations to hear the announcement that the Speaker had to make. It was that the Governor-General would be in the Senate chamber prepared to open Parliament. Then there was a brief interval which the members occupied with more conversation. Finally rapping on the door was heard, and presently the Sergeant-at-Arms, burdened with his chain of office, at the Speaker's bidding ushered a gentleman in with gold lace, who smiled blandly, bowed superbly and divested himself of the message that he had been sent by vice-royalty, according to ancient precedent, to deliver. It was a summons to the Seate chamber, where the Governor-General awaited the coming of the Commons. When Black Rod had bowed, doubling himself up like a jack-knife at each genuflection, the Commons let out a roar of laughter—Black Rod always strikes them as a joke—and prepared to follow him over to the Senate side of the buildings. The mace slung across the shoulder of Lieut.-Col. Smith preceded the Speaker, who was followed by a procession of Ministers and members in which rules of precedence and order were set at naught. They filled the space behind the railing in the Senate chamber, Cabinet Ministers, back bench members and page boys being indiscriminately crowded together. The Speaker of the Commons taking his place on the dais behind the rail, bowed to his Excellency, who sat upon the throne of state at the opposite end of the red chamber. The Governor-General opened the third session of the eighth Parliament as follows:

THE SPEECH.

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate: Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I have observed with great pleasure the remarkable advance in the political importance and material prosperity of Canada during the year which has just closed.

The loan recently effected has shown that the credit of Canada has never stood so high in European markets, and affords reasonable ground for expecting that the burthens of the people will in the near future be materially reduced by the substantiation of a much lower rate of interest on our indebtedness than that which now exists.

I congratulate you upon the exceedingly cordial reception accorded to the representatives of Canada at the Jubilee ceremonies, and also upon the warm appreciation manifested everywhere throughout the mother country in reference to the conduct of Canada in materially reducing the rate of duty upon goods imported from the United Kingdom into the Dominion.

The act of the Imperial Government in denouncing the treaties with Germany and Belgium also affords most satisfactory evidence of their desire to facilitate your efforts to promote the closest possible commercial relations between Canada and the remainder of the empire, and will, I trust, contribute materially to the development of Imperial trade.

The extraordinary gold discoveries recently made upon the Yukon and its tributaries appear likely to result in an enormous influx of people into that region, and have compelled the Government to take prompt action for the preservation of law and order in that distant and almost inaccessible locality. Measures will be laid before you for that purpose.

A contract has been entered into, subject to your approval, for the completion at the earliest possible moment of a system of rail and river communication through Canadian territory with the Klondike and principal gold fields which, it is expected, will secure to Canada the larger portion of the lucrative traffic of that country. The bountiful harvest with which we have been favored by a benevolent Providence has contributed greatly to the increase of our prosperity, and I am glad to note that the trade and commerce of the Dominion, and more especially the amount and values of her principal exports, have increased greatly during the past eighteen months, and there is good reason to believe that this improvement may be maintained, if not augmented, during the remainder of the present year.

I observe with pleasure that certain Government contracts recently let contain provisions calculated to suppress the evils of the sweating system.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The accounts of the past year will be laid before you. The estimates for the succeeding year will likewise be placed upon the table at an early date.

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate: Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

Measures will be submitted to you respecting superannuation, the repeal of the present Franchise Act, a plebiscite on the question of prohibition. That and other measures I commend to your earnest consideration, invoking the Divine blessings upon the important labors on which you are again entering.

The Liberals Cheered.

When the members had returned to their own chamber a brief interval of silence elapsed, but in a few moments Sir Wilfrid Laurier, wearing the gorgeous symbols of his newly-won honors, appeared, and he was greeted with an ovation which showed the devotion of a loyal following for the worthy leader. The principal business of the brief sitting that ensued was the introduction of new members. The demonstration was confined to the Liberal side of the House, as the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery has not been able to notify the Speaker of any Conservative victories in the bye-elections. The Premier and Messrs. Tarte, Stenson, Guay and Belcourt presented the new members from Quebec, while it fell to the lot of Sir Louis Davies and Hon. William Paterson, who had so contributed to the victory in Centre Toronto, to introduce Mr. Bertram. The first of the Quebec contingent to be brought in was Mr. Charles A. Gouvreau, who was returned unopposed for Temiscouata, after the creation of a vacancy by the death of Mr. Pouliot. Next came Mr. Louis Lavergne, the brother of the former member for Arthabaska, now Judge Lavergne. Mr. Lavergne carried the seat by 1,700 majority, his opponent, Mr. Noel, losing his deposit. Dr. Ross, who was elected by acclamation for Rimouski to succeed Dr. Fiset, appointed to the Senate, was the third to enter the chamber and take his seat at the invitation of the Speaker. Mr. Maulouin, who succeeds Hon. Francois Langelier, elevated to the bench, and who was returned by acclamation, was the next on the list. The salves of applause with which each recruit to the Ministerial ranks was greeted increased in vigor, and continued until the climax was reached on the presentation of Mr. Bertram.

Formal Business.

To vindicate the ancient right of the Commons to legislate on subjects other than those dealt with in the Speech from the Throne, the Premier introduced a formal bill respecting the administration of oaths of office. The bill was read a first time, and that is the last that will be heard of it until the time comes for the opening of another session.

The Premier proposed that the speech should be taken into consideration to-day.

Sir Charles Tupper, making an effort to conceal any anxiety that he might have on the subject, gently insinuated that it might be better to follow the usual practice and adjourn until Monday. Sir Charles was not sufficiently insistent to carry the point.

Mr. Bertram will therefore move the address to-day, and Mr. Gouvreau will second it.

When the Speaker had left the chamber, upon the adjournment, the Premier crossed the floor and cordially shook hands with Sir Charles. Thereafter Sir Wilfrid received the greetings of Liberal and Conservative members.

Senators Want to Know.

After the opening ceremonies were over the Senate met in its own chamber.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell, before adjournment, inquired of the leader of the House whether the Senate might expect a copy of the contract entered into by the Government for the construction of a line of railway to the Klondike? The question was one which was agitating the public mind, and it would be impossible for the Senate to properly consider the question unless the contract was brought down.

Hon. David Mills admitted the importance of the question and said that the documents asked for would be brought down at the earliest possible moment.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell—May we expect them before the discussion on the address takes place?

Hon. David Mills thought it possible that the documents could be given to the Senate before the discussion of the address.

The Senate then adjourned until Monday, at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Brighton, Ont., Feb. 4.—Yesterday the Hilton post-office, four miles north of this place, was destroyed by fire. The building was owned by Mr. A. A. Booker. Most of the contents were saved. There was $500 on the building.

MRS. ORR'S MURDERER

Suffers the Extreme Penalty of the Law for His Crime of the Morning of June 9 Last.

Berlin, Feb. 4.—James Allison, who four weeks ago to-day confessed that he murdered Mrs. Emma Orr on the farm of her husband near Galt on the 9th of June last, died a felon's death at 8 o'clock this morning.

The hanging was what is called a closed hanging. The scaffold was completely boarded in, the platform on which the condemned boy stood being about ten feet from the ground. He ascended a flight of steps to the platfrom and disappeared from view. The black cap was put on and the noose arranged outside. Then as he stepped on the platform the bolt was shot, the trap fell and Allison dropped through.

The only persons admitted to the execution were the representatives of the press and members of the clergy and medical profession. Sheriff Springer was ill at his residence and was not present, but Jailor Cook represented the law in his place. At ten minutes to 8 o'clock the jail doors were closed, and Radcliffe proceeded to the prisoner's cell and bound his arms to his sides. Then the long corridor was traversed before the jail yard was reached. Those who entered inside the boarded scaffold with Allison were the hangman, Radcliffe, Jailor Cook, Thomas Tracey, the turnkey; Otto Gashmeyer, the death watch; Rev. Mr. Atkinson and Dr. G. H. Bowlby, the jail surgeon.

Before the execution a statement was read from him by Jailor Cook, in which the doomed boy expressed his repentance for his crime and hoped that his family will not suffer through it. He made no further confession of his guilt other than the one he previously authorized.

A jury was impaneled and held an inquest after the hanging, returning the usual verdict.

At midnight last night, with only eight hours to live, he sat in his condemned cell, his spiritual adviser, Rev. Mr. Atkinson, beside him, and if outward appearances go for anything Allison was prepared to die. Rather he might be said to almost welcome death, so careless and cheerful and buoyant was he. Of the inmates of the jail last night, his friends and the officials who watched him, James Allison was by far the most apparently unconcerned. He has shown absolutely no feeling since his condemnation and sentence. Yesterday Radcliffe, the hangman, visited Allison in his cell and looked him over. When he left Allison remarked, unconcernedly, "That's Radcliffe, the man who is going to hang me." He had discussed all the details of the tragedy with Jailor Cook, and had the operation minutely described to him, and, when it was done, jokingly referred to the length he would have to drop. His spiritual adviser, Rev. Mr. Atkinson, has been with him at all hours of the day and night, and has no doubt taken from Allison much of the bitterness of expected death. He remained with Allison until 10 o'clock last night, but was with the condemned boy the first thing in the morning.

HURRIED RAILROADING.

Dan Mann Tells How the Stikine Railway Will Be Built at the Rate of 150 Miles in 120 Days.

Vancouver, B.C., Feb. 4.—Mr. D. D. Mann, the contractor, who will build the Stikine-Teslin railway, has arrived here. He was besieged all along the route by supply men. Mr. Mann said:

"We will lose no time about getting under way. The first party will go out in a day or two. It will comprise 150 men and 60 teams. They are now on their way from the Crow's Nest Pass road. They will construct a sleigh road through to Teslin Lake. Along this road camps will be established every twenty-five miles. Here accommodation will be maintained for travelers and stabling for horses. The men at this work will be under the superintendence of Neil Keith, who is coming with them from Crow's Nest. Mr. White, the chief engineer, is two trains behind me, and he will arrange to start out at once. There will be three engineering parties put to work at once. Parties will also be sent out to explore for suitable and suitably located timber for ties. We will establish offices in Vancouver and Victoria, where the business in connection with the securing of supplies and men will be transacted. We will put teams on freight above the Stikine as soon as the road is ready.

"As soon as the line is located we will send in 1,000 more men. These will be sent through to Glenora to start grading. We will pay more than is being given on the Crow's Nest Pass. We take a certain amount of risks as regards some of our men leaving us and pushing on to Dawson. The third party will comprise about three thousand men, and people who have knowledge of such matters can come to an approximate idea of what amount will be spent on supplies for that small army. We expect to get through on time, and if we do it will be, all things considered, one of the greatest railroading feats ever accomplished. We expect to put through between 250,000 and 300,000 tons of supplies this year. It is a low calculation to say that there will be about 150,000 people venturing in the Yukon this year. Without this road it would be impossible to get supplies through, and many would die, and many more would suffer dire privations. To get relief in to them would cost the Government more than the construction of the road will cost them.

"We will build a hundred and fifty miles in a hundred and twenty days. This will be done to preserve Canada's reputation of being able to care for those who come to seek a living within her borders. Were people allowed to perish for the want of means to get supplies to them, it would give Canada a setback that she would never get over. We have also to establish a route by steamers and otherwise to Dawson, for which we get no additional grant. This is an advance of some thousand miles."

Nervous Prostration

Sick Headache and Dizziness—All Cured.

Little Girl Has Grown Plump and Rosy Since Taking Hood's.

Nervous mothers and sickly children endure a vast proportion of the suffering which is caused by impure and impoverished blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives relief by purifying and enriching the blood. Read this statement:

"I was bothered with sick headaches and dizziness. I also had nervous prostration and weakness in my stomach, which made me feel very ill indeed. I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, which was highly recommended by many, and by the time I had taken four bottles I was in perfect health. About a year ago my little girl, then six years old, had bronchitis and chicken pox. We were told that her was the careful treatment she might receive at the hospital. We took her there and for eight days they had no hope of her recovery, but later she had a change for the better. Her sickness, however, left her very delicate and weak, and she did not grow any for a year. It was then I thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla, inasmuch as I had used it for myself and found it such a good medicine for building up a constitution. She had not taken two bottles before she had improved wonderfully. She has grown rosy and plump and is quite herself again. I have great faith in Hood's." MRS. M. EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE Opposition will find Hardy a tough nut to crack.

IN a spasm of magnanimity the Mail and Empire considers that the Government may carry one of the Oxfords—yes and 75 others.

MR. HARDY was wise in his generation when he brought on the elections in the blizzard month of the year. It's only a Hardy Government that can stand the storm.

ONE grave charge brought against Mr. Hardy is his bringing on the elections in the time of blizzards, but it is quite consistent. It has about as much in it as the other charges urged by the Opposition against the Ontario Government.

THE first of March, on which the general elections are to be held, is St. David's Day. A most appropriate selection the St. Thomas Journal thinks. Mr. Whitney and friends will be able to eat the leek with greater grace on the festival of the Welsh Saint.

AT Lakefield Mr. Garvin made an original pun in the name of Mr. Blezard who was present, and said that Mr. Stratton was good on Blizzards. Yes; he has blizzards galore and he will present Mr. Garvin with one on March 1st that will reduce a painful swelling of the head.

THE man that predicted an open winter has gone out of the business and has been engaged by Mr. Whitney and his friends concocting prophesies of his success in the coming election; the forecast of an open set of offices for the Opposition will be about as well fulfilled as the prophesy of an open winter.

SPEAKING of the date of the Provincial elections, the London News, (Independent), says: "Mr. Hardy has the thanks of the business men of London, Liberal and Conservative alike, in bringing on the elections on the first of March. February was ever a dull month for business, and if an election month had to be chosen by ballot it would probably have been February." And the remarks of the News apply to the whole Province.

Moved by Messrs. Hunter and Madill, that Jas. Thompson be employed to care for Douglas bridge during freshets, and the clerk be hereby instructed to request Cavan council to also employ Mr. Thompson for this purpose, the work to be paid for jointly by the two municipalities.—Carried.

The auditor's statement for 1897 was presented, shewing a balance in the treasurer's hands of $351.48 on the 31st of December. As finally audited by the council the report was confirmed and ordered to be published.

BAILIEBORO.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Week of prayer was observed in the Methodist church here during the past week. The pastor was unable to hold them earlier, as services were held in the other churches in the district.

Our new school teacher, Mr. Blackstock, began his duties here Monday.

Last Friday evening a sleigh load of young people from Bewdley spent an enjoyable time at Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick's.

The annual public meeting of Cavan and South Monaghan Branch of the Bible Society was held in the Presbyterian church at Centreville on Thursday, evening. Early in the evening part of the Executive met and transacted what business came before them. This was chiefly the re-appointing of the officers and collectors. Very few changes were made from the present staff. After this the president, Mr. David Armstrong, called the meeting to order and introduced the programme, which consisted of the usual opening exercises. These were followed by an address by the Rev. J. W. Kirkpatrick, who spoke for a short time on "Christian people believing and receiving the Scriptures." Next, Rev. Mr. McIntosh, pastor of the church, gave an excellent address. His subject—"Great reason for congratulation and thankfulness on account of the work of this society." His points were as follows:—Surely there is no other book we are so anxious to see circulated. Why be encouraged. Circulation shows the popularity is not waning. The society indicates the essential unity of all Protestant denominations. The Bible is reason for hope concerning the future of our land. Although there was a very small gathering the meeting was profitable.

The seventh annual convention of the Township of Cavan Sunday School Association was held in the Presbyterian Church, South Monaghan, on Thursday, Feb. 3rd.

The Department of Justice Wants It to Examine Capital Cases.

Ottawa, Feb. 4.—The Minister of Justice has had this letter sent to the judges of the country: "Considerable inconvenience has resulted in several capital cases by delay in the transmission of the evidence and the trial proceedings, and from the short time allowed between the day when the sentence was pronounced and the date fixed for the execution. I have the honor to inform you that in the future, to give more time for the study of cases for Council and for decision of the Governor-General, a considerable time ought to be allowed between the date of the sentence and the day fixed for the execution, and moreover that the evidence and trial proceedings should be sent to the Secretary of State immediately after the trial with the very shortest possible delay."

PETERBOROUGH, JANUARY 29th.

W. H. HILL, Esq., Peterborough, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—I most heartily thank you for the prompt manner in which you settled my fire claim. My barn and contents were burned a few days ago and were insured in the Northern Assurance Co., through your agent Mr. Thos. Edgar, for $800. I have to-day received a checque for the full amount of $800 and the settlement is to me in every way satisfactory. I can only say that those having insurance in the Northern Assurance Co. may rest satisfied, that, should unfortunately a fire occur, the claimants will be to say the least fairly dealt with.

I have the greatest pleasure in voluntarily giving this testimonial. Yours very truly,

JAS. SANDERSON.

BACKDOWN DENIED.

Lord Salisbury's Position Regarding Ta-Lien-Wan.

MORE BRITISH SHIPS GOING OUT.

Russia Will Be Met at Every Point—The Feeling of Irritation—The Trouble at Tangier—Japan's Failure to Raise Cash for Battleships —General News by Cable.

London, Feb. 4.—Some of the afternoon newspapers yesterday refer to the absence of the Russian and German Ambassadors from the Marquis of Salisbury's regular Wednesday reception of the diplomatic corps as being a disquieting portent.

According to a special despatch from Shanghai two British warships entered Port Arthur yesterday and left without anchoring.

On incontrovertible authority the Associated Press learns that Great Britain has not backed down on the question of making Ta-Lien-Wan a free port.

The Marquis of Salisbury, Mr. George N. Curzon, the Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office; the Russian Ambassador, and the Chinese Minister each remarked yesterday in conversation that they had not heard of any backdown.

The opening of Ta-Lien-Wan, it is pointed out, was never made a condition in any sine qua non sense, in connection with the loan in China. In the preliminary negotiations on that subject the opening of Ta-Lien-Wan was "sketched in neutral tints." Great Britain only suggesting it as one condition favoring a speedy completion of the loan. She never demanded it, and, therefore, in no sense can be said to have backed down, if the desire was not persisted in. The question of Ta-Lien-Wan is, however, with other suggested conditions of the loan, still negotiating.

Shanghai, Feb. 4.—The China Gazette says the British Indian, Australian and Pacific squadrons have been ordered to be ready to reinforce the fleet in the far East, thus giving the British admiral a fleet capable of coping with "any combination opposing British policy."

"In the meanwhile," adds the China Gazette, "the British claims in the Yang-Tse-Kiang will be supported by a strong squadron stationed at Chusan, whither two warships are en route. In the event of Russia hoisting her flag over the forts at Fort Arthur, the British admiral has been ordered to hoist the English flag over the Chusau, and the Japanese fleet will ascend the Yang-Tse-Kiang as soon as the river rises.

"About 7,500 Russian artillery and cavalry and quantities of stores and munitions have arrived at Kirin, the capital of the Manchurian Province of Kirin."

RUSSIA WILL PROTEST

Against Opening Ta-Lien-Wan, But Not to the Point of Making War.

London, Feb. 4.—The heat of the Russian press on the subject is in no sense shown by the Russian Government in its communications which have reached the Foreign Office. Though Russia has protested and means to continue to protest against Ta-Lien-Wan being opened by British influence, she will not carry her protest to the point of making it a casus belli. Further, it is by no means Russia's intention to close China to other nations, in any concessions made to Russia by China.

The irritation in Great Britain over the so-called backing down of the Marquis of Salisbury is therefore not yet justified. Great Britain is acting strenuously in favor of free ports in China and hopes sincerely to have the moral support of the United State in this policy. If events push Great Britain from this position with the prospect of defeat therein, she will ask for the support of Washington, which she has not yet done.

THE TROUBLE AT TANGIER.

Fighting Was Not Serious and the Englishmen Were Captured on Shore.

London, Feb. 4.—Major Spillsbury, the leader of the expedition sent out by the Globe Venture Syndicate of London, has sent a despatch from the Azores, whither he went on the company's steamer Tourmaline, giving an account of the trouble in which the expedition became involved in Morocco, a report of which was cabled on Monday last.

It appears from the despatch that the fighting between the expedition and the Moroccan troops was not serious. The five Englishmen who were captured had remained ashore with the intention of shooting game. The remainder of the expedition reboarded the Tourmaline, and a sudden storm prevented them from communicating with the shore.

Meanwhile the Moroccan troops seized the men ashore. The whereabouts of the prisoners is unknown. Major Spillsbury declares that the expedition did not land any arms and that the attack by the Moroccans was entirely unprovoked.

Japan Cannot Raise the Cash.

London, Feb. 4.—The negotiations which have been conducted by Japan for the purchase from Brazil of warships now building in England and France have been broken off, Japan not being able to lay down the necessary spot cash.

The Spanish Government, which has endeavored to purchase these vessels, is in the same dilemma as regards cash payments, and Brazil will now offer the ships to the United States.

The Murderer Executed.

Berlin, Feb. 4.—It was announced here in a despatch from Kiao-Chou that the murderer of Schulz, the German sentry who was killed while on duty at Tsimo, had been executed after trial by a Chinese court.

Earthquake Killed 20 People.

Constantinople, Feb. 4.—Details received yesterday from Balikser, Asia Minor, show that 20 person were killed and that 50 others were injured as a result of the earthquake which recently caused considerable damage to property at that place and at Brusa.

A Bye-Election.

London, Feb. 4.—In the election which has just taken place in the West Marylebone district of London for a successor in Parliament of Sir Horace Farquhar, Bart., who has been elevated to the peerage, Sir Samuel Scott, Bart., Conservative, was elected without opposition. The new member of Parliament was formerly a lieutenant in the Royal Horse Guards, and owns about 60,000 acres of land.

FIGHTING IN INDIA.

General Mayne's Forces Rout the Enemy at the Western Pass.

Calcutta, Feb. 4.—A telegram from Pasni says Gen. Mayne sighted the enemy, numbering 1,500, at 8 o'clock on Monday morning holding the entrance of the western pass leading to Turbat. He attacked them and tried to turn their left, sending a body of infantry and dismounted cavalry to turn their flank. The action lasted two hours and the enemy were completely routed, losing about 100 killed, including the Baluch Khan Merhab, Khan Gul Mohamed and the Baluch's grandson. The British losses were three Baluchis killed and eight wounded, one gunner killed and one wounded. The advance was resumed at noon through the difficult defile and Turbat was reached at 5 in the evening.

STARVATION IN CUBA.

Pathetic Scenes at a Food Distribution—A Mass of Beggary.

Havana, Feb. 4.—La Discussion yesterday said: "The scenes witnessed at the residence of Dr. Castro Jesus del Monte previous to the distribution of food to the reconcentrados are too pathetic to be fully described. As soon as the doors were opened, a mass of beggarly, living skeletons of all races, all ages, and both sexes invaded the places where the food was to be distributed, with outstretched hands, almost fleshless, imploring alms, a frightful animation filling their spectral faces at the sight of food. Many were not even strong enough to endure the food, and fell in the streets as they turned away; a few others, more fortunate, perhaps, seemed to regain some vitality. This painful scene is daily witnessed wherever food is distributed to the reconcentrados."

WILL TOM MANN SUCCEED?

A New Workers' Union and Entirely New Lines to Be Formed.

London, Feb. 4.—The recent defeat of the official trades unions has caused Tom Mann, the well-known labor leader, who is backed by certain other labor leaders, to issue a manifesto urging the formation of a new workers' union. This union is intended to be essentially political as well as industrial, because it has been shown that trade unionism without political action is not equal to the solution of the labor problem. The aim is to organize the bulk of the country's workers, of whom barely one-fifth are embraced in the existing unions, and to enroll all classes of workers, skilled and unskilled, brain workers and hand workers, the organization to be used on every possible occasion to advance the interests of its members by political effort until collectivism shall supersede.

A preliminary conference that was held last evening endorsed the scheme.

Grain Dealers Mobbed.

London, Feb. 4.—A special despatch from Rome says that some of the grain dealers on the corn exchange of Cerena, Province of Forli, who accepted reduced prices, were violently attacked by the members for attempting to corner grain. The troops, it is added, had to clear the exchange. The despatch adds that there were bread riots at Castel-a-Mare yesterday and that the troops frequently charged the mobs.

That Was Different.

Reader (of publishing house)—My dear sir, this story of yours is utterly unprintable, and even if we took the risk of publishing it the book never could be taken into a decent family.

Literary Man—Good heavens! You haven't read the preface. I didn't write the story. It's a translation from the Russian.

Reader (taking the manuscript again)—Pardon me. I had not noticed that. We'll print the book, and it will be a tremendous success.—Chicago Tribune.

That Unlucky Number.

"No," said Briggs, "my wife did not seem to be very badly frightened when we heard that the hotel had caught fire, in spite of the fact that our room was on the thirteenth floor."

"How was that?"

"Why, the first thing she said when we awoke and heard the commotion was, 'There, now, Jo Briggs, maybe you'll not be so ready to laugh the next time I tell you thirteen's an unlucky number!'"—Chicago News.

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

The element of permanence which attaches to the erection of any memorial to the dead renders it highly desirable that no mistake be made in the selection either of design or of materials.

A mistake is a serious matter. Let us help you to make a right decision. Our specialty is the execution of monuments which are unique without being grotesque, and artistic without being over-decorated.

We manufacture from all first-quality granites, and as WE SELL DIRECT TO CUSTOMERS, we save the latter all agents' profits. Then, too, there is a decided advantage for the buyer in dealing with one responsible firm for both the manufacture and the setting of a monument

FIRST OF THE OSGOODE—PETERBOROUGH SERIES.

The Torontonians Win by 9 Goals to 7—Return Match Next Week.

About half an hour after the scheduled time last night Osgoode and Peterborough got started in their match at the Victorian rink. Osgoode won a good game, and the spurt they put on in the second half gave them the victory, though it looked as if the visitors would come home victorious when the score stood 5 to 1 in their favour. But Peterborough got somewhat shaky at the end of the first half, and Osgoode taking advantage of the lethargy succeeded in scoring three goals, leaving the red-shirted men in the lead by but a single goal when the half-time whistle blew. All through the game was a very good one to watch, and the many spectators often became noisy when the fast work loomed up. There was no rough work to speak of, though a couple of players were sent to the boards for minor offences by Referee Alex. Creelman, who, by the way, did not please the crowd with all his decisions, but from the players' view there was not a great deal to find fault with.

About 8.40 these sevens faced the starter:—

Osgoode—Goal, McMurrich (captain); point, Eastwood; cover-point, G. Carruthers; forwards, Lillie, Johnston, E. Carruthers and Morrison.

Peterborough—Goal, Wasson; point, Montgomery; cover-point, Hollingshead; forwards, Phelan (captain), Davidson, Belleghem and King.

Goal umpires—W Gordon and D. Davies.

The game in detail:—

Phelan and Lillie faced, and on a rush by the visitors Davidson scored in 30 seconds.

There was just time for an excellent lift by Montgomery, which McMurrich stopped. There was a patter of little skates as the Osgoode forwards came to the Peterborough goal in a bunch, whence E Carruthers tallied in one minute.

There was a long siege in the third game which opened fast. Belleghem sent a hot left to McMurrich, then the black and white men made a rush, but a face off in the Legalites goal made thing dangerous for them. From centre a high lift was well attended to by Wasson, who fell to save his flags. Morrison, who had received a cut, went off with Davidson. When play was resumed Belleghem got down the side of the rink, and passing the rubber to King, the latter, who was the star of the evening, scored in 10 minutes. Peterborough 2, Osgoode 1.

Lots of danger came to the Peterborough goal in the fourth game, where Wasson continued to wave a red lantern. The Osgoode player took warning, and in the meantime Phelan, Belleghem and King cut circles to the other end, where King made his mark on the Osgoode flags. Peterborough 3, Osgoode 1.

There was a face-off, right at the mouth of the Peterborough goal, but the red shirts swarmed to the relief in good style. Hollingshead and King passed the Osgoode defence for King's third goal. Peterborough 4, Osgoode 1.

Lillie had Wasson at his mercy in the sixth game, but the Peterborough wizard pulled his magic wand, transferred the play to the other end, and Lion King tapped the gypsum past McMurrich. Peterborough 5, Osgoode 1.

A hot tussle at each end ended in a struggle at centre. Hollingshead stopped a beautiful combination rush of Morrison and Johnston in time to avert imminent danger. So far the visitors discounted the home team in combination work. Belleghem was off for a while, and before his time was up Morrison had taken Osgoode's second game in six minutes. Peterborough 5, Osgoode 2.

Morrison felt well, and did the same again in 60 seconds. Peterborough 5, Osgoode 3.

Alternate rushes ensued, and the fast flying "Peck" Morrison took another goal. He had Wasson mesmerised. Peterborough 5, Osgoode 4.

The bell rang calling the players into the dressing room for consultation, consolation and a rub down.

When they came out Phelan scored a game in 1 minute. Peterborough 6, Osgoode 4.

King travelled a la whirlwind, playing defence and forward, but it was Carruthers who got credit for the game in 3 minutes. Peterborough 6, Osgoode 5.

"Holly" Hollingshead stopped a fine Osgoode charge, but Morrison came when the Peterborough defence players were not looking, evening the score at 6 games each, in 1 minute.

In 4½ minutes Lillie had scored two goals and Morrison one, giving Osgoode a lead of three goals. The work of the black and white team was just then fast and very brilliant. Peterborough 6, Osgoode 9.

King kept up his good work when the puck sot going again, adding Peterborough's seventh goal after 9 minutes' play, the game ending nine to seven in the home team's favour.

LECTURE ON EARLY CANADA.

Given by Mr. J. Hampden Burnham last Evening in All Saints Church.

The severity of the weather prevented the attendance at All Saints church last evening from being as large as might have been desired, but the oyster supper was thoroughly enjoyed. Afterwards Mr. J. Hampden Burnham delivered a paper on Early Canada.

The first number on the programme was a splendidly given selection by the Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar Club.

Mr. Burnham, the speaker of the the evening, opened his address by complimenting the church on its high standing. He referred to the changes which had taken place in the history of Europe. The people of the early days of Europe were of a rude nature and lived on things which the people of to-day would not eat. The speaker, next referred to the discovery of America in 1492 by Columbus, who found the country already peopled. Three years later, in 1495, Cabot discovered Newfoundland. The early inhabitants of this continent were called red men or Indians, who were in Mr. Burnham's opinion, the noblest race that ever trod this earth, and of which there was more written about than the ancient Grecians. The missionaries who laboured amongst them, all agree in telling the same story of their greatness. The ancient Indians were of fine physique, above the average height, small, piercing eyes and nose rather Roman. They possessed courage, skill and bravery to a high degree. The term "red man" was used because the Indian coloured his face with a red herb, which he rubbed into the flesh. He had great strength and endurance, and some of them have been known to run eighty miles a day for several days, and catch up to a man on horseback who had started days ahead of them. Then the Indian would scalp his victim. Contrary to the now public opinion, the Indian was very fond of dress. Their features were rather Roman, he also had a very low forehead and long black, coarse hair. It is a fact that the Indians had moustaches, but the squaws used some kind of an instrument to remove the hair, so their husbands could paint and make himself look as much like Old Nick as possible. The Indian woman's dress did not differ much from the male Indians.

One of the striking peculiarities of the Indian is his individuality. Each was named differently and had his own responsibility. If one Indian had a wish to fight another he could do so. This often caused tribal wars. Another peculiarity about the Indian was that he respected man for his individual worth, not for his wealth. He despised wealth. Then, again, those Indians would not punish their children as they thought it broke the child's spirit. This same question is under discussion today in our schools. It is true that while the Bible, which was sent to them, was the means of enabling many to go to heaven, still the quantity of whisky which was given them was the means of sending them to wreck and ruin. These Indians respected each other very highly. Their generosity was above reproach. Orphans were admitted into every wig-wam, and the Indians made them feel that they were only too happy to have their company. The Indian's chivalry to woman was most excellent, but has since that time slightly degenerated. As most know, the Indian lived on the chase. His manner was dignified and courteous. This was illustrated by a story of an old Indian chief who was dining with some pale faces. He did as they did and he took a spoonful of mustard in his mouth, and although it nearly killed him, he swallowed it, but he afterwards declared that he would have no more "boiling yellow." The Indian's customs are also very interesting. "Twisting a maiden-squaw's nose, used to be the custom of proposing." If she did not shake her head, then the young buck "might ask her papa." They were very fond of smoking, and the "pipe of peace" graced every occasion.

Their language is figurative and very picturesque, and some learned people compare it with the Greek, when perfectly spoken. In religion they have always worshipped the Great Spirit and they had no temples. Further remarks on their religion, dreams and beliefs were given by Mr. Burnham who then gave an outline of all the trouble England had for 200 years before Canada was ceded to her. In a great many arguments Mr. Burnham held that the Indian's way was equal to that of the pale face.

Another selection was then given by the Banjo Club and was so well rendered that an encore was demanded. The encore was in the form of a trio by Misses Boller and Dobbin and Master Alf. Cox. This was much appreciated by the audience. A vote of thanks moved by Mr. Bamford, seconded by Mr. F. Bell was then tendered Mr. Burnham for his interesting lecture. A vote of thanks was also tendered the Banjo Club for its services during the eveing.

The regular monthly meeting of the Historical Society was held last evening in the town council chamber with the president, Col. Rogers, in the chair.

The constitution was amended on motion, in order to allow of the fees being reduced from one dollar to fifty cents per annum.

The scheme for awarding prizes for the best history of each of the townships in the county, was recommended by the Executive Committee to whom it had been referred and their report was adopted. The scheme was originated by Mr. T.A.S. Hay in order that a history of the whole county could be easily and accurately compiled from the statistics thus gathered.

Mr. J. Hampden Burnham who was to have read a paper on the object of the Historical Society, was unavoidably absent and the paper was read in his absence by the secretary.

Before adjourment another new member was added to the list,

THE LOCAL COLTS WIN.

They Beat Lindsay out in the Midland District Colts' Association Competition.

It seems that not satisfied with winning the first tankard offered in the Midland Colts Association the Peterborough Colts are hot-foot after the second one.

In Lindsay yesterday they defeated the Colts of that town after the Lindsay men had defeated the Norwood boys. Norwood put up a game fight, but were no match for their more experienced opponents and were beaten by 16 shots. On behalf of the Norwood curlers it must be stated that the game has only been introduced in their town within the last three years.

The match between Peterborough and Lindsay was a close one—so close, in fact, that when the usual 22 ends had been played, it was a tie all round. Skip Ernie Rutherford had eighteen to his opponent's twenty-one, and Skip Dickson Davidson had twenty-seven to his opponent's twenty. This made it forty in all. In the twenty-third end Skip Davidson lost a point, but Skip Rutherford gained one, which still left it a tie. Intense excitement prevailed amonst the spectators, of whom hundreds were present. Skip Rutherford lost a point on the twenty-fourth end, but Skip Davidson secured a five-end, which concluded the game and gave the Peterborough Colts the victory by four shots. The scores made are appended:

ENNISMORE GO BRAGH!

The Island Township will Remain to the Front.

A BIG MEETING AT THE TOWN HALL.

Most Successful Ever Held There in Mr. Stratton's Interest.

Excellent and Enthusiastically Received Addresses by Mr. O'Connell and Mr. Stratton—Misrepresentations of Opposition Stumpers Exposed — Buncombe Promises Shown up — Performance Better Than Promise.

The most successful meeting ever held at the town hall, Ennismore, was held in Mr. Stratton's interests last night. In spite of the heavy roads and blustery weather and the lack of shed accomodation at the hall, there was a large attendance of the electors who showed by their hearty applause that their sympathy was with the Liberal candidate and that his fully proved statements and irrefutable arguments were appreciated and convinced the minds of the solid electors present.

Mr. Wm. Crough, ex-reeve of the township was appointed chairman and performed the duties effectively.

Mr. Daniel O'Connel, of Peterborough, was the first speaker. He said that after surveying the field, the questions at issue, in this contest, were very simple. During the past twenty six years the Government had expended large amounts of money in performing the various public services which the province required. As to the cry for a change, that cry had no force unless it could be shown that the Government had failed to faithfully discharge its duties towards the country. It was charged among other things that the Government had dissipated the Sandfield Macdonald surplus of between three and four millions of dollars. The accounts of the Ontario Government were kept the same manner as the books of a business firm and it was very easy to see whether there was a debt or a surplus. Mr. O'Connell submitted the figures from the financial statement of the province to show that there was a surplus of assets of $5,121,345.24. The Opposition at one time acknowledged a surplus of two millions, but by some ingenious and wonderful mode of reasoning had reduced it to nothing and now declared that there was a great debt. In this, of course, they were wrong; but the question was not so much whether there was a small or great surplus, but whether the Government had properly and wisely expended the provincial revenues, that came into their hands, in the interests of the people.

HOW HAD THE OPPOSITION ACTED

in regard to the way the Government had spent this money? If the public funds had been improperly expended it was the duty of the Opposition to have watched the Government and prevented, or at least tried to prevent, the Government "squandering" the public funds, yet taking fourteen years of expenditure, proposed under the Supply Bill, amounting to about 47½ million dollars, the Opposition have practically approved of the whole of it with the exception of $243,000, representing about one-half a cent on the dollar; that is, out of every dollar of the large amount mentioned, the Opposition admitted that 99½ cents had been properly, carefully and economically expended. In face of these facts, the Opposition in charging that the expenditure has been extravagant laid themselves open to the charge of having neglected their duty. Under such circumstances, what would have been the result if the Opposition had been in power? The attitude of the Opposition in relation to the disputed territory was cited to show that they had sympathized with the Dominion Government in its attempt to rob Ontario of its great wealth of timber and other resources, and if the attempt had been successful the province would have been deprived of the revenue that had been derived from this territory since 1884. Mr. O'Connell contrasted the methods of the Dominion Government in parcelling out the Crown domain to its friends at nominal figures, with the great value the Ontario Government had obtained. If the Dominion principles had been applied in Ontario, we would have had direct taxation. He then went on to point out how the money derived from our timber had been expended, and had been applied to the construction of necessary public buildings, and other expenditures that represented the return of money to the people, and the lessening of local taxation. Referring to the change in the status of the Minister of Education proposed by the Opposition and Mr. Garvin, Mr. Whitney had changed ground and did not now propose to dispense with a responsible Minister, but proposed to tie him down with an advisory board. Mr. O'Connel pointed out that an advisory board would be a

VIOLATION OF THE BRITISH PRINCIPLE

of ministerial responsibility by having a board that would control the Minister of Education, and—

Mr. Garvin's brother—Mr. Whitney doesn't claim that the advisory board should control the Minister.

Mr. O'Connel—Then the advisory board would be of no use. (Loud cheers.)

Mr. O'Connell then went on to refer to the different appeals that had been made from time to time by the Opposition to inflame the prejudices of the electors. Having failed to find a chance for attacking the administrative record of the Ontario Government they had resorted to the tactics he had named. The people of Ennismore, Mr. O'Connell knew, wished to live at peace with their neighbours, no matter what altar they worshipped at. He referred to the treaty of Paris, which was due to the Liberal party, that had guaranteed their rights to the French of Quebec at the time it came under British rule. The same Liberal principles had resulted in the condition being embodied in the Act of Confederation that gave separate schools to Ontario, and he pointed out that the Liberal party, under Sir Oliver Mowat, had faithfully upheld their rights against the attacks of the Opposition and their repeated attempts to rob the minority of Ontario of Separate Schools or the rights they enjoyed under them. He pointed out that if the party to which Mr. Whitney and Mr. Garvin belonged had succeeded in these attempts, there would have been the condition that now existed in Manitoba, and instead of the many separate schools receiving, in common with the public schools, a portion of the public funds to assist in their maintenance the Catholic people would have to put their hands in their pockets and pay large sums in addition to the large sums they now had to contribute to the support of schools in their interests. Reference was then made to the "Eye Opener" of the last campaign, which was designed to arouse religious prejudice and bigotry and set citizens who differed on religious points, at each other's throats. It was the outcome of secret to deprive Catholics of their rights. (Cheers.) Now, in the face of all these facts, was it time for a change? Was it a time to take the Government out of the hands of a party that had given even-handed justice to the minority and majority alike? Was it right that the party that had been so hostile to the minority should replace the Government that had stood up for these rights? Was it fair to give them the cold shoulder? As to the candidate, Mr. Stratton, had he not done his duty to the township of Ennismore, to the riding and to the province at large? That was no more than the part of a representative, but there were many members who did not look so sharply, closely and satisfactorily after the interests of his constituents, and he pointed out that it was to the interests of the electors to retain his services. Mr O'Connell took his seat amidst loud cheers.

SOCIETIES WORKING IN DARKNESS

Mr. Stratton was warmly received, and throughout his address was listened to with the closest attention. After a few introductory remarks he referred to the visit of Mr. Garvin and Mr. John Green to that place, who had sought to create the impression that they knew it all. What he had expected they would say and which they did not say was how would they manage the affairs of the province better than had been done in the past? Did they lay down any better policy? Did they lay down any better system of municipal government or legislation than we had received from the present government? Did they lay down any new policy or better policy that would give us a better system of education? The people of Ennismore employed their teachers from persons educated and trained in our High Schools, and Model Schools. Did these men point out to get good teachers? They said they were too young. Did they expect the Government to pass a law that no one should teach till he or she was twenty-one years of age? The Ontario system of education educated teachers and left the selection to the trustees. They must be allowed to exercise their judgment as to whom they employed—he was not prepared to say to any parent that his child shall not be allowed to exercise his or her ability—if they were selected to teach a school by a Board of Trustees before they are 21 years.

Mr. Stratton referred to what Mr. O'Connell had mentioned, the different "cries" that had been raised on different occasions, and said the Opposition would be very glad to have people forget those "cries." In 1886 we had an attack from the Opposition on the Separate school system and we showed that the Government only desired to do what was right in connection with Separate Schools, and to improve them and make them better. But the Opposition had a new policy now. They wanted the people to forget; they did not want to hear anything about the "Ross Bible," which they had so vigourously denounced a few years ago. Mr. Stratton said he always took the stand that we should do unto others as we would have others do to us. He had stood up for fair-play, and he was the same now. (Cheers.) The Opposition would be glad to have the past forgot—their new policy was to forget the past. If the "Green Eye Opener" was in 1894 in the interests of the province it was the same now, for conditions had not changed. If there was any force in the other cries used on different occasions, why were they dropped now? Because, it didn't pay. (Cheers.) The moderate liberal minded electors of both parties had united to stamp out these unworthy appeals to prejudice, which tended to embitter the relations of a people that should and were determined to live in peace and harmony. (Cheers.) Referring to the visit of Mr. John Green in Mr. Garvin's interest at that hall, Mr. Stratton said that if we must judge these people by what they said—if they used false statements or want to be elected on these grounds, they would be as false as in their representative capacity. The audience knew that Mr. Green had said in that hall the the Moore Lumber Company "had not been fined but only been warned."

HE SAID WHAT WAS NOT TRUE,

and how could they understand that a man should make such statements? When Mr. John Green appeared in Mr. Garvin's behalf in this place, he stated among other things as reported in the Review, that

"The late W. A. Scott of Peterborough, owing to the wrong-doing of an agent of the Government had had his tracts confiscated. A deputation of Peterborough citizens, Grits and Tories, protested to the Government against this action. The Government then imposed a fine of $26,000. Mr. Green then contrasted the treatment of Mr. Scott with that of the Moore Lumber Company who had been found guilty of wrong doing but had not been fined, but only warned."

"Now," Mr. Stratton said, "what are the facts?" In the time of Sandfield Macdonald it happened that the late W. A. Scott had committed errors, or frauds, as you like, in returns that represented a very large loss to the Government. When the Blake Government came into power they appointed a commission to investigate the charges. The result was that Mr. John Rogers, the agent under whom the irregularities were committed, was dismissed from his position, and the Scott Estate was required to make good the shortage, amounting to $26,000. Now what about the Moore Lumber Co. that Mr. Green save was "not fined, they had only been warned?" In 1895 it came to the ears of the Government that the Moore Lumber Company was guilty of irregularities in the returns made to the Government. The investigation, which was promptly instituted, showed that logs had been cut and taken out in addition to those properly returned, and that there was a large shortage. The Government again appointed a commission, investigated the facts and collected from the Moore Lumber Company the sum of $10,861.61, representing the shortage in dues, and a further sum of $686.61, the costs of the investigation, or a total of $11,548.42—something that Mr. Green calls a "warning and not a fine." These were the facts, and the Moore Lumber Company was not doing business to-day. They are not in existence—they are extinct, and the officer of the Government was dismissed that allowed that error to arise. This was the kind of statements that were being placed before the electors by Mr. Garvin and his friends. Such palpable falsehoods were inexcusable in face of the fact that all the facts as recited were made public in the House, and no man who can read had any other excuse for being ignorant of the facts than a deliberate desire to and cast discredit on the Government, which had taken prompt measures to protect the public interests and to severely punish wrong doers. But this sort of thing recoiled on the perpetrators, as they would find to their sorrow before the campaign was over. (Cheers.)

Mr. Stratton made reference to the visit of Mr. Garvin to Ennismore and his boast of his warm interest in "Old Erin." How had the party to which Mr. Garvin belonged show their love for "Old Erin" who the grand Old Man was fighting to give "Old Erin" its rights. (Cheers). Mr. Garvin when he was here—

A Voice—He said he was David.

Mr. Stratton—there will be one man whose name will be "Dinnis" when the elections are over. (loud laughter and Cheers.)

Mr. Stratton, said his father was an Irishman, but he was glad that he himself was born in Canada, a grand country that had given to thousands of Irish, Scotch and English better homes better institutions and larger rights than they could get in the old lands. (Cheers.)

When he was in Ennismore Mr. Garvin said that the timber bill passed at the last session of the Legislature did not apply to past sales but only to future sales. If he did not know that this was false he should have known it and if he did know it he was guilty of deceiving the electors. Mr. Garvin had stated in that hall, as reported by himself in the Review, that:—

"The probability was that the new policy would only apply to future sales and not to ones that had been made in the past, so that those lumbermen who had bought limits in the past could go on shipping their logs across the lines for years."

Now, Mr. Garvin knew, if he chose to read the bill before the House came into force in April next and effected all timber cut on Crown lands in Ontario. If Mr. Garvin did not know this he was not fit to instruct the electors, and if he did know it he was guilty of wilfully deceiving the people. (Cheers.) We had heard of the "schoolmaster abroad" before, but Mr. Garvin, who proposed to how governments should be conducted, says "there should have been no necessity to expend John Sandfield's surplus, but that it should have been kept as a reserve fund at compound interest." If this wonderful system of financing was to be followed, how was the provinces to be developed? How were the people to get the products to market? What would the people have done without railways? What would the people have done without their colonisation roads? The people would have to have borne the expense of maintaining all the public institutions that were now maintained by the Government at an average annual expense of $800,000; we should not have had the great public buildings we had now. While we received twenty three millions from our timber resources, and at the same time we had expended on public works and buildings and in expenditures that meant great and direct returns of their money to the people. Mr. Garvin had also stated at that place, as reported in the Review, that "When Mr. Stratton came he might state that the province had an auditor general and he wanted to tell them there was no Auditor General. In the Public Accounts they found the grocery and other accounts lumped, and they could not find the statement unless they moved in the Public Accounts Committee for the items, then the committee only sat fifteen or twenty times during the session and the meetings only lasted an hour or two. Thus they found it almost impossible to find out the figures. They wanted accounts in detail, and Mr. Whitney if returned would have an auditor general."

"Now let us see," Mr. Stratton said "what the facts are again." The Dominion has an Auditor General who can be removed only by Parliament. This act was passed as Mr. Poussette said by "honest Alexander Mackenzie" and it might be added rightly so. The Provincial Auditor was in exactly the same position. In 1886 Sir Oliver Mowat passed an act, placing the Provincial Auditor in exactly the same position and he cannot be removed by the government only by,

THE VOTE OF THE WHOLE HOUSE,

and Mr. Stratton held up a copy of the statutes of 1886 containing the act, the Public accounts which he also produced to the audience containing the receipts and expenditures of the province giving the accounts with the names and totals, and when the details are required they are moved for in committee, and the detailed account and vouchers will be produced. The public accounts contained the total expenditure and the total receipts, and when the committee finished work in 1897, Mr. Matheison, the financial critic of the Opposition, thanked the chairman of the Committee for his courtesy and kindness, and afterwards in the House expressed his pleasure and gratification at the facilities afforded the Opposition for obtaining information. "Now what do you think of men that come before you and make statements as false as I have proven these statements to be?" Wherever the Opposition speakers in this campaign have made a definite statement they have conclusively been proven to be wrong. If there was a law against political lying these men would have been found guilty long ago, but the electors will express their opinion and also pronounce sentence on March 1st. (Cheers.) The items in the public accounts were there and all a member had to do was to move for the detailed accounts and vouchers and get them. The auditor general has to see that all accounts are provided for in the estimates, are properly certified to by the proper officers and then they are paid upon the authority of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, and then they say that we have no auditor. Incidentrily referring to the "piggery," Mr. Stratton said that he was sorry that Mr. Garvin had led them to believe that it was a matter of recent occurrence, but it only happened in 1895, and was only brought up to do duty on the eve of an election. He explained the facts and showed that if diseased pigs was sold the Dominion Government officials who had taken charge of the matter and not the Government ought to be blamed. These were the facts and was this petty issue worthy of a great party? Mr. Garvin had charged that colonization road money had been used as a bribe right here in the county of Peterborough. Mr. Stratton in answering said he had tried to use his representative position for the benefit of West Peterborough. He tried to help Galway, Cavendish, Harvey, Ennismore, and all the townships when the circumstances warranted it. How did the government spend this money?—they appointed the reeves of the municipalities and they think that is poor business methods. If doing the fair thing, if doing his best to

of West Peterborough was bribery, Mr. Stratton said he would continue to act so that all his constituents would feel the benefit of his representation during the next four years. (Cheers.) In spite of the Review or Mr. Garvin he would, continue to follow this course. Mr. Garvin had charged him (Mr. Stratton) and the Government with bribery in spending money for necessary works and the interests of West Peterborough, but in the next moment he promised a big grant for the Ennismore bridge.

When Mr. Garvin was here his interest in Ennismore was so deep and intense that after he had concluded his speech and had stepped from the platform, a friend reminded him that he had omitted one important matter, and as reported in the Review he went on to state as follows:

"Mr Garvin in closing aroused the enthusiam of the audience in reference to the bridge. If ever any bridge was entitled to a grant it was the bridge over Chemong Lake. Mr Stratton had been there 13 years, and during all that time, with the Government at his back, never got a grant. If he (Mr Garvin) was elected, and if Mr Whitney was returned, and he anticipated he would be, he (Mr Garvin) would do his utmost to secure a grant for a permant bridge, instead of the thing they had. He believed it was the proper thing to do."

In one breath he condemns the Government for extravagant expenditure of money—he read from the Toronto World at his meeting here showing the expenditures and said "that with a view to bribe the electors they were going to give sums of money as subsidies to railways, besides colonization roads," and in the next breath he used the language as contained in the quotation just read. Did Mr. Garvin intend that offer as a bribe or as an exhibit of his "love for "Old Erin?" Mr. Strattons impression was that Mr. Garvin must have had a very low estimate of the intelligence of his audience if he expected they were going to swallow such rubbish. Mr. Stratton said he was always careful as to what he promised before an election. He had been three times before the people he had been pressed for promises on various matters on various occasions, but he had no graveyard staring him in the face, but he had left a record behind him that proved that what was in the interests of the people and was in his power to be procured was procured. He did not wait till an election was on to show his interest in the Mud Lake Bridge, when the County Council last season took the extraordinary ground that unless Ennismore and Peterborough made large grants for the maintenance of the Mud Lake bridge, it would be abandoned, he (Mr. Stratton) had pointed out in the EXAMINER in an article that went into all the details of the question, and showing that it was the height of injustice to ask Ennismore, which had contributed its full share to thirty-six county and boundary bridges, to specially tax themselves for a bridge that was not entirely for their own benefit, any more than any other county bridge that is maintained in connection with any other municipality. It was unfair to Harvey, Galway and Cavendish, who derived benefit from the maintenance of this bridge, as it was unfair to Ennismore, which was not the only township benefitted by it. He (Mr. Stratton) would make no promise with regard to the bridge. He had been urged by his political opponents possibly with the idea of trapping him to make some specific promise as to the Beasfort bridge. The only promise he had made was that he would do his best for the residents concerned, and the bridge was there. Wasn't performance better than promise? The man that made big promises that he hadn't the ghost of a chance to fulfill was trifling with the good sense of the electors. In regard to the Mud lake bridge Mr. Stratton would like to give the advice that the people keep it out of party politics. He would advise them to enlist the interest of the prominent citizens of Peterborough and the county council to see that justice was done to Ennismore, which not only had its full share of the cost of building the other bridges in the county but also paid its full share in the maintainence of the Mud lake. It had been an expensive bridge to maintain and had been made more expensive to maintain by the reason of the building by the Dominion Government of the dam at Buckhorn, which had raised the waters of the lake some ten or twelve feet and large damages had been paid for drowned lands. Then wasn't it reasonable to suggest that on the Dominion Government to help in the matter of the bridge. If the Dominion Government refused then the Ontario Government might be appealed to on the ground that the maintenance of the bridge was in the interests of the back townships, Ennismore and the town of Peterborough as well, and in the general interests of the country. He would not ask the electors to vote for him on a promise to get help to build the bridge, but whether he was elected or defeated he would do his best to advance the interests of all concerned in the maintenance of the bridge. (Cheers.) He would be told that if he got no money to help the back country, which hadn't so many privileges as the older townships he was no use, and if he got money he was accused of bribing the electors. (Laughter.) Under such circumstance he would have to take the old way and do the best he could for the riding of West Peterborough. (Cheers).

Continuing, Mr. Stratton dealt with the matter of our timber resource, showing that there was enough timber in sight to last at the past rate of cutting for one hundred and fifty years. Mr. Stratton dealt with the school book question and exposed Mr. Garvin's misleading comparison of a cheap trashy novel that had run its course and was a drug on the market with a well made and well printed school book, which could according to the report of a royal commission, be sold no more cheaply than at present; when circumstances permitted the price would be reduced as the price of nearly all the school books had been reduced from time to time. If Mr. Garvin wished to make a fair comparison let him produce school books of any other country or province, of anything like the same grade, and it would probably turn out that the Ontario school book was twice as good and a good deal cheaper.

Mr. Stratton in conclusion asked if any of the electors had any questions to ask. He did not want them to go away with the idea that he wanted to shirk anything or to hoodwink the electors. After his election he would look after their interests as well as he had done in the past for he was sure that, with their cordial support and co-operation, he would be elected. (Cheers.)

After a vote of thanks to the chairman, and enthusiastic cheers for the Queen, Mr. Stratton and Mr. O'Connell, the meeting dispersed.

A daring balloonist sometimes tumbles nearly two hundred feet through the air hanging on to a parachute until it opens. "O! well," he says, "It usually opens in time." Sometimes it doesn't open and he is doomed. This seems foolhardy but no more so than the sick man who says, "O, I guess I'll get well all right!"

Disease is no guessing matter. If it isn't stopped it keeps on getting worse. Many a man begins with dyspepsia or "liver complaint," and gradually loses strength and vitality until before he knows it his lungs are attacked and he finds himself in consumption. The parachute doesn't open.

The only real safety for a man whose strength is failing from any cause whatever is to renew the sources of vitality at their fountain-head. The best agency for this purpose is the wonderful "Golden Medical Discovery" originated by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y. This "Discovery" goes directly to the aid of the enfeebled digestive forces and enables them to make healthy nourishing blood, thereby building up solid muscular strength and active nerve force and energy.

The absolutely marvelous things it does for sick people is shown by the experience of Mr. Frank A. Starts, of Fayetteville, Fayette Co., Texas, who writes: "It affords me pleasure to testify to the remarkable curative power of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I was severely afflicted with trouble in my lungs—spitting up blood, and was so weak I was unable to continue my work. I tried several remedies which gave me no relief, and I had commenced to think there was no hope for me. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was recommended to me, so I tried it and began to improve at once, and was soon able to resume work. I consider it a wonderful medicine."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser sent for 31 one-cent stamps to cover customs and mailing only. Cloth binding 50 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

GERMANY SHUTS OUT U. S. FRUIT.

Thousands of Barrels of Apples Not Allowed to be Unloaded—Vigorous Protest.

Berlin, Feb. 3.—The Prussian Minister of Finance, Dr. Miguel, issued a decree yesterday, which goes into effect immediately, prohibiting the importation of every kind of American fresh fruit.

Mr. White, the United States Ambassador, sent a strong remonstrance to the Foreign Office, calling attention to the evident violation of the treaty.

At the Foreign Office it was learned that the Prussian Government prohibits the entry of American fruit on a sanitary pretext, claiming that Californian and other vermin threaten to infect German trees and fruit.

Washington, Feb. 3. — The United States Consul at Hamburg, Dr. Hugh Pitcain, telegraphs that 16,000 barrels of American apples have been forbidden to be unloaded, and that two trainsful of American fruit have also been forbidden to cross the frontier at Emmerich, which, aside from Hamburg, is the principal place for entry.

LOCKHART WILL REMAIN

And Try to Recover What Has Been Lost in the Disaster in India.

Bombay, Feb. 3.—It is now announced that General Sir William Lockhart, who commanded the Tirah expedition, and who, it is understood, had been relieved of his command by General Sir Arthur Power Palmer, has decided to remain in India with a view to recovering the ground lost by the disaster of the fourth brigade of the British troops near Shinkamar on Saturday last. General Lockhart will attempt to recover the arms captured from the Yorkshire regiment and punish the tribesmen.

GEN. BOOTH IN TORONTO.

Premier Hardy Will Preside at the Gathering in Massey Hall.

Toronto, Feb. 3. — General Booth, founder and prime director of the Salvation Army, will to-day pay another visit to Toronto. He has, during his present tour, had great receptions in every Canadian and American city he has visited, and these scenes of enthusiasm will be repeated during the General's stay in this city.

General Booth arrives at the Union Depot from London at 1 o'clock this afternoon. He will be met by a large concourse of his followers, and will be the guest of his daughter, Field Commissioner Miss Eva Booth, while in the city.

To night's reception meeting in the Massey Hall will be a representative one. Hon. A. S. Hardy, Premier of Ontario, will represent the Legislature; the Mayor and City Council, the city of Toronto; Rev. Dr. Potts, the religious community, and Miss Booth, the Salvation Army.

On Sunday the General addresses three meetings in Massey Hall, and on Monday night gives a lecture on the social work of the Army, in the same buillding, when the Lieut.-Governor, Sir Oliver Mowat, will preside.

Through the use of Doan's Kidney Pills I am now entirely well and feel braced up as young as ever I was."

A RATE WAR ON.

Canada's Big Railways Have Started to Reduce Fares East and West—Big Fight Expected.

Toronto, Feb. 3.—A rate war, which promises to be a big one, has commenced between the Grand Trunk Railway and the C.P.R., and the fight is for the western business. The Grand Trunk has issued a new tariff, meeting all C.P.R. rates from Ontario and Quebec points into Winnipeg, and has instructed all agents to discontinue the sale of tickets and issue of baggage checks in connection with the Canadian Pacific to all points west via Sault Ste. Marie and Port Arthur. All passengers are in future to be ticketed via Chicago and over the Northern Pacific Railway into Winnipeg. The Grand Trunk has made a working arrangement with this road, and it is expected will shortly have an agreement also with the Great Northern.

There is no doubt that there will be a lively war for the business into Alaska, and all the American roads will be against the C.P.R., which has the best route.

It is definitely announced that the Canadian Pacific will not be represented at the meeting of western roads to be held to-day at Chicago for the purpose of considering rates for Alaska business.

The substantial reduction made by the G.T.R. equalizes the rates between the two Canadian companies, and if the C.P.R. wishes to retain its western differential it looks as if the only thing for it to do is to further reduce its rates. This would not surprise anyone very much.

MANAGERS TALK.

Sir William Van Horne and Mr. Hays Say Why the War Was Begun.

Montreal, Feb. 3.—Sir William Van Horne, on being asked to state the cause of the recent failure of negotiations with the Grand Trunk Railway for a service between Toronto and North Bay, replied as follows:

"It is a very simple matter. On the completion of our main line eleven years ago, we contemplated the building of a line from Sudbury to Toronto to take care of our Ontario traffic. The Grand Trunk had acquired the Northern Railway, with its extension to North Bay, on Lake Nipissing, and wished us to make use of that instead of building a line of our own. Although the use of the Grand Trunk involved a loss of seventy miles in distance, as compared with the Sudbury line, we finally agreed to the arrangement proposed by the Grand Trunk, and the rates allotted to the Grand Trunk were fixed by a mutual railway friend. We thought these rates too high at that time, but we have continued to pay them all these years, notwithstanding the great reduction that has occurred in railway rates generally. To our surprise the Grand Trunk recently notified us of the abrogation of the arrangement, and it came to an end on Sunday last, and we are now handling our Ontario traffic via Smith's Falls.

"The reason? Their preference for the Chicago route, no doubt. I can see no other. They claim that the rates allotted are too low, but they can hardly be serious as to that. They are very fat rates as compared with the most they are getting on through traffic.

"The result? The carrying out of our original plan, of course."

When seen this morning, Mr. Hays, manager of the Grand Trunk system, stated that he was not inclined to discuss his difference or fight his battles with his competitors through the press, but gave out the following statement:

"The Grand Trunk Railway notified the Canadian Pacific one year ago last November of the termination of the agreement between the two lines in regard to North Bay business. We made them a reasonable proposition, and since then we offered to submit the matter, for satisfactory arbitration, to a third disinterested party. The Canadian Pacific Company have declined to meet all our advances in the matter. Therefore, we have reverted to the usual interchange, the same as exists at all other junctions with our different connections. The matter of rates, of course, will now be governed by competition, and where there is sufficient revenue involved to warrant a reduction of rates, you may be sure such a reduction is likely to be made."

Death of C. C. Field, Ex-M.P.P.

Cobourg, Feb. 3.—Shortly after midnight yesterday morning Mr. C. C. Field, ex-M.P.P. for West Northumberland, died from heart failure, the culmination of an attack of apoplexy two weeks ago, followed by two attacks subsequently. He was 64 years old, and had represented the riding since 1886.

Another Boat for the Yukon.

Toronto, Feb. 3.—The Poison Iron Works Company have secured the contract from an English syndicate for the building of a steamer to be used on the Yukon River. She will be a stern-wheeler, dimensions 45 feet long and 9 feet beam, and will draw only 15 inches of water.

STER YEARS OF AGONY

A Windsor Citizen Finds Relief, Strength and Health.

Windsor, Jan. 31.—The talk of the town for some days has been the astonishing case of John M. McDonald, of 150 Langlois Ave. For years past he has been a martyr to Rheumatism and Dropsy, which defied the skill of physicians and the power of medicine, until he lost hope completely. Recently Mr. McDonald bought a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and began using them.

Words fail to express the surprise and delight of the patient, his family and friends, when after a few days use of the Pills, he began to mend.

Continued use of Dodd's Kidney Pills has cured him completely. To-day Windsor has no healthier, stronger citizen.

LAKE ONTARIO FROZEN ACROSS.

Venturesome Ice Yachtsmen Advised, However, to Stick to the Inside Course.

Toronto, Feb. 3.—Toronto's ice boat fleet is sailing merrily these days over the glassy surface of the bay. A perfect sheet presents itself to the winter white wing flyers and trips from the foot of York street are made across to Blockhouse Bay anywhere around two minutes. Those who visited the Island yesterday were presented with a phenomenon unprecedented in the memory of the oldest inhabitant. Far out to the south of the Island the February billows of the lake were buried beneath a sheet of ice that extended as far as the eye could reach and strong glasses in the lighthouse tower showed the frozen surface to reach Niagara's mouth.

Everywhere there was ice, and a few more days of zero weather would permit a foolhardy ice yachtsman to scud across old Ontario at a rate never possible before. Eddie Durnan says the trip might be made, but the presence of air holes would most likely prove disastrous and once plunging through the surface there would be no hope for the crew.

The confidence of the people in Hood's Sarsaparilla is due to its unequalled record of wonderful cures.

The Government Gets Yukon Gold.

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—The Department of Customs yesterday received a remittance from Collector Davis, from Dawson, to the amount of $47,000 which had accrued from customs duties. This makes it $85,000 in all.

Mr. Jardine Got the Plum.

Hamilton, Feb. 3.—The County Council of Wentworth yesterday appointed Mr. J. Jardine, of Saltfleet, County Clerk. Mr. Jardine was warden of the county in 1886, and is 46 years of age.

Young Allison, who is to be executed at Berlin, Ont., to-morrow, keeps his nerve to a remarkable degre. Acting Sheriff Cook thinks he will go to the gallows without flinching. The execution will be strictly private. Radcliffe is superintending the arrangements.

THE CONVICT.

BY CHARLES B. LEWIS.

When I reached Hampton Hall one evening on invitation from Colonel Hampton to spend the week with him, I found that he had been suddenly called away on business and would be gone for a couple of days. He left a note for me explaining matters and begging that I would make myself comfortable, and I was given a room next to his on the second floor. It was in the month of November, and the evening was bleak and drear. For a couple of hours after dinner I sat chatting with one of Hampton's neighbors who happened in and then went to my room, taking a book from the library on my way up. It was a large room, with a bed on the west side against the wall, and the table at which I sat down to read was in the center. Five minutes after entering the room I was busy with the book, and it was perhaps 20 minutes before I raised my eyes from the pages. I faced the bed, and it may have been some slight noise that attracted my attention. I just glanced in that direction, but an instant later the glance became a fixed stare. It was a massive old fashioned bedstead, with a valance, or curtain, falling to the floor around one side and the foot. Just peeping out from under this curtain was the toe of a shoe—a coarse, heavy shoe, with sole nailed on. It was not the shoe worn by mechanics or day laborers, but I recognized it in an instant as a prison shoe. All convicts wore that make of shoe in prison and left it behind when set at liberty. A discharged prisoner who should go out wearing such shoes would be arrested as a suspect by the first constable who encountered him.

The toe of a prison shoe peeping from under the bed meant that there was a foot in it, a leg belonging to the foot, a body belonging to the leg. That there was an escaped convict under the bed I hadn't the slightest doubt. As I looked at that toe I remembered that Colonel Hampton had been governor of Dartmoor prison for many years, though out of it for five years back. It was 16 miles to Dartmoor, and I had heard nothing of an escape, but the man under the bed was no doubt in prison uniform and from the institution named. How had he managed to enter the house? What was his object? What move should I make under the circumstances?

With my eyes fastened on the page of the book and my heart beating like a trip hammer, I tried to figure out the situation and decide on what was to be done. I was not armed, and I was all alone on that floor. By this time all the servants had gone to their rooms, and even if I could arouse them they were not to be depended on in a struggle with an escaped convict. I had a pretty good nerve in those days, and yet as I sat there trying to solve the problem I found my mouth as dry as cotton and my whole body trembling. You will perhaps say that I should have got up and walked out of the room and down stairs. To be honest with you, my knees were so weak that I feared they would not serve me, and I also feared that the convict would suspect my design and roll out and attack me. If I got safely out and down stairs, he would be left behind, and what would he do? It was a mile to the nearest house and four miles to a police station. I knew little of the castle and was ignorant of the servant's quarters. While I admit that I was unnerved, I had no thought of running away. By and by as I continued to grope for a remedy, and at the same time scold myself, I grew cooler, and presently I did the best thing under the circumstances. Doing my best to steady my voice and speaking as if to one beside me, I said:

"You might as well come out from under the bed, my man. I have known of your presence there this half hour, and you must be tired by this time."

The toe suddenly disappeared from sight, and there was a waving motion of the curtain.

"I think you had better come out. You are here on an errand, and the sooner you have accomplished it the sooner you can go. The men from Dartmoor will be on your heels before daylight."

Then the man suddenly rolled into view and sprang to his feet with a muttered curse. He was in convict uniform. He was short and thickset and a man of great strength. As for his face, every line of it was evil. He had beetle brows, massive jaws and baleful eyes, and his right hand clutched and flourished a naked knife nearly a foot long. Given my choice, I would sooner have faced a Bengal tiger hounded to fury by hunters.

"Well, what do you want here?" I asked as I put aside the book.

"I want you, curse you!" he savagely replied as he came a step nearer.

"I am here. What is it?"

If I seemed to be cool, such was far from being the case, but my apparent coolness rather disconcerted the man. Had I shouted for help, had I stood on my feet or made a move, he would have flung himself upon me and used the knife. I simply leaned back in my chair and looked at him and spoke in even tones. He reached for a chair, placed it opposite and, sitting down, with his elbows on the table, glared at me and said:

"Yes, I escaped from Dartmoor this morning, and no doubt they'll have me back before noon tomorrer, but when they come for me they'll find your dead body. That's why I wanted to give 'em the slip—to kill you. As for getting clear off without money or friends, I can't hope to do it. You remember me, governor—Bill Watson, No. 4,820—in for 20 years?"

"No, I don't recall you."

"Oh, you don't! You ordered the lash for so many of the poor devils—you were so bent on breaking the spirit of so many of the gang that ye don't happen to remember me. I remember you, though. I had so many favors at your hands that I swore never to forget you, and I never shall. I went to prison thinking to do my best, but as I held my head up they said I was too airy and must be broken down. I was punished again and again, but because I would not bend you gave orders to break me. They starved me, loaded me with chains, lashed me till they dared not strike another blow. I was told that you rubbed your hands and laughed over it, and I swore I would live to escape, and escape only to drive a knife into your heart. I have waited for 12 long years, but I am here at last."

"You are mistaken in your man," I said as he finished. "Colonel Hampton used to be governor of the prison, but I am not he."

"Don't say that to me!" he almost shouted. "D'you think I could ever forget the face of the man who gave orders that I should be beaten like a dog—beaten to death if I did not give in?"

"But you are mistaken. The colonel and I are about the same age and build, and some people have seen a facial resemblance, but you are all wrong."

"Curse you, no!" he hissed. "My eyes are not what they were before I was broken by your orders, but they tell me that you are the man I want! I'm going to make you suffer—I'll kill you by inches!"

Trying my best to repress any sign of fear and continuing to speak as I had begun, I told him my name and address. In my valise were letters addressed to me—by good fortune an epistle from Colonel Hampton himself. I had my cardcase, my initials on my watch case. The man was obstinate, but he had to believe. He could have nothing against me, but in his disappointment at being baffled of the revenge he had looked forward to so long he would have murdered me had I given him provocation. For a time he had it in mind, I believe, to do for me, but after awhile he grew calmer, and then I said:

"If they used you too roughly in prison, I am sorry for it. Now that you are out, I hope you may get safely away. You came here to kill the colonel. He is not here and may not return for three or four days. You should be moving."

"But where to?" he demanded, with a great oath. "I am in convict dress, I have no money, no friends to hide me. I never thought to get beyond this. I came to kill the governor and let 'em hang me for it. Is his wife here? Has he a child?"

"He has neither wife nor child. You were sent to prison for a heinous crime. You have long been a convict. I may go further and say that I believe you to be as wicked as a man ever gets, but I will give you a square deal."

"As to how? No nonsense now to trick me, or it'll be the worse for you."

"You can keep your word as well as the next man. Give me your word that you will not betray me, and I'll help you to get off."

"If you are setting a snare for me, then look out for yourself," he said after looking at me for a moment.

I had an even £100 in my wallet. I made an even divide with him. When he had the money in his fingers, he laid away the knife for the first time and appeared to believe in me. I had brought down a rough and ready suit for hunting and fishing. I took this from the valise and told the convict to exchange suits. I walked over and stood by the fire while he did so. My suit was a tight fit for him, but would do. I had no shoes to give him, but passed into the colonel's room and found an old pair in a closet which he could get his feet into. To these I added a cap which had seen its best days, and when the change was complete the convict's identity was gone. He gathered up his cast off uniform and tossed each garment into the hearth fire, and by and by there was nothing left to trace him by. I gave him a pair of scissors and told him to clip his shaggy eyebrows, and when this was completed I put a strip of court plaster along his cheek as if to hide a scratch and felt sure he was so disguised that he could pass safely. Where should he go he asked. I left that matter to him, but gave him a hint as to where he might lie by in safety for three or four days. When he was quite ready, we tiptoed down stairs, and I let him out of the front door. Then he took my hand and said:

"God bless you, sir, but I wouldn't 'a' believed that one man would do the likes for another. I only hope the time may come when I can repay you."

So he passed out into the night and was gone, and an hour later Hampton Hall was aroused by a band of police looking for convict No. 4,820. He had escaped from Dartmoor by a bold strategem and had so managed that pursuit was made in a false direction and much time lost. He had been finally heard of in the direction of the hall, and the keepers remembered his threats against the colonel and telegraphed the police to lose no time. The grounds and outbuildings were searched, and I was among those questioned. At a hall window on the second floor was a stout ivy, and the police examined this by daylight and were almost sure some one had used it to climb up. They searched the castle from cellar to garret, but they found no clew. How could they? They were so sure that the convict had come that way that they gave up grudgingly, and, being guilty, I thought they regarded me with suspicion. All England was searched for No. 4,820, and a larger reward was offered than for any prisoner who had ever escaped, but the police did not even find a hot trail. The man got safe away to America, as I have the best reasons for believing, and it was only three or four years ago that he died in a western city. Why did I help him away? Well, first, he might have used his knife on me and others in the house to get revenge, and, second, I had heard that Colonel Hampton was a hard hearted man with his prisoners. If there was a third, I would say that I always take the side of the under dog and want to see every man have a chance for his life.

CAKE AND POETRY.

What art thou, life? A fleeting day of change,
A trembling dawn on a wide reaching, restless sea,
A fervid noon—eve's shadow, dim and strange!
(Oh, that reminds me! I must bake some cake for tea.)

Thy morn is beautiful, O life (I ought
To glance into the cookbook, so to make quite sure;
"Three eggs, a cup of cream"—just as I thought),
With all its dreams, so high, so true, so pure!

Grand is thy full, sweet noontide ("sift the flour
And stir it in;" I'm glad the oven's hot and nice)
When lofty purpose arms the soul with power.
("Raisins and currants, one cup each, with spice.")

Night, and the day's fulfillment! Oh, how fair,
How wondrous is this mystery! ("Then add about
A teaspoonful of lemon flavoring"—there!
Now, while it bakes, I'll write my poem out.)
—Madeline S. Bridges in Ladies' Home Journal.

The camel is a beast of great strength and endurance. Nothing hurts it until the proverbial "last straw" is added to its burden. The human digestive system is very much like a camel. It is really astonishing how much abuse it will stand. Sometimes, however, something worse than usual will be eaten, and will go through the stomach into the bowels, and there it will stick—that's constipation. Nine-tenths of all human sickness is due to constipation. Some of the simplest symptoms are coated tongue and foul breath, dizziness, heartburn, flatulence, sallowness, distress after eating, headaches and lassitude. A little thing will cause constipation, and a little thing will relieve it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a certain cure for constipation. They are tiny sugar-coated granules, mild and natural in their action. There is nothing injurious about them. Sold by druggists. THE OLD TIME CIRCUS.

The circus thirty years ago was better far than now.
That elephant was a wonder just to see.
I could watch him half a day
As he fed himself with hay,
And each separate beast was worth the price to me.
Never clown was half so funny, never monkeys half so droll.
All the tinsel was pure metal then to me;
Every acrobat amazing, every rider, simply great,
And that small trapeze man—what a man was he!
And when the woman sang "We Parted by the Riverside"
And "You'll Not Forget" and "You'll Remember Me"
She was really so pathetic
That I wiped my eyes and cried.
I wanted then to take her home with me.

The shows we see in these days are never half so fine.
The cost of tickets often bothers me.
Though the man still cracks his whip
And the clown seems pretty flip,
There is nothing much I care to hear or see.
Thoughts of business, taxes, losses, rheumatism, other crosses—
All combine to make the circus seem quite flat.
I no longer love the songstress, with her paint and frills and flosses,
I no longer want to take her home, at that,
But I'd like to see the old time show of thirty years ago,
When I wore no pointed shoes—my feet were bare—
When lemonade was nectar
And peanuts were a joy—
That old show, without a worry or a care!

VICTORY IN THE AIR.

Enthusiastic Convention of North Toronto Liberals.

REV. DR. DEWART IS NOMINATED.

A Strong and Vigorous Speech of Acceptance—Premier Hardy Endorses the Nomination—Liberals in Splendid Trim—The Ring of Victory—Progress of the Campaign in the Province.

Toronto, Feb. 4.—The feature of yesterday's campaign so far as the Liberal party is concerned was certainly the nomination of Dr. Dewart as the standard-bearer for North Toronto. The meeting was unanimous and enthusiastic. The Liberal party in the riding is in splendid shape, and the campaign which the doctor will lead, starting with a meeting tonight in Cumberland Hall, will probably surpass in energy and vigor anything seen in Toronto in recent years. There was the ring of victory in the brilliant little speech in which the doctor accepted the nomination, just as there is the ring of victory in the reports that come to hand from all over the province, in the speeches of the leaders, in the strength of the candidates and in the enthusiasm of the workers.

The Candidate.

Rev. Dr. Dewart, on rising, was received with three rousing cheers. In his opening sentence he reminded them that he was one of themselves, and not an imported candidate, and thanked them for the expression of their confidence, which he certainly appreciated very deeply. Coming before them after a residence of thirty years in the city, he did not think he ought to say much about himself, for if they did not have confidence in his integrity and independence it was not likely that anything he could say would alter their opinions. He had no fads; he did not go in for any fads or factions, but for the people; and every interest that touches the people will be dear to him and have his heartiest support. He did not offer any special promises for this thing or for that with the idea of catching votes, but stood for all the great questions of moral, social and political reform. Great promisers are generally very poor performers, and the men who are most ready to promise great things to the people do not always accomplish the most. Turning to a personal matter, some people had expressed the opinion that it was inconsistent with the character of the minister to take an active part in politics, as if it were some bad thing which could not be touched without defiling. He had not that idea, and did not think that a man ceases to become a man and a citizen because he becomes a minister. He, however, thought it very proper for a pastor charged with a mixed congregation not to take an active part in politics, because he would alienate some of his congregation. But he is not in this position, as he had been for 26 years engaged in journalism in Toronto, and in regard to his taking part in politics, he was not giving up any principle or relinquishing anything. As many of those present knew, he neither desired nor sought the nomination; he had no axes to grind; but if he accepted the nomination and if elected, as he believed he would be, he might, he felt, exercise some wholesome and good influence on the legislation and administration that would tend to the good of the province.

The Premier's Endorsation.

Hon. A. S. Hardy, who entered the hall while Dr. Dewart was speaking, was loudly cheered. In response to loud calls he briefly expressed his satisfaction at the choice which had been made. Speaking from many years' observation, he asserted that Dr. Dewart always made "bulls-eyes," and that he saw no reason why clergymen should not go into the Legislature. Dr. Dewart, however, was also a journalist of some 26 years' standing, an editor of an influential journal, and he was satisfied that the doctor could add much to the learning, dignity and respect of any Legislative Assembly in this country. He referred to the history of Dr. Dewart and his stalwart Liberalism, which was strikingly displayed when, in the contest in which Mr. John O'Donohoe was running for the House of Commons in the city, Dr. Dewart, a Methodist clergyman and editor of a Methodist paper, deliberately marched to the polls and in the face of opposition deposited his ballot for Mr. O'Donohoe. He did not need, he said, to speak of the character of the candidate, who was known throughout the country, and when the papers carried the news to the country that Dr. Dewart, a man of eminence, power and talent, had condescended to come into the political arena and had chosen to ask the people to send him to Parliament they would say "Well done," for the Reformers are looking out for good men and honest men as their candidates (Cheers.) The name of Dr. Dewart stands for all that is true and honest and good, and every young man who is for the first time endowed with the franchise which the Liberal Government has given him may mark his ballot for him and ask his elder brother and friend to cast his ballot for him also. The remarks of Mr. Hardy were loudly cheered.

The meeting closed with the usual cheers.

Nominations Elsewhere.

The Conservatives of East Toronto met also in convention last night, and nominated Dr. R. A. Pyne as their standard-bearer.

Through the province the nominations to be recorded are those of H. G. Biscoker of Sidney, by the Liberals of West Hastings; Adam Beck, by the Conservatives of London, and Dr. E. H. Smythe, by the Conservatives of Kingston.

A TALK ON TEA, YES, EVERYBODY READ IT

A lady from a village near Peterborough called on us last week and said that she wanted to get some of that fine tea that she had seen advertised in the "DAILY EXAMINER" and sold at the People's Pure Tea Store, 324 George street. After critically examining the tea she made a purchase of a quantity and promised to send her friends to buy from us, as she said our tea was clean, beautiful and bright—no dust, no mixing or dosto ing—the grades are the very best. Another lady in town says that her mother will not have tea from any other store than ours, she buys the very best Ceylon Tea which cannot be excelled in strength and purity. Another remarks always when on earth do you do with the large quantity of teas that I see at your establishment. Some of the large chests of Ceylons must be valuable and cost up to money; yes, they do but the people soon buy them up. You have a large stock of Canned Goods which could be a credit to any store in town; yes we have, and we are selling 3 for 25c. A prominent party in town offered to take the lot and give us a cheque for the amount, but we promised to give the working people the benefit of this bargain and we are doing it. We have a fine assorted stock of choice Groceries, Teas, Sugars, Spices, Canned Goods, Butter, Lard, and our own raising of Pickled, smoked Salted Hams and Bacon, completely eclipsing anything on the market. We do not deny the meat with salt or saltpetre, but cure them on the very best method which are a secret to ourselves. Our own home made Pickles at 10c per bottle, our own Jams, Jellies—pure articles and at prices to suit all. Come to headquarters, get the best and save your money by buying at the PEOPLE'S GROCERY, 324 George Street.

The Young Man Sentenced to Be Hanged on May 20.

THE TRIAL AND THE DEFENCE.

The Charge of Judge De Lorimer to the Jury, Which, in 45 Minutes, Returns a Verdict of Guilty With a Recommendation to Mercy—The Convict's Stoical Demeanor.

Joliette, Que., Feb. 5.—The Nulty murder trial was brought to a close last evening, and Tom Nulty, the slayer of his three sisters and little brother on Nov. 4 last, will expiate his crime upon the scaffold on May 20 next at 9 o'clock in the morning.

When the court opened Mr. Dugas, the Crown Attorney, resumed his address to the jury, and spoke until near 1 o'clock.

His address was a very able and exhaustive treatment of the whole evidence.

The court took recess until 2.30 p.m., and on re-assembling Judge De Lorimer delivered his charge to the jury. His Honor reviewed the whole case in an impartial manner, but the latter part of his summing up was rather against the prisoner, and as the jury retired to deliberate there were few indeed among those who remained in the court room who looked for any other verdict than that of guilty. The jury were out about 45 minutes, and on taking their places again rendered a verdict of guilty without the addition of a recommendation to mercy.

His Honor then donned the black cap and pronounced the death sentence with due solemnity, condemning the prisoner to be hanged on May 20 next at 9 a.m.

During the whole of the proceedings the prisoner maintained his air of stoical indifference, not even when the fatal words were spoken by jury and judge did he display the least concern. His nerve is truly wonderful.

While being led from the court room a crowd naturally followed in his wake. At this Tom became angry, and addressing his custodians, said sharply: "Why does this crowd follow me? Do they take me for a bear?"

MONEY FROM DAWSON.

$165,000 Already Received by the Government of Klondike Gold—$50,000 From Dead Scandinavians.

Ottawa, Feb. 5.—The Government has received a remittance of $80,000 from Gold Commissioner Fawcett at Dawson City, which, with the former collections of $85,000 in customs duties at Dawson, Cudahy and Tagish, bring the total public revenue derived from the Yukon district up to $165,000 to date. Mr. Fawcett also remits to the Interior Department the sum of $50,000, which was left by the Scandinavians who died by typhoid fever in Dawson last fall. They were brothers named Carlson, who came from Norway. The proceeds of their estate as wound up by Mr. Fawcett will go to an aged father in Norway.

General Ottawa Notes.

Mr. Moore will move that the duty on coal oil be further reduced to 3 cents per gallon.

Mr. Lemieux is anxious to know what steps the Government have taken to be represented at the Paris Exhibition.

Senator King will move the address to the Speech from the Throne in the Senate, and Senator Dandurand will second.

On April 1 Ingersoll, which is at present a customs outport under Woodstock, will be raised to the dignity of chief port of warehousing.

Notices are issued that all permanent and city corps of militia are to keep a stock of ammunition on hand ready for emergencies.

Mr. Broder has a resolution on the order paper that the insurance law be changed to fix the assurers as far as possible from control of agents.

Mr. Casey will endeavor again to get his two railway bills passed. One is to protect employes, the other respecting drainage across railway lands.

The name of M. C. Cameron, M.P., is mentioned in connection with the position of Lieutenant-Governor of the Northwest Territories, Mr. Scriver having declined the appointment.

A report appeared in some newspapers that black diphtheria was prevalent on the Crow's Nest Pass Railway. A private telegram was received giving it a contradiction.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier informed Mr. Foster yesterday that the bill ratifying the contract with Mackenzie and Mann would be introduced on Tuesday. Until then no details will be forthcoming.

Word has been received here that a carload of reindeer, being sent to Vancouver from New York, has reached Prescott. Out of a carload of 35 only six are now alive. The cause of death is attributed to the change of climate.

HE WAS DROWNED.

The Body of Mr. H. O. Fitzgerald of St. Catharines Found by the Government Diver in Welland Canal.

St. Catharines, Feb. 5. — Yesterday morning the Government diver volunteered his services to search for the body of Mr. H. O. Fitzgerald, who was supposed to have met his death by going through a hole in the ice on the new Welland Canal on his way home on Monday night. The surmise proved to be correct, for early in the afternoon the body was found by the diver not far from the hole where it was supposed he had fallen in. Mr. Fitzgerald had a lantern on his arm, which he had not lighted, and, as he usually went along with his hands in his pockets, was probably swept under the ice by the current, which is strong at that point, and was utterly unable to help himself. An inquest will be held to set all matters at rest as to his lamentable death.

THREE, PERHAPS FOUR, LIVES

Sacrificed to a Father's Indiscretion—Suffocated by Charcoal Fumes.

Madoc, Ont., Feb. 5.—John Milligan, aged 21; Lee Milligan, 15, and Ethel Baker, 12, were suffocated by fumes from a charcoal fire. Mrs. Milligan is still unconscious from the effects of the same. Milligan is caretaker of the Model school, and was in the habit of carrying live coals from the furnace in the evening and placing them in an old stove in one of the bedrooms in his house. There was no pipe connecting the stove with the chimney, consequently the fumes would remain in the rooms. Last night, instead of bringing hot coals from the school, they substituted charcoal, resulting in the death of three children, and possibly the mother.

Dunchurch Scorched.

McKellar, Ont., Feb. 5.—Yesterday fire broke out in the general store of Mr. Wm. Robertson, Dunchurch, and when discovered had made such headway that nothing could be done to save the building. The flames spread to the dwelling adjoining, which was also totally destroyed, as also the residence of Mr. F. B. Arthurs, manager for the Delta Lumber Company. The post-office and telegraph office, both managed by Mr. Robertson, were also destroyed. Mr. Robertson's loss, even if insured, will be very heavy, as he had just got in a large stock.

A Workman Drowned.

Beloeil Station, Que., Feb. 5.—John Bryan, a workman on the new bridge now under construction at this place, fell off the scaffolding into the Richelieu River and was drowned.

Rival Railways and Rates.

Montreal, Feb. 5.—Messrs. Charles M. Hays, general manager of the G.T.R., and T. G. Shaughnessy, vice-president of the C.P.R., had a meeting yesterday in relation to the trouble between the two companies, as the result of which the C.P.R. made a reduction in its passenger rate to Toronto. The business was not concluded and the above officials are meeting again to-day. In the meantime the Grand Trunk people say they do not know what Mr. McNicoll means when he states that he has caught the G.T.R. cutting rates in an underhand way.

Colborne's Fire.

Colborne, Ont., Feb. 5.—Early yesterday morning James A. Cockburn's butcher shop and contents were completely destroyed by fire. Building insured in the Western and contents in the Commercial Union.

A Good Settling Day.

Montreal, Feb. 5.—Bankers seem satisfied with the settlements made yesterday, and the statement is given out that this province has not been so prosperous generally for many years.

After the Allison Children.

Galt, Feb. 5.—Since James Allison has been executed the Children's Aid Society will take definite steps to secure the remaining Allison children. If the parents do not want to let them go the society will seek to get them by the aid of the law.

Suicided With Gas.

Boston, Feb. 5.—Miss L. Peterson, believed to be the daughter of a banker of Tarrytown, N.Y., was found dead in a room at Young's Hotel yesterday. She had committed suicide by inhaling illuminating gas.

DEBATE ON THE ADDRESS BEGUN.

The Member for Centre Toronto Makes a Great Speech.

SIR CHAS. TUPPER'S HARANGUE.

A Brilliant Reply to His Four Hours of Talk Upon Dead and Gone Subjects by Sir Wilfrid Laurier—The Government and the Klondike Railway Project.

Ottawa, Feb. 5.—Looking forward with confidence to the future. This is the attitude of the people of Canada as expressed by Mr. Bertram in moving the address in reply to the speech from the throne in the House yesterday. Looking backward to the past with regret. This is the attitude of the Opposition, if one may judge by the speech of Sir Charles Tupper in reply to Mr. Bertram's optimistic remarks. The leader of the Conservative party is not content to let the dead past bury its dead. He always harks back to the period when he was in command of the ship and decribess every incident of that time with the minutest detail.

Mr. Bertram Moves Address in Reply.

Mr. Bertram on rising was received with loud cheers. He said he regarded the invitation of the First Minister to move the address as a compliment to the constituency he represented. He claimed the indulgence of the House in addressing it for the first time. It would be readily admitted that the country was in a progressive condition and that its credit was in the ascending scale. To his commanding personality was doubtless due Sir Wilfrid Laurier's success in England. The greetings to Colonial representatives at the Queen's Jubilee must have struck a responsive chord in the hearts of all Canadians. Doubtless it was the outcome of the action of this Parliament in opening trade avenues between ourselves and the Mother Country.

He hoped the Yukon questions would be discussed in a calm and judicial spirit. He congratulated the Government on the prompt measures taken to provide effective administration for the Yukon district. Enormous trade must result from the large influx of population into the Klondike country, hence prompt and effective measures must be taken to secure the trade of that great region which should come to people of Canada and not go to the States. (Cheers.) In his judgment Parliament could not afford to allow one year to pass without securing direct access to that country. He predicted that some people going in to seek for gold would be disappointed and unless there was a ready means of access and egress disaster might result. He believed under ordinary circumstances it was the duty of the Government to consult Parliament before entering into a contract but there were circumstances which might arise which rendered it imperative in order to secure the greatest good for the greatest number for the Government to act promptly and on its own responsibility. It was a sound principle to ask tenders for public works, and in connection with previous railways he did not know of a single one which proposed to build a line without money payment. If the Government had advertised for tenders for this work with the stipulation of no money paid, but payment only out of mineral lands not a single tender would have been sent in. (Cheers.) He believed under the circumstances that the action of the Government would receive the support of the country.

While the successful harvest of last year was a matter of congratulation, yet he believed that the confidence now prevailing was largely due to the manner in which the Government had carried out its fiscal policy.

Mr. Bertram, continuing, said the manufacturers knew that the Liberal Government meant no harm to them. That feeling of confidence had created new channels of trade and in that respect the fiscal policy of the Government had benefitted the country at large. (Cheers.)

He emphasized the importance of tariff permanency to give the trade of a country an opportunity to develop. Occasions, however, might arise when some modifications would be necessary, as for instance in connection with the lumber tariff. He looked forward with hope and confidence to the future of this country and knew of no country under the sun in which he would prefer to live better than this Canada of ours. (Cheers.)

Mr. Gauvreau, speaking in French, seconded the motion.

The Opposition Leader.

Sir Charles Tupper, on rising, was received with Opposition cheers. He paid a warm compliment to the mover and seconder and especially to Mr. Bertram for his very able address. He chaffed Mr Bertram, however, for his utterances on the tariff. It must have been news to the country to have learned during the Toronto election that Mr. Bertram was the architect of last year's tariff for, with all their boastings, the Government had had to fall back on a bloated manufacturer to assist them. Mr Bertram had referred to the uncertainty among manufacturers about the tariff; that was because people believed the Liberals were not sincere.

When he saw the Premier yesterday wearing his decorations he (Tupper) could not but reflect what changes were worked by time. He could not help thinking, however, how some of his friends on the Liberal side would now have to withdraw their objections to "tin-pot titles." (Laughter.) One remark he desired to make regarding the Legion of Honor conferred upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier, viz.: That in 1885, the Home Government

WALLACEBURG, ONT.—The following letter will prove of interest to working men and others who may be in a condition similar to that of the writer:

"For three years I was subject to poor spells. I always felt tired, could not sleep at night and the little I could eat did not do me any good. I have been working at the barber trade for about 20 years and for the last four years I have been very closely confined and have had my meals very irregularly. I was taken with a and the doctors said it was caused by my stomach troubles. I lost flesh and became so weak I was hardly able to stand up to the chair to work. One day I happened to be looking over some testimonial letters and I thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before I had taken two bottles I began to feel better and in a short time I felt finely and had gained 21 pounds in weight. I have taken nearly five bottles and now I feel like a man again. I am than I have ever been in my life. My wife and children have also taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for a blood medicine and realized much benefit from it. As for myself I cannot say too much for it. Absentees on business known as Class "B."

Any person who is unable to attend personally to register by reason of his being temporarily and unavoidably absent from town in the necessary pursuit of his business or calling, must have two witnesses, (one of whom shall be a grown up member of his family, or his employer, or business partner, or person with whom he resides, or with whom he last resided in town, or if no such person exists, then by some person who knows him,) go before the registrar and show that such applicant is temporarily absent from town on business, and then the registrar may permit a notice to be given by such applicant or by some person in his behalf, of his intention to apply to have his name put on the list.

CORUNDUM IN PETERBOROUGH

A VALUABLE MINERAL FOUND IN PAYING QUANTITIES.

Results of Prof. Miller's Tour—Deposit in Three or Four Counties—What the Material is Good For—Chances for the Finding of Tin Also.

Toronto Globe.

Until about thirty years ago the only sources of corundum were a few river washings in India and elsewhere, where it occurred in scattered crystals. The first instance on record of the mineral being found in place was the discovery made by W. P. Thompson in Northern Georgia in the year 1869, and since that time numerous small deposits have been found in that State and in North Carolina along the range of the Alleghenies. In a paper describing these occurrences, published in the journal of the Society of Chemical Industry in 1896, Mr. Thompson said that "corundum will probably always be the principal source in America of material from which to manufacture pure aluminium." But it was not long until all the corundum deposits of Georgia and Carolina were in the hands of a monopoly. The price has been kept at a high figure, and the mineral is prepared for the market in a very unsatisfactory way. Almost its only use has been the making of abrasive wheels, and for this purpose it is mixed with emery. A wheel of pure corundum has a high degree of efficiency and will cut much faster as well as wear much longer than emery. Recently an article, "carborundum," has been taking the place of many, but its selling price is much higher, ranging from 7 to 8 cents per pound for the powdered to 12 to 15 cents per pound for the

GRANULATED ARTICLE.

If corundum can be found in a large quantity and in a situation where it may be produced cheaply it has little to fear from carborundum as a rival, and there is good reason to believe that we have the mineral in Ontario in ample quantity as well as in favourable situation.

Late in the year 1896 Mr. Ferrier, of the Geological Survey, made a discovery of corundum in the northern part of Carlow township, Hastings county. He made careful examination of the occurrence of the ore, and, taking back with him to Ottawa a lot of samples, he reported his discovery to Dr. Geo. M. Dawson, director of the survey. Dr. Dawson in turn reported it to the Bureau of Mines here, and, as the mineral was on Crown lands, the Commissioner of the Lands Department withdrew from sale a large block in the vicinity pending a more careful exploration. A quantity of ore was taken out under his instructions and samples were distributed to prospectors and others in the eastern part of the Province. The result was that several other discoveries were soon reported and early last summer Mr. W. G. Miller, of the Kingston School of Mining, was employed to make a thorough exploration of the country. He spent ten weeks in the northern part of Hastings and the southern part of Renfrew, and succeeded in tracing the corundum belt from a distance of thirty miles across the country from Carlow in the west to Sebastopol in the east. The mineral was found in place in seven different townships, Carlow, Bangor, Raglan, Radcliffe, Brudenell, Lynedoch and Sebastopol, over an area of about one hundred square miles. There are indications, however, that the belt extends far northeastward into Renfrew, as float boulders have been discovered at several points beyond the eastern end of the explored belt. A second and probably parallel belt is believed to exist towards the south, as a discovery of corundum has been made in the township of Methuen, in about forty miles southwest of the first discovery in Carlow. It is not to be assumed, however, that the mineral occurs uniformly over these explored. Mr. Miller found it richly in places over seven hundred square yards, while in other places there might be little or none of it. The presumption is that corundum, like all other minerals, will be found in working quantity in isolated bodies, and that perhaps the greatest portion of the belt will be too lean for mining operations.

During the month of November several tons of ore were taken out and conveyed to the Kingston School of Mining, where tests are being made of it under the direction of Mr. DeKalb, the professor of engineering. It is understood that the tests have so far resulted very favourably. A full report on the occurrence of the mineral as well as on the best means of preparing it for the market is in course of preparing it for the market is in course of preparation, and will be published in the next report of the Bureau of Mines. A map of the district has also been prepared, showing all the known occurrences of the minerals throughout the Hastings, Peterborough and Renfrew belt.

If, in addition to its uses as an abrasive material, corundum can be treated as the ore of aluminium, a very important additional value will be given to the discovery. In the United States and in Europe aluminium is produced chiefly from knolin bauxite and cryolite, all of which are low in aluminium relatively to corundum. The only known valuable mine of cryolite is in Greenland, where mining operations are carried on with great difficulty. In Ontario the corundum mines are not only easy of access, but they may be worked continuously the year round.

INCORRECT.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—In my absence from town on Monday evening last, I understand that Mr. Rines, who is here in the interests of the Royal Templars, stated at his meeting in the Y.M.C.A. Hall that he had been informed that there was no temperance lodges outside of the W.C.T.U. as present in Peterborough. I would like to correct that statement and inform him that we have two live temperance lodges of I.O.G.T. in the town, one meeting over China Hall on George street, and the other in Auburn, of which I have the honour to be its Chief Templar. There is room for more, and we wish our friends the Royal Templars, godspeed, but do not forget that we are here.

Yours,

Interesting Notes for the Ladies.

Success in Dyeing Means Pleasure and Profit.

Beware of crude and worthless imitations of Diamond Dyes. See that your dealer gives you the "Diamond" when you ask for them.

Diamond Dyes have a world-wide reputation; their work is of the highest order, and their success is deserved.

There are forty-eight colours in the Diamond Dyes for dyeing wool and cotton goods; each dye is perfectly true in colour, and as reliable as pure gold.

Diamond Dyes colour anything any colour. They are fast to soap, washing and sun, and surpass all others in brilliancy.

Diamond Dyes are the strongest Dyes made, hence the cheapest; one package is cheaper than three of any other make.

Never be deceived by the false claims of imitators of Diamond Dyes. If your merchant asks you to accept another make of dyes, be sure he is after large profits, and never thinks of your comfort and success.

Saves a Life after Fifteen Years of Terrible Agony.

One of the Greatest Victories Over Disease Ever Recorded.

Mr. Kevill Says: 'Your Compound Banished All my Aches and Pains.'

No Case too Complicated for the Great Medicine.

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.,

Dear Sirs,—For the past fifteen years I have been troubled with diseased kidneys. I am engaged in the manufacture of cheese and am obliged to work more or less in a stooping position. At times I found it almost impossible to work owing to severe pains across by kidneys. Often after working in a stooping position for a time, I would find it very difficult to straighten up at once, and could only do so after repeated efforts.

Of late years while labouring under these severe attacks I became very nervous, and continually had tired, worn out feelings. My rest at night seemed to do me no good, and I always felt tired in the morning.

I had been taking various medicines and was getting worse all the time. At last I decided to give Paine's Celery Compound a trial. I procured a bottle and took it according to directions, and found its effect wonderful. Before I had used the first bottle I began to improve; after I had used the second bottle I felt as well as ever I did in my life. It had banished all aches and pains, my nervousness was all gone, and the tired and worn out feelings were banished. I can go to bed now and sleep well, and rise in the morning rested and refreshed.

I have recommened Paine's Celery Compound to my friends who are suffering from the same troubles as I had, and all have been greatly benefitted. Knowing what it has done, I can cheerfully recommend it to any person suffering from kidney disease.

Yours truly,

ADDRESS ON THE DEBATE BEGUN.

under statute then existing refused to allow him (Tupper), to accept from the King of the Belgians the Cross of the Legion of Honor. No foreign decoration can be worn by a British subject except for services on the battle field. (Laughter.) How then did Sir Wilfrid come to wear this decoration?

Sir Charles then proceeded to criticise Sir Wilfrid Laurier's speeches in England. He regretted that the Premier's eloquence had not been used in the best interests of the country. On the contrary, the Premier's speeches had wrought the greatest injury to Canada. (Opposition cheers.)

After Recess.

When the House resumed at a quarter-past eight, Sir Charles Tupper resumed his speech. He recalled the statements of members of the Government last session that England alone was to receive the advantages of the preferential tariff and the statements from the Opposition benches that other countries would have to be given the same advantages as were given to England. At that time the members of the Government denied the statements of the members of the Opposition, but what had been the result? No fewer than 26 countries, in addition to England, had had to be admitted to the preferential arrangement and the tariff of last year stood to-day as a monument of the utter incapacity of the Government. If it was not ignorance which led to the statement that England was the only country to receive the advantage of the preferential tariff, or something worse, it was an attempt to mislead the House and mislead the country on a most important question.

Charge Against the Governor-General.

In a speech delivered at the Canada Club dinner the Premier had referred to the action of the Governor-General at the time of the change of Government that he had held the balance evenly between the two parties. From that remark he differed. He believed the Governor-General had violated the Constitution. assumed the responsibility for Lord Aberdeen's action.

The Deputy Speaker sought to induce Sir Charles to withdraw.

Then for the next five minutes the House was in an uproar.

Finally the great hubbub was eventually quieted by the Deputy Speaker stating he understood Sir Charles did not reflect on the Governor-General personally.

La Presse of Montreal had made charges against him in connection with the Mann-Mackenzie contract, and he had that evening wired to Donald MacMaster to see the editor of the paper and to institute proceedings for criminal libel if a contradiction and an apology were not forthcoming. That was the course, he added, which he was prepared to take in the case of any responsible paper which attacked his character.

Sir Charles concluded his speech with advice to the Ministers concerning the mining regulations, and resumed his seat after a speech of over four hours duration.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER

Delivers a Most Brilliant Reply to the Rueful Knight's Harangue.

It was within an hour of midnight when Sir Charles sat down. Sir Wilfrid Laurier immediately arose to reply. When the enthusiasm of his supporters had subsided sufficiently to permit him to be heard, he began a speech which must in justice be characterized as one of the most brilliant and effective that he has ever delivered in the House. He set out with an allusion to the extreme verbosity, bad temper and boastfulness of his chief opponent. His speech he characterized as an extraordinary harangue, in which Sir Charles had poured out the disappointments that had filled his soul ever since a certain day in 1896, which he (Sir Wilfrid Laurier) would not more closely indicate, because he did not desire to harrow his feelings any more. He was prepared for a large amount of extravagant talk, but on this occasion he had fairly out-Heroded Herod, or, to speak more accurately, he had absolutely out-Tuppered Tupper. Sir Charles was not in a happy frame of mind; he was choleric and wrathy, and the cause was not far to seek. Sir Wilfrid recalled the famous remark of his old friend, Joseph Rymal, who once said that there was no she-bear deprived of her cubs half so ferocious as the Tory party deprived of office. That was the cause of his anger, his choler and his wrath; hence the hodge-podge of disappointment and bitterness that the House had just heard. The speech had been well characterized as a deluge of words and a desert of ideas. He had seen the condemnation of the Government written upon the wall, a sight that might prove disquieting were it not for the fact that experience had shown that either as a judge or a prophet, the leader of the Opposition was the reverse of a Daniel. Where in the world had he seen the signs of condemnation? "In the Toronto World," readily replied Mr. Sutherland, the Liberal Whip, and the remark was so apposite that the House was for a moment convulsed. Sir Wilfrid said if he did not see it in the Toronto World, neither did he see it in Centre Toronto, in Temiscouata, Rimouski, Drummond and Arthabaska or Quebec Centre. The Premier acknowledged the ability of Sir Charles to blow his own trumpet, and confessed his own incompetency in the art. In crediting Sir George Etienne Cartier with some share in the formation of Canada he was unfair to no less a person than Sir Charles Tupper, because it was known on the authority of Sir Charles himself that he it was who had made Canada. "My history is the history of Canada," Sir Charles had said; "my history is the history of Confederation." Cartier, Macdonald and Brown, who had a good deal to do in the making of Confederation, were simply puppets in the hands of Sir Charles. As for himself, Sir Wilfrid was reminded of the remark of a member of the old Parliament of France, who had said, "I think very little of myself when I judge myself, but I think a great deal when I compare myself."

The Attack on the Governor.

Sir Wilfrid indignantly resented the attack made by Sir Charles Tupper without cause or provocation upon the representative of the Crown in this country. The attack, he said, would do no harm to the person against whom it was directed, and who could not defend himself, but if anybody was to suffer it would be the honorable gentleman who had so far forgotten his station as to use the unseemly language which the House had heard. The Premier, though, according to Conservative example, he might have claimed credit for the enhanced price of wheat, admitted that the prices of the natural products of the land could not be regulated by tariff. He claimed, however, that the tariff had been revised in such a judicious and fair manner as to give confidence to the people and make it possible for them to take advantage of every opportunity that offers for extending their trade with the world. He quoted very appropriately the statement of Mr. E. Gurney, ex-President of the Toronto Board of Trade, that in a large measure the confidence of business men is attributable to the intelligent treatment of the fiscal question by the Government of the day, which had resulted in the adoption of a tariff which was broad, coherent and consistent. Sir Wilfrid then took up the criticism of Sir Charles Tupper on the question of preferential trade. His answer was that if preferential trade was not a vain idea, and if it was ever to become an accomplished fact, the first step toward the realization of the idea was taken last summer while he was in England in the denunciation of the German and Belgian treaties, which had been sought for years with more zeal than judgment by Sir Charles and his friends. In the old Greek legend, the world was his who should untie the Gordian knot. The Tuppers of those days bruised the skin of their fingers in the attempt to unloose the intricacies of the knot. At last Alexander the Macedonian came and solved the difficulty by simply cutting the knot. The Alexander of our own day had been the Minister of Finance, who had placed the question in this position, that Great Britain had either to denounce the treaties or refuse the offer made by Canada. Sir Wilfrid made an effective point against Sir Charles Tupper by quoting from the prospectus of the British Empire Finance Corporation, at the head of whose directorate the name of Sir Charles Tupper appears, the statement that the recent denunciation of the German and Belgian treaties, removing all restrictions existing upon preferential inter-British trade, would have the effect of developing the enormous and profitable resources hitherto neglected in the colonies, and would throw open new fields for highly remunerative investment. The quotation was enjoyed immensely by the Liberals.

Mr. Chamberlain Quoted.

Sir Wilfrid reiterated what he has said on former occasions, that if ever preferential trade is to become an accomplished fact within the bounds of the empire it can only be on the basis of free trade within the empire, as outlined by Mr. Chamberlain. In his speech at the Canada Club Mr. Chamberlain had said that the true zollverein was free trade throughout the empire, although this involved the imposition of duties against foreign countries, a retrogration from the high principles established in Great Britain, and it was a fit subject for discussion if the colonies would consider it. What gentleman on the other side would consider it on the basis that there should be no customs duties within the empire? Let them say they were willing to give up protection against Great Britain. Further, Mr. Chamberlain said that it was impossible to make even the slightest progress unless protective duties disappeared. Would gentlemen opposite say the same? The answer was given by Sir Charles Tupper himself last session when, in discussing the effect of the 25 per cent. reduction, he said the industries of Canada built up at such an enormous cost, would become paralysed when exposed to that reduction. Again Sir Charles was a false prophet, since never had the mills of Canada been in such full blast. (Hear, hear.) There was a grandeur in Mr. Chamberlain's view of a galaxy of nations, all acknowledging one allegiance and bound together by free trade, to which the Opposition could not rise, and they wished to drag Mr. Chamberlain down to the level of their own paltry ideas. At present preferential trade had to be discussed on the principle of no customs tariff for any part of the Empire. Canada was not ready to give up her customs tariff, and until she was there was no use in hon. gentlemen preaching their doctrine of preferential trade.

The Klondike Railway.

Sir Wilfrid had nothing to say in regard to the Klondike Railway before the debate of Tuesday next except to commend the eulogistic reference to Mr. Sifton. It was the duty of the Government to try to keep that far distant part of this country for our own people. (Hear, hear.) A great change had taken place since last session. Canada had always been able to boast of its blessings, its plains and valleys, forests and fisheries being unequalled, and if the gold discoveries turned out as good as hoped Canada would be one of the foremost gold-producing countries. It had previously been held that gold was a product of the sun, but now it was found in the region of eternal snows, well within the Arctic circle. From the time Jason went in search of the golden fleece to the California rush thousands of men went in search of the golden metal, and it was the duty of the Government to give quick and easy means of communication. Mr. Sifton had personally looked over the ground, and came to the conclusion that the route from the waters of the Stikine River to those of Teslin Lake was the most expeditious.

Mr. W. F. Maclean followed in a vigorous 15 minutes' speech, and Hon. Mr. Foster moved the adjournment of the debate.

The House adjourned at midnight.

LOOKED FOR DEATH

As the Only Means of Relief from Bright's Disease.

But Dodd's Kidney Pills again Proved Their Value—Seven Boxes Cured Mr. McIntosh, Who, it was Thought, Must Die.

THAMESVILLE, Feb. 4.—The residents of Thamesville will zealously enter into the project of erecting a monument to the memory of Dr. Dodd, the discover of Dodd's Kidney Pills. While Dresden can rightfully claim that a very large number of lives have been saved, in that town, by this blessed remedy, yet its splendid work has not been limited to that town. Throughout the western peninsula of Ontario this great medicine is known and used, for experience has proved beyond dispute, that it is the only cure for Bright's Disease, Diabetes, and all other forms of Kidney Disease.

The case of Mr. A. McIntosh, of the Clifford House, Dresden, is well known to the people of Thamesville. It was indeed a marvellous recovery, for few, if any, of our citizens thought he could get better. It was firmly believed that death alone could put an end to his sufferings. Although it was known that Dodd's Kidney Pills had cured many severe cases of Bright's Disease, it was thought the disease had secured too firm a hold in Mr. McIntosh's case for even that medicine to avail against it.

But only one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills was needed to prove that the medicine is just as sure a cure in the worst and most hopeless case, as in the mildest. Before Mr. McIntosh had been using them a week he began to improve. Soon it was seen that he was indeed recovering, and Dodd's Kidney Pills had gained one more splendid victory.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists at fifty cents a box, six boxes for $2.40, or they will be sent on receipt of price by the Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Culture of Vines.

An all important matter in growing vines is to see that they are constantly supplied with sufficient water. Planted as they usually are, in a situation where they are exposed to the sun a major portion of the day, the soil dries out very rapidly, and plenty of water should be given when necessary. In the event of red spiders attacking the foliage of the tender sorts of annuals, a daily syringing will quickly eradicate the pests. To induce a low, bushy growth in annuals, cut the tips of the runners. Hardy vines, such as wistarias, honeysuckles, etc., when not growing too rapidly, can be trimmed with little or no injury.—Woman's Home Companion.

THE ONLY HOPE!

For Victims of Bright's Disease is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Not a day passes on which the newspapers do not record the death of one or more persons from Bright's Disease. Already its victims number hundreds of thousands. Day by day the awful total grows larger. No class is safe from this destroyer.

War and intemperance, with all their miseries and fatalities, are not responsible for as many deaths as have been caused by Bright's Disease. Yet, there is a way of resisting it; of drawing its poisoned fangs, and making it as harmless as a summer breeze. That great medicine, Dodd's Kidney Pills, has cured thousands of the worst cases. It never fails to cure, hopeless as the case may seem.

Would you safely shield your loved ones from the fatal grip of this curse of mankind—Bright's Disease? Then use Dodd's Kidney Pills, the only cure on earth for this disease.

Cracking The Acorns and Blotting Out Prices

These are the days in which people are buying where they can buy cheap. They don't care a fig for commercial ethics. They dote on Bargains. Cheapness captivates them. When once the people are convinced that a store really sells GOOD GOODS CHEAP their patronage is secured. If its prices are at cost, well and good; if below cost, so much the better.

Blotting Out Oak Hall Prices

and writing them down to a fraction of their former selves, is what we are busy doing every day with the Oak Hall Stock. These altered prices speak for themselves. All the price tickets show that Oak Hall Prices are back numbers, although the Clothing is UP-TO-DATE.

FORESTERS' CARNIVAL A GREAT SUCCESS.

THE COSTUMES SURPASSED THOSE OF PREVIOUS YEARS.

Many of the Old Faces Were Missed on the Ice — The Shakespearian Costumes Raised the Standard—The Programme of Races Was Well Carried Out.

The members of Court Peterborough, Canadian Order of Foresters, have, during the past few years, worked up quite a name for themselves through the manner in which the ice carnivals are managed, which take place under their auspices. That of last evening won them still more praise, everything in connection with it passing off in a most satisfactory manner to the big crowd of spectators who witnessed the fun. Although the masqueraders were not as numerous as in previous years, yet the prettiness of the costumes have rarely been surpassed. The innovation introduced by the committee in deciding to offer prizes for the best Shakespearian costumes had the effect of causing the appearance of some strikingly pretty suits on the ice and if next year awards were offered for the best representations of characters from Dumas, it is possible that it would have the effect of raising the standard of the costumes still higher. As it was there were some very attractive suits of French design on the rink.

After the spectators had been given an opportunity to examine the costumes, the prizes were awarded and the programme of races was run off, and proved very interesting. The event which called for the most attention was probably the mile race for men, in which Bell of town, and McGuire of Havelock, were the principal contestants, although three others entered. The contest between these two well known fliers was very close, but both fell in the tenth lap, and McGuire getting his feet more quickly than his opponent, who was somewhat hurt by his fall, was able to win the victory. Bell is anxious to have another race with Havelock's "McCulloch." The other races all proved very interesting.

MR. STRATTON'S SECOND MEETING .. AT ENNISMORE.

A Big Gathering at O'Reilly's School House.

A MOST SUCCESSFUL MEETING.

Mr. Stratton Scores Mr. Garvin—The Opposition Misrepresentations Exposed—Assertions without Proof Condemned by Speaker and Audience—Mr. Stratton's Crushing Reply.

The meeting in Mr. Stratton's interest at O'Reilley's school house, Ennismore, repeated the features that have distinguished all of his meetings in this campaign. The attendance has been larger than on any previous election occasion. Mr. Garvin, the Opposition candidate, was present, accompanied by Mr. John Green and Mr. Andrew McNeil of Peterborough, the former of whom was the centre of the hurrah element that has been a prominent feature of the Opposition campaign a policy of brag and bluster, and a reflection of the style of the candidate, whose unreasoning rant, largely devoid of fact and argument—is chiefly composed of sound and fury—the grossest exaggeration of statement, accompanied by feigned indignation, is associated with the greatest violence of voice and gesture, and ends in everything charged against the Government, whether it be great or small, being described as the "iniquitous" something. Last night Mr. Garvin denounced the Minister of Education as an autocrat, and charged him with decapitating officials, and Mr. Garvin had two or three gory heads rolling round the platform at a great rate, and lashed himself into a fury, which some might be deluded into believing, was real and earnest. But it did not take many words from Mr. Stratton to disclose the facts of the case and put the truth before the audience.

The chair was occupied by Mr. Michael Perdue, who pointed out that as the meeting was convened to discuss questions relating to the Province, county and the township, Ennismore had a grievance which they would like to have dealt with and that was the Mud Lake bridge. In the past grants had not been so greatly needed as in the present. The township had needed grants to the roads leading to the bridge more than to the bridge, and Mr. Stratton

HAD NOT FORGOTTEN ENNISMORE.

Last year he had got a grant of $350, which was a great boon to the township in the matter of improving the roads, and he was always actively working for the best interests of his constituents. (Applause).

Dr. McGrath, of Peterborough, spoke briefly. He did not come prepared to make a speech, and he would simply say that in his opinion Mr. Stratton was the best representative the riding ever had, and he believed that Ennismore on this occasion would repeat the confidence it had reposed in him in the past. He referred to the doings of the Ontario Government, and the fair treatment that had always been given to all classes. The legislation was just, the financial management was honest, the administration of the laws was satisfactory. Then why change a Government tried and good for an Opposition who only find fault without offering anything nearly so good? He hoped Ennismore would repeat her record on March 1st, and give Mr. Stratton a rousing majority. (Cheers.)

Mr. Garvin, who was received with applause by his friends, led by Mr. John Green, who acted as guide and leader, of the hand clappers, referred to the alleged increase of expenditure since Sandfield Macdonald's time, and pointed out that if elected to power, Mr. Whitney would cut down the officials that had increased so largely under the present Government, and all supplies for public institutions would be bought by tender. He asserted that Sandfield Macdonald had maintained all the public institutions at much less cost than at present, and he pointed out that in one year the present Government had cut down the expense by $30,000. The old and often exploded story about the public accounts was repeated and the expense of Government House was denounced the great things the Opposition had done in this regard were spoken of. In speaking of what he called useless officials Mr. Garvin mentioned the appointment of Mr. Houston as instructor of Teachers' Institutes, a useless office, which the teachers didn't call for, and Mr. Garvin said that there should be only one inspector for public institutions and he condemned the appointment of Mr. Noxon.

Reference was also made to the appropriations to railways as bribes, as were also the grants for a new Normal School and Asylum. Of course he denounced the Minister of Education and declared that he was an autocrat and irresponsible. Mr. Whitney would give an advisory board of "experts" which would control the patronage of the Department. There were too many teachers and the young teachers crowded out out the more experienced teachers who had Normal School training, and Mr. Garvin asserted that Mr. Ross had such a "thick head" that he did not devise a remedy. The piggery branch of the Opposition policy was handled and the usual exaggerated statements made. The old story about the timber being sold and the absurd theory of investing the money from sales for the benefit of posterity was advanced, and thus we would escape direct taxation, which was now imminent. The Government to avert this "time-worn" calamity were imposing succession duties and absorbing the license funds. The school book question was dealt with in the usual unfair way—comparing a cheap novel to a well-made school book. He also referred to the County Councils Act as another "iniquitous" piece of legislation. Mr. Garvin had exceeded the hour allotted to him and transgressed the decencies of public discussion by continuing. He advanced from the platform towards the audience and lashed himself into a fury in an attempt to rouse religious feelings by an inflammatory appeal to sectarian feeling. He asked, in a voice of thunder, what party it was that deprived Manitoba of its Separate Schools? It was not himself (Mr. Garvin). He was the hottest opponent of D'Alton McCarthy in Simcoe.

MR. STRATTON'S ADDRESS.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Stratton declared that in the whole course of twelve years he had never once appealed to the religious feelings of Ennismore, either Roman Catholic or Protestant, and he appealed to his audience to say whether he had ever done so?

An elector—You never did.

But in the last campaign, when the notorious Margaret L. Shepherd was fanning the fires of bigotry, he (Mr. Stratton) as he was compelled to do in other campaigns, had to defend the minority against these wicked and malicious attacks. Who was Mr. Garvin that he should be a champion of the cause of the minority? He was a noble champion! What was his record? He had been identified and was at this moment identified with the party that in the past four or five election campaigns had made a dead set on Separate Schools and the dearest rights of Roman Catholics, while the party with which he (Mr. Stratton) was identified, had defended these rights because they governed the Province on the principle of meting out even-handed justice to all classes. He, a champion of the minority! He, the bitter enemy of D'Alton McCarthy! Why did he hate D'Alton McCarthy? Because McCarthy stood between Mr. Garvin and his political ambition. While Mr. McCarthy represented Simcoe Mr. Garvin thought he had no chance, and when the field was clear, Simcoe, Mr. Garvin's native county, where he was born, reared and best known, wouldn't have him for he tried at two conventions and was thrown down by big majorities He the champion of the religious minority? When the notorious Margaret L. Shepherd was parading the streets of Peterborough with her brass bands and slandering the priesthood and sisterhood of the Roman Catholic Church with unspeakably filthy slander, this noble champion of the minority was secretly working hand in glove with the party under whose auspices and in whose interests this was conducted, and boasting, as he boasted at his nomination convention, of voting for their candidate. He a champion! Hypocrisy and cheek could not go further. (Cheers.) Mr. Stratton pointed out that there had been no increase of officials as Mr. Garvin charged. There had been some officials appointed to see that the public institutions were properly managed, and Mr. Noxon, a capable and excellent man, was one of these, and Mr. Noxon was hated because he investigated and exposed the corrupt management of the Kingston and St. Vincent de Paul penitentiaries, under the management of the late government, the party Mr. Garvin supported, without a murmur of complaint at the reckless mismanagement of these institutions. (Cheers.) As to Government House, that was built under Sandfield Macdonald, and Mr. Carnegie voted for it. Mr. Garvin should know the facts and not deceive the electors. He should know that Mr. Stratton was a member of a committee to reduce the expense of Government House, and he should have been honest enough to tell the people that arrangements had been made for disposing of the property, building a cheaper residence and devoting the balance to a fund to maintain Government House. But Mr. Garvin wouldn't give the facts because it would be against him. Mr. Garvin said there was no chance to investigate public accounts. What were the facts? In 1807, at the request of the Opposition, basketsful of accounts were brought before the committee, and the Opposition never looked at them. These people are talking "guff with the hope that even if there is nothing in it, some of it will stick. Mr. Stratton exposed the absurdity of Mr. Garvin's charge that the grants to railways made last session were bribes. It was the policy of the present Government, and had been of every government of the province, to aid railways to develop the new country, to help settlers to get their products to market, and this was the object of giving a grant for the extension of the Irondale & Bancroft Railway. The grant to the James Bay Railway was voted for by Mr. Whitney and his colleagues, and yet this gigantic intellect we had here to-night sets up his judgment against the leaders of his party who voted unanimously for the grant (cheers). Bribery! The James Bay Railway tapped a new country where there were very few settlers, no elections and no voting. Where could the bribery be? Yet that was the "rot" Mr. Garvin put before intelligent electors (cheers). Now as to Mr. Garvin's Advisory Board of experts for the Minister of Education. This Board, according to Mr. Garvin's reasoning, would dictate to the people and say they should not hire teachers under 21 years of age - that they

and that they couldn't employ a neighbour's boy or girl, though a graduate of the Model School and perfetly qualified, because he or she hadn't reached 21 years. He, Mr. Stratton, would retain our facilities for educating teachers and he could trust the good sense of trustees to make a proper choice (cheers). Mr. Garvin's scheme was absurd, unworkable and he (Mr. Stratton) had never heard Mr. Whitney say anything along that line. Mr. Whitney voted at one time against a Minister of Education and another time for a Minister of Education—flopping around like Mr. Garvin was to-night (cheers). Mr. Stratton denied that Mr. Garvin was right in saying that $1,000 was paid for the lot for the Humber piggery, when lots all round it could be bought for $20. While Mr. Garvin wasn't a very worthy champion of another kind, he was the champion — well, mis-stater. He would, without a blush, make statements he couldn't prove. Mr. Garvin was the most brazen falsifier he (Mr. Stratton) had met in twelve years of campaigning. He defied Mr. Garvin to give proof that the lots could be bought for $20, and he would give him a chance right there.

[A pause ensued, and Mr. Garvin gave no sign, no proof.]

"He won't do it," Mr. Stratton said, "because he can't. He can't do it for the statement is false. (Cheers.) And yet this gentleman, who doesn't know the first elements of even pig-sty politics, and can't tell the straight truth, asks you to elect him help replace a government that in a course of 26 years has served every interest of the country and spent eighty nine millions of dollars in the people's interest without a dollar of crooked expenditure or a single charge of financial wrong-doing."

Mr. Stratton then went on to explain the piggery matter, and said that Mr. St. John, its author, was now fighting for his political life in West York, over the ass he made of himself. Mr. Stratton explained the discharge of the principal of Upper Canada College, which Mr. Garvin said was a crime—he was one of the greatest educators of the province (Mr. Garvin had had three greatest educators.) This gentleman was asked to resign because he was behind the times and had outlived his usefulness; an up-to-date man was appointed and now the college was flourishing. Mr. Garvin had said in regard to the County Councils Act, no one had asked for the change. Mr. Stratton said the House was flooded with petitions asking that County Councils should be made cheaper. The Act passed and if it did not work well it would be improved. He himself had been in favour of having the Act apply only to councils of over 21 members. He had not thought the County Council of Peterborough was too large. But a general law would always produce a little local friction, and it only needed experience to show defects and these would be remedied, and he believed that the County Councils Act would work out all right in the end. Ennismore had never suffered and might in time be satisfied that an Act that largely reduced the expenditure would be in the general interests of the people. Mr. Garvin, in his anxiety for the County Councils Act forgot the bridge, as he had forgot it at the Town Hall meeting till his memory was jogged. Mr. Garvin's heart was bursting with love for Ennismore, and yet he forgot his biggest card at his last meeting, although the chairman to-night had specially reminded him of it. Mr. Garvin promised to rebuild the Chemong bridge, as he would promise or say anything to be elected. He had charged Mr. Stratton with bribing the electors with colonization road money. Mr. Stratton appealed to the chairman, and asked him if the colonization road money in Ennismore had not been better expended and better value received than the average money spent by municipal councils.

The Chirman—Yes.

Mr. Stratton said he had never heard of a case where municipal funds were spent to greater advantage than Government funds. Mr. Garvin would turn over this money to the municipalities, but the Government was responsible for the expenditure of the funds it provided. Mr. Garvin had accused Mr. Stratton of bribing the electors, but Mr. Stratton said if he could put a good case before the Government and get money for the necessary improvements for the roads of Ennismore or any other township, he was going to do it, and he had done it. (Cheers.) Mr. Stratton referred to the bridge matter and spoke substantially as he did at the Town Hall the night before. He would make no promises, but would do his best to help the bridge in the interests of Ennismore, of the back country and of the town of Peterborough and the County of Peterborough at large. Mr. Stratton, referring to the obligation of the Dominion Government to give some assistance, on account of the Buckhorn dam raising the water, asked if the township wished to send a man to interview the Government, would they send Mr. Garvin or himself? (Cheers.) In dealing with the charge of increased expenditure in public institutions, Mr. Stratton said that Mr. Garvin was, as usual, dishonest and unfair. There were a large number of public institutions maintained now in the interests of the people that were not in existence in Sandfield Macdonald's time. Mr. Stratton justified the expenditure, and showed that if it was increased it tended to directly lessen local taxation, and he referred to the $788,000 that had been returned to Peterborough for important services. Mr. Stratton asked was that fair or honest dealing with the electors to compare expenditures under such conditions. Mr. Garvin might complain if he could show any country in the world where public institutions were managed as cheaply as in Ontario, or where better value was given for the money. But, said Mr. Garvin, you are robbing the people of the licenses. Ennismore had not been robbed of much license money for there was not a single license in the township. Mr. Garvin and Mr. Whitney were going to buy supplies by tender and Mr. Stratton pointed out that supplies articles that could be bought. Sixteen classes of articles were bought by tender now and there were many articles that couldn't be bought by tender like postage stamps, railway tickets, etc., etc. On the recommendation of Inspector Langmuir Sandfield Macdonald abolished the unworkable system and adopted that now in use. Mr. Garvin charged that twenty-three million dollars worth of timber had been squandered. Mr. Stratton showed that nearly twenty-two million dollars had been realized on Crown lands and the Government had spent on services that represented a return of money to the people over sixty-one million (cheers). Mr. Stratton explained the school book matter satisfactorily and exposed Mr. Garvin's unfairness in using two sets of books for comparison to delude the people. Mr. Stratton concluded by pointing out that he had represented the riding for 12 years, and there was not a Conservative but knew that he would get even handed justice from him and the government he supported. (Cheers.) He referred briefly to the cries that had been raised by the party Mr. Garvin was supporting a party that had contended that Ontario was at the "mercy of Rome." But that party wished to forget that cry now. They were ashamed of it, and many men who had been honest and had been led astray by such false cries had only condemnation for the leaders that had deceived them. Mr. Stratton concluded his address, which had been heartily received, amidst enthusiastic applause.

Mr. Austin, the Liberal candidate for Victoria, who had come over after his meeting across the boundary, briefly addressed the meeting and expressed his surprise that after twelve years of capable representation, which the speaker knew of, he should need, except as an act of courtesy, to come before the people. If the representatives of other ridings had shown the same interest and had tried as hard to serve their ridings we should have a model Parliament and the bitterness of party feeling, which Mr. Stratton had done so much to remove, would not interfere so largely with the best interests of the country. (Cheers.)

Mr. M. H. Quinlan, chairman of the Separate School Board, Peterborough, spoke a few pertinent words. He felt honoured in coming to Ennismore with Mr. Stratton, who supported a Government that meted out even-handed justice to all classes. (Cheers.) He had known Mr. Stratton for years and had always found him the same, ever ready to be affable and obliging to friend and foe. Mr. Garvin complained of the Government increasing officials and yet he was going to have Mr. Whitney establish an Advisory Board of "experts." Would these "experts" serve without money, and was it consistent to condemn one government for doing what he proposed to do himself. (Cheers.) In regard to the age of teachers, Mr. Quinlan, as a member of a School Board, thought that the matter would be better placed in the hands of trustees, who had to pay the salaries, than in the hands of Mr. Garvin's experts, who would or could know nothing about local needs and circumstances. Mr. Quinlan's apt and telling remarks were received with loud cheers.

The meeting closed with thanks to the chairman, and hearty cheers for the Queen and Mr. Stratton. Mr. Garvin's friends in the audience also greeted him with cheers.

TROUBLE WITH THE NEW STAMPS.

Post Office People Find it Difficult to Distinguish the Denominations.

The post office authorities have not yet got used to the new stamps of recent issue and do not at all appreciate the change from the clear and distinct one and three cent Canadian stamps to the dimly coloured stamps of the new issue. Postmaster Rogers says that although they are getting more accustomed to them now, they still hinder the work of stamping and distribution owing to the fact that all letters bearing the new stamp have to be subjected to a close examination to see if the proper amount of postage has been put on. The obscurity of the figures on the new issue makes it difficult to tell the denomination of the stamp on the letter without a great deal of extra care, and it would be quite an easy matter for a letter bearing a stamp whose denomination is too small to be overlooked. However, the eyes of the sorters at the post office are becoming accustomed to the change now, and hereafter the same difficulty will not be experienced.

REGISTER! REGISTER!

Registration under the Manhood Registration Act begins next Monday morning at ten o'clock at the places mentioned in the details of information printed on the second page of this issue. Mr. Stratton's supporters are urged to prompt action—those not on the voters' list for municipal elections or elections to the Legislative Assembly, to go personally and register, and Mr. Stratton's friends are urged to see that all entitled to register are reminded of this duty. Remember only three days and one night are available for the purposes of registration and no effort should be spared that will conduce to the registration of every name that should be on the list.

Mr. Garvin and his friends are whistling lustily to keep their courage up. They are claiming great victories in advance—about the only victory they will enjoy.

Bluster, boast, brag, bravado, bluff and misrepresentation are not argument. This is the amunition of the Opposition in this campaign. The intelligent electors know a thing or two as well as Mr. Garvin.

At the Town Hall, Ennismore, Mr. Garvin's heart was bursting with love for Ennismore, and he was bristling with interest in the new bridge across the lake. Yet, though reminded by the chairman, and practically requested to say something about it, he fought shy of it last night at O'Reilly's, as he does of the truth. Mr. Garvin, buncombe politics won't wear. You are too transparent; the electors can see through you.

The Opposition seem to take great comfort out of Mr. Garvin's attendance at Mr. Stratton's meetings—then there's more comfort than profit. Organized howling is not counted by the returning officer. It is votes only that count. Give us the votes, and Mr. Garvin is welcome to the howlers and heelers.

Mr. Garvin's inflammatory attempts to arouse religious animosities in a mixed audience of Roman Catholics and Protestants would hardly be repeated.

Frantic claims of success unsupported like Mr. Garvin's, are the surest signs of weakness.

One good vote is better than a thousand howls. Manufactured enthusiasm won't pass inspection.

Mr. Garvin needs an Advisory Board more than the Minister of Education.

If the electors were only to believe what Mr. Garvin proves on the stump, they would be downright infidels.

THE old proverb speaks of truth being down a well. Mr. Garvin has evidently lost his bucket.

"What Headaches Mean."

The dreadful headaches which women suffer mean nineteen times out of twenty that there is more trouble than headache.

There is probably some unhealthy condition of the delicate organism of womanhood and often added to this the digestive functions are out of order; these two conditions cause nearly all the headaches from which women suffer.

There are two great remedies specially adapted to these ailments invented by the chief consulting physician of the famous Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. R. V. Pierce. His world-renowned "Favorite Prescription" is the most successful medicine ever known for the cure of distinctly feminine ailments and his "Golden Medical Discovery" is the one supremely effective cure for digestive difficulties.

Taken in conjunction they completely rejuvenate the nervous system of weak and debilitated women; giving health, strength and capacity to the nerve-centers; renewed power to the blood-making glands and energetic force to the entire body.

A lady living in Coshocton Co., Ohio, Mrs. W. T. Stanton, of Bluefield, writes: "I had female weakness very bad for nearly three years. Had dragging down pains in and above my hips and such dreadful pains in the back and top of my head (just as though someone was lifting me by the hair). Had no ambition, would try to work a few days then would have to lie in bed for a long time. No tongue can express the suffering I endured. I had much pain at monthly periods. I doctored most of the time with as good a physician as there is in the state, but had no ease only when I was quiet and off my feet and then I had more or less pain in my head. When I began taking Dr. Pierce's medicines I weighed 105 pounds, and was very pale and weak. I took twelve bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' and seven of the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Now I feel like a different person. Have no pain in my head, can do all my work for self, husband and one child; am gaining in flesh. I feel it is through God's mercy and your wonderful medicines that I am cured."

Where constipated conditions exist Dr. Pierce's mild and agreeable "Pleasant Pellets" should be occasionally used in connection with the "Prescription."

VICTORY IN THE AIR.

Additional Nominations Made—Mr. Marter to Oppose Dr. Dewart—Progress of the Campaign.

Toronto, Feb. 5.—North Toronto is the first of the city constituencies to have its candidates facing each other, Mr. Marter having been renominated last evening to oppose Dr. Dewart, whom the Liberals had nominated the evening before. While Mr. Marter was being nominated his popular and energetic opponent was already holding an enthusiastic and highly successful meeting not many blocks away.

Dr. Dewart's nomination in North Toronto has given great satisfaction to the Liberals in that constituency, and yesterday they were all talking victory and getting in line for the fight.

Other nominations yesterday were Dr. Coughlin by the Conservatives of East Wellington, and Mr. Walter Beatty, ex-M.P.P., renominated by the Conservatives of Leeds.

Mr. E. A. Macdonald has also announced himself as an independent candidate in East Toronto, and by the retirement of Dr. Channonhouse, North Renfrew will have a straight fight between Henry Barr, Liberal, and Thomas White, Conservative.

NEWS FROM PARIS.

Novelties In the Way of Skirts Preparing In the French Metropolis.

The plain skirt has held sway for so long that trimmed skirts seem quite a new thing. There is great reluctance to abandon plain ones, however, and they still hold their own, the most renowned dressmakers showing many new models of costumes in which the skirt is left plain.

Although there are a number of different shapes in skirts, all are alike in respect of being tight at the top, in front and over the hips and full at the back. This fullness is sometimes gathered, sometimes plaited. The latest type of skirt touches the ground in front and at the sides, and, alas, drags slightly behind. It is a pity that this pretty but untidy fashion is coming in again for out of door skirts.

A novelty is the skirt which consists of a sort of tight yoke, extending downward half the length of the skirt, in which the rest of the garment is mounted in the form of a deep flounce or plaiting, which is headed by a band of fur, embroidery or passementerie. Sometimes the lower edge of the yoke is exactly horizontal, sometimes it is a trifle lower in front.

There is a revival of the skirt opening over a tablier of a different color or material. The tablier may be plain, but is often decorated most elaborately with embroidery or other flat trimming. It is usually framed at the sides by bands of fur or passementerie.

The picture given in today's issue illustrates an evening gown which has a skirt of amethyst silk poplin of a light shade. It has a slight train and is edged with a band of black ostrich feathers. At the top, in front, is a motif of gold and green passementerie over dark amethyst velvet. The blouse bodice of amethyst velvet has a round decolletage, and is adorned in front with a large motif of gold and green passementerie. There are tight, wrinkled sleeves of amethyst mousseline de soie, with small velvet puff at the top. The belt is of velvet. JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Disfiguring "Make Up."

So long as we indulge in the barbarism of footlights some strengthening of the points of the face may be needful. It is indeed an excellent thing when deftly done and the material causes of the effect entirely hidden, as they should be. The clarity of a whiter tint to the general tone of the skin, the illumination of eye and teeth by emphasizing the brow and lashes and lips, the heightening of the color—all these things can be so done as to disguise the means by which they are done. What is the method actually pursued? White is laid all over face and shoulders in thick washes, like a Pierrot's mask, masses of black pomade load the eyebrows and eyelashes, great gobs of red are put upon the ear lobes and on and around the lips like a snapdragon, deep pink in and below the nostrils and on the eyelids and masses of black or purple beneath the eyes, projecting to the temples in arrowheads.

All these things are perfectly visible to a large part of the audience and are disfiguring even at a distance. With an opera glass they are shocking. The objects which are obtained are the goggling of the eyes, which can be thrown about with the intensity of a darky's, and the display of the ivories, which produce a similar effect to his. For passion to show itself in such plastered faces, for waves of emotion to spread over them and for any refinement of feeling to communicate itself to the audience are as impossible as it would be to expect these things from the painted canvas. They cannot cry, of course, nor touch, nor be touched, without disaster. Ellen Terry played a disfiguring scene here one night, with the water streaming from an eye into which her loaded eyelashes had discharged themselves.—Time and the Hour.

AFTER YEARS OF AGONY

A Windsor Citizen Finds Relief, Strength and Health.

Windsor, Jan. 31.—The talk of the town for some days has been the astonishing case of John M. McDonald, of 150 Langlois Ave. For years past he has been a martyr to Rheumatism and Dropsy, which defied the skill of physicians and the power of medicine, until he lost hope completely. Recently Mr. McDonald bought a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and began using them.

Words fail to express the surprise and delight of the patient, his family and friends, when after a few days use of the Pills, he began to mend.

Continued use of Dodd's Kidney Pills has cured him completely. To-day Windsor has no healthier, stronger citizen.

Don't Go On.

Is He a Gay Deceiver?

Buffalo, N.Y., Feb. 4.—C. H. Hampton, a saloonkeeper of this city, but who previous to entering that business was a commercial traveler, having occasion from time to time to cross the border on business, was arrested last night and placed behind the bars, on complaint of Mrs. C. A. Cuthbertson, a comely Canadian widow, who charges him with exacting sums of money from her until the entire amount reached between $9,000 and $3,500. Report is to the effect that at the widow's solicitation Hampton quit traveling, and with $1,000, furnished by Mrs. Cuthbertson, established the saloon in question. Mrs. Cuthbertson says Hampton misappropriated her loans. Hampton denies the charge, and says he can establish his innocence.

Foul play is suspected.

HUMAN SACRIFICES

On the Altar of Diabetes, Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

Hardly a family in the country is free from Diabetes. Great thirst, failing sight, numbness in the thighs, bleeding gums, swollen ankles, emaciation, nervousness, pale or turbid urine, loss of sexual power, decaying teeth, pains in the loins or small of the back, are all positive signs that Diabetes is in the system.

Do you know how it ends? IN DEATH. A premature, horrible, agonized, pitiful death. The victim has no peace, no ease in life. His days are filled with tortures. His nights are waking dreams of agony. He longs to die, yet fears the terrors of his end. He dies, a bloated, fetid, repulsive mass of corruption. That is the only end of unchecked Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it. They drive it out of the system thoroughly, create new, clean blood, rebuild the diseased kidneys, and restore robust health.

THE MOON AND I.

A golden moon that leans her gentle face
On the blue darkness of the summer sky—
We watched her steal aloft a little space,
My love and I.

Parting the opal clouds, upward she rose
To wander lonely mid the stars on high.
We thought our world as bright as one of those,
My love and I.

Dear love, the moonlight smote your rippling hair
And made you smile you knew not how nor why.
My heart beat strangely as we lingered there,
My love and I.

I asked her, fooled by the bewildering light,
If she would try to love me by and by.
She rose and left me. I stood in the night,
The moon and I.
—A. Matheson in Good Words.

THE SPORTS OF LONG AGO.

They Were Substantially the Same as Those of the Present Day.

The boys and girls of the present day who become enthusiastic over some new sport and boast that their particular "club" has the very "newest thing out" would be surprised if they could discover how closely many of the old time pastimes resemble our own.

The Eskimos of the frozen north, the Tupinambras of the Brazilian pampas, the gamins of the Paris streets, the boys and girls of London, of Boston and of Philadelphia, have one kindred tie—the love of sport. There is nothing new under the sun, said the wise man, and especially is there nothing new in youthful games.

Archæologists have found dolls in Egyptian pyramids and on prehistoric tombs; the name of a popular ball club was found scrawled upon the outer walls of Pompeiian houses, and one of the most exciting matches on record was the one stubbornly fought between the rival nines of Montezuma, king of Mexico, and Nezahual-pilli, 'txin of Tescuco.

The boys of ancient Greece and Rome played at whip top, and quoits, and baseball, and pitch penny, and blindman's buff, and hide and seek, and jackstones, and follow my leader, just as do the boys of today. The girls were experts at seesaw, and swinging, and dancing, and grace hoops, and dice throwing, and ball play, and, in Sparta, even at running, wrestling and leaping. Tobogganing is as old as ice and snow, and when you play at cherry pits you are only doing what Nero and Commodus and young Themistocles did ages ago in Rome and in Athens.

So, whatever the age or whatever the clime, boys and girls of the world have always lived more for play than for anything else, and however harsh or hard their surroundings, however stern or strict their fathers and their mothers, they always found and always made the most of the time for play.

Said a critic recently on the subject of recreation, "The sports of the day are fast reducing themselves into so many sciences, overweighted with rules and restrictions that often take the real play element from them and make them as unyielding as a problem in algebra."

There is no fun in making our sport a matter of life and death. I know growing people who in these days of prize giving in all manner of games center their whole desires not on the fun of the game, but on the prizes offered. They really seem as much disappointed if they do not carry off a trophy as if they had met with some serious loss. Let us take our fun with a jollity or not at all. Interest is one thing and irritability is quite another.

We have only to watch the intense excitement of some of the amateur players in popular games to realize that the critic was right about that algebra problem. The complaint of "unfairness" on one side and of disagreeable triumph on another seem to be the most noticeable features at the close of the sports of today, and we cannot help wondering if this was a feature of the games of olden times or if in this respect the young people of the present really have "something new."—Philadelphia Times.

Father Ryan.

No American poet has given clearer proof of the possession of poetic genius of a rare order than Father Ryan. Certainly no poet has achieved a more enduring fame and secured a warmer place in the hearts of the people of the south than the "poet priest." He is distinctively known as the poet of the "lost cause"—as the bard whose harp sings so sweetly and so pathetically the requiem of a brave and a proud people over the grave wherein their hopes and aspirations have been buried by the mysterious dispensation of an almighty and all wise Providence. This fact puts Father Ryan in a unique place, separated from any other American poet of his time. As to the high intrinsic literary value of the majority of his poems, of the genuineness of his poetic faculty and the excellence of his gift of song there can be no manner of doubt.—Alkahest.

The camel is a beast of great strength and endurance. Nothing hurts it until the proverbial "last straw" is added to its burden. The human digestive system is very much like a camel. It is really astonishing how much abuse it will stand. Sometimes, however, something worse than usual will be eaten, and will go through the stomach into the bowels, and there it will stick—that's constipation. Nine-tenths of all human sickness is due to constipation. Some of the simplest symptoms are coated tongue and foul breath, dizziness, heartburn, flatulence, sallowness, distress after eating, headaches and lassitude. A little thing will cause constipation, and a little thing will relieve it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a certain cure for constipation. They are tiny sugar-coated granules, mild and natural in their action. There is nothing injurious about them. Sold by druggists. The Latest Ways of Making and Trimming Gowns and Bodices.

The blouse form of bodice, both for gowns and wraps, was greeted with such enthusiasm and has met with such unqualified success that it is likely to last all winter and into the spring, if not longer. The chief drawback—besides its unbecomingness to full figures—is that it is being run into the ground. It appears literally everywhere, from ball gowns to dressing jackets, from street wraps to morning gowns. Every effort is being made to vary it, and the different styles of sleeve caps, belts, vests, revers and collars really afford a wide range of choice.

Tailor made costumes are very simple and but slightly trimmed. They are well represented, as usual, for the style is so practical, neat and becoming that it has a permanent place in general favor from which it cannot be dislodged by any art of the restless minded modiste. Tailor made costumes of red, blue or green cloth are trimmed with military braid in exact imitation of an officer's uniform as a new and striking effect, and it is certainly striking, although not so new that it has not appeared from time to time in seasons long gone by. Exceedingly narrow bands of satin, stitched on both edges, are likewise employed to cover seams and to design motifs on the back and sleeves of the bodice.

Mother Hubbard gowns, so much used for little girls of all ages, are to be seen less frequently in Paris for children over 6 years old, although for younger ones they are still the favorite style. Sailor costumes, which introduce the inevitable blouse, are superseding the Mother Hubbard for girls from 6 to 12 years old.

The sketch shows a costume of rose moire, the skirt being trimmed around the foot by two narrow ruffles of black mousseline de soie headed by bands of sable. The fitted bodice has a plastron of guipure framed by a ruffle of black mousseline with a sable heading. The basque consists of a mousseline ruffle, the plain sleeves are of moire and the belt is of black satin with long, rounded ends. The black velvet capote is trimmed with a green velvet chou, a paste buckle and black plumes.

Morals and Sex.

Whatever the Turveydrops of the moral world may have to say about the necessity for elevating moral deportment on the part of "wooman, bewitching wooman," I have never been able to see any indubitable intent in nature herself toward binding them over to any higher moral standards than she does men. Both men and women seem to me to be compounded of the same average morality, though with certain unlike manifestations, largely the result of circumstances and opportunities.

I see no special cause for believing that the average woman under like temptation would do very differently from the average man—a belief which is not lessened by Bishop Potter's recent accusation before the women's auxiliary of the Civil Service Reform association that they put their relatives into office whenever they get the chance, "without any evidence that they are fitted to fill the places they applied for." Possibly women were intended by their Creator to stand for the reformatory interests of life, but I think there is not as yet sufficient evidence thereto, either in the nature of things or of women, to warrant any special abrogation of other distinct and more familiar duties in favor of interests mainly moral.—Helen Watterson Moody in Scribner's.

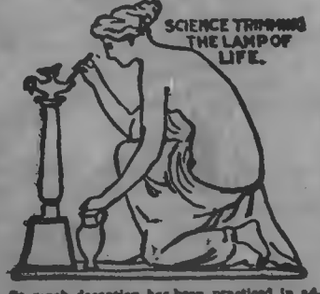
HEALTH AND ENERGY ASSURED. HAPPY MARRIAGE, GOOD TEMPER, LONG LIFE.

In all the world to-day—in all the history of the world—no doctor nor institution has treated and restored so many men as has the famed ERIE MEDICAL CO. of Buffalo, N. Y.

This is due to the fact that the company controls some inventions and discoveries which have no equal in the whole realm of medical science.



So much deception has been practiced in advertising that this grand old company now for the first time makes this startling offer:—

They will send their costly and magically effective appliance and a whole month's course of restorative remedies, positively on trial without expense to any honest and reliable man!

Not a dollar need be advanced—not a penny paid—till results are known to and acknowledged by the patient.

The Erie Medical Company's appliance and remedies have been talked about and written about all over the world, till every man has heard of them.

They restore or create strength, vigor, healthy tissue and new life.

They quickly stop drains on the system that sap the energy.

They cure nervousness, despondency and all the effects of evil habits, excesses, overwork, etc.

They give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Failure is impossible and age is no barrier.

This "Trial without Expense" offer is limited by the company to a short time, and application must be made at once.

No C. O. D. scheme, no bogus philanthropy nor deception of any measure—a clean business proposition by a company of high financial and professional standing.

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, BUFFALO, N. Y., and refer to seeing the notice and of their offer in this paper.

A Handsome Gown.

A handsome gown made in Berlin is thus described: "The skirt of a mouse gray reception toilet was of figured moire, decorated with an apronlike arrangement of openwork embroidery, the rosettes and flowers being made very plastic by means of a thick underlining, which permits the delicate shade of the satin lining to shimmer through. The waist was similarly arranged with a traverse empiecement of small satin bands, which fell over the jabot of yellow guipure lace. On the neck was a garland of wired points or tabs and white silk gauze ruches. The waist disappeared beneath a belt of gold and silver braid finished with silver rosettes. The leg o' mutton sleeves were in the form of a spiral above, the plaits narrowing in the lower part."

ITCHING ECZEMA

An Editor's Little Son Suffers Terribly. Itching Intense, Face Raw and Bleeding from Constant Scratching. Cured by Cuticura.

My little boy was afflicted with Eczema in acute form for nearly a year, during which time we tried without success every known remedy. The disorder appeared on the right cheek and was of a blistery and bloody form. His pillow, mornings, would bear the bloody imprint of the side of his face, while it was impossible to prevent the little fellow from scratching his face, owing to the intensity of the itching. I was advised to try CUTICURA. The first application was made before putting the child to bed, and the appearance of the affected parts showed a noticeable improvement the next morning. As a result of the continued use of CUTICURA my child has as fair and smooth skin as can be found anywhere.

PETERBOROUGH JUNIORS OUT OF THE RUNNING.

THE FRONTENACS DEFEATED THEM IN KINGSTON.

The Local Boys Made a Hard Fight, but did not Have the Scoring Qualifications to Win, Although Their Combination Work was Good.

The Peterborough Juniors had it "wafted into them" by the Junior (?) Frontenacs again last night at Kingston. The score was 10 to 1.

The local boys, however, should not feel at all discouraged by being beaten, as it was not the junior team of the Frontenacs which they played, but a team of which five of the men are Intermediates and played on the team which defeated Cornwall on Wednesday evening last. Only two of the team are Juniors—the point and the cover-point.

As the Intermediate Frontenacs have played no scheduled O.H.A. games as yet all their men are eligible for the Junior team although it is not of doing things to put them on the ice as juniors now when in a few days they will all be intermediates with the exception of two.

It is too bad that the Juniors ran up against a team of this kind when the chances were considered bright for them to win the championship.

With the development and additional weight which another year will give, the Juniors hope to be able to make a more effective effort to land that championship, which was held here against all comers for so long.

The local team left yesterday morning, and arriving in Kingston early spent the day in driving around and visiting the penitentiary, etc. On arriving at the ice the evening they found that the complaints about the darkness of the rink were but too well founded, the ends especially being thrown so much in the shadow as to completely puzzle the defense men, who were used to playing on Peterborough's well lighted ice.

THE TEAMS.

The teams were composed as follows:—

Frontenac II.		Peterborough II.
Hiscock	goal	Geo Dixon
Hamilton	point	R Glover
Waddel	cover point	R Thorne
Murray	forwards	Chris Graham
Young	forwards	R Watt
Wilson	forwards	Harry King
Cunningham	forwards	W Crossley
Herbert Hall	Umpire

The play in the first half is described as being very fast and of a nature to leave the honours very equally divided, although the Frontenacs had the best of it in the matter of scoring, tallying three goals to Peterborough's one. In the second half the puck was on the Frontenac flags fully as often as it was around the Peterborough citadel, but the Kingston men were better at scoring evidently, as they notched no less than seven points while the Peterboroughs had to be satisfied with knowing that they were playing a good combination game which, however, did not result in any more scoring being done by them.

The local team arrived home this morning.

A Few Doses Gave Permanent Relief.

James Allen, of St. Stephen, N.B., writes "I was troubled with very severe pains in the heart, pain in the side, and shortness of breath. I became completely exhausted with the least exertion. Doctors said my case was a hopeless one. I procured a bottle of Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. A few doses gave me permanent relief, six bottles entirely cured me. To-day I am well." Sold by H. S. All of which is respectfully submitted,
R. SHEEHY,

Moved by Mr. Sheehy and Mr. Hickey, that the wood ordered be paid for on certificate of the Property Committee, when the same shall have been properly measured.—Carried.

The board then adjourned.

John Brown, a G.T.R. veteran, of 2446 Marshall street, Philadelphia, says: "By a mere accident I came across Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. I was a great sufferer from that dread malady—Catarrh. This wonderful remedy effected a speedy and permanent cure in my case, and I have been so thankful for it that I am willing to spend the remainder of my days in spreading the good news to my fellow sufferers. HOCKEY.

Monday evening's match against the Osgoode team promises to be the premier game of the season. Spectators who saw the first match of this series in Toronto on Thursday say that no faster game was ever played in the Queen City. The Victoria rink in which the match took place, is almost the same size as the local ice, being only a trifle wider, so that the Peterborough boys will not have the big advantages which they have hitherto enjoyed over visiting teams, who were accustomed to play on big ice.

The Osgoode seven won from Peterborough by 9 goals to 7. This gives them two goals to the good when they step on the ice here and whether Peterborough can overcome that lead is the question which will draw a big crowd to the rink on Monday to see the decision reached

The Osgoode team is composed almost entirely of the players in the old Toronto Granite team which wrested the championship from the Peterboroughs two years ago and the showing which they make here on Monday will be watched with interest. As there will be a big crowd present, those wishing good seats should be there early.

THE WHEEL.

A meeting of the wheelmen of the town was held in the Victoria Bicycle Club rooms Thursday evening for the purpose of talking over wheeling matters in general and the matter of applying for the July Provincial Meet in particular. All present favoured applying for the meet, but an endeavour will be made to obtain the opinion of more of the wheelmen before a decided step is taken.

Delegates were appointed to the district meeting which Chief Counsel Campbell has called for Monday evening in the Victoria rooms.

CHRISTIAN UNITY.

A Delegation Receives a Most Cordial Welcome by the Knox College Alumni.

The subject of Christian Unity is one in which many of the citizens of Peterborough take considerable interest. A short time ago we published the account of the formation of a society to be known as the Canadian Society of Christian Unity, for the discussion and promotion of unity. The society emnated from a few Anglican clergymen, but it is intended to include all Christian people who believe that at least a greater measure of unity than there at present exists is desirable.

From this society a delegation visited the meeting of the Knox College Alumni on Wednesday, and according to the Globe received a most cordial reception. Rev. C. L. Myles, the first speaker, said they came not as representatives of the Anglican church, but as men who were interested in the formation of a society which had for its object the bringing closer together of the various denominations, and the carrying on of the common work of God in more unity.

Rev. C. H. Shortt spoke more directly of the objects of the C. S. C. U. The society was not yet organized and they came to lay their plans before their Presbyterian brethren and to ask their co-operation.

Principal Caven warmly approved of the objects of the society. The most essential thing was spiritual unity, but this inward unity naturally tended to express itself in an outward unity. He urged the Alumni of Knox to co-operate with these brethren in prayer for the accomplishment of Christian union. He concluded by moving a vote of thanks and sympathy with the movement, which was seconded by Prof. Robinson and unanimously carried.

It is probable that the Victoria University will be visited next week.

A TALK ON TEA, YES, EVERYBODY READ IT

A lady from a village near Peterborough called on us last week and said that she wanted to get some of that fine tea that she had seen advertised in the "DAILY EXAMINER" and sold at the People's Pekoe Tea Store, 338 George street. After critically examining the tea she made a purchase of a quantity and promised to send her friends to buy from us, as she said our tea was clean, beautiful and bright—no dust, no mixing or doctoring—the grades are the very best. Another lady in town says that her mother will not have tea from any other store than ours. She buys the very best Ceylon Tea which cannot be excelled in strength and purity. Another gentleman says what on earth do you do with the large quantity of teas that I see at your establishment. Some of the large chests of Ceylons must be valuable and come up to money; yes, they do but the people soon buy them up. You have a large stock of Canned Goods which would be a credit to any store in town; yes we have, and we are selling 3 for 25c. A prominent party in town offered to take the lot and give us a cheque for the amount, but we promised to give the working people the benefit of this bargain and we are doing it. We have a fine assorted stock of choice Groceries, Teas, Sugars, Spices, Canned Goods, Butter, Lard, and our own raising of Pickled, smoked Salted Hams and Bacon, completely eclipsing anything on the market. We do not destroy the meat with salt or saltpetre, but cure them on the very best methods which are a secret to ourselves. Our own home made Pickles at 10c per bottle, our own Jams, Jellies—pure articles and as prices to suit all. Come to the best, get the best, and save your money by buying at the PEOPLE'S GROCERY, 338 George Street.

THE QUEEN'S SPEECH.

The Cabinet Preparing for the Session.

A CHURCHMAN OF STRONG VIEWS

The New Bishop of London—Mr. Bredon's Appointment—He Is Made Deputy Inspector-General of Chinese Customs, Which Is Satisfactory to England—News by Cable.

London, Feb. 7.—The Cabinet sat on Saturday for two hours. It is presumed the Ministers were engaged in settling finally the terms of the Queen's speech, to be read at the reassembling of Parliament next week, in view of developments since the Council at Osborne on Thursday last.

MR. BREDON'S APPOINTMENT.

He is Made Deputy Inspector-General of Chinese Customs.

London, Feb. 7.—The London correspondent of the New York Evening Post cables his paper as follows:

"One most significant fact, showing the success of England's firm stand in the interests of world-wide free trade, is this morning's news of the appointment by the Tsung-Li-Yamen of Mr. Robert Bredon as Deputy Inspector-General of Customs, at the request of England's representative, Sir Robert Hart. This is the position which Russia has strained every nerve to control, for whoever controls the Chinese customs can, in a hundred ways, if inclined to a policy of exclusion, defeat the elaborate devices of statesmanship as contained in treaties of commerce and the like. Those who should know, say that all the Chinese wiles and attempts to play off Russia against England, and Germany against both, are not likely to result in any other way than an English loan to China, with England's conditions attached, but that if China does get the money elsewhere, England will still insist on the strength of her treaty rights, upon a China open to the world's trade."

Shipping Companies Getting a Move On.

London, Feb. 7.—The shipping companies subsidized to carry the mails to India and the far East have decided to improve the speed of their service. They have suddenly awakened to the fact that the Trans-Siberian railroad will come into competition within a few years. There is not now one steamer engaged in the Anglo-Indian passenger or freight service that is capable of more than fourteen knots. The ordinary rate even of the P. & O. steamers is ten knots. A conference of the leading men in the trade has been arranged. The more farseeing among them declare that they must start building twenty-knot boats without waiting until Russia completes the railroad through Manchuria.

American Firms Get a Contract.

Cairo, Egypt, Feb. 7.—General Sir H. H. Kitchener, Commander-in-Chief of the Egyptian forces, has ordered the construction of several locomotives for the equipment of the Soudan railroad from American firms. The orders were placed with American builders on account of the probable delay in their construction owing to the recent strike of engineers in England.

Another Niger Expedition Massacred.

Akassa, West Coast of Africa, Feb. 7.—It is reported that the Cross River expedition, composed of Niger Coast Protectorate troops, which has been operating in the interior against the Edibe tribes, and which was reported yesterday as having had some severe fighting, Captain Fenton being killed, and Captain Middleton being among the wounded, was massacred while destroying towns about Assay Creek. The Royal Niger Company has sent a force of constabulary to rescue the prisoners.

India's Promising Wheat Crop.

London, Feb. 7.—The Statist says the wheat crop of India promises splendidly. The cutting will begin during the present month, and it will be shipped at the end of March and early in April, "thus immensely benefiting Europe at the time American supplies are low." The Statist further remarks that it is expected Australia will be in a position to export a great deal more wheat than expected.

A Very "Broad"-Minded Prelate.

London, Feb. 7.—Dr. Creighton, the new Bishop of London, is attracting attention in various ways by an orginality of mind and frankness of speech which was not expected of him. While smoking endless cigarettes he receives interviewers, tells them that a bishop has the most useless, stupid, and depressing job in the world, and derides the intellectual and temperamental defects of the Anglican clergy as surely no mitred man has ever done before. One thing he has done about which views sharply differ. The Rev. Steward Headlam was disciplined 20 years ago for preaching a sermon in favor of ballot dancing, and when, eleven years ago, he founded the Church and Stage Guild, Bishop Temple took his license away. Bishop Creighton has now restored it.

GERMANS CALL IT LOUSE.

San Jose Scale Prohibited From Entering the Fatherland—The Decree.

Berlin, Feb. 7.—The Reichsanzeiger Saturday evening published the text of an Imperial ordinance worded as follows:

"In order to prevent the introduction of the San Jose shield louse, the importation of living plants and fresh plant refuse from America, also barrels and boxes and other objects used in the packing or keeping thereof, is prohibited until further notice.

"The same prohibition applies to the despatch of fresh fruit and fresh fruit refuse from America, whenever the examination made at the place of entry may establish the presence of the San Jose louse.

"This prohibition does not apply in any case to goods which enter by ships and remain on the ships.

"The Imperial Chancellor has been empowered to grant exceptions and to take the necessary precautionary measures."

Britishers for the Klondike.

Southampton, Feb. 7.—The first large party of Klondikers from this country, numbering 300 people, sailed from this port Saturday, on board the British steamer Tartar. They expect to reach Vancouver in a month. The gold seekers were cheered by a crowd of their friends as they started. They carry a quantity of stores, provisions and a telegraphic apparatus.

A Record-Breaking Steamship.

London, Feb. 7.—The new White Star cargo steamer Cymric has arrived at Liverpool from the builders in Belfast. She is 600 feet long, 64 feet broad, 43 deep and 23,000 tons gross. Her twin propellers are driven by separate sets of quadruple engines. She holds the cargo boat record for size, and is expected to win it for speed without difficulty.

Fighting in Thessaly Continues.

Athens, Feb. 7.—Sanguinary conflicts continue between the Turkish troops and the peasants in Thessaly. It is reported that the Turks have occupied several villages and that a hundred persons have been killed.

Mr. Gladstone Attended Church.

Cannes, Feb. 7.—Mr. Gladstone, accompanied by Mrs. Gladstone, drove to church yesterday and received communion. He was able to walk without assistance.

The Princess Dhuleep-Singh.

London, Feb. 7.—Queen Victoria has granted the new Princess Dhuleep-Singh (Lady Ann Coventry), precedence over all English duchesses.

Valuable Old Coins Discovered.

London, Feb. 7.—A large discovery of old English coins has been made at Penicuik, near Edinburgh. So valuable is the collection, from a historical standpoint, that the Crown authorities are taking precautions to have it preserved in its entirety. The discovery was made through the action of a mole. So far 270 coins of the Edward I. period have been unearthed. The coins were in Rouleaux. The greater number are silver pennies and half pennies minted between A.D. 1279 and 1307. The majority bear the London impress, Canterbury comes second, and Bristol, Newcastle and Durham marks also occur. Two are of the period of Alexander III. who ascended the throne of Scotland in A.D. 1249.

Must Wear Best Clothes on Sunday.

Berlin, Feb. 7.—The Burgomasters are apparently emulating Emperor William. The Burgomaster of Schkenditz recently issued an edict requiring the townspeople to wear their best clothes on Sunday. On the following Sunday, walking abroad to observe the result of his order, he found a stableman in wooden clouts, torn stockings, soiled trousers and a flaring red neckerchief.

A policeman was immediately summoned to arrest him, and he was tried for lese majeste or its municipal equivalent. Although he proved that he had been grooming and feeding his master's horse and was on his way home, he was fined a mark and a half and costs.

THE CAMPAIGN IN ONTARIO.

South Toronto Conservatives Name Mr. J. J. Foy.

THE CONVENTIONS ON SATURDAY

The Brightest of Outlooks for the Liberal Party—Confident, Enthusiastic and Working Hard for Victory at the Polls—A Liberal in Leeds County—All the Candidates Named.

Toronto, Feb. 7.—The first week of the campaign since the announcement of the election closed with the brightest possible outlook for the Liberal party. But few constituencies remain which candidates are yet to be nominated for, and the blanks are being rapidly filled up. Everywhere Liberals are confident and enthusiastic, yet are none the less working hard and effectively, realizing to the full that over-confidence is the only condition that could mar their prospects.

The Premier starts out to-day and will talk to his constituents at a number of points in his riding.

The feature of Saturday's developments were the nomination of Mr. W. J. Webster of Westport by the Liberals of Leeds County, a constituency which has long returned an opponent of the Government, but in which the prospects for a change on the present occasion are believed to be excellent. It is certainly time for a change.

In East Lambton Mr. W. J. Willoughby is out of the field, having seen fit to retire, thus leaving the contest between Mr. Pettypiece, a strong and popular Liberal candidate, and Mr. McCallum, the Independent candidate.

In Haldimand, on the other hand, a three-cornered contest is promised by the entry into the field of a Conservative in the person of Mr. F. R. Lalor, to oppose Mr. Holmes, the Liberal candidate, and Mr. Senn, the Independent candidate.

In South Toronto, at a convention that was not too harmonious, though the nomination was made unanimous, Mr. J. J. Foy was put in the field.

Mr. Whitney, the Conservative leader, is still active. On Saturday he spoke at a Conservative meeting at Markham. To-night he addresses a meeting at the Pavilion in this city and then starts out again in the province. To-morrow night he will address a meeting at Meaford, on Wednesday at Wiarton, on Thursday at Durham, on Friday at Brussels and on Saturday at Berlin.

Premier Hardy's fixtures in his constituency this week are as follows: Tuesday at Burford, Wednesday at Cathcart, Thursday at Scotland, Friday at Mount Pleasant and Saturday at Newport.

CORLISS ONCE MORE.

He Does Not Propose to Have Any Canucks Earn a Living in the Great Land of Freedom.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Representative Corliss of Michigan, whose amendment intended to prevent Canadians from working in the United States during the day and returning to their homes each night furnished ground for the veto, by President Cleveland of the Immigration bill of the last Congress, yesterday introduced a bill which he intends offering as a substitute for the so called Lodge Immigration bill, which has passed the Senate.

Section three makes it unlawful for any male alien over 16 years of age, who has not in good faith made his declaration to become a permanent resident of the United States to come into this country for the purpose of engaging in any mechanical trade or manual labor for wages or salary while retaining his home or residence in a foreign country.

Section four provides that such alien shall not be employed on public works unless he makes a declaration of his intention to become a citizen.

Section five makes it unlawful for any firm or corporation to knowingly employ an alien in violation of section three, the provisions of which, however, are not to apply to the subjects of the provinces of Canada contiguous to the United States, or sailors, deck hands, or other employes of vessels, or railroad train hands whose duties require them to pass over the frontier to reach the terminal of their runs.

Hussar Murdered a Nova Scotian.

Dublin, Feb. 7.—A man known as Wilfred Kinny, belonging to the 8th Hussars, was placed on trial Saturday at Cahor charged with murdering a comrade named Albert Goodwin. The defendant, according to the testimony, is really named Warburton, is a native of Nova Scotia, and was formerly in the United States Army.

Italy Protecting Her Subjects.

Rome, Feb. 7.—A Government measure has been published authorizing the Bank of Naples to take charge of the savings of Italian emigrants in North and South America with a view of securing them against the rapacity of the so-called "bankers" there.

Sailed for the Orient.

Vancouver, Feb. 2.—The steamer Empress of Japan sailed yesterday for the Orient. She had a large cargo, having to leave 300 tons behind and some 80 passengers.

Blaze at Thorold.

Thorold, Ont., Feb 2.—Early yesterday morning the residence of Z. W. Durkee was totally destroyed by fire.

Almost Distracted

Dreadful Suffering by a Newmarket Woman.

The Bones in the Nose Affected—Face Would Swell Until Her Eyes Were Closed—How Relieved.

NEWMARKET, ONT.—"I have had a good opportunity of noting the great medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla. My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years, and the disease had gone so far that the bones of the nose had become affected and particles had come away through an opening in the left side. Her eyesight was also affected to the extent that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered and at times was almost distracted. She was treated by four different doctors, one of whom was a specialist. They all said they could not do anything for her, as the disease had gone too far. Her nose would swell about every three days until her eyes would almost be closed. Then it would break through and the swelling would subside for a day or two. About Christmas she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved. She has not been troubled with any swelling since, and the sore on the side of the nose has all healed. She is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it to any person who is suffering with catarrh." W. H. FURMER.

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not be induced to buy any substitute. Be sure to get Hood's.

THE POLITICAL OUTLOOK.

Never before have the friends of good Government had better reason to look forward to the victorious issue of a general political contest than in the present campaign. The supporters of the Ontario Government have placed strong candidates in nearly all of the 94 constituencies and before the week is out will be vigourously contesting every riding and the prospects of the Government being handsomely sustained are of the most encouraging character. There is reason to be confident that nearly all the seats now held by the Government will be retained.

In many Opposition constituencies the former members and present candidates are fighting for their political lives, with the greatest probability that very many of these seats will be captured by Government supporters. The two P. P. A. members and candidates in the West will be certainly turned down and the indications point to the fact that the Ontario Government will have a following in the Parliament to be elected March 1st, larger than any other Government since Confederation."

Coming to the local situation, Mr. Stratton is certain of success. The element of doubt as to his triumphant return is not a factor in the contest. The series of meetings he has held in the rural districts have been prominently successful. The attendance has been larger and more enthusiastic than on any election occasion, the evidences of hearty and united support have never been more encouraging, and, in spite of the bluster and brag indulged in by his opponents, the rural portion of the riding of West Peterborough will give a splendid endorsation of Mr. Stratton's representative record, and a splendid recognition of its appreciation of the great and substantial services he has rendered in his representative capacity. The solid and thinking element of the electorate are not given to be moved by impulse and the allurements of novelty. They are guided by reasoning reflection, and will be influenced by the abundant reasons that present for the retention of the services of a tried and faithful representative; this element throughout the riding is united in favour of the Liberal candidate and the Government he supports. They see plainly that it is to the advantage of the riding in every way that he be returned again. They see that he has faithfully and successfully attended to every interest of every part of the riding; they see, and know, that he has stood for fair play and even-handed justice to every elector of West Peterborough, regardless of considerations of party, creed or race, and there is with the great mass of the electorate no question as to what should be done for the re-election of a candidate, who has served them so well in the past, for another term, and these are reasons why the electors of the town of Peterborough will stand by Mr. Stratton.

As a life-long resident of Peterborough, and as an active and successful business man, his material interests are so interwoven with those of the county and town, that in advancing their prosperity he is necessarily advancing his own. Personally, he gives no inconsiderable employment, and about fifteen families, besides numerous individuals, look for maintenance to his establishment.

Besides, he has an active interest in several business enterprises and industrial establishments, and as industrial enterprises and manufacturing expansion are the greatest needs of the town at present, it stands to reason that a good, live, wide-awake representative, whose interests are largely identical with those of the town, and who has shown in the past that he is able to effectively promote the public interests, will make a more satisfactory representative than an inexperienced man.

The local Conservative organ, the Review at the time of the mayoralty contest, forcibly set forth the necessity of the town having experienced business men as civic representatives; the same reasoning applies to a Parliamentary representative at the present time, when the the town, in regard to material and industrial development, is at the parting of the ways—when it must either go forward or retrograde. To go forward it needs the help of its best citizens, and the best citizens will doubtless decide in this contest to support the candidate who has the largest interests in the town and riding, and who will naturally be as earnest and energetic as he has in the past shown himself capable, to advance the welfare of the town and riding; for the interests of Peterborough and the rest of the county are identical. What helps one helps the other. Improvements of means of access to the town will benefit the country districts,—in a word, the welfare the country cannot be advanced without helping the town, and vice versa. The mutual interests of town and county indicate that this is no time for experimenting in the matter of a representative, and opinion to this effect will be pronounced with no uncertain sound on March 1st.

RIDGETOWN AMAZED

By the Miraculous Recovery of Driver George Doherty.

He Lay in Bed for a Year—Bright's Disease and Dropsy Were Killing Him—Doctors Said he Must Die But Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him.

Ridgetown, Feb. 6—The most amazing case that has ever startled the residents of this town occurred recently, and the people for miles around can talk of nothing else. If it had taken place in our grandfathers' time, it would have been attributed to the direct interposition of Providence. It is the saving of a life that the most skilful doctors admitted they could not save; of a man who was nearer to his death than if he had been tossing among the seething waters of the whirlpool at Niagara.

George Dougherty, a driver for the American Express Co. here, lay dying. He had Bright's Disease and Dropsy. He had lain in bed for twelve months. Three local doctors attended him. They could give him no relief. Outside physicians were called in. Their skill failed. Many remedies were used, but in vain.

Words cannot paint the sufferings of the patient. Every one said he must die. He wished for death to end his agony. Hundreds of dollars were spent for medicines and in doctors' bills. But the disease grew worse and worse.

One day M. H. Dougherty, father of the sick man, heard of the cures effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills in Dresden. He bought a box. George began using them. To the amazement of all he began to mend. Box after box was used till he had taken nineteen. Now he is doing his work as if he had never been ill. People stare open-mouthed at him as he passes. Is there any wonder?

Dodd's Kidney Pills have cured thousands of cases of Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Dropsy, Diseases of Women, Lumbago, Rheumatism, and all other forms of Kidney Disease. All druggists sell them at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or they will be sent on receipt of price by The Dodds Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A Throbbing Heart

Piles! Piles! Itchin Piles.

Symptoms—Moisture intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate coming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumour. All druggists or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman Sons & Co Montreal wholesale agents.

UNDER THE SOLDIERY.

A Petition From Dyea and Skaguay Asking for 300 Troops—Some Paying Holes on Big Salmon River.

Skaguay, Alaska, Jan. 31, via Seattle, Wash, Feb. 7.—A petition has been circulated here and in Dyea asking the department to send 300 troops here, that law and order may be preserved. The petition also asks that martial law be declared. The petition in part reads:

"Believing this to be an extraordinary emergency, we believe that martial law should be declared in all this part of Alaska, comprising the communities of Dyea and Skaguay, and the trails leading therefrom to the international boundry, and that sufficient troops, not less than 300, be immediately despatched to these points to enforce the laws and preserve order."

It is stated that Governor Brady will order one of the Government cruisers now stationed at Sitka to this place to preserve order. The cutter will arrive in a few days.

Good prospects have been found on the Big Salmon River. Prospect holes have been sunk to the depth of 45 feet, but water interfered with the work before bed rock was reached.

Two Men Shot at Skaguay.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 7.—In a shooting scrape at Skaguay in the Klondike Saloon Ed Fay, the bartender, was mixed up in a robbery, in which Marshal J. M. Rowan and McGrath were the victims. McGrath left the saloon and got Rowan the United States deputy marshal, to go back with him to obtain satisfaction. Fay shot them both when they entered, McGrath first and then Rowan, both shots taking effect in the groin. Both men died shortly afterwards. Fay was given up to a citizens' committee to have justice meted out to him, and will, in all probability, be lynched. What adds a pathetic side to the murder is the fact that the Marshal's wife gave birth to a son two hours before her husband was killed.

A fire occurred at Juneau courthouse and the jail was burned. Fourteen prisoners had to be released.

Major Walsh does not expect to leave Big Salmon for Dawson until April 1.

Scare Report From Lethbridge.

Salt Lake, Utah, Feb. 6.—A special to the Tribune from Butte, Mont., says: Information received from Lethbridge, on the Canadian boundary, is to effect that great excitement has been caused there by orders received from the Dominion Government that every man of the Mounted Police hold himself in readiness to proceed to the Yukon at a moment's notice for temporary duty. The orders, which were received by wire by the officers in command of the division, are said to be due to the existence of serious trouble between the Canadian and United States authorities in Alaska, relative to the attempt by the Americans to get provisions into the Yukon free of duty, ostensibly for the relief of the distressed, but in reality for sale to the highest bidders.

Death of a Bruce Pioneer.

Port Elgin, Ont., Feb. 7.—Mr. Peter Smith, the pioneer settler of Saugeen, passed away at his residence near here on Sunday morning in his 80th year. He was a native of Inverneshire, Scotland, but had lived in Bruce County for nearly 50 years. He leaves a family of six sons and three daughters, one of the former being Mr. Alex. Smith, Liberal organizer for Ontario.

TESTED IN DRESDEN.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Win Yet Another Championship.

Dresden, Feb. 7—The report of the wonderful cure of J. M. McDonald, of Windsor, has reached Dresden and causes universal and interested comment.

The power of Dodd's Kidney Pills has for some time past been universally admitted in this town, for we have had absolutely convincing proof of it.

Mr. W. G. Craig, a prominent merchant and ex-reeve of Dresden, was for eight years a sufferer from Inflammatory Rheumatism, aggravated by Gout. Our most skilful doctors failed to relieve him, and not till he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills did he find a cure. Six boxes cured him completely. He is now attending to business every day, thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

That aching head can be instantly relieved by taking one of Milburn's Sterling Headache Powders. 1 powder 5c., 3 for 10c., 10 for 25c.

NEWS OF THE CAPITAL

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's French Decoration.

A VERY UNTIMELY REFERENCE.

The Cross Was Conferred Under Remarkable Circumstances—A Latter Day Romance—Love Token for an Endeavor to Blend the French and English Races—Ottawa News.

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—There is much adverse comment among the French-Canadian members here, and, according to the statements of visiting Montrealers, in that city also, upon the action of Sir Charles Tupper in jeering at the Premier for wearing the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor of France. The Opposition leader, seeing the cross on Sir Wilfrid's breast, said: "I applied for permission to accept an order precisely similar, except that one was from Belgium and the other from France, to that received by the right hon. gentleman That permission was refused, and it was not only refused, but Sir Robert Herbert placed in my hands a statute which stated that her Majesty had not the power to consent to the acceptance of a decoration from a foreign power except for services on the battle field. I do not know whether my hon. friend won his decoration on the battle field, but unless he did so I cannot understand why he should appear as Prime Minister of Canada wearing a decoration that I understand to be prohibited by the authority of the Crown except in cases in which her Majesty is able to give consent, and that alone applies to a distinction won on the field of battle." Sir Wilfrid, in his reply, ignored the remarks of Sir Charles, and so we are left in doubt as too whether he received permission to wear the cross of the Legion, or was unaware that such permission was required. The whole thing was, however, an exhibition of pettiness on the part of Sir Charles that one hardly expected.

A Latter Day Romance.

The circumstances under which Sir Wilfrid was decorated by the President of France was as romantic as can well be imagined. The descendant of the hardy sons of France who carried its civilization over half of the American continent, the first subject in Canada of that power which triumphed over France on the Plains of Abraham, Sir Wilfrid spoke in Paris as no man had ever spoken before him, and amid cheers told how his heart turned with feelings of love and longing to the land of his forefathers, and yet so turning retained its affection for and pride in his British citizenship, in that system of free government under which those of his race in America had been able to preserve their language and religion unimpaired through the long years since the conquest. So powerful an appeal for a union of hearts between the French and English in the old world as in the new, for the setting aside of racial feuds and replacing them by nobler rivalries in the arts of peace, has seldom been made, and its effect on the tone of the French press was unquestionably great. It was natural that Sir Wilfrid, animated by these thoughts, should accept the cross of the Legion as a love token, not merely for himself, but from the French people to their kin beyond the sea, and should cherish it as such. And this was the token that Sir Charles, with a lack of tact and disregard for the most sacred feelings of two-fifths of the people of Canada, thought Sir Wilfrid should not wear, because he had not won it on the field of battle. The Tory leader does not understand the matter nor appreciate the feelings of French-Canadians. The sledge-hammer has not much in common with the rapier. It is just possible, however, that he was trying to touch another through Sir Wilfrid. Sir Adolphe Chapleau, with whom Sir Charles Tupper has a bitter quarrel, became a Companion of the Legion of Honor in 1882 while a member of the same Government as Sir Charles Tupper, and it is just possible that the words were meant to wound him also. Judging from the talk in the lobbies, the Opposition leader has succeeded far beyond his expectations, and has offended two million hearts instead of two.

SAVE THE MOTHERS

Dodd's Kidney Pills Their Only Safety in Female Diseases.

You have seen a flower nipped by frost, fade and die in the flush of its beauty. That is how women die when attacked by any of the diseases peculiar to their sex.

Woman's burdens are woefully heavy. Her sufferings are agonizing. Her patience is grand. Disease preys upon her. The light dies out of her eyes, her steps become slow and dragging; she loses flesh; grows sallow, listless, droops like a flower. Then she dies. Her family is left to the cold mercy of the world.

"Mother's dead!" What a piteous phrase. What sufferings have been endured before it was used. Why should mothers, wives, sisters suffer so? They need not. Dodd's Kidney Pills will quickly and thoroughly cure all cases of Female Weakness. They never fail. They give health, strength, courage: a new lease of life.

THREE TRUTH-TELLING TESTIMONIES.

Better In Every Way.

Mr. William Killackey, 32 Euclid Ave. says he suffered from nervous trouble, loss of memory and general weakness and debility. He tried everything he could hear of and was almost giving up when he bought Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. In the first 10 days he gained 5 lbs. In the second 10 days the gain was 4 lbs.; his muscles got firm, his flesh solid, and he feels better in every way. He is at work every day, and all day. I can't recommend Ward's Pills too highly, says Mr. Killackey.

Head and Throat Catarrh.

Catarrh in the head and throat for years. Some of the best doctors in Toronto tried hard but could not cure me. They said no more could be done. I became alarmed at the repeated failures and tried Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills as a last resort. The result is my catarrh is cured, strength and appetite are restored, and I am now strong and well as ever. FRANZ FILDES, Lithographer, Clarence House, London, Ont.

Brain Worry and Breakdown.

I lacked confidence, snap, vim and energy. My vitality was low, my brain was worried and troubled so much that my system broke down. I got no benefit from all the other remedies I tried until at last I used Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. They restored my health to robust vigor, and increased my weight surprisingly. My nerve power came back and I feel like I used to feel.

I urge others to try them if they want to enjoy life.

H. B. WILLIAMS, Guelph, Ont.

AT MR. STRATTON'S COMMITTEE ROOMS.

A Grand Rally of Solid and Enthusiastic Workers.

MOST ENCOURAGING REPORTS.

The Evidences of Success All Along the Line—A Good Solid Night's Work Done A Few Addresses—A Night That Presages Certain Victory.

A magnificent rally of the workers—not shouters—in the interest of Mr. Stratton was seen at the committee rooms Saturday night. The rooms were crowded with a determined band of workers, all the more determined by the encouraging reports presented by the several members, who knew whereof they were speaking. Never were more encouraging indications of the contest ending successfully than was afforded on Saturday night.

Every detail of future work was mapped out and enthusiastic earnest workers charged with their execution.

After a large amount of excellent work had been effected, there were some short but spirited addresses.

Mr. Stratton, who was received with tumultuous applause, was the first speaker. He expressed his gratification at seeing such a magnificent and enthusiastic attendance of workers. While this was in itself a matter for congratulation, he was more pleased, if possible, with the splendid spirit of work they had shown and continued to show. He valued good, solid committee work more than bluster and brag, and he felt that those associated with him knew their work and were doing it splendidly. He had never gone into and prosecuted a campaign with such unequivocal prospects of success. He had never met with such a reception in the country as he had received in this campaign. His meetings were more largely attended than in any previous campaign, on every side he had the warmest assurances of confidence and support, and he felt that, thanks to the efforts of his friends and the good sense of the electors, he was in an equally favourable position with regard to the town. The indications were that in the province at large the sweep of victory was one that would carry the Government to power with a larger following than any previous Government had received, and he felt sure that both East and West Peterborough would join in the triumph that would be achieved on March 1st. (Loud cheers.)

Mr. Lewis Spry made a vigourous little speech. He said in the past that he had always worked with the Conservative party, but in this contest, when the good Government of the province was at stake, he felt that it was his duty to support the representative who had looked so well after the interests of the riding and the government he supported, which had given the province so many years of good government. He was supporting Mr. Stratton and would do all in his power to secure his election. (Cheers.)

Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald said he was glad to see so large and enthusiastic a meeting of Mr. Stratton's supporters present, and to notice the zeal and energy being put forth by the several working committees, not only to-night, but every night and day since their formation. It must be gratifying to all who are in favour of good and honest government for Ontario, to hear the encouraging news coming in from all quarters of the province, but more especially from our own two ridings—two ridings, for while it is true that we are ostensibly engaged in the West Riding only, we are not on that account, unmindful of the interests of our friends in the East Riding, which, he was glad to say, are most assuring. As was of course expected, the two Peterboroughs will this time again do their duty and show their appreciation of the wise and statesmanlike policy of the Liberal Government of Premier Hardy. As Premier this is his first appeal to the Province, and as far as we may judge, based on his record of the past, his brilliant talents and the grip he holds on the people's confidence, the result on the night of the 1st of March next will prove that he has not appealed in vain. (Cheers.)

Mr. J. J. Hartley also spoke most encouragingly of the prospects or rather certainties of Mr. Stratton's triumphant return. The people of Peterborough were proud of their town and anxious for its advancement, and they saw and felt that a candidate like Mr. Stratton, who had large interests in the town and had in the past done so much to advance its interests, was the representative they needed at the present time, and he had not for a moment any doubt that the outcome of the present contest would result in Mr. Stratton's return by a great majority. (Loud applause.)

Dr. McGrath said he had not in the past taken a very active interest in political matters but he would take a greater interest in the present contest. He had been at Ennismore the previous night with Mr. Stratton, and he had every reason to believe that this township would give a better account of itself than ever before.

Messrs. T. Hickey, A. McCallum, H. C. Stabler, R. Munro and others spoke in a most earnest spirit and most encouraging strain of the great prospects of success for the people's candidate, Mr. Stratton, in the West Riding of Peterborough.

Altogether the rally of Saturday night was the most encouraging that has ever been held in Mr. Stratton's interests.

DEATH OF MRS. G. H. DAVIS.

She Passed Away at Five O'clock on Sunday Morning.

With universal regret will it be learned that Mrs. G. H. Davis, mother of Mayor Davis, passed away yesterday morning after an illness of over a year.

The deceased complained about twelve months ago of violent pains in the head, chest, back and arms. Not obtaining relief in town Mrs. Davis went to Clifton Springs. As the result of a short sojourn there considerable improvement was perceptible and on her return she was able to sit out on the verandah during the summer months. In the fall, however, she was again a sufferer and owing to advancing age did not appear to be able to rally after her prostrations. About six weeks ago her suffering became greater and she gradually grew worse until last week when all hope of her recovery was given up. On Wednesday Mrs. Davis lost consciousness, but partially rallied on Thursday, sinking again, however, immediately and continuing to grow weaker until her demise on Sunday morning at five o'clock.

The maiden name of the deceased was Jane S. Jeffrey, daughter of the head of a large firm of boatbuilders of Quebec, and she was united in marriage to the Rev. G. H. Davis during his pastorate in one of the principal churches of that city. In 1869 Mr. Davis was invited to the pulpit of the George street Methodist church, and resided with his family in Peterborough until 1872, forming many warm friendships here. Previous to and after being in Peterborough, the family lived in Montreal, Three Rivers, Cobourg, Brockville, Brantford and Barrie. When Mr. Davis was superannuated in 1884 he moved to Peterborough with Mrs. Davis and his family, and took up residence here. The death of Mr. Davis took place in September, 1891, but five children survive, viz., Mrs. Jas. McPherson, of Milwaukee; Rev. Geo. H. H. Davis, of Springville, Pa.; Miss Eva Davis, of Peterborough; Alfred L. Davis, Mayor of Peterborough, and J. Arthur Davis, of Milwaukee, all of whom are now at home with the exception of Mrs. McPherson.

Mrs. Davis was well known and universally loved amongst her large circle of friends, where her many high qualities of character were fully appreciated. Her unexpected demise will throw a gloom in many homes.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday, at 3 p.m. from the family residence, 191 Brock street, to Little Lake cemetery.

OBITUARY.

Death of James McClellan, Father of Mr. J. H. McClellan, of Town.

The death is announced of Mr. James McClellan, in Bowmanville, at the age of 88 years. The deceased was born in Armagh, Ireland. He came to Canada and took up residence in Bowmanville when about 20 years of age, and was for years harbour master there. Afterwards he was for thirty years in H. M. Customs, being superannuated in 1880. He was a Presbyterian in religion and a Liberal in politics. He leaves four sons, viz., John, harbormaster at Bowmanville; William, in St. Thomas; James, Port Whitby Harbor; and J. H. McClelland, travelling sales agent, People's Coal Co., Peterborough.

Miss Nellie Lane was dressed as "Reuben's Daughter" at the Foresters' Carnival on Friday evening. Through a typographical error the character was changed in Saturday's issue, which fact is greatly regretted.

That Danny Simons is still climbing the ladder of fame, is evidenced by a paragraph in the Norwich, (Conn.) Morning Post, which says that the Bennet & Moulton Co. made a great hit in that town last week, and that "in his tramp act specialty Dan Simons gave one of the best characterizations of the kind ever seen on the local stage."

THE SINGLE TAX.

Address Before the Y.M.C.A. Debating Club on This Subject.

Mr. Barton Earle gave an earnest address at a largely attended meeting of the Debating Club of the Y.M.C.A. Friday evening.

In the brief time allotted to him he dealt in a masterly way with the question of which he is an aggressive apostle.

He outlined clearly the present condition, dealt fully with the remedies suggested, and finally presented the cure, which Mr. Henry George had discovered.

An animated discussion followed, among those taking part were: Messrs. Earle, Dixon, Ball, E. B. Stone, Dr. Rose and Fred Ray. The latter gave a humourous address, which provoked rounds of applause and laughter.

Mr. G. S. Ball moved, and Mr. Williamson seconded a hearty vote of thanks, which was tendered to the speaker of the evening.

"OLD FOLKS AT HOME."

The Inmates of the Protestant Home are Treated to a Pleasant Evening.

The members of the young ladies' class of the George street Methodist church of which Mrs. James Stubbs is leader, gave the old folks at the Protestant Home a pleasant surprise a few evenings since. An excellent programme of readings, recitations and music was given. Among those taking part were Misses Pascoe, Ames, Emmerson, Hamilton and Mr. Hodgins. Mrs. James Stubbs presided and opened the programme with a neat address. At the conclusion refreshments were served after which the party dispersed. The old folks were delighted with the evening, the young ladies having made themselves quite at home as well.

DEFEATED IN LAKEFIELD.

The All Saints Boys' Brigade Hockey Team Were Badly Beaten.

Having received an invitation to play the Boy's Brigade of Lakefield, the hockey team in connection with the All Saints church Brigade drove out to the village Friday evening in charge Rev. W. L. Armitage.

In the invitation which was received emphasis were laid on the fact that the village lads were small and Mr. Armitage accordingly took out a mixed team of juniors and seniors in order not to have any advantage over the Lakefield boys. His misgivings on that score, however, were soon set at rest as the team which he took with him were no match for their opponents in weight or strength. The game, however, was not too much one-sided, although the score was 12—4 in Lakefield's favour. The return match will be played in Peterborough on Saturday next when the All Saints players will put on their full senior team and endeavour to recover their lost laurels.

At the conclusion of the game both teams were most hospitably entertained by Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Tait. The Peterborough team was composed as follows:—Goal, Robertson; point, Cranfield; cover point, Brisbin; forwards, Brandette, Van-Every, Armstrong and Roy.

NAVIGATION NOTES.

Two New Steamers Built For the Local Waters—Officers of the P. N. Co.

Mr. Frank Barnett, of Birdsalls, Rice Lake, has under construction a new palace passenger steamer, the dimensions of which are 75 ft. long, with a 13 ft. beam. It will be propelled by a forty horsepower engine. The new steamer will be equipped with the latest modern machinery. It is anticipated that she will be the fastest on the Otonabee, speeding at the rate of 20 knots an hour. Mr. Hickey, boat builder, Ashburnham, has the contract and states that the model will be similar to that of the steamer North Star.

Mr. Hickey has just completed a steam tug for Mr. W.B. Kelly, lumber merchant, Bridgenorth, of the following dimensions—50 ft. long, 10 ft. beam. It will be fitted with machinery such as used on the larger tugs. Mr. Kelly's new steamer will be used principally in the towing of logs to his mill there.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Navigation Co. was held Monday evening last in the office of Messrs. Hatton & Wood, when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President and General Manager—Commodor H. Calcutt.
Vice-President—Adam Hall.
Sec.-Treas.—R. E. Wood.

CAVAN SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

Seventh Annual Convention held on Thurday Afternoon.

The seventh annual convention of the Township of Cavan Sunday School Association was held in the Presbyterian church at Centreville on Thursday afternoon and evening.

The exercises opened with the President, Mr. F. Wilson, in the chair. The pastor of the church conducted the opening ceremonies, after which the programme was carried out fully. There were no disappointments—each person responded when called upon and gave an excellent treatment of their respective subjects. The papers and addresses were very helpful.

The following officers were appointed for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. David Smith, Fraserville.
Vice-President — Mr. Wm. Bateson, Baillieboro.
Secretary—Mrs. S. W. Clarke, Millbrook.
Treasurer—Mr. Tracy, Millbrook.

When the afternoon's programme was completed the visitors were requested by the ladies of the church to partake of the generous tea they had provided in the agricultural hall.

The rousing meeting was concluded about 9.20. Then the home-going was thought of, and as it was so cold and stormy, those who had a short distance to go sympathised with their less fortunate friends, some having eighteen miles to drive that night.

We cannot refrain from speaking in warm terms of the address by Rev. J. Kilgour of Cavanville, on "The Bible and its Bearing on Character." It was certainly unique.

ASHBURNHAM BRIEFS.

Mr. Jas. Tighe is giving good satisfaction in keeping the sidewalks clean in the south end. His motto seems to be "early and often."

The Ladies' Aid of Mark street church will hold a parlour social at the parsonage on Tuesday evening, Feb. 8, at 8 o'clock. There will be a good programme, refreshments, games, etc. Everyone is cordially invited.

The cottage prayer meeting at Mr. Cunningham's was well attended. Next Friday evening it will be at Mr. W. Guy's, Sophia street. Mr. Richard Winch is to lead the meeting.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

Hockey and Other Items of Local and General Interest.

HOCKEY.

The hockey match of the year will be played to-night, when the Osgoode seven will come to Peterborough to play a return match with the seniors. The visitors have two goals to their credit as the result of last Thursday's match in Toronto, and will do their best to hold their advantage, whilst the local boys will fight hard to overcome it. If the Peterboroughs win the series it puts them in the semi-finals, so a game for blood may be expected. The teams will be as follows:—

Watson	goal		McMurrich
Montgomery	point		Eastwood
Hollinghead	cover-point		Geo Carruthers
King	forwards		M Carruthers
Davidson			Johnston
Phelan			Morrison
Graham			Lillie

Alex. Crosiman, vice-president O.H.A., referee.

Mr. H. S. Greenwood, civil engineer, has carefully examined the rink and found it safe in every particular.

All those in the habit of blowing horns, whistles, etc., and banging sticks on the sides, are requested to give up the practice, as it is hard on the players on both sides and the referee cannot satisfactorily perform his duties.

Concerning Friday's match in Kingston, the Whig speaks as follows: It is just possible the junior hockey championship will rest in the east this year, and that the Frontenacs will be the guardians. For the second time this season the team bearing the historic name defeated the Peterborough juniors. In the first match on Monday night the boroughites lost on their own rink by a score of 9—6. They felt sure they could do better in the second meeting which took place here Friday night. The reverse was the case, the home team defeating the visitors by a score of 10—1. From the standpoint of a spectator, many better matches have been witnessed here. At times, however, the contestants, woke up and put forth an extra effort, when brilliant passages would result. Frontenacs did not play their usual fast game. It seemed to be an off night with them. However, they stayed in the scrimmage long enough to win.

The struggle had just begun when Cunningham opened up the slate for Frontenacs, doing the trick within the first sixty seconds. Half a minute later Graham, who secured from scratch, put up the only one point scored by Peterborough, saving his team from a shut out. Five minutes elapsed ere Cunningham scored the second point for the home team, carrying the disc between the uprights. Four minutes later the same player, from a scrimmage, scooped the puck through and added the third point for Frontenacs. The home team had a little the best of the play, making more shots on goal. The visitors, however, struggled hard but could not break down the Frontenac defence.

For twelve minutes in the second half play was open and honours about even. The visitors were successful in getting into Frontenac territory, but were almost unable to shoot on goal. They had an alert defence to pass for one thing, but seemed to be unskilled in the art of playing on goal. Cunningham passed to Murrey, who lost no time in adding another stroke to the score. Wilson loomed up conspicuously in some clever juggling, passing to Cunningham, who tallied. Wilson, Murray and Cunningham figured in the next point. Frontenacs shook off the daze that dimmed their vision during the earlier part of the event, and began to unravel their bewildering combination. Wilson, Cunningham and Young again toyed with the puck, the last named opening the grand stand work and closing it with a neat shot on goal, scoring. Waddell, Cunningham and Wilson repeated the trick half a minute later. Within sixty seconds Cunningham, Murray and Wilson had whirled the disc across the ice several times, Wilson making the tailing shot. Wilson scored the next, receiving the puck from Young, who thus finished a dazzling rush. This ended the tallying, Frontenacs having piled up ten, three in the first and seven in the second half, while the visitors had to satisfy themselves with one solitary point.

Dixon is a marvel between the posts, But for his commendable work Frontenacs would more than doubled their score. Another good man the Peterborough aggregation possesses is Graham, a brilliant skater and clever with the crooked ash. King is an average player at centre. Glover did fairly well at point.

Individually the visitors played fairly well, but their style of play could not prevail against the team work of their opponents.

Waddell was sent to the fence for tripping. The Peterborough player received a bad fall.

The match was unusually open and free of roughness or any unfair tricks. It was about the cleanest witnessed here this season. The best of good spirit prevailed.

J. H. Hall, manager of the Peterboroughs, accompanied the team.

If the Frontenacs could skate as fast as Graham of Peterborough, no junior collection, or senior for that matter, could prevail against them. They lack speed to assist their combination work. Perhaps if the members of the team while in training would abstain from the use of tobacco and devote just a little time to developing speed the difficulty would be overcome.

A VILLER'S WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Jeannie Weir and Mr John Connel.

One of the prettiest weddings that has ever occurred in the vicinity was that which took place on Wednesday, Feb. 2nd, at the residence of Mr. Wm. Weir, Villiers, whose daughter, Miss Jeannie, was united in marriage to Mr. John Connel.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Andrews, of Keene, in the presence of about forty guests. The wedding march was played by Miss Laura Nelson, cousin of the groom.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked lovely in a gown of cream coloured cashmere, trimmed with ribbon and lace. The bridesmaid, Miss Lizzie Weir, was similarly attired. The bride wore orange blossoms and carried a boquet of roses and smilax.

The groom was ably assisted by Mr. James White.

At the conclusion of the interesting ceremony the guests were invited to partake of a most inviting wedding dejeuner which was spread in a simple but elegant manner. The table was beautifully decorated with flowers.

During the evening the happy couple left for their home in Asphodel followed by the good wishes of all. Mr. Connel is one of the prosperous young farmers of that township. The many present received by the bride were both beautiful and useful.

SMITH WEDDING BELLS.

Miss Ina Pearson and Mr. John Morrison United in Marriage.

On Wednesday evening the residence of Mr. Frank Pearson, of Smith, was the scene of joyous festivities, the occasion being the marriage of his daughter, Miss Ina, to Mr. John Morrison, of Burk's Falls. The nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. Mr. Harrison, of Bridgenorth, in the presence of the friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride, who was attired in a handsome wedding costume of mauve, was assisted by her sister, Miss Lizzie Pearson, little Miss Pearson, niece of the bride, being maid of honour, while Master Melville Mann was page. The groom was assisted by Mr. I. Roseboro, of Bridgenorth.

After the ceremony the assembled guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding breakfast, the rest of the evening being spent in a social manner.

The bride was the recipient of many handsome and useful presents, testifying to the esteem in which she was held by her many friends.

CHURCH CHIMES.

MARK STREET.

On Sunday the quarterly services were held at Mark street church. There was a prayer meeting from 10 to 11, at which time usual service was held. The pastor chose as his text, song of Solomon 2:8, and gave an excellent sermon thereon. At the close of the regular service the fellowship meeting and love feast was held, followed by the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. A large number were present—many taking part in such a service for the first time.

The Sabbath school was well attended. The average for January, 1898, is 14 more than the average for January, 1897. Young and old will be welcomed every Sunday at 2.30.

At the evening service Mr. Moore's text was Acts 26:28; subject, "Almost persuaded to be a Christian." A large congregation was present.

The Epworth League had a short meeting at the close of the evening service. The topic was taken by Mr. M. Carbon. This (Monday) evening the Mark street League is to meet at the union meeting at George street church.

The Ladies' Aid will hold a parlour social at the parsonage on Tuesday evening, Feb. 8th. A good literary and musical programme, games, refreshments, etc., are arranged. Among those taking part are Miss Sherlock, Miss Stevens, Mrs. Christie, Mr. John Miller, besides local talent.

The Finance Committee will meet at seven o'clock sharp Wednesday evening at the church. Every member is expected.

Prayer meeting at eight o'clock will be led by the pastor.

The cottage prayer meeting will be held at Mr. Wm. Guy's, Sophia street, on Friday evening. Mr. Richard Winch, of Peterborough, will conduct it. These meetings are being largely attended and are being very successful in spiritual results. Everyone is made welcome.

CHARLOTTE STREET.

The song sermon given by the pastor, Rev. D. O. Crossley, in Charlotte street church attracted a very large congregation. Notwithstanding that chairs were substituted in every available space, and every draw seat was utilized, many being unable to gain admission to the church or secure a sitting. The topic of the sermon was "Save the Boy," and was treated by the pastor under the following questions. "From what shall we save him?" and "How shall we save him?" During the sermon four appropriate pieces of music were given by Mr. Crossley and the choir.

A Sure Cure For Consumption.

There is no such thing. Scott's Emulsion comes the nearest to it, but even that will not cure advanced cases, but taken in time it will cure this disease.

Motherhood is a woman's brightest crown.

It is a woman's glory to be strong and capable in a feminine way. Her worst misfortune is to have any physical weakness affecting the delicate, special organism which is involved in motherhood. To insure the complete health and normal capability of this most important structure, is the purpose of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives tone and vitality to the entire nervous system; and strength and vigor to the organism of maternity. It makes motherhood possible, safe and comparatively easy and painless.

Its wonder working capacity is exemplified in the trying experience of Mrs. A. Block, No. 221 Jackson St., Trenton, N. J., who writes: "I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription shortly before confinement with my sixth child, as I felt miserable, and it helped me so much that I had an easy time and got well soon after. One of the greatest helps a mother can [illegible] in nursing and rearing her children [illegible] rrying them safely through all the [illegible] knesses and ailments to which [illegible] are subject is Dr. Pierce's [illegible] and-page illustrated book, the "People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." FEEDING CATTLE ON THATCHES.

Affairs in the East—Japanese Fleet to Cruise in Chinese Waters—The Loan May Yet Be Abandoned—Another Denial of the Backdown Story—Cable News.

London, Feb. 5.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Times says: "A failure in the harvest has caused terrible distress among the peasantry of the interior provinces, especially in Central and Southeastern Russia. In some places they are worse off than during the famine of 1891. The Russian editors have been forbidden to refer to the matter. Private letters from Tamboff, in the province of that name, southeast of Moscow, say the peasants are feeding their half-starved cattle with the thatches of their roofs. Typhus and other diseases are making rapid headway among them."

A Cruise in Chinese Waters in Contemplation.

Yokohama, Feb. 5.—The Japanese fleet is manœuvring, prior to a cruise in Chinese waters. The press is silent on the situation in China, and it is believed the Premier, the Marquis Ito, is awaiting the settlement of the German claims before committing Japan to any policy. The Russian squadron is without smokeless coal, and the supply here is small.

The Loan May Be Abandoned.

London, Feb. 5.—The Times on Tuesday published a despatch from St. Petersburg saying there was reason to believe that if the Russo-German loan to China had not yet been accomplished it was on the point of being settled, an almost certain indication of the fact being that the Minister of Finance had ordered the suspension of all sales of stock on the market. The same correspondent telegraphed yesterday that he was still unable to confirm the reports that the loan had been concluded, but that rumors to that effect continue to be circulated.

On the other hand, China, it is said, is no longer inclined to accept any loan, unless by so doing she is enabled to play off Russia against England. It is rumored that one of the Chinese excuses for now declining a loan is that the Japanese have refused or will refuse to quit Wei-Hai-Wei before the stipulated time, even though the war contribution be paid by China.

The Times says editorially on the subject: "If it is true that China is indisposed to accept any loan, we should not have much cause to grieve. No British interest would be deeply prejudiced if China failed to pay the indemnity and Japan remained at Wei-Hai-Wei." The paper denounces the eager haste with which the press and public have put the worst possible interpretation upon the Ta-Lien-Wan matter. It characterizes the outcry as inconsistent and ungenerous, and says that the portentous vision of surrender and scuttle which the jingoes have conjured up is merely the result of interference based upon a quite indecisive incident in the course of long and delicate negotiations. A despatch to the Central News from Shanghai says that the reported Russian occupation of Manchuria and the arrival of a large body of Russian troops at Kirin is untrue.

APPALLING DEATH

From Kidney Disease Prevented by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

"Kidney Disease." Do you know what it means? It means that the kidneys are either rotten, or rotting; the blood is full of poisonous, death-dealing corruption; that the Kidneys can't do their work; that the victim is a walking charnel-house; that his hours are numbered; that the victim MUST take Dodd's Kidney Pills if he does not want to die.

Have you Kidney Disease? Is your skin hot and dry; memory failing; breath short; urine, reddish, or pale colored; does it scald when passing; is your appetite changeable; do your ankles swell; have you bitter taste in the mouth on getting up mornings; is there a brick-dust deposit in your urine?

Any of these signs is proof positive of Kidney Disease. Will you be cured, or will you die? Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only means on earth that will cure you. They never fail.

MADE IN MINIATURE.

CURIOUS MICROSCOPIC MARVELS ACHIEVED BY INGENIOUS MEN.

Peter Ramus Tells Some Very Fishy Stories About John Muller—The Ever Growing Squad of Cherry Stone Workers—A Wonderful Knife.

Perhaps the most prevalent mania of men gifted with mechanical ingenuity takes the shape of accomplishing or attempting to accomplish in miniature the mightiest feats of engineering that human hands have ever set up. The enthusiast in miniature regards the Forth bridge, for example, not as a utilitarian masterpiece, but as a model to be followed and copied in all the material supplied by a threepenny bit, and the 985 feet of Eiffel tower neither fills his breast with awe nor horror, but is regarded as a choice subject to be constructed in miniature out of bent pin and the shell of a walnut.

Of the mediæval mechanicians John Muller, better known in the trade as Regiomontanus, which one must admit sounds well for one of his craft, who lived in the fifteenth century, was without doubt the Maskelyne and Cook of the period, or at all events he had an biographer a writer of greater imagination than the other less fortunate gent of that era. Peter Ramus, the writer in question, not only credits John Muller with fashioning a wooden eagle, which on the occasion of the Emperor Maximilian visiting Nuremberg flew out to meet him, saluted him in due form—however that may have been—and then turned round and accompanied the procession to the city gates, but further asserts that the same individual turned out an iron fly

Which, having flown a perfect roundabout,
With weary wings returned unto her maste.

We are inclined to think, all things considered, that Peter Ramus had the makings of a very fine creator of exciting fiction in him and that it was a pity he allowed his gift to be wasted in compiling a biography of a 100 years' deceased automata artificer in place of forestalling the friend of our youth, M. Jules Verne.

The cherry stone has been a favorite subject for the worker in miniature since Hadrianus Junius saw at Mechlin "a cherry stone cut into the form of a basket, in which were 14 pairs of dice distinct, the spots and numbers of which were easily to be discerned with a good eye." A museum in Massachusetts has among its other possessions a cherry stone containing a dozen silver spoons. As the stone is of the ordinary size the spoons are so small that their shape can only be admired by the aid of a microscope. Other remarkable cherry stones are the ones carved all over with 124 heads, mostly of popes and potentates, and the one fashioned by a topmaker at Nuremberg, which contains a plan of Sevastopol, a railway station and the "Messiah" of Klopstock, is indeed multum in parvo.

A tiny vessel has been made of late years by an Italian jeweler who came into possession of a pearl that nature had caused to take upon itself the shape and contour of a boat. A sail of beaten gold studded with diamonds, a binnacle light of ruby and emerald, and a rudder of ivory complete the structure, which weighs less than an ounce all told. We recently saw it stated that the smallest steam engine in the world is one of an upright pattern, made of silver and gold and resting on a 25 cent goldpiece. The diameter of the cylinder is one forty-eighth part of an inch; stroke, one thirty-second of an inch; weight, one-eighth of a grain; bore of cylinder, .3125 of a square inch. The engine can be worked either by steam or compressed air, and—oh, shade of Peter Ramus—the balance wheel of one-third of an inch diameter is said to make 1,760 revolutions per minute.

In 1815 a knife was made at Messrs. Travis & Son's, Manchester, containing three blades, buttonhook, saw, punch, screwdriver, box, corkscrew, hook and gimlet, two phlemens, a species of lancet, picker and two more lancets with a ring at the head. The knife, we learn, was only eleven-sixteenths of an inch long and weighed 1 pennyweight 14 grains. At this end of the century Sheffield can boast of a dozen pairs of shears, each so minute that they altogether weigh less than half a grain, if report speaks true.

Of examples of microscope writing there is no end, but one of the most famous is mentioned by Pliny, who said that Cicero had once seen Homer's "Iliad" in a nutshell. In order to prove the truth of this a French writer named Huet experimented in the presence of the dauphin, whose tutor he was in 1670. He first showed that a piece of sheepskin 10 by 8 inches can be folded up to fit the shell of a walnut, and then proceeded to prove that he could get 250 stanzas of 30 verses to a stanza on each side of the paper, or 7,500 verses on each side. Of the paintings in miniature Carel van Mander, the sixteenth century painter and historian, quotes the landscape painted by Lucas van Heere's wife. This work of art represented a mill with sails bent, the miller appearing as if mounting the stairs loaded with a sack. A cart and horse were seen upon the terrace upon which the mill was fixed, and on the road several peasants were discerned. The whole was perfectly distinct and accurately finished, and yet so minute that it could be covered with one grain of corn. Surely that most microscopic artist, M. Jan van Beers, must be descended from the fair painter of that extraordinary work of art.—London Standard.

The proper way to build health is to make the blood rich and pure by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, the one true blood purifier.

NOTES AND NOTIONS.

Pretty Novelties of Various Kinds For the Wardrobe and Household.

ing, but only suit young and blooming or delicate faces. Something more elaborate and reserved is required by mature wearers.

The hair is worn less bouffant at the sides than was the case last season, and the coil at the back is placed higher, but the hair is waved throughout its length and kept fluffy.

Now that jardinieres of pottery and china are made in such a variety of shapes and colors, the old methods of covering flowerpots containing plants for decoration have quite gone out. In case of emergency the pots may be draped with pieces of damask, but usually they are concealed in bowls of faience.

Very pretty cushion covers may be made of flowered cretonne in which the pattern has been embroidered with colored silks.

For broche and fancy materials with large designs and for heavy velvet perfectly plain skirts are still most highly favored of any in spite of the efforts at the introduction and establishment of skirt trimming that are continually being made.

The princess gown, preferred by brides is a feature of this winter's fashions, and many elegant gowns are made in this style, which gives grace and slenderness to the form of the wearer. Thick cloth and velvet are materials specially adapted to it, as they fall in fine folds and are rich enough to require little adornment.

A picture is given today of two decorations for the bodice. The first consists of a pair of revers of chinchilla, bordered by a ruffle of fur, under which is placed a frill of ivory lace. The revers are joined by a double plait of nile green velvet ornamented with small paste buttons. The collar is bordered by a fur ruffle and a frill of lace, and there is a cravat of nile green velvet and lace. The second decoration is a cravat of blue velvet bordered with chinchilla and enriched with a coquille of ivory lace. The collar is bordered with fur, and has two plaited, fur edged tabs at the back.

The camel is a beast of great strength and endurance. Nothing hurts it until the proverbial "last straw" is added to its burden. The human digestive system is very much like a camel. It is really astonishing how much abuse it will stand. Sometimes, however, something worse than usual will be eaten, and will go through the stomach into the bowels, and there it will stick—that's constipation. Nine-tenths of all human sickness is due to constipation. Some of the simplest symptoms are coated tongue and foul breath, dizziness, heartburn, flatulence, sallowness, distress after eating, headaches and lassitude. A little thing will cause constipation, and a little thing will relieve it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a certain cure for constipation. They are tiny sugar-coated granules, mild and natural in their action. There is nothing injurious about them. Sold by druggists. I highly recommend them for all kidney or bladder troubles."

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES IN GEORGE ST. CHURCH.

PREACHED YESTERDAY BY REV. DR. ROSE, OF MONTREAL.

The Sunday School Children Attend Service in Force in the Morning and Listen to a Special Address.

Yesterday morning the pews of the middle and right aisles of the George street Methodist church were filled with its Sunday school scholars, from the members of the infant class to those of the senior Bible class.

Rev. Dr. Rose, of St. James street Methodist church, Montreal, preached the anniversary sermons at both services and gave an excellent talk in the afternoon to the Sunday school.

Dr. Rose said in his opening remarks in the morning, that since he had come to the church he had changed his subject to one more fitting and interesting to the young people and children before him. His sermon was in reality an object lesson put in the form of a story. He said that once he and some gentlemen and one or two little boys were in the woods. Suddenly the smallest boy of the party showed he had eyes that could see, by picking up something. That something was a stone, and imbedded in that stone there was a fossil. Now, in the first place there was a time when that stone was perfectly soft, now it is very hard. Thirdly, it took a long time for that stone to harden, and fourthly, we are told that that stone can be brought back to its original condition of softness. Dr. Rose was not very sure on this last point, but he said he would hazard the remark anyway. First, notice that this stone gradually hardened. It did not harden all at once. If you take that stone to a geologist he can tell you its whole history by reading it from the stone itself.

HE CAN TELL YOU

whether a leaf rested upon it or not, what strata it belonged to and how long it took to get into its present condition. Every influence is to be seen in it. Then Dr. Rose compared the human heart to the stone. Our hearts were soft, while we were in our infancy and boyhood and maidenhood. Then, sometimes the heart gets harder, little by little, until it becomes petrified like the fossil.

If you are anxious to come into the kingdom of God, remember your heart can be transferred back to its original condition, just like the stone. Remember another thing, older people, children are born into the Kingdom of God, not developed into a fit state to enter it. If you keep your hearts tender it will develop into that which is true and good. We all know that hearts are calloused by sin.

In the next place the stone did not harden right away. It hardened gradually like the man who wanders away from God. He does not wander away very quickly. Gradually his heart becomes hard and cold. Perhaps some of you listen to-day to hymns which used to stir your very heart's centre. Again, you used to listen to sermons which would move you deeply, and now you hear them and are unaffected. Environments of life are hardening your heart, slowly but surely.

Next, God can read our history just like he would the stone's. He knows the history of every human life. We are recording that history as we make it. This record will stand forever. There is no such a thing as annihilation. Nothing goes into nothingness. Whatever is once is always, though the form be changed. Burnt wood goes to ashes, and ashes are used for something else, etc. We sometimes sing "Kind words can never die." It is the same with unkind words and actions.

The world was then likened by Dr. Rose to a huge phonograph, and he said whenever one speaks a word it never ceases to be—be it good or evil. A certain gentleman played a solo into the receiver of a phonograph. He then set the machine in motion but the sound was very indistinct. Then he played over the same piece, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and the phonograph was reproducing a dance waltz. This is just like God. He does not always give us what we want.

In conclusion Dr. Rose advised all who wanted their hardened hearts made soft and human, to come to Jesus, the healer of all diseases. He then announced his text which was Ezekiel, 36th chap. 26th verse, "And I will take away the stony heart out of your flesh and I will give you a heart of flesh."

The children gave the best of attention throughout the entire service.

THE EVENING SERVICE.

"The Scripture which I will ask you to study with me to-night is in St. Mark's Gospel, 8th chapter, and 35th verse:

"For whosoever would save his life shall lose it, and whosoever shall lose his life for My sake and the gospel's shall save it."

With these words Rev. Dr. Rose began his evening's sermon to a large congregation. He pointed out that Christ had anticipated the sufferings which His followers would have to endure, and how they would be rejected of the elders and of the chief priests and scribes. He also foresaw the days of tribulation with which they would come in contact. He may have repeated to them the words of the text to fortify His followers from the fear of death. Gain through loss—life through death, etc.,—this principle ran all through the Bible.

At this point he recited a poem of Browning's on this subject. This spiritual law is supreme. Natural decay is the price of natural life, even in our bodies. He told a story of a little by who was attracted by a painting in a store window. As he had not the means of purchasing it he was accustomed to go and look every day at the painting. This was the means of inspiring him to study to be an artist. Twenty-five years later he saw the same picture and was surprised to think that such a rough work of art should have any interest for him. So we see this picture was the means of leading him on to something greater.

Other incidents were recited by the speaker to illustrate this point.

Earthly gain is not always real gain. God always gives the greater for the smaller. The New Testament counts him rich who has a good character. He saves his life who loses it for others' sakes. Judaism is a unless it gives way to Christianity. This can also be said of Unitarianism. The churches must lose individualism and merge into one—each church losing itself in the whole. The object of the church is to build up the kingdom. In Revelations John says, "In that city there is no temple."

Dr. Rose then made the statement for which he had been paving the way in the former part of his sermon. It was to the effect that the Sunday school must die to live. He said it can only continue to save its life by consenting to lose it. This, he said, was his earnest conviction.

It was a somewhat startling statement to make when he was preaching Sunday school anniversary sermons, but Sunday schools of the twentieth century would not be called Sunday schools. It is the objection to this name which keeps away a lot of young men and other persons. They don't like the idea of going to a school. In some cases this name takes away the classes they want to teach. It would be called "The morning diet of worship." It will be clergical in its form. They will all meet together in the church and after a short service will break into classes. The pastor will have a class for the preparation of the teachers. The church must have a good number of rooms and be of ecclesiastical architecture. The conductor must be a trained theological teacher and know how to conduct it. The ministry and teachers must be trained. The services of to-day are too many. The man who attends them all on Sunday is more tired Monday morning than he was Saturday night.

Again, home life is at fault. The new method will only have three services. Dr. Rose thought it very peculiar that parents will send their children to Sunday school to be taught by any willing helper. They should know the teachers. The Sunday school of to-day is recognized as an almost distinct organization from the church—something like the Christian Endeavour Society. This is wrong. Then the people must not be preached at. They must be taught the Bible. Our services need simplifying.

Rev. Dr. Rose said that he was not prophecying, but this was a dream which he had had, and it was his earnest conviction that this method would come in vogue early in the twentieth century.

Cracking The Acorns and Blotting Out Prices

These are the days in which people are buying where they can buy cheap. They don't care a fig for commercial ethics. They dote on Bargains. Cheapness captivates them. When once the people are convinced that a store really sells GOOD GOODS CHEAP their patronage is secured. If its prices are at cost, well and good; if below cost, so much the better.

Blotting Out Oak Hall Prices

and writing them down to a fraction of their former selves, is what we are busy doing every day with the Oak Hall Stock. These altered prices speak for themselves. All the price tickets show that Oak Hall Prices are back numbers, although the Clothing is UP-TO-DATE.

Since we adopted the Spot Cash System, the cash is flowing more freely into the till. Our most esteemed patrons commend our new plan heartily, as they note the substantial results in still further Reduced Prices. CASH IN THE TILL

Owing to the very small margin of profit in the Tobacco trade, especially since the Duty was increased, we are compelled to adopt STRICTLY CASH Methods in future.

To continue to give Credit means doing business "blindfold" as others have done—incurring bad debts and losses,—instead of having a DEAD SURE THING and knowing just where we stand by the Cash in our Till.

Therefore, on and after MONDAY, FEB. 7th, SPOT CASH will be the invariable rule in this store. Tobacco manufacturers demand Cash for their goods, and as Cash is the Power in Buying we must make it the Power in selling, in order to keep business on the jump.

A TALK ON TEA, YES, EVERYBODY READ IT.

A lady from a village near Peterborough called on us last week and said that she wanted to get some of that fine tea that she had seen advertised in the "DAILY EXAMINER" and sold at the Purple's Prime Tea Store, 324 George street. After critically examining the tea she made a purchase of a quantity and promised to send her friends to buy from us, as she said our tea was clean, beautiful and bright—no dust, no mixing or doctoring—the grades are the very best. Another lady in town says that her mother will not have tea from any other store than ours. She buys the very best Ceylon Tea which cannot be excelled in strength and purity. Another gentleman says what on earth do you do with the large quantity of teas that I see at your establishment. Some of the large chests of Ceylons must be valuable and come up to money; yes, they do but the people soon buy them up. You have a large stock of Canned Goods which would be a credit to any store in town; yes we have, and we are selling 3 for 25c. A prominent party in town offered to take the lot and give us a cheque for the amount, but we promised to give the working people the benefit of this bargain and we are doing it. We have a fine assorted stock: Fresh Groceries, Teas, Sugars, Spices, Canned Goods, Butter, Lard, and our own raising of Pickled, Smoked Salted Hams and Bacon, completely eclipsing anything on the market. We do not destroy the meat with salt or saltpetre, but cure them on the very best methods which are a secret to ourselves. Our own home made Pickles at 10c per bottle, our own Jams, Jellies—pure articles and at prices to suit all. Come to the best, get the best, and save your money by buying at the PEOPLE'S GROCERY, 325 George Street.

Lady Henry Somerset on the Cantonments Act.

OCEAN STEAMERS COLLIDE.

The Lake Ontario Was Badly Damaged—The Opening of Parliament—A Forecast of the Speech From the Throne—Jealousy May Prevent the Chinese Loan Being Completed—Cable News.

London, Feb. 8.—Lady Henry Somerset has written a letter to Lord George Hamilton, the Secretary of State for India, to the effect that the letter which she wrote him early in 1897 in connection with the repeal of the Indian Cantonments Act was widely misunderstood, and she therefore desires to withdraw her endorsement of any form or principle of state regulations of vice.

Text of Her Ladyship's Letter.

New York, Feb. 8.—Miss Frances E. Willard received yesterday from Lady Somerset a copy of the letter which her ladyship sent to Lord George Hamilton, as follows: "Lord George Hamilton—Your Lordship invited me ten months ago to give you my views of the subject that has been addressed to the Government of India on the health of the army, and in the letter in which I did so I ventured to suggest some methods, moral and disciplinary, which seemed the only ones likely to succeed, because they at least had the merit of being logical. I was led to do so by these considerations: First, the despatch in question seemed to imply that the Government would give encouragement to any form of alleviating agency and so emphasized the altered spirit in which the subject was approached and that such suggested supervision would only affect the incorrigible, and, second, the system I had in mind would be so drastic and penal in its nature as to make State interference odious and finally impossible. That was ten months ago, and in that time nothing has been done of which the public has heard to strengthen the forces that make for moral improvement. What has been done, viz., the repeal of the Indian Act of 1895. It seems to have been the object of the Government to obtain the maximum of impunity with a minimum of protest from those who desire to see the State shape its actions according to the Christian view of ethic. I need not tell your Lordship I am not writing to say how strongly I am still opposed to the course which the Government has taken, but I find that my letter to your Lordship of last year has been taken by many to mean that I am on the side of the accepted view of the State regulations, and I am from time to time being quoted as a sympathizer with such view. I am, therefore, writing to withdraw any proposals made in that letter for the reason that the events of the last year have convinced me of the inadvisability and extreme danger of the system that I though in April last might be instituted. The absence of any serious effort of the Government to bring about a higher standard in the army is final proof to me that as long as regulations of any kind can be resorted to as a remedy, it will always be regarded as the one and only panacea. My view was that it would be instituted as a basis and possible effective auxiliary to moral efforts. I find it will always be accepted as a convenient substitute. I take the liberty of addressing an explicit withdrawal of an endorsement of any form whatever of the principle of regulation, because it was in a letter to your Lordship that I orginally incurred the responsibility. I trust, therefore, on your Lordship's indulgence to forgive me troubling you further with the matter. I remain, my Lord, very truly yours, Isabel Somerset."

"P.S.—I would be glad to have your Lordship's permission to publish this letter."

FORECAST OF THE QUEEN'S SPEECH.

References to Foreign Affairs, India, and Especially the United States.

London, Feb. 8.—The following is a forecast of the speech from the throne, to be read at the opening of Parliament to-day:

Referring to China, the Queen will speak favorably of the Pacific relations between the powers, and will then point out the satisfaction experienced at the conclusion of the treaty of peace between Greece and Turkey.

Dealing with India, complimentary allusions will be made to the valor and loyalty of the British Indian troops.

There will be a lengthy reference to the West Indies and the Government's intentions as outlined by the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, and the speech will then express the hope that the international sugar conference will have satisfactory results.

The first place in the estimates is devoted to the army needs, and the chief bills promised will be Local Government for Ireland and the London Municipalities bill, providing, as announced by the Marquis of Salisbury, for the modification of the London County Council in the direction of decentralization.

The Daily News says that the settlement of the claims by the Behring Sea Arbitration Commission will give opportunity for a cordial reference to the United States, whose sympathetic action on the Chinese question has testified to a better feeling between Great Britain and America than existed at the opening of the last session of Parliament.

The speech is expected to be long, but rather more remarkable for its omissions than its contents. It is quite evident that no settlement has yet been arrived at respecting China, which will admit of more than a bare mention. The same applies to the West African difficulty with France and the troublesome Cretan negotiations, which are again in a state of collapse. The public is anxious to learn more about the Soudan advance, but is not likely to be gratified to any extent. It is understood, however, that there will be a long reference to the West Indies and the sugar commission.

Canadian Steamer in Collision.

Liverpool, Feb. 8.—The British steamer Lake Ontario, Capt. Campbell, arrived here yesterday from St. John, N.B., and Halifax, with her starboard bow stove. She reported that she had been in collision with the Wilson Line steamer Hindoo, Capt. Douglass, from Hull, Jan. 22, for New York. The location where the collision occurred was not given, and the damage sustained by the Hindoo was not known.

One More Railway Line.

Victoria, Feb. 8.—Application will be made at the next session of the British Columbia Legislature for a charter for a railway from Observatory Inlet to Glenora, to connect with the Teslin Lake Railway. This will give a route from the coast to Dawson all in Canadian territory.

Over a hundred miners' licenses for the Yukon district were issued on Friday, and almost as many Saturday, by the collector of customs. He has issued over fifty daily since the licenses arrived.

FRENCH FOREIGN POLICY.

Compensation Amounting to Millions of Francs Received From China.

Paris, Feb. 8.—In the Chamber of Deputies yesterday M. Francois de Loncle, Deputy for Castellane, raised a debate on the Government's foreign policy.

M. Hanotaux, the Foreign Minister, pointed out in the course of his reply the exclusive advantages France had recently secured in Southern China. In every case, he said, France had obtained compensation for injury to her interests or subjects in China, together with the punishment of the culprits, and these indemnities, during the last two years, had reached a total of 4,600,000 francs. French diplomacy, continued M. Hanotaux, was activity, but he regretted the timidity, amounting to indifference, of the French traders. France was convinced that any cataclysm causing a disruption in China would have the most terrible consequences, and the Government's aim was to work hand in hand with the other powers for the peaceful development of the country.

M. Meline, the Premier, replying on the subject of the Franco-Russian alliance, said it was only because of the alliance that Europe had escaped a general conflagration and the European concert became possible. To those who had expressed the fear that France was Russia's dupe, he would reply that when one has friends one must not display a constant distrust of them. The alliance was a work of long duration. "Therefore," he concluded, "France's friendship is not impatient; Russia's friendship is a profound and durable sentiment and care should be taken not to sap its foundations."

War on the San Jose Scale.

Hamilton, Feb. 8.—Government Spraying Inspector W. Orr will shortly despatch a staff of men over the Niagara fruit district to look for the San Jose scale. They will not have power to destroy, but will report to their superior. The crusade is being made early in the year in order to wipe out the pest before its breeding season.

Small Wound, But Fatal

London, Feb. 8.—Mr. Robert Ferguson, one of the oldest and most esteemed residents of the Township of Lobo, died Saturday afternoon at his home, aged 76 years. A few days ago, while placing a stick of wood in the stove, he tore the flesh slightly on the back of his right hand. Poisoning set in, and the result was fatal.

THE DEBATE ON THE ADDRESS.

Hon. George E. Foster Speaks on Its Issues.

REPLY OF SIR R. CARTWRIGHT.

An Effective Defence of the Government—The Yukon Railway Policy—Comment Is Reserved Until the Production of Papers—An Economical Policy—The House.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—The speech that Hon. Mr. Foster delivered yesterday in continuance of the debate on the address occupied almost four hours of the time of the House and ran the whole gamut of Dominion issues, some of which are so threadbare as to be almost devoid of interest. His reference to the Yukon Railway contract was so brief and general as to give but a faint idea of his views upon this now burning question, but in the absence of the papers he may be pardoned if he but alluded to the matter and qualified his utterances by the statement that the information to be brought down might cause him to change his views. On the face of it, he condemned the scheme, but he reserved the right to revise his opinion.

Shortly after the House opened Mr. Davin asked for information regarding the destitute condition of the Galicians at Yorkton.

Mr. Sifton said the Immigration Commissioner at Winnipeg was investigating.

Sir Charles Tupper asked if the Government would lay the Mackenzie-Mann contract on the table to-morrow, and with it all probable estimates as to the amount of gold taken out of the Canadian Yukon; what proportion was taken out by Canadians and what proportion by foreigners.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said the information would be forthcoming as far as possible.

Mr. Sifton informed Mr. Foster that the question of American soldiers without arms being permitted to pass through Canadian territory was the subject of communication between the two Governments.

Mr. Foster's Speech.

Mr. Foster, who, on rising, was received with faint Conservative cheers, at the outset laid down the principle that the leader of a party should keep his pledges to the electorate when he came into power. Sir Charles Tupper had criticised the Premier's stewardship of 18 months, and not a word had Sir Wilfrid Laurier ventured to say in reply. Instead, he rose in almost childish anger, seeming to have an idea that the adulation of 18 months must continue to take the place of criticism. He boasted of many things, but proved nothing. He made an unfortunate explanation of the Yukon deal, declaring that this great subsidy was only for a temporary railway, and made no defence whatever of his sacrifice of preferential trade. Such was the Premier's speech, which ended in a splutter of fireworks.

Mr. Foster then proceeded to criticise the speech. Dealing with the claim of national prosperity, he said one of its essentials was political stability. Fourteen years ago Mr. Fielding started a propaganda to take Nova Scotia and the other Maritime Provinces out of Confederation. The good sense of those people was against such a move, and they would have none of it; but, if Fielding had had his way, this Confederation of to-day would not have existed. Memory also carried him back to the agitation headed by Mr. Wiman, and supported by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Louis Davis and Sir Richard Cartwright, an agitation which led to Mr. Blake's withdrawing from public life, on the ground that it was endangering British connection. If that agitation had succeeded where would have been the stable importance and good credit of Canada, of which Ministers boasted to-day? When the National Policy, which had done so much to build up this country, was inaugurated how bitterly it was opposed by the Liberals! They could claim credit for good accomplished by that policy, and yet last year they swallowed their professions of 17 years and accepted that policy. (Hear, hear.)

Take the matter of railway bonuses, regarding which Sir Richard had said they were at one with the Patrons, what was their record in this respect? The Baie des Chaleurs operated for six months at a loss to help a bye election; Drummond County deal at a capitalized cost of seven millions; Crow's Nest deal at a cost of two millions more than the Conservatives could have got the railway for.

And now this Yukon Railway deal. One week before the meeting of Parliament, after a secret conference, of which no one knew anything except those who were interested or wished to be interested, a contract was entered into, one condition of which, according to Sir Louis Davis ten days ago, was that a portion of the contract was to be carried out in twenty-six days. Before Parliament could discuss the measure a portion of the work was to be in operation. Those were things which should cause the Liberals to ask themselves whether or not Ministers should be allowed to take important franchises and dispose of them as they pleased.

Mr. Foster then took up Sir Wilfrid Laurier's speeches in England, and claimed that he had violated every profession made in Canada to endeavor to secure preferential trade.

Sir Richard Replies.

Sir Richard Cartwright, who was received with enthusiasm, replied. He congratulated the gentlemen who had so far taken part on the ability of their speeches. Some of the members were inclined to

THE FRUITS OF GOOD GOVERNMENT.

One of the most beautiful sights one can see is to to seen at the Auburn Woollen Mills these nights. One passing these mills at any hour of the night, sees the huge pile of building blazing with light; the hundreds of windows flashing like gems in a setting of gray gold, and the rear of the busy machinery comes muffled to the ear across the wintry night. We heard it on the stump in the last Dominion elections that if the Government were returned to power that these mills would be closed down. This absurd statement is not more unreasonable and unfounded than the wild yarns and absurd statements we are hearing upon the stump in the present campaign. The fact is that the Auburn Woollen Mills since the last Dominion elections have been busier than they probably have been since their establishment. They are now running day and night, week after week, and it is stated that they would be kept moving at this rate for the next six months, if, in the meantime, they did not receive another order. And these mills are not the only industries that are booming. The William Hamilton Manufacturing Company has no closing time—day and night and night and day the crash of the ponderous machinery goes on unceasingly. Maldram's Flouring Mills are running day and night and Mr. McAllister's mills at Lakefield are also busy day and night. The Canadian General Electric Works have been exceedingly busy and the Peterborough Lock Works Company has never had a busier season than in the past six months. Further detail might be gone into, but we have evidence—in the great industrial activity in town and the country at large; in the great increase of commercial confidence and the enormous expansion of the Canadian export trade, and in a general revival of trade—in these we have evidence that the people did wisely in intrusting the party now in power at Ottawa with the management of the affairs of the country, and with such magnificent record of performance and good administration, and the people have confidence in their ability to serve the country efficiently in the future, as in the past. The electors know a good thing when they have it, and the verdict of the people on the first of March will be overwhelmingly in favour of the present Ontario Government.

SEPARATE SCHOOLS.

The Opposition Record in Relation to Them.

From 1867 to 1894 the country was greatly agitated over the question of Separate Schools, and various measures were introduced by the Government, and by members of the Opposition dealing with the rights and privileges of Separate School supporters.

In 1890 Mr. Meredith introduced a bill providing that Public and Separate School Trustees should be elected by ballot. The school act, as it then stood, provided that the ballot should be optional in the case of Public School Boards. There was no provision for the election of Separate School trustees by ballot. If Mr. Meredith's bill prevailed, then the ballot would be compulsory both as to Public and Separate School Trustees. The Government held that an optional ballot was all that public opinion demanded, either in the case of Public or Separate Schools and accordingly they resisted the passage of Mr. Meredith's bill. On a vote being taken, Mr. Whitney and Mr. Willoughby and other members of the Opposition voted for the compulsory ballot being applied to Separate Schools. In the same year Mr. French, member for the County of Grenville introduced a bill repealing the clauses of the High Schools Act and the Separate Schools Act, which allowed Separate School Boards to be represented on the High School Boards. This motion was resisted by the Government and was defeated, notwithstanding that Mr. Whitney and his colleagues voted for it. In the same year, Mr. Creighton, member for North Grey, introduced a bill with the object of compelling teachers of religious orders in Separate Schools to take the same examinations as lay teachers. The Government resisted this bill, because under the B. N. A. Act, Roman Catholics who were members of religious orders were entitled to teach in a Separate School without examination. It was evident that the action of the Legislative Assembly, as proposed by Mr. Creighton, would be void, inasmuch as it was a violation of the Confederation Act. Notwithstanding the unconstitutional character of the bill and its intention to withdraw from Roman Catholics privileges which they enjoyed since 1841, Mr. Whitney voted for the bill. In 1891 Mr. Miscampbell moved in amendment to the Public School act to strike out the bill the provision for appointing French and German examiners in settlements where the French and German language prevailed. Provision existed in the law since 1871 whereby teachers of French and German origin were allowed to take part of their examinations in the French or German language. This was considered but reasonable in view of their imperfect knowledge, in some cases of English, notwithstanding that their general attainments were of a very high order. Mr. Whitney voted for Mr. Miscampbell's motion.

In the same session Mr. Wood, of Hastings, moved that the election of Separate and Public School trustees should be by ballot. As in the previous year, the Government opposed a compulsory ballot being applied either to Public or Separate Schools. Mr. Whitney voted for a compulsory ballot. In 1894 Mr. Meredith introduced a bill in favour of a compulsory ballot for the election of Public and Separate School trustees in cities, towns and incorporated villages, and in townships in which Township Boards are established. Mr. Whitney voted with Mr. Meredith.

In the session of 1894 Mr. Conmee introduced a bill proposing an optional ballot for Separate Schools, which was supported by the Government and subsequently became law, and which, after various amendments as to details, is the law now. Mr. Whitney voted against this optional ballot.

In the same year Mr. McCallum, member for East Lambton, introduced a bill proposing various amendments to the Public and Separate Schools Act. One was a compulsory ballot for Public and Separate Schools; another required Separate School supporters to give notice every year to the clerk of the municipality that they intend to be Separate School supporters. (The law since 1863 has been that notice once filed with the clerk in proper form need not be renewed annually.) A third was, in appropriating the Government grant to Separate schools, no grant was to be allowed to schools taught by members of the Roman Catholic church belonging to religious orders. Other amendments of a less important character were proposed in Mr. McCallum's bill. Its passage was resisted by the Government and the bill was defeated. Mr. Whitney's vote was recorded in its favour.

THE HEATHEN CHINEE'S DILEMMA.

Between Russia and England He May Yet Have to Ask Japan for Favors.

London, Feb. 8.—The Pekin correspondent of the Times, telegraphing yesterday, says: "I have reason to believe that China will be induced to decline the British proposals in consequence of Russia's opposition and similarly that she will be unable to accept the Russian proposals owing to England's opposition. The country is helpless and unable to pay the indemnity except by instalments, but China nurses the hope that Japan will agree to an extension of time. Meanwhile an Imperial decree authorizes an issue of treasury bonds at five per cent. to the amount of 100,000,000 taels (about $72,000,000). It appeals to the officials, the gentry and the merchants to assist the issue in the remote possibility of raising enough to meet the instalment due next May.

"The method proposed increases the growing distrust in the Government. Similar bonds, issued at the time of the war of 1850, were repudiated in 1862.

"The unsatisfactory and evasive nature of the Imperial edict exacted by Germany in condemnation of the Shan-Tung murders affords Germany the desired pretext for remaining in military occupation of considerable territory, including the town of Kiao-Chou, beyond the area leased. China still maintains that the murder of the German sailor was justifiable homicide and due the sailor's misconduct, but she is powerless to refuse Germany's exactions."

Found Her Lost Daughter.

Winnipeg, Feb. 7.—Five years ago the little daughter of Mrs. Turton of Moose Mountain disappeared and could not be traced and the mother's efforts to locate her were futile, until recently, Rev Mr. Sproule of Pierre, N.D., who had heard of the case, found a white child in possession of a wandering tribe of Indians. He had the child photographed and on receiving the picture Mrs. Turton and her neighbors at once recognized it as her daughter. The girl, who is now nine years of age, is on her way to Winnipeg.

THE DEBATE ON THE ADDRESS.

think that Sir Charles Tupper was just a trifle verbose in his opening remarks, but they would have listened to him twice as long for the sake of his peroration and the incidents that followed. The spectacle which they had the pleasure of beholding on Saturday was one which in his Parliamentary experience was equalled by few and excelled by none, save only on one memorable occasion, when seven members of the Crown saw fit to withdraw their advice from his Excellency in the interval between the presentation of the address and its consideration. He suggested that the ceremonial of opening the Conservative caucus should be opened with the famous lines of Dr. Watts:

"Birds in their little nests agree,
And 'tis a shameful sight,
When children of one family
Fall out and scratch and bite."

Laurier said that it was quite right [illegible] to deny the soft impeachment of Mr. Maclean, when he was charged with having produced the article in the Outlook," but he should not have accused Mr. Maclean of a breach of confidence. It was remarked [illegible] some honorable gentlemen were rather disposed to dethrone Sir Charles from his place of pride, but he suggested that Mr. Maclean might find that a very barren victory. It was no use, Sir Richard said, running amuck against exalted persons, as Sir Charles had done the other night. He was not prepared to say that he was not justified by precedent and tradition. It was an old, time-honored Conservative principle that you might rotten-egg the Governor-General if you chose; some members of the Conservative party had even emphasized it by burning Parliament house and publishing annexation manifestos in order to express extreme disapproval of the conduct of her Majesty's representative. Of the banquets tendered to the Baronet on his return from England not the least was that given by the person referred to. Perhaps Sir Charles wished to imitate the children of Israel, when they were advised before leaving Egypt to accept jewels of silver and jewels of gold before they went out into the wilderness to look for more. The leaders of the Opposition had declared that they had in the trade and navigation returns proof positive of the utter failure of the Government's efforts to encourage trade with England. That proof, they said, lay in the fact that the imports from Britain in the fiscal year 1897 had fallen off by $3,000,000. Surely these honorable gentlemen did not wish to conceal from the House the fact that for ten months of that year the whole trade was carried on under the tariff framed by these honorable gentlemen, that the new tariff did not come into force until the last two months of that year, and it could not be supposed that in two months they could change the errors of twenty years. During the Conservative rule the imports from England had been reduced by one-half, and those from the United States had been doubled. If they wished to criticise the Government's tariff they must wait a little while; the tariff had not yet fully come into effect. If at the end of the year from the time it did so there was not an increase in British trade, then they would have a right to criticise it.

The Opposition speakers had referred to the opinion expressed by the law officers of the Crown upon the new tariff. Sir Richard pointed out that there were two schools of juris-consults, one holding with the Government and the other holding an opposite view; it was not for him to say which was correct, but it appeared to him that the greater the difficulties to be overcome and the greater the opposition, the greater the credit that was due to this Government, and due especially to his friend Sir Wilfrid Laurier for reversing a policy, indiscreetly entered into by former English Governments, and for obtaining for Canada the proud distinction of being the first to emancipate herself and the colonies from restraints, which, by the confession of the English Premier himself, ought never to have been laid upon them. In answer to the charge that a preference was given to nine-tenths of the foreign countries, Sir Richard pointed out that of our imports six-tenths come from the United States, and three-tenths from England, and what did the balance amount to? Taking out France, Belgium and Germany, all of which had been previously given a preference by a special treaty, and there remained not half a dozen millions, and this was chiefly in articles such as tea, sugar, etc., to which the treaty could not apply at all.

The Railway Bargain.

Turning to the Yukon Railway question, Sir Richard said that it could not of course be properly discussed until the agreement was laid before the House in the form of a bill. He was prepared to admit that he would, like his colleagues, have preferred to have been able to deal with it in the usual way, by securing tenders, etc. But anyone who had paid the slightest attention to the position of affairs of the Yukon would realize that there was reason for great speed in opening up that country, if they would avert grave disaster in the event of a shortage of food there. Then, too, the men who were going to expend several millions in building that road were taking tremendous risks. The matter in its present shape was a huge gamble. The duty of the Government required them not to risk the money of the people, but to take such measures that if the district turned out as they hoped, it would be a very rich country, and the people of Canada would reap a fair profit. He appealed to the House to preserve in the discussion upon this question a wise and prudent course towards the United States. In this connection their motto should be "Suaviter in modo fortiter in re," and on this principle the Government proposed to act. "We will not surrender the rights of Canada," declared Sir Richard, before leaving the subject, "neither on the other hand is the Government of Canada going to be urged forward into hasty and injudicious actions to please a small section of the population." Sir Richard emphatically made the claim that the Government is entitled to the confidence of Parliament and the people, and he gave reasons, first, that the credit of Canada stands at a higher point than it has ever before reached, and, second, that the trade of the country has been expanding by leaps and bounds during the last eighteen months. During the first twelve months of this period the exports had exceeded the imports by $17,00,000, and during the succeeding six months the exports had exceeded the imports by $20,0000,000. Sir Richard pointed to the roll of victories which have followed the advent of the Liberal party to power as additional proof of the fact that the party merits the confidence of the people. It was with no small degree of pride that the Minister mentioned the fact that while eighteen months ago the Government had a majority of 22, now it can count 47 good men and true. He stated with an air of candor that he was not desirous of seeing the Opposition any weaker, because an eminent authority had declared that the best guarantee for good government was an active, well-organized and scrupulous Opposition.

An Economical Policy.

Sir Richard intimated that the Government did not propose to continue to discount the future, as had been done during the term of the late Administration. "It is a matter of common notoriety," the Minister declared, "that every day, almost every hour, projects are submitted to the consideration of the Government. It is not enough to secure the co-operation and aid of the Government that a project should be good per se. We hold that more than that must be shown. It must be in the general interest, and it must be one that promises reasonably speedy results." Sir Richard pointed out that it was no fault of the Government that when it came into power it found the country saddled with a heavy debt, and expenditure and with heavy taxation. The income had been so heavily mortgaged that instead of having $38,000,000 or $39,000,000 to come and go upon, the Government was practically cut down to $8,000,000 or $9,000,000. The best way of improving the condition of the Dominion finances, Sir Richard said, was by the measures adopted by the Postmaster-General to extinguish the deficit in his department, by the improved administration of the railway system under Government control, that the country may obtain some return for the five and fifty millions sunk in the Intercolonial, and by the policy of the Minister of Finance, which is to get rid of the sinking fund and reduce the rate of interest to about 2½ per cent., and thus reduce these charges from $12,000,000 to $7,000,000. "But," added Sir Richard, "in 18 months we cannot overbome the accumulated errors of 18 years; the Augaean stables take some time to clean." The policy of the Minister of the Interior in taking advantage of the mineral discoveries, he said, was likely to result in a large addition to the population, and in that way important reductions of the public burdens would be made. "If," Sir Richard continued, "we can bring down the gross expenditure to $35,000,000, with a population of 7,000,000, the country will be better off than with a gross expenditure of $40,000,000 and a population of 5,000,000, and these things I hope are within measurable distance. For that end we must ask for the same loyal and generous support from our friends that has been so loyally given us in the past. I am authorized to say that the Government are aware that engagements were incurred during last session which may strain the resources of the Government to some extent, and we desire to have in this session as few expenditures as we possibly can consistent with the absolute necessities of the country."

Sir C. H. Tupper followed at some length.

Mr. Davin moved the adjournment of the debate and the House adjourned at 11.45 p.m.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS.

Mrs. Harriet Adlam, 400 Sherbrooke St., Peterborough, Ont., says: "A few years ago I had an attack of La Grippe, which left me with impaired action of the heart. Naturally this produced a condition of extreme nervousness. I felt tired all the time. My blood seemed to get thin and watery, I could not eat well and was very restless at night.

"I am glad to say I have fully recovered from all of these distressing symptoms, and I think it only my duty to name the medicine which was productive of so much benefit to me. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cured me, gave me back my old-time strength, restored my appetite, and enabled me to get restful, refreshing sleep. My blood now circulates vigorously throughout my system; and I cannot do otherwise than heartily recommend the remedy which worked so well in my case."

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

NO CHAMPIONSHIP FOR PETERBOROUGH.

THE LOCAL TEAM BEATEN ON ITS OWN ICE BY OSGOODE.

The Visitors Play a Whirlwind of a Game and Gain the Glory of Being the First O.H.A. Team That Could Win Here From the Seniors.

For the first time since their organization the Peterboroughs were beaten on their own ice last evening by an O.H.A. team. It was the Osgoode's of Toronto, that did the trick, and in all fairness it must be admitted that they did it by superior, all round play. Referee Creelman, of Toronto, the Vice-President of the Association, assisted the visitors to the best of his ability, but they did not need his aid, as they would have won anyway.

The Toronto team came to Peterborough with an advantage of two goals, through having defeated the Peterboroughs in the Queen City by the score of 9 to 7. Local enthusiasts were positive that the lead would be easily overcome, as the Peterboroughs had always seemed to be invincible on their own ice, but although a victory seemed to be an assured fact, yet the rink held one of the largest crowds of the season when the puck was faced off.

Whether they are to blame or not, the team committee will have to

of the defeat, as at the last moment a change was made in the personnel of the forward line, Chris. Graham being substituted for Belleghem. The EXAMINER has always taken the ground that changes in the rush line were dangerous at all times, and the prediction seems to have been again verified in this instance.

No reflection is intended to be cast on Graham's playing. Far from it. He is a faster skater on the ice than Belleghem, and that is just where the trouble lay. When the puck was passed to his side of the rink, he would be several feet in advance of the position which would have been occupied by Belleghem, and would have to turn to secure the puck. Only an instant would be lost, but an instant is everything in hockey, and he would have an Osgoode defence man on him before he could relieve himself of the puck. Thus was the combination broken again and again.

The boys worked hard from start to finish, and in the first few minutes they looked like sure winners, but their old combination was broken, and as individual work is a thing unknown to the team, their efforts were of no avail.

The defence played a superb game and many a rush of the visitors was shattered, but they got by often enough to place seven goal to their credit, whilst the Peterboroughs only got three.

GEORGE CARRUTHERS

at cover point for Osgoode, was the star of the evening, his playing at that position being about the finest ever seen on the local ice. His interference was sharp but devoid of roughness, and his whirlwind rushes were the feature of the match.

Play commenced at 9 20 o'clock, almost an hour after the time advertised, and the players lined up in the following order:

Peterborough.		Osgoode.
Wasson	goal	McMurrich
Montgomery	point	McClennan
Hollingshead	cover-point	Geo Carruthers
King	forwards	E Carruthers
Davidson		Johnston
Phelan		Morrison
Graham		Lillie

Phelan drew the puck but lost it on the pass and there was a rush on the Peterborough goal. Hollingshead relieved, but back again came the tide. This time it was Montgomery who stepped into the breach and was the nucleus of a Peterborough rush on Osgoode, which resulted in a roof raising cheer, announcing that the red shirted boys had scored first blood. Time 2 minutes.

Phelan took the puck from the face off and passed it back to Hollingshead, who lifted it in the Osgoode goal. The visitors forwards went back to the relief and securing the puck brought it down with a fine combination rush resulting in a scrimmage in front of the Peterborough citadel. The puck was suddenly shot through the crowd and found its way

BETWEEN THE FLAGS,

Osgoode thus tying the score. Time 1 minute.

The opening of the next game was marked by a rush on the Osgoode goal. McLennan in relieving raised the puck with such good will that it struck a rafter in the top of the rink. Referee Creelman, however, held that it had been stopped by a Peterborough player's stick while it was in the air and called an off-side. From the face-off the puck was carried in on the Peterborough sticks, but Wasson stopped the shot and Montgomery, in relieving, made a fine rush up the ice and passed to Phelan, who scored. Time 2 minutes.

The next game was unsatisfactory. Osgoode made a rush and the shot was straight on the flags, but too high. A couple of Osgoode men started to argue over the matter with the umpire, who, by the way, was their own man, and in the meantime operations had been transferred to the other end of the rink. In a moment the puck came down on the Peterborough goal again and before the defence could rid themselves of it the two visiting players, who had been arguing with the umpire, secured the gypsum and sent it flying between the flags. No more flagrant case of "loafing off side" could have been witnessed, but the game was allowed. On Osgoode's protest the umpire was removed, who had declared the first attempt to score as being a high shot. Mr. C. LeBrun was substituted. Osgoode now of one goal in the match.

After a warm seige of four minutes on the Peterborough flags the visitors notched another point, although Wasson made two beautiful stops.

In the opening of the next game Hollingshead got a heavy fall through being tripped, but the offending Osgoode man was not penalized. Hollingshead did some great work within the next few minutes, stopping no less than five long lifts by blocking the puck with his chest and then relieving. Carruthers then made a rush with the puck and in trying to dodge Hollingshead, tripped over his foot. This caught the referee's eye, and poor "Holly" was put up on the fence with the consolation of knowing that the man who had tripped him had not even been warned. Although they were playing seven men to six it took the visitors 17 minutes to tally, making the score 4—2 in their favour.

Half time was called before any further scoring was done, but in coming on the ice again after a brief rest, the visitors notched still another point in half a minute. Score 5—2.

The play then became very fast, as the Peterboroughs made rally after rally, but

IT WAS NO USE,

and after 13 minutes hard play another goal went to Osgoode. Score 6—2.

In the next game Phelan and Graham both had openings to score, but the goal-keeper was too many for them and saved his flags by two fine stops.

Then Montgomery brought the puck to the front with a rush and made things so lively for a time that he was given three cheers by the spectators. Phelan made a hot shot on the flags which McMurrich caught and ran out with. The referee gave the Peterboroughs an off-side decision exactly in front of the Osgoode flags and with a Rugby football scrimmage touch the puck was carried through making the score 6—3. Time 9 minutes.

The fastest playing of the evening was witnessed as Peterborough made assault after assault on the Osgoode citadel and the spectators grew very enthusiastic. The sport lasted for ten minutes and then the visitors rallied and scored another game making the figures 7—3 at which they remained until time was called.

The result of the Peterborough-Osgoode round at the series is therefore 16—10 in favor of the Toronto team. This leaves Peterborough out of the running for the championship and both the senior and junior teams are on the shelf for the rest of the season, as far as the O.H.A. matches are concerned, although some good exhibitions games may be played before the season is over.

NOTES.

The action of Osgoode in bringing McLennan from the East to play with them cannot be too strongly condemned. McLennan has a provincial reputation as one of the stars of the old Queen's team, where he played with his brother, the famous Randy. As McLennan has been playing with no other team he is eligible in the eye of the law, but it was an unsportamanlike trick to play and will certainly be a blot on Osgoode's escutcheon. The visitors could have won without him but took no chances.

Belleghem has not been well for some weeks and the team committee thought he was not playing his game. They should have remembered that Bert is generally the star in the games on the home ice.

The secretary of the Peterboroughs announces that there will be in all probability no more games here this season, although the team may take a trip out of town.

TOWN COUNCIL MEETING.

A Resolution of Condolence With the Mayor Was Passed.

The regular monthly meeting of the town council was held last night with the following members present: Messrs. Best, W. H. White, Robertson, Denne, Hamilton, Dawson, Cobb, McWilliams, Langford and J. M. White.

In the absence of the mayor, Councillor Langford occupied the chair, and on account of the recent affliction experienced by Mr. Davis, the council adjourned after passing the following resolution of condolence with his Worship:

Moved by Councillors Best and Dawson, "that in consequence of the death of Mrs. Davis, relict of the late Rev. G. H. Davis, and mother of our worthy mayor, Mr. A. L. Davis, that this council hereby express its sincere condolence and sympathy with the mayor and the other members of the family, and also that this council attend the funeral in their corporate capacity and that we do now adjourn as a mark of respect to the memory of the deceased."—Carried.

SINGLE TAX LECTURE.

Louis F. Post Will Again Address a Peterborough Audience.

The National Single Taxer, of Feb. 2nd, says: "Could such a question be submitted to popular vote, probably a great majority of the single taxers of America would say that Louis F. Post was the most able exponent of the single tax philosophy now living.

Louis F. Post lectured in this town about four years ago, and won considerable respect for the able manner in which he expounded the doctrines of Henry George. He will lecture on "Henry George and his Hobby" in the Opera House, Peterborough, on Tuesday evening, the 15th instant, and no doubt will be accorded a hearty reception by the thinking people of this town.

REGISTERING VOTES.

No Less Than Three Hundred and Fifty-Five Names Were Placed on the List Yesterday.

The streets were almost as lively yesterday as on an election day as conveyances were dashing hither and thither bringing in those eligible to register as Manhood Franchise Voters.

No. 2 Ward did the most business registering 105 names, No. 1 Ward came next with 103, whilst No. 3 had 86 and No. 4 61.

It was expected that about 500 voters would be registered in all, but by present appearances the total will run up into larger figures than that.

Midway between Lakefield and town they picked up of their robes. On reaching the livery barn they made enquiries as to the missing steed but were surprised to find that it had not as yet returned—and at the present time its whereabouts are unknown.

HE WAS FROZEN STIFF.

Sad Occurence Near Haliburton Village—An Inquest Was Not Deemed Necessary.

On Thursday last a settler named Burke who lived alone on a farm about five miles from the village of Haliburton, was found dead in his barn by a neighbor named Holmes. The body was frozen stiff. It appears that Holmes observed smoke issuing from the chimney on Wednesday, but failed to notice any on Thursday, and towards evening, suspecting that all was not right, he made his way to the house through the huge drifts. The door was found unlocked and the dwelling deserted, whereupon Mr. Holmes, expecting the worst, made his way to the barn, where he stumbled over Burke's body outstretched upon the floor. A brief examination established the fact that the unfortunate man must have been dead many hours, as the body was rigid from the action of frost. It is supposed that the poor fellow was stricken with a sudden attack of illness, and being unable to regain the house or seek aid slowly perished from exposure. Two sisters of deceased reside in Beamsville.—Lindsay Post.

MR. STRATTON'S BIG MEETING AT BUCKHORN.

A Magnificent Rally of the Electors Last Night.

THE TRUE BLUE HALL CROWDED.

A Large and Enthusiastic Gathering of the Electors—Mr. Stratton's Fine Address Splendidly Received—Benefits of Good Government Set Forth—Addresses by Messrs. Stone and Hall.

Last night one of the most magnificent campaign meetings ever held in the riding of West Peterborough, and the largest ever held at Buckhorn, was held in Mr. Stratton's interest. The True Blue Hall was crowded to the doors, (standing room even being at a premium), with the electors of North Smith and Harvey, who enthusiastically endorsed the representative record of Mr. Stratton. There were several ladies present. The meeting, consisting of at least 250 persons, was overwhelmingly—twenty-five to one—in Mr. Stratton's favour, showing that this, as other parts of the riding, appreciate good and faithful representation.

Mr. Robert Shaw, the County Council representative of the Lakehurst Division, occupied the chair. In opening Mr. Shaw said they were glad to have a candidate that we did not need to introduce to the people of Harvey. Mr. Stratton was the best representative the people of Harvey ever had—both Liberals and Conservatives held that opinion, and he (Mr. Shaw) had never heard an elector of the township, even the most extreme Conservative, say that he was not a good representative. (Cheers.)

Mr. Stone, who was received with applause, was the first speaker and complimented the ladies on their presence. He said that if the Ontario Government, during its long tenure of office, had failed in its duty, it was the duty of its opponents to show some particulars of that dereliction of duty. If they could not furnish such particulars, then it was the duty of every true elector to stand by and to support the Government. If the record of the Government had not been right, the Liberals would be the first to turn them out, for if there was one thing the Liberal party would not do, it was to follow their leaders through dirt. (Cheers.) The Opposition had been in the habit of making that the resources of the country had been squandered. They talked this way on the stump, but when they were given every facility to prove these charges in the House, they did not take advantage of the chance given, and now on the side lines and in the country school houses they repeated those charges unsupported by proof, and Mr. Stone inquired whether men who took such a course were worthy of the confidence they sought at the hands of the people? (No! and cheers.) One of the other great reasons given why the Government should not be returned to power was the piggery issue. (Laughter.) These and the discredited school book cry and the baseless cry that it was time for a change were the Oppostion's stock in trade. The cry for a change had some point in the late Dominion elections, when the Conservative leaders were flying at each other's throats and the long suffering Conservative electors had joined with the Liberals to hurl them from power. But the plea did not apply to the Ontario Government members who were working harmoniously together and had given and were giving splendid administration in the interests of the country. (Cheers.) If the cry did not apply in the case of the Government neither did it apply to Mr. Stratton. (Cheers.) Mr. Garvin had found fault because Mr. Stratton had asked who he was. This was a very proper question to ask in relation to a stranger, who was seeking election and trying to displace the best representative the riding ever had. Mr. Stone pointed out that prominent Conservatives like Mr. Dennistoun and Mr. Bradburn, and others, had thought that Mr. Stratton was a good representative, and would not run, and yet a gentleman who has only been two years in the riding—

Mr. Garvin's brother—He has been four years here.

Mr. Stone—Well, two or five years—it's all the same—and he enquired what better Mr. Garvin could do than Mr. Stratton had done. Mr. Garvin had a perfect right to be a candidate, and was, as far as the speaker knew, a respectable gentleman, but the electors could't elect every respectable gentleman in the community to Parliament. (Laughter.) Mr. Stone went on to say that there was no political principle involved in the present contest. It was simply the desire of the Opposition to gain power and the spoils of office and he opined that if they succeed our finances would not be in the satisfactory condition they were now. Mr. Stone asked why they should change Mr. Stratton, who had excellently, faithfully and satisfactorily represented West Peterborough for a dozen years. Would they exchange a true and tried man for a comparative stranger?

"No! No!"

Would they change the Hardy-Ross Government for Mr. Whitney?

"No! No!"

Where, Mr. Stone asked, would the country be if these men came into power. "In the soup!" (Cheers.)

Mr. Stone closed a well-put and a well-received address by a little parable illustrating what would become of the resources of the province in case the Opposition came into power, and took his seat amidst hearty applause.

Mr. Stratton's Address.

Mr. Stratton on rising to speak was received with enthusiastic cheers. He was glad to see so very large an attendance at his first meeting in Buckhorn. He pointed out that we should judge an individual or a party by its record, and went on to point out the various sectarian issues that constituted the record of the Opposition in the past provincial campaigns. If those cries were honest then, if they had any force then, they had the very same force now, for the conditions were the same. If these cries were justified and honest then, why was the Opposition not urging them now instead of imploring the people to forget their past record in this regard? They were thus acknowledging that they were using those cries to mislead the people, and yet they were now coming before them asking to be trusted on the strength of their record, when, as a matter of fact, they were anxious to ignore that record. The real question before the people was had the Government faithfully administered their trust? And to show that the Opposition could not assail their record successfully, Mr. Stratton pointed out that they had to resort to misrepresentations and he instanced the statement of Mr. John Green which involved the charge that the government had persecuted the late W. A. Scott, in respect of depriving the government of $28,000 worth of timber dues while the Moore Company for a similar offence had "not been fined they had only been warned." Mr. Stratton showed that this was flat mistatement of the facts, as Mr. Green must have known, for only a few weeks ago the public press was full of the proceedings of parliament where it was shown that the Moore Lumber Company had been fined over $10,000 with the costs of the investigation amounting to over $600 for a similar offence. Yet he would misrepresent the actual facts, and it was asked if men who thus deliberately misled the public were entitled to belief when they made other statements to bolster up a weak cause? They were not to be trusted, and if they could not be trusted on the stump they certainly were not fit to conduct the affairs of this province. When Mr. Garvin heard Mr. Green on that platform make these false statements knowing, if he knows anything (and he assumes to know it all) that they were false statements, he (Mr. Garvin) was equally guilty with Mr. Green. Mr. Stratton went on to show that Mr. Garvin was misleading the people in stating that Ontario had no Auditor General as in the Dominion. He showed that in 1886 an Act was passed to appoint an Provincial Auditor who could not be removed by the government, but only by the vote of the Legislative Assembly. Why should Mr. Garvin make such if it was not to deceive the electors?

AN UTTERLY FALSE STATEMENT,

Mr. Stratton also dealt with the misleading charge that there was no opportunity to investigate the public accounts. He showed that every dollar of expenditure was provided for in the estimates passed by the House, and not a cent of money outside of that could be expended. Cheers.) He described the process through which every bill under the Appropriation Act, passed through the hands of the Minister of a Department, of his Deputy, of the Provincial Auditor, of the Governor-in-Council, and the Lieut.-Governor himself, before it can be paid, and then it is published in the Public Accounts, which contain every bill but not the details—any more than the accounts of a municipal corporation are publicly printed in detail. But the Opposition can get all the details if they want them. In 1897 the Opposition moved for hundreds of accounts to be brought before the Public Accounts Committee, but though told they were ready for their examination they didn't look into one of them, and when they neglect the opportunity the Government affords for investigation, are they honest in charging the Government with not giving them a chance to examine the public accounts? Mr. Stratton asked if Mr. Garvin at that meeting had explained how they would better serve the interests of the province in regard to returning money to the people for their benefit, or better a record of an expenditure of ninety-three millions of dollars without a single dollar of it going astray. (Cheers.) If they could not point out where a single dollar was improperly expended then we must conclude that it was well spent and that the Government had faithfully served the people. (Cheers.) Mr. Stratton then went on to detail the large increases that had been made in the several departments—money directly returned to the people for the lessening of direct taxation. If the Opposition could not not point out how they would do better, how they would maintain the public institutions at a cheaper rate than at present, were the expense per head was less than any other country in the world, were we justified in changing a government that had such a proud record? (No, no, and cheers.) They said we did not buy supplies for public institutes by tender. This was another mistatement. Every article that could be profitably and which it was practicable to buy by tender, was so bought. The sixteen were bought now by tender publicly invited, eleven more than were bought at the time of Sandfield Macdonald. Let the Opposition point to any country in the world that maintained its unfortunates better and at a lower price. (Cheers.) Mr. Stratton passed an eloquent eulogy on the system of education which had beaten the world in competition at the Worlds' Fair. We were proud of the boys and girls educated in our schools who took the highest places abroad, and who were in turn the teachers in our schools. When Mr. Garvin becomes Minister of Education—(Laughter)—

A Voice—He is not in it.

When Mr. Garvin becomes Minister of Education he will pass a law that no teacher be allowed teach under 21 years of age. He (Mr. Stratton) would leave it to the discretion of trustees whom they should employ, they were certainly capable of managing their own local affairs (Cheers). In regard to the expenditures for education Mr. Stratton pointed out that $50,000 a year was appropriated for poor and weak schools of which this and adjoining counties got a liberal share. He went on to show that the government had increased the expenditure, but they had done so as the province grew and as the wants of the people demanded. He showed that in the past twenty-six years the County of Peterborough had received $750,000 for services that represented a direct relief to local taxation, and he (Mr. Stratton) was sorry that more money was not available for that purpose, (cheers) and in all these expenditures, amounting in all to over 89 millions, there had not been a single scandal. (Cheers.) Mr. Stratton mentioned the fact that the Opposition had sat in their places in the House, and saw millions expended for public purposes and had not objected when objection would have done some good, but had waited till they got on the stump to make misty charges that they had no proof for. Mr. Garvin had charged that in the dying hours of the session the Government had made large grants to railways to bribe the electors.

The subsidy to the Irondale and Bancroft Railway was a long standing arrangement. They were to receive a certain grant on the completion of every ten miles and that was all that had been done. The subsidy to the James Bay Railway was to open up a new country, what was said to be the best agricultural portion of the Province, and so far there were no electors and no voters in that district, and where did the bribery come in? (Cheers.) That was the way those stumpers talked, with the hope of misleading the electors. He justified the expenditure on railways, and if he could get a grant for a railway from Peterborough to Bobcaygeon and Kinmount he would do it. (Cheers.)

Mr. Stratton went fully into the reasons why the reformatory was placed in Oxford and the Normal school in London, and after setting forth the of the province he dealt with the school book question. Mr. Garvin had shown several sets of books and had made unfair comparison, but he had no argument unless he could show a school book of any other province or country that was as good value as the Ontario School books. (Cheers. Mr. Stratton showed the audience a book—"Canadians in the Imperial Service"—a work by a Conservative politician in West Peterborough, Mr. J. Hampden Burnham. When this book first came out it was sold at a dollar and a half, but there was no demand for it and it could now be bought for 15 cents and the booksellers are glad to get rid of it at almost any price. So with Conan Doyle's novels which Mr. Garvin was comparing with the Third Reader. The novel had seen its day and there was no longer a great popular demand for it and consequently it was sold for what could be got. Mr. Stratton submitted that the Ontario readers could be produced more cheaply. If they were like the Presbyterian Hymnal, produced in London with cheap labour, they could be made cheaper. But what would become of Canadian labour that was now employed in producing our school books? (Cheers.) The government believed in keeping Canada for the Canadians and the government was blamed for this course.

Mr. Garvin had charged that the government had robbed the municipalities of their officials. Only the license inspectors were taken, and the municipalities were glad to get rid of the responsibility. Mr. Garvin showed how this change had benefitted this country, and after a reference to the piggery and the Ennismore bridge, on the same lines as dealt with at O'Reilly's school house, Mr. Stratton concluded by appealing to the electors to say whether he had served them faithfully, and whether he was was worthy of a renewal of confidence in preference to a man they did not know, and in the outbreak of spontaneous applause that greeted the close of his speech there can be no doubt of the all but unanimous verdict Harvey and North Smith will pronounce in his favour.

Mr. John Hull, of Lakefield, who with a few others, was present from the village, briefly addressed the meeting. He said we had the best constituency, the best government and the best candidate, (Cheers,) and he thought it would be to the interest of the country and West Peterborough if we elected Mr. Stratton—

A voice—you bet we will, and cheers.)

The splendidly successful meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the chairman, and cheers for the Queen, Mr. Stratton, the Hardy Government and Mr. Stone.

REGISTER! REGISTER!

Registration took place yesterday with the result that 355 names were added to the roll under the Manhood Registration Act—No. 1 Ward 108, in No. 2 Ward 105, in No. 3 Ward 86 and in No. 4 Ward 61.

Let it be remembered that to-night is the last night to register—up to 6 o'clock, and to-morrow the last day up to 7 o'clock.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Stratton's friends will see that all those not on the voters list for municipal elections and elections to the Legislative Assembly are reminded of the necessity of registration to entitle them to a vote. Remember that TO-NIGHT is the only NIGHT left, and to-morrow from 10 o'clock until 6 p.m. Liberal workers know their duty. Let them do it.

CAMPAIGN COMMENTS.

He laughs best who laughs last.

It is amusing to see the cool way in which Mr. Garvin and his supporters take possession of the electors.

Captain Carson seems to think he has the bodies and souls of the Canadian General Electric Company in his keeping, when he promises to bring them up like sheep to the slaughter to vote for Mr. Garvin. Have the employees no minds of their own? When Captain Carson makes a bargain with Mr. Garvin to trot out the employees of the Canadian General Electric Company, has he any assurance that he can deliver the goods?

Mr. R. E. Layfield may boast at Mr. Garvin's committee rooms that he has the employees of the Canadian General Electric Company in the hollow of his hands. Don't it look a trifle cheeky for Mr. Layfield to boast that he will bring the boys to the ballot box and guarantee every vote according to sample?

Mr. W. S. Robinson may have some hidden hypnotic power which will justify him in guaranteeing that the employees of the Canadian General Electric Works will vote as he tells them.

This is a free country, and it is only in New York where a ward heeler gets hold of a newly-landed batch of foreigners, that votes can be delivered in job lots, like so many parcels of dry-goods.

Capt. Carson and Mr. Layfield may think they have "de gang," as they call it in their minds, solid, but the boys may have some little idea that they can think and vote for themselves.

It takes three columns of last night's Review to describe Mr. Garvin's attitude at the meeting of Mr. Stratton's he attended at O'Reilly's school house, Ennismore. If Mr. Stratton's meetings are all Garvin meetings why doesn't he continue to attend them? Mr. Garvin and his friends realize that he made a serious mistake when at O'Reilly's school house he rushed off the platform, with hands in the air, and brazenly and improperly and gratuitously introduced the Manitoba school question into provincial politics and to stir up religious rancour in a mixed audience. People don't need to take Mr. Garvin's or Mr. Stratton's statements, all they have to do is to ask the audience at that meeting.

Mr. Garvin is a great man in his committee rooms. The cheers and laughter that are spoken of must be as good as a play to those who read the reports and know the circumstances.

Mr. Gilchrist, says he has known Mr. Garvin for fifteen years and he is not the "greatest falsifier he ever met"

Let Mr. Gilchrist ask Mr. Garvin to prove the statement he made at Buckhorn that it was a well known fact that Mr. Stratton's property was "mortgaged for all it was worth."

Mr. Gilchrist and Mr. Garvin are both asked to prove the statement" the proof is easy, search the registry office and see if Mr. Strattons property is not all clear.

What has this to do with politics any way? Mr. Garvin says in his committee rooms that he is not personal. What has the state of his present private affairs to do with present politics?

Mr. Garvin loves to attend Mr. Strattons meetings. He claims "he turns them into Garvin meetings." Why wasn't he at Buckhorn last night the "turning" would have made his head swim. The only chirp heard in his behalf there came from his brother.

Mr. Garvin in his committee room asked if he was not justified at O'Reilly's in defending himself? He shouldn't have wantonly provoked the exposure of his unrighteous attempt to stir up strife in a peaceful community.

Mr. Garvin knows that he supported all the attacks in past campaigns on the minority, yet he now wants his past to be forgotten.

Mr. Gilchrist naturally feels that he is justified in standing by Mr. Garvin, but he himself knows how far Mr. Garvin is justified in trusting him. Eh? Mr. Gilchrist.

A Sure Cure For Consumption.

There is no such thing. Scott's Emulsion comes the nearest to it, but even that will not cure advanced cases, but taken in time it will cure this disease.

"What Shall a Man Give?"

The solemn question comes home to almost every man at some period in his career. "What will you give in exchange for your life?" It is like that other solemn question about the soul. Just as an honest man feels that nothing of earthly value can be weighed against his soul so a man who has one friend to love him knows that life is too precious to be bartered away for ambition, or money, or pride.

But men are slow to believe that overwork sometimes kills; a man hates to admit that his health ever needs any particular care. He feels miserable and "out of sorts" but tries to "bluff it off" until he gets flat on his back, unable to do a stroke of work. He becomes obliged to spend no end of money for doctors and even at that can hardly save his life.

How much more sensible, and in the end how much cheaper at the first signs of physical weakness to write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., and obtain, free of charge, the advice of a skilled and educated physician who has a wider reputation for the successful treatment of chronic diseases than any other physician in this country.

In a letter to Dr. Pierce, Mr. J. W. Brittin, of Clinton, Dewitt Co., Ills., (P. O. Box 475), writes: "For over a year I was troubled with liver complaint. Had no appetite, could keep nothing on my stomach, and had severe pains in my stomach and bowels. I doctored with home doctors but did not obtain relief until a friend advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I began taking it at once and after taking four bottles I think myself cured, as I can eat anything I want and my food never hurts me."

THE FUR SEASON.

Beauty and the Beast United by Fashion's Authoritative Decree.

Fur, fur, and again fur, is the programme this winter, and the custom of mixing different varieties of fur will enable many women to utilize old fur garments which have been laid away and kept in good condition. Fur sewing is a trade by itself, and few amateurs are successful at it, but there are many little shops which make a specialty of rehabilitating fur and peltry of all kinds at a moderate price. Small pieces of fur also find their use as trimming for collars, sleeves and revers or as part of a braided or embroidered pattern, bits of fur often appearing in the most costly of such decoration employed for outer garments.

Fur blouses come high, but we must have them, and we must have them elaborately made, satin lined, perhaps embroidered, and certainly gathered in at the waist by a belt exhibiting the cunning of the silversmith's art. Of course these blouses, being bulky of necessity, ought to be worn by very slender women only, but this rule of good taste is not observed as strictly as might be desired. Short pile furs are invariably chosen for blouses, chinchilla being the first favorite. Next to fur blouses in extreme fashion, or perhaps parallel with them, come velvet ones trimmed with fur bands, fur embroidery, fur revers, fur collars, fur cuffs, and these are less clumsy looking on a full figure, although a blouse of any kind is not suitable to the Junoesque type of femininity.

The sketch shows a cape of black astrakhan. It is decorated with a stole of chinchilla, which passes behind the collar, forms a vest in front and extends in long ends on the skirt. The chinchilla collar is lined with astrakhan and has a large bow of black satin at the back, fastened by a paste buckle. The lining is of black satin.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Library.

A sensibly planned library is completely lined with bookcases to the height of a rather tall wainscoting, with no shelves running farther up the wall, so that every book may be easily reached, and portable steps—that library bugbear which has kept many a good book in retirement—need never be brought into requisition.

OF INTEREST TO MEN.

The attention of the reader is called to an interesting little book lately published by that eminent Expert Physician, G. H. Roberts, M. D., 253 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. This book is one of genuine interest to every man and its plain and honest advice will certainly be of the greatest value to any one desirous of securing perfect health and vigour. A request for a free and sealed copy will be complied with, if addressed as above and the Peterborough EXAMINER mentioned.

A Throbbing Heart

Is caused by wrong action of the heart, and can only be cured by correcting and regulating its working. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills do this. Here is the proof: Mr. John Griffin, St. Lawrence Hotel, Montreal, says: "They cured me of nervous, throbbing heart trouble and distressing headache. My heart beats as steady as a clock now."

HE LOVED THE SEA.

Tennyson Used to Muse, 't From the Downs of the Isle of Wight.

Tennyson said, "Somehow water is the element I love best of all four," but in the recent memoir he is also credited with saying that he "never cared greatly for the sea on the south coast. It is not a grand sea, only an angry, curt sea."

Probably that was a view expressed before he became familiar with the locality, for though the Atlantic does not plunge against the isle of Wight as against Cornwall and the west of Ireland he himself has proved how much power and enchantment the sea reveals from the downs. Let the weather be fair or foul, nature is never dull from the vantage ground of those convexities which seem like the rind of the earth and give an illusion of vastness and openness beyond their actual area. Men striding on ridges and etched against the sky indeed seem "as trees walking." The wind rustling in the ear, the sheep bleating, the sea churning among the bowlders, the occasional bellowing of a steamer for a pilot, the swallows crying in their low flights and the gulls screaming give the only sounds. When the mist closes over the scene, a strange sense of being disembodied possesses us, we are lost in the impenetrable vapor, and the gulls pass over our heads, visible but for an instant as they float from obscurity into obscurity. In times of storm one seems to be at the seat of the elements and a witness to all their processes. The clouds roll and break against the cliffs like another sea, and sunbursts flashing from them leave a silver swath over the vexed and somber billows. On sultry days a waterspout, whirling like a dervish, is no uncommon sight, and he who makes the downs his observatory becomes wise in all the phenomena of sea and air. Climbing them at night gives one the feeling of scaling the walls of heaven itself. They slope like the sides of a pyramid, and the apex of the pyramid impales the stars. On sunny days the sea below is purple, and every shade of blue and green that can be thought of, even (to use one of Tennyson's own descriptions) "like a peacock's neck."

Rarely was there a visitor at Farringford that he was not brought up to the beacon and shown all these wonders and beauties. Except in his closing years the poet was found upon them in all weathers and at all seasons, and from them and the surrounding scenery he drew many of the landscapes of his poems.—North American Review.

DOG OPENED FATHER'S EYES

Experience of a Man Who Had Several Growing Girls.

"It is quite interesting to be the father of several growing girls," said one of a group of family men in the smoker of a suburban car.

"Yes," answered another one, with a shrug of his shoulders, "especially when they all want new gowns at the same time."

"I wasn't thinking of that," said the first speaker, "but of a way they have of taking the wind out of your own sails. It never occurred to me until the other morning that it was not to see me that young fellows kept dropping in to play cards and make themselves agreeable. I tumbled at last, but it was my hunting dog Jack that opened my eyes."

"Your hunting dog?" echoed the crowd.

"Yes. I had heard of nearly every kind of a plan for the communication of lovers except a dog. In this case Jack became Cupid's messenger. Those boys borrowed the dog ostensibly to go hunting, but I have learned since that they didn't know a gun from a hoe handle. They tied Jack up overnight, and as soon as he got out in the morning he made a bee line for home. If I hadn't seen the corner of a paper sticking from under his collar I should never have suspected the eagerness with which these girls tried to head him off from me."

"He had a letter for them?"

"No, just a note asking the privilege of seeing dear Miss Kate or Miss Sue in the park for a walk and a chat. Nice idea, employing the dog of the family in a clandestine correspondence! I answered that note myself, and the two girls haven't spoken to me since. Jack is tied up, and I'm watching the cat now, for I have no doubt they'll find a way to circumvent me."—Chicago Times-Herald.

THE CATTLE KINGS.

ONCE A GREAT POWER IN THE WEST, THEY ARE NOW DISPLACED.

Small Stock Raisers Have Driven Out the Larger Ones—Big Ranges and Water Holes Fenced In—How the Bonanza Cattle Outfits Made Enormous Profits.

The great cattle ranges of western North Dakota and Montana, where for nearly 20 years, the bonanza cattle outfits have held complete sway, and where cattle have roamed the vast prairies at will, like the buffalo a quarter of a century ago, are passing out of existence.

The deathknell of the large cattle companies has been sounded by the innumerable settlers who have taken up vacant government land in the great grazing region, built "shanties" in the vicinity of every natural spring and water hole, fenced in thousands of acres of grasing land and driven the immense herds of the bonanza cattlemen from place to place, until there is no place left for them to go. All the years that the vast prairies of the west have remained unsettled have been worth millions to the cattle princes. Hundreds of thousands of cattle have been imported, placed upon the ranges at a cost not to exceed $16 a head for the 2-year-old steers, allowed to roam at will for two years, at an average animal cost not to exceed $5, and then sold in the market at Chicago for an average price of $45 to $50. The free ranges offered by the millions of acres of unsurveyed and unoccupied government land have been turned into millions of dollars in cold cash by the cattle kings, but the tide of immigration to the west has sealed their fate and they are ready to go.

For 20 years nearly a vast region lying along the western part of North Dakota and the eastern strip of Montana measuring 100 miles in width and 150 miles in length has been entirely given up to the interests of the cattle kings. Thousands of head of cattle have been grazed year after year, countless trainloads of beeves have been shipped to market and millions of dollars have gone into the pockets of the cattlemen. Pierre Wiebaux, the Montana stockman, said to be the largest single owner of cattle in the United States, has numbered his total possessions of cattle at 50,000 head. The Berry-Boice Cattle company has owned and grazed each year not fewer than 30,000 head, and there are numerous companies that have essayed to keep on the ranges an annual total of from 10,000 to 35,000 head. The vastness of the business of these cattle companies may be estimated from the fact that the annual shipments for the past few years have been from 3,000 to 6,000 head for each of the large companies. The annual profits of the larger companies, after deducting the original cost of the cattle and the cost of their maintenance upon the ranges, are from $75,000 to $150,000—all that from the free ranges of the government, given without taxation or any return whatever.

To understand the situation that has existed up to the present time it must be remembered that this broad region which has been given up to the interests of the cattle growers has not been intersected by a fence, disturbed with a plow or graced with a field of grain up to a few short years ago—nothing for miles but short nutritious grass, which cured on the prairie, as clover in a stack, and served equally well for food in dead of winter as in the heat of summer.

Forth upon this vast area every spring have been poured streams of gaunt, ill shaped, long horned and lean ribbed southern cattle. Left to roam at will, they have thriven and waxed fat, until in two years they have become sleek and fat and comely to the eye. During all that period they have been as free and untrammeled as were ever the buffalo. But at the close of the maturing period they have been rounded up, driven to railroad stock shipping pens and loaded upon the cars for a trip to market. Their places are taken by fresh importations from the south. And so, year after year, have the processes been repeated, until the profits that were known to have accrued from the business have tempted thousands of small holders of cattle to settle in this region and engage in the beef business on a smaller scale.

The presence of these smaller operators is the inevitable doom of the cattle kings. Their vast herds are no longer allowed to roam the ranges undisturbed. The small ranchmen have built fences and inclosed the water holes. The prairies have been made to yield to the mowing machine, and the former free grass has come to be cut and stacked as hay, until the ranges in many places are bare of feed for the herds of the larger companies. These conditions are responsible for the closing out of the cattle princes. There is no longer room for their thousands of beeves. Fifteen thousand cattle, the property of one of the larger operators, succumbed to the severity of the weather for no other reason than that the ranges had been denuded of grass by the numerous smaller ranchmen. This was a warning that the most obstinate must heed. And so the cattle companies that formerly numbered their possessions by the thousands of head may now number them easier in hundreds. The small ranchman is the man upon whom the market of the future must rely for its beef.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Now They Expiate Their Sins by Tossing Balls of Blue Fire.

Close by the Northwestern tracks at Leavitt street is the home of the "juggling sisters." They were twin prestidigitators in their days of life, so runs the tradition, and now they toss balls of blue fire about as the juggler does eggs, cannon balls and the like. Their pet amusement is to stand on their heads and toss the balls as if they were standing afoot. The force of gravity seems to be reversed for their benefit, for they "toss" the balls of fire down, and the little flames "fall" up. All this is set down just as James MacCourtney, the oldest settler in the neighborhood, tells it. He said the other day:

"Them broad windys over there on the north side of the old building is the place where the sisters comes to show theirselves. The year of the World's fair I counted up their performances, an they come every 56 days. The reason for that is somethin I could never guess, but some smart young chap here figgered out that it was always in the dark of the meon. I've noticed since that there never was no moonlight when they got up there in the windys.

"What's the cause of their hauntin the old place? Why, sir, the story's so old there can't no truth nor lie be made out on it. There's no man in these diggin's longer'n I be, an I ken the story only by hearsay, so to speak. I heerd it from my granddaddy, an he said he heerd it when he was a young man comin here. That mus' 'a' ben in the thirties. Onnyways he sed that the two sisters was persdiditaters. It seems like they give a performance in the house, which was new then in course, an the pair of them agreed ter be locked up in a box thet was to be sealed an fastened, an then they was to get out without breakin the seals. Well, they was locked up, but they couldn't get out, an purty soon they foun theirselves so short of breath they couldn't holler loud enough to be heerd. In course they was in a room away from the other people, so's the common folk couldn't see how the trick was turned. When they couldn't holler, they tried rappin, an the others only thought they was a-workin out of the box an so didn't pay attention. After an hour or so the other peoples got nervous an went in an opened the box, an there was the two sisters, cold dead. They buried 'em together in the box in the yard back of the house, an that's why they juggles the fire balls upside down like."—Chicago Chronicle.

Antifat Mr. Banting's Joke.

The late George von Bunsen, the accomplished and delightful son of the baroness whose "Life and Letters" are well known in America, once told me an anecdote of the late Princess Mary of Teck and the celebrated Banting. The princess became, in her middle life, enormously stout, and finding her weight a burden tried several methods of reducing it. At last, having heard much of Banting, she sent for him. She was surprised to see that he was still extremely bulky, and after a few civil preparatory remarks she said, "But your system has not made you very thin, Mr. Banting."

"Allow me, madam," said Banting. And proceeding to unbutton his coat he disclosed a large wire structure over which the garment fitted. Inside was the real Banting, incased in another coat.

"This, madam," said he, pointing with pardonable satisfaction to his cage, "was my size before I commenced dieting." He then nimbly disembarrassed himself of his framework and stood before the royal lady exhibiting his elegant figure.

Apparently the interview led to nothing but amusement, for the good Duchess of Teck remained very stout to the end of her days.—Exchange.

The camel is a beast of great strength and endurance. Nothing hurts it until the proverbial "last straw" is added to its burden. The human digestive system is very much like a camel. It is really astonishing how much abuse it will stand. Sometimes, however, something worse than usual will be eaten, and will go through the stomach into the bowels, and there it will stick—that's constipation. Nine-tenths of all human sickness is due to constipation. Some of the simplest symptoms are coated tongue and foul breath, dizziness, heartburn, flatulence, sallowness, distress after eating, headaches and lassitude. A little thing will cause constipation, and a little thing will relieve it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a certain cure for constipation. They are tiny sugar-coated granules, mild and natural in their action. There is nothing injurious about them. Sold by druggists. ANCIENT POLITICAL "RINGS."

Olden Time Schemes For Obtaining Wealth and Power.

The evil of monopolies and rings was known to ancients, Aristotle referring to them in his "Politics," and then, as now, it was found necessary to hold them in check by legislation. The monopolist was in Roman law called a dardanarius and punished under the Lex Julia de Annona. Monopolies of clothing, fish and all articles of food were prohibited by the Emperor Zeno under pain of confiscation and exile, so that it is certain that the "rings" of the ancient days were as mischievous as they are now. At Athens a law limited the amount of a corn a man might buy. The earliest recorded instance we have was a corn "ring."

There is an ancient tradition that the king who made Joseph his prime minister and committed into his hands the entire administration of Egypt was Apepi. Apepi was one of the shepherd kings and ruled over the whole of Egypt as Joseph's pharaoh seems to have done. The prime minister during seven years of remarkable plenty bought up every bushel of corn beyond the absolute needs of the Egyptians and stored it. During the terrible famine that followed he was able to get his own price and bartered corn successively for the Egyptian money, cattle and land, and, taking one-fifth for pharaoh, made him supremely wealthy. It was not merely a provident act, but a very politic one, his policy being to centralize power in the monarch's hands.—London Answers.

Fat is absolutely necessary as an article of diet. If it is not of the right kind it may not be digested. Then the body will not get enough of it. In this event there is fat-starvation.

Scott's Emulsion supplies this needed fat, of the right kind, in the right quantity, and in the form already partly digested.

As a result all the organs and tissues take on activity.

MR. STRATTON

WILL ADDRESS THE ELECTORS OF

HARVEY AND NORTH SMITH

AS FOLLOWS:

At YOUNG'S POINT, on Tuesday Evening, February 8th.

A large attendance of the Electors are invited to be present.

Mr. Garvin is invited to be present and will be allowed the usual time for discussion.

E. W. BELL, M.B., President. G. M. ROGER, Sec. W.P.L.A.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.

REV. FATHER CONWAY ON TEMPERANCE.

THE EVIL EFFECTS OF INTEMPERANCE POINTED OUT.

An Appeal Made to the Audience to Become Total Abstainers—His Views on Prohibition—A Stirring and Convincing Address.

The announcement that Rev. Father Conway, of Norwood, would deliver an address on temperance, attracted a large audience in the Catholic Association rooms last evening, and the programme presented was an excellent one in every particular.

The President, Mr. T. J. Begley, occupied the chair, and seated on the platform were Rev. Father Conway and Rev. Father O'Sullivan.

The programme opened with a pianoforte solo by Miss M. Begley. This was followed by a character song "The Bowery Bum and Broadway Swell," by Messrs. Butcher and Moncrief, which was excellently rendered. Miss Annie Simons sang very sweetly "Let Erin remember the days of old," and was followed by that clever young elocutionist, Miss M. Brennan, who recited in a perfect manner "Condemned to Death." Mrs. Geo. Ball sang in excellent voice that charming Irish ballad, "Rory Darlin'", and Master Coughlin recited, as only an Irishman can, "Shamus O'Brien." Miss Doris, a clever young soprano soloist closed the musical portion of the programme by a sweetly sung solo.

Rev. Father Conway in opening his address, referred to the pleasure it gave him to greet his old parishioners in Peterborough. He intended to speak as a temperance advocate and practitioner of twenty five years' standing. He then dealt with his efforts in the early days of his priesthood to form a temperance society in Toronto, and the many obstacles he had to encounter—all of which he overcame, and the temperance society was in existence today.

He was proud to observe, when visiting Ireland recently, the great change that had taken place in the question of temperance. Drunkenness was rapidly disappearing in all portions of the country, and the evil in the course of time would be wiped out.

He then referred to the vast amount of money that was spent every year in drink in this Dominion, and the many happy homes intemperance had ruined.

Whilst in Toronto, in looking at the Toronto goal, Mercer Reformatory, House of Providence, and other institutions, he could not help but, admit that over the doors could be written in letters of blood. "These are the homes of the children of drunkards."

Drunken parents, the speaker stated, produced an offspring of idiotic specimens of humanity, because, the evil effects of the besetting sin is transmitted to the children of drunken fathers and mothers.

Liquor under no circumstances prevents disease. It actually invites disease. In proof of this he recited an incident in connection with the cholera epidemic of some forty years ago. He was but a student then, and with his uncle (a priest) proceeded along the Great Western Railway to prepare for death some cholera victims. Those who were total abstainers, as a rule mastered the disease, but the tippler's died once the cholera fastened its fangs on them, and he remembered distinctly seeing the priest step over the unfortunate bodies as he prepared them for death. The cholera was but God's judgment on the drunkard.

To further prove this contention he referred to an experiment made in the British army of thirty-six soldiers being sent out on a forced march. The first twelve were supplied with whisky; the second twelve with beer and the third twelve with water and the latter number were the only ones who held out to the end.

The reverend gentleman gave a number of incidents in which the vice had ruined the brightest minds, and blasted prospects for a successful future. He quoted statistics from the State Department of Massachusetts which showed that nine-tenths of the idiots in the institutions of that state were the victims of intemperance. He urged upon all present to shun the evil, and told the young girls present to turn their backs on any young man who was addicted to the vice, because the devil out of hell could not inflict a more scourge upon women than a drunken husband.

In referring to temperance legislation he agreed with Principal Grant, of Kingston. Prohibition is a complete fad. Temperance, along with Prudence, Wisdom, Justice and Fortitude, is a cardinal virtue, and you cannot legislate to make a man temperate, much less prudent. Temperance must come from the parents, must be taught in our schools and must be preached at all times by the ministers of the Gospel—and not only preached, but practiced. Man is the head of society and woman is the heart, and she can do a grand and noble work along the line of temperance.

Rev. Father Conway stated that some time ago he visited Maine, the Prohibition State, whilst the temperance laws were in force, and saw more drunkenness in the parks and streets of Portland, its capital, than he did for the same time in Toronto, with a population five times as great, and in one day the fines imposed for infringement of the license laws amounted to $6,000.

He characterized the agitation against hotels as mere twaddle, as hotels were necessary for the public convenience. The proprietors never drag a man into them.

Before closing his address Rev. Father Conway quoted from a circular sent out by His Holiness Pope Leo XIII., in which the evil effects of vice were set forth and the duties incumbent on all Catholics were pointed out. The reverend gentleman closed his eloquent address by urging upon all to shun the vice and become total abstainers.

A hearty vote of thanks was moved by Messrs. John Moloney and John Coughlin, and carried unanimously, after which a few remarks were made by Rev. Father O'Sullivan.

The evening closed with the National Anthem.

THE DISTRICT MEETING OF THE C. W. A.

IT WAS HELD IN THE VICTORIA CLUB ROOMS.

Election of a Chief Consul and Representatives to the Dominion Board—Selection of a District Council.

The annual District C.W.A. meeting was held here in the Victoria Bicycle Club rooms last evening, with Chief Consul A. L. Campbell, of Lindsay, in the chair and the following representatives present:—R. J. Wilson, chairman District Racing Board, and C. D. McFarland, of Kingston; G. M. Farrington, Picton; A. H. Stratton, Victorias of Peterborough, and Peter Campbell, W. L. Innes and F. Dobbin, of the Peterboroughs. The District Consul's report was read as follows:—

"In presenting my report of the years' work in this district I am sorry to have to state that our membership has fallen behind last year by 37 members. The district now contains 619 members and 17 affiliated clubs. Belleville Road club, Bowmanville, Brighton, Port Perry, Stouffville and Trenton clubs have left us, while we have gained the Rideau and Frontenac clubs of Kingston and Millbrook.

"At our district meeting a year ago we made plans for a good season's work and elected, as we thought, the best committee to help. No advance has been made and a great deal of the blame rests on the committees and the local consuls. However, there was so much to be done, and so little time to do it, that some excuse may be found here.

"There is one committee especially with which I must not find fault, and that is the "Rights and Privileges." Both Mr. Farrell and Mr. Dennistoun took a great interest in the only case in which we had to show the protection the Association affords wheelmen and had the satisfaction of securing a judgment. Mr. Dean, of Picton, chairman of the Roads and Touring Committee, was also willing to help the Association along, and did considerable in the way of securing hotel contracts, but as far as I know he did not receive the help he should have from the rest of his committee.

"I have been informed that the Peterborough Bicycle Club intend asking for the Provincial Meet on July 1st, and as they have been unsuccessful on two former occasions I trust that the membership of the district will do all possible to secure it."

Mr. McFarland, of Kingston, asked if the finances would not be supplemented by a return of a percentage of membership fees from the C.W.A. treasury. He had figured that a rebate on fees of $32.10 was due.

Mr. Campbell explained that he had written in regard to the matter and had been told that the money would not be paid. In fact he had secured a hint to the effect that it was expected that the District would make a further contribution to the general fund.

Mr. McFarland thought that the rights of the district should be insisted upon. The money was needed to assist in boosting the membership.

On motion of Messrs. Peter Campbell and A. H. Stratton, a formal demand will be made for the funds.

The election of a chief consul and representatives to the Dominion Board and the selection of members of the District Council then took place, resulting as follows:

Chief Consul—G. M. Farrington, Picton.

Representatives to Dominion Board—A. H. Stratton, Peterborough Victorias; R. J. Wilson, Kingston; A. L. Campbell, Lindsay.

District Committee — Peterborough, Dickson Davidson, W. L. Innis, Peter Campbell and A. H. Stratton; Kingston, C. D. McFarland and R. J. Wilson; Cobourg, T. Morrow, jr.; Belleville, H. Austin; Oshawa, Geo. H. Pedlar, jr.; Port Hope, H. Upton Runnells; Lindsay, A. L. Campbell; Hastings, W. M. Fowlds.

The next District meeting will be held in Belleville on the first Monday in February, 1899.

The matter of the District Championship meet for 1898 was left in the hands of the new district council.

At a subsequent meeting of the new District Council, the following committees were appointed:

Rights and Privileges Committees—R M Dennistoun, Peterborough, (chairman,) Farrell of Kingston and Hopkins of Lindsay.

Membership Committee—A L Campbell, (chairman,) of Lindsay, Lyons of Kingston, and Dickson Davidson, of Peterborough.

Roads and Touring Committee—McFarland, (chairmen), of Kingston, Dean of Picton, H N Runnells of Port Hope.

The matter of the appointment of a local consul was left to the town wheelmen.

Battles in Which Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Always Win.

The Secret of their Power—The Worst Cases of Stomach Troubles Positively Cured—No Question About it—Tested Thousands of Times.

Indigestion and Dyspepsia can never be cured if the bowels don't act regularly. That's where a treatment of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets always wins. The small brown Tablets that come in every box are the best bowel regulators in the world.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets digest the food, and rest and strengthen the stomach The food is changed into pure, fresh, rich blood, and the bowels, stimulated to healthy action by the small, brown tablets, carry off the waste matter instead of leaving it to rot, and sow the seeds of dangerous disease.

The blood must be pure if good health is to be enjoyed. It cannot be pure if the food lies in the stomach, in a hard, dry undigested mass. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets digest it. They don't need any help from the stomach.

Constant use wears the stomach out. Then Dyspepsia and Indigestion set in, because the stomach quits work it goes on strike. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—one or two after each meal—allow it to rest, strengthen it, help it to get well, and do its work. Then Dyspepsia and Indigestion say "good-bye," and clear out.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will positively cure the worst case of Stomach Disease—Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Sour Stomach, etc. There is no question about it. They can't help curing it. If you don't believe it, ask your neighbors. They have proved it.

A TALK ON TEA, YES, EVERYBODY READ IT

A lady from a village near Peterborough called on us last week and said that she wanted to get some of that fine tea that she had seen advertised in the "DAILY EXAMINER" and sold at the People's Prize Tea Store, 325 George street. After critically examining the tea she made a purchase of a quantity and promised to send her friends to buy from us, as she said our tea was clean, beautiful and bright—no dust, no mixing or doctoring—the grades are the very best. Another lady in town says that her mother will not have tea from any other store than ours. She buys the very best Ceylon Tea which cannot be excelled in strength and quality. Another person says what on earth do you do with the large quantity of teas that I see at your establishment. Some of the large chests of Ceylons must be valuable and come up to money; yes, they do but the people soon buy them up. You have a large stock of Canned Goods which would be a credit to any store in town; yes we have, and we are selling 3 for 25c. A prominent party in town offered to take the lot and give us a cheque for the amount, but we promised to give the working people the benefit of this bargain and we are doing it. We have a fine assorted stock of choice Groceries, Teas, Sugars, Spices, Canned Goods, Butter, Lard, and our own raising of Pickled, Smoked Salted Hams and Bacon, completely eclipsing anything on the market. We do not destroy the meat with salt or saltpetre, but cure them on the very best methods which are a secret to ourselves. Our own home made Pickles at 10c per bottle, our own Jams, Jellies—pure articles and at prices to suit all. Come to the best, get the best, and save your money by buying at the PEOPLE'S GROCERY, 325 George Street.

THE YUKON CONTRACT

The Terms of Construction of the Stikine Railway.

HOW THE COUNTRY IS SECURED.

What the Contractors Get for Constructing This Line Through a Country of Snow and Ice—What the Country Secures by the Bargain—Full Text of the Contract.

Ottawa, Feb. 9.—The following is the text of the contract between the Government of Canada and Messrs. Mann & McKenzie, approved by His Excellency yesterday:

This contract, made the twenty-fifth day of January, A.D. 1898, between Her Majesty the Queen, herein represented by the Hon. A. G. Blair, Minister of Railways and Canals, and Hon. Clifford Sifton, Minister of Interior, Canada, herein called the Government of the first part, and William McKenzie of Toronto, contractor, and Donald D. Mann of Montreal, contractor, and hereinafter called the contractors of the second part.

Witnesseth as follows:

1. The contractors covenant with the Government to lay out, construct, equip and fully complete a line of railway, with proper terminal facilities, from the navigable waters of the Stikine River in British Columbia or near the mouth of Telegraph Creek, Glenora or the mouth of Clear Water River, thence running northward to the navigable waters of Teslin Lake, a distance of about 150 miles on or before the first day of September, 1898, the said railway when fully completed to be of the general standard and gauge of the Kaslo and Slocan Railway in British Columbia, and according to specifications to be approved by the Minister of Railways.

The Property of Contractors.

Provided, also, that the said railway shall be the property of the contractors, but shall be subject to inspection and approval by an engineer to be named by the Minister of Railways and Canals before accepted as completed by the Government.

Provided, further, that for the purposes of the season of 1898 and of complying with the requirements of this contract in respect to the completion of the line on or before the said first of September, it shall be sufficient if on or before that date the contractors have the rails laid in such a manner as will permit of regular and efficient operation of the railway although the whole work be not fully completed, and if the said railway be sufficiently equipped for such operation.

Provided, also, that the location of said railway between the points mentioned shall be such as the contractors may decide upon without filing plans thereof prior to completion.

Provided that the grant of land hereby contracted for shall not be made upon a larger mileage than the Minister of Railways considers reasonably necessary for traversing the distance between the terminal points.

Extensions Northward and Southward.

2. The Government shall submit to Parliament at its next ensuing session a measure for the necessary Act confirming this agreement and authorizing the Government and the contractors to perform and carry out the same, also incorporating the contractors and such others as may become shareholders in said company under the name of the Canadian Yukon Railway, or other name, as approved by the contractors (hereinafter referred to as the contractors' company), with power to acquire and perform and carry out this agreement and with all necessary provisions in that behalf and with all necessary powers to build and operate a railway above mentioned and an extension thereof northward to Dawson City or thereabouts and an extension southward to a point in British Columbia to be designated by the Government, and capable of being made an ocean port, also a line of railway from the waters of Lynn Canal to Fort Selkirk or thereabouts, by way of Chilcoot Pass; also branch lines of railway from any points on the company's railways to any property owned by the company, also lines of railway from navigable waters to any property owned by the company — provided that the power to build said line from Lynn Canal to Port Selkirk and said branch lines and said lines from navigable waters shall not be exercised without the consent of the Governor-General-in-Council.

Telegraph and Telephone.

The said act of incorporation also to give the said company full and sufficient powers to build and otherwise acquire and operate docks, wharves and lines of steam and other vessels in connection with its railways and property; also telegraph and telephone lines; also to carry on mining and smelting operations, and such other powers as may be necessary for the due operating and conduct of all business connected with and incidental to the development and working of the minerals (to be granted by the Government as hereinafter provided), and the minerals therein, including power to issue land grant bonds and bonds secured by the company's undertakings.

3. Upon the incorporation of said company and upon the assignment by the contractors to such company of this agreement, and upon the said company covenanting with the Government to carry out the same, and upon the said railway from Stikine River to Lake Teslin being completed and accepted as aforesaid, the contractors shall then, but not before, be relieved from personal responsibility hereunder, and the company shall be thereafter deemed to be the parties of the second part hereto in lieu of the contractors, and shall be bound as such and be entitled to their rights hereunder.

The Five Year Monopoly.

4. For five years from the 1st of September, 1898, no line of railway shall be authorized by Parliament to be constructed from Lynn Canal or thereabouts, or from any point at or near the international boundary between Canada and Alaska, into the Yukon district; and for five years from said date no aid in land or money shall be granted to any person or company other than the contractors and the contractors' company, to assist in building any such railway.

5. The contractors and the contractors' company shall be entitled to receive, in preference to any other person or company, during ten years from said 1st of September, 1898, such aid or assistance in land or money as the Government may be authorized and may see fit to grant in aid of a line of railway from the Stikine River to an ocean port in British Columbia, provided that the contractors or contractors' company are willing to undertake the construction of the same at once and completion thereof within a reasonable time upon receiving notice thereof from the Government.

The Rates to be Charged.

6. The tolls to be collected by the contractors or contractors' company upon the line of railway hereby contracted for between Stikine River and Teslin Lake, shall be first fixed by the Governor-General-in-Council, and the tolls so fixed shall not be liable to reduction until the said railway has been in operation for four years, but such tolls shall be reduced by the Governor-General-in-Council by 25 per cent. from and after such four years, and after the said railway has been in operation for seven years they shall be reduced by 25 per cent. on the tolls as previously reduced, but after the said railway has been ten years in operation the tolls shall be subject to the general railway laws of Canada in that behalf.

7. The land granted to the contractors or contractors' company hereunder shall be free from taxation for ten years from the granting thereof, except municipal taxation by an incorporated city, town or village within the Yukon provisional district.

A Sleigh Road in Six Weeks.

8. The contractors shall immediately construct a practicable sleigh road from the mouth of Stikine River to Teslin Lake and shall provide suitable shelters or sleeping places for travelers at intervals of not more than twenty-five miles along such road; such road and stopping places to be available for use at the earliest possible moment, and in any event not later than six weeks from the execution of this agreement.

9. The contractors or contractors' company shall provide or arrange with others to provide steamboat transport of freight and passengers between the terminus of said railway on Teslin Lake, or other terminus northerly thereof, and Dawson City, to and fro.

$250,000 as Security.

10. The contractors shall within ten days after the execution thereof deposit with the Government in cash or approved cash security the sum of $250,000 as security that the railway from Stikine River to Teslin Lake, hereby contracted for, will be completed and equipped in accordance with the terms hereof, and on such railway being completed and equipped and accepted as hereinbefore specified, the said sum or security shall be returned to the contractors or to whom they may appoint, and, if the same be deposited in cash, interest at the rate of 3 per cent. per annum thereon shall be allowed for the time such cash has been so deposited.

25,000 Acres Per Mile.

11. In aid of the construction of said line of railway from Stikine River to Teslin Lake the Government shall grant to the contractors for each mile of said railway 25,000 acres of land, to be selected as hereinafter mentioned, from the Yukon provisional district, and from that part of the Northwest Territories of Canada lying west of the Mackenzie River and Liard River, and north of the 60th parallel of latitude, such land to be and become vested in the contractors upon the said railway being completed and accepted as completed by the Government, and upon the said land being selected as hereinafter set forth.

Selecting the Lands.

12. The lands shall be selected by the contractors along base lines, and the base lines may be of two kinds:

First—The contractors may take as a base line a line which will correspond with the general course of any lake, river, stream or water course, such line to be determined by surveyor's approximate survey to the satisfaction of the authorized agent of the Minister of Interior, and to follow the general course of the lake, river, stream or water course for the required distance; and Second—The contractors may take as a base line a line commencing at any point located by them and running from such point due north, east, south or west. The land along a base line shall be divided into blocks, each block to extend three miles alone the base line and to extend three miles backwards on each side of the base line. On each base line there shall be at least eight of such blocks, but there may be more at the option of the contractors. These blocks shall be numbered from one up consecutively. The odd numbers blocks shall be the property of the contractors, the even numbers shall remain the property of the Government. The contractors shall take at least four blocks on each base line established by them for the purpose of selection, but shall not be bound to take more, but they may take as many more as they desire and circumstances permit. Thus, upon each base line so established there shall be laid out a tract not less than 24 miles long, the course of said base line by three miles on each side thereof in width, making eight blocks of three miles by six miles. Provided that, if in the selection of lands along any base line the courses thereof prevent rectangular blocks being laid out, such blocks shall be adjusted to the required angles, preserving as far as practicable an area of three miles by six. Any shortage or surplus of such area shall be adjusted by the prolongation or shortening of such base line.

The contractors may also at their option select additional blocks lying on either end of any odd numbered block along a base line, but such additional blocks must be three miles square each and they shall not exceed three in number on each end of each such odd numbered block.

13. The contractors shall make selection of one-half of the lands to which they become entitled under this contract within three years from Sept. 1, 1898, and of the remainder within six years from that date.

Protecting the Water Courses.

14. No portion of the beds of the Rivers Yukon, Lewis or Hootalinqua, or Lakes Teslin, Bennett, Tagish, Lebarge or Marsh (said lakes and rivers forming continuous water course) or of the banks thereof for 25 feet on each side of ordinary high water mark, shall pass to the contractors under any selection of lands made under the agreement.

15. The free rights of passage and use along navigable or floatable streams within the lands selected by the contractors shall not be impeded by them, and if any stream be diverted by them from its natural channel an equally convenient navigable and floatable channel shall be provided in lieu and the gold commissioner of the district shall decide any disputes which may arise as to whether such equally convenient channel has been provided, and from his decision there shall be an appeal to the Governor-General-in-Council.

Claims They Can't Take.

16. All mining claims actually held and recorded pursuant to Government rules by a free miner or free miners and being within a block of land taken or selected by the contractors hereunder shall be excepted from the grant and shall not pass to the contractors, provided that such claims have been so actually paid for and recorded prior to the base line along or with reference to which such block is taken being actually run and marked on the ground by the contractors.

17. There shall be payable to and reserved by the Government a royalty of 1 per cent. upon all gold mined by placer or alluvial or hydraulic mining upon the lands selected hereunder, and if and so long as any royalty up to one per cent. is levied by the Government upon all gold got by quarts mining in Government lands in the Yukon district, a royalty of an equal amount up to one per cent., but no more, shall be payable to and reserved by the Government upon all gold got by quartz mining in the lands selected hereunder.

Take as They Build.

18. So soon as any ten continuous miles of said railway between Stikine River and Teslin Lake have been completed and in running order and certified so to be by an officer named by the Minister of Railways in that behalf, the contractors may select ninety-two thousand one hundred and sixty acres, or two blocks of land hereunder, and thereupon such blocks shall be reserved by the Government from sale or location or free miners' claims; and upon the completion from time to time in a similar way of any other ten miles the contractors shall have a similar right to select ninety-two thousand one hundred and sixty acres, or two blocks, which shall thereupon be similarly reserved; and upon the completion of the said railway and acceptance thereof by the Government as completed the blocks so reserved shall be granted to the contractors, all free miners' claims being excepted, as provided by clause 16 hereof.

19. In case any land is excepted out of blocks taken by contractors on account of free miners' claims or otherwise, the quantity so excepted shall not be counted in the acreage of lands to which the contractors are entitled hereunder.

Farming Lands.

20. The contractors shall upon application, sell to actual settlers for farming

Suffered Agony With Pains in the Stomach—Hood's Cured.

The testimonials in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla are as worthy of confidence as though they came from your most trusted neighbor. They are written by honest people who are grateful for the cures accomplished by this wonderful medicine. Read this statement:

"I was afflicted with severe pains in my stomach from which I suffered much agony at times. I was afraid to go any distance from home for fear of having an attack. I was treated for neuralgia of the heart without avail. At last my mother wrote and urged me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have her letter before me at the present time and it reads as follows: 'My dear child, it grieves me to learn that you suffer so with your stomach. Do get a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and let me know the result, for I am confident

It Saved My Life.'

I am glad to state that I abided by my mother's advice and I am now healthy and strong. I never think of being without Hood's Sarsaparilla in the house. It is a great help to mothers while nursing. I have given it to my baby with satisfactory results. I cannot state all I would like of the many benefits I have known Hood's Sarsaparilla to give to other sufferers. I gladly recommend it." MRS. JOHN LA PAGE, 240 Church St., Toronto, Ont.

THEN AND NOW.

The Opposition eats itself—swallows and engulphs itself with great skill. During the past several election campaigns they went to the country on certain cries and alleged issues. If these issues were founded on principle and not the basest form of disturbing expediency, then they are just as applicable now, for principles never change, and the conditions have not changed, that would make these issues less applicable and urgent now than at any general election the past dozen years. But the Opposition is wise enough to drop in one part of a riding or in one part of a province a clamour that did not pay. The same thing applies in a way to the finances. Mr. Matheson, the financial critic of the Opposition, leads figures a merry dance. He has discovered that the province is very deeply in debt in spite of the fact that the province receives some $250,000 a year interest from for its surplus assets. He adds to railway annuities the interest thereon for forty years, and calls it a present obligation, a present debt. Is would be just as reasonable, just as sane, to add the interest on the outstanding municipal debentures of Peterborough, and which would about double the face of the debentures, and to call that total a present debt. It will be well to allow the Mail to explain this, as it did in 1890, and to show how unfair it was to reckon liability, a part of which will not mature for forty years, as a present debt. The Mail reasoned thus:

"The annuities were issued to run forty years, the object being to enable the Government to redeem the certificates of aid to new railroads, which originally ran for twenty years. It is scarcely fair, however, to account these annuities as present liabilities. On making up the surplus, the treasurer, as we understood it, does not profess to take account of all the assets of the province, such as unsold lands, or payments due on lands already sold. His aim is merely to ascertain the amount of the surplus actually available, and with this end in view he omits a large array of assets which otherwise he would be perfectly justified in including. Hence there seems to be reason in his contention that in dealing with the outstanding liabilities the forty year annuities should not be regarded as liabilities actually current or pressing. However, that may be, there is no sense at all in adding the forty years' interest to the face value of the annuities and calling the sum a set-off to the cash surplus. If a municipality issues twenty-year debentures for $100,000 at six per cent., it does not, in making up its books, convert that liability into one of $200,000 by adding $6,000 of interest for twenty years to the face value of the bonds. The bona fide available surplus, that is the surplus which could be relied upon, if necessary, in a few months' notice, amounts in round figures to six million dollars. Had Sandfield Macdonald's policy of mere hoarding been continued, the surplus would of course have been larger than it is. Since his time, however, three millions have been distributed among the municipalities, large additions have been made to the railway aid fund, and a great deal of money has been spent on capital and revenue account for the construction and maintenance of public institutions. The annuities referred to were issued with the intention of making posterity bear a slight share of the cost of developing the resources of the provinces, and we think it was a wise step. The Opposition is not likely to make much capital by attacking the financial management of the government."

The Mail is hedging now, but it cannot get rid of its own reasoning. It is complete and clear.

THE LAY-OFF IN LAMBTON.

Mr. Marter, Mr. Whitney's Lieutenant Mediates the Conservative Candidate out of the way of the P. P. A. Man

London, Feb. 7.—Strenuous efforts were made by the Conservative party managers here to conceal from the public the fact that they had been in close and anxious conference with the P. P. A. leaders in regard to the situation in the Lambtons. The following revelations made by this evening's Advertiser have consequently caused no little consternation in the ranks of the Opposition, who had been anxious for the purposes of this election to keep all such deals a profound secret:—

Londoners will remember the speeches made by Mr. G. F. Marter of Toronto in the Essery Hobbs campaign for the Legislature in 1894. Mr. Marter was then leader of the Opposition in the Legislature, having been appointed to succeed Sir William Meredith when he retired from the post. Mr. Marter came to London to give his blessing to the candidature of Mr. E. T. Essery. Mr. Marter spoke at the Grand Opera House and the East London Town Hall, and he stated at both places that Mr. Essery would b elected member for this city, and that the Liberal Government of Ontario would not last six months. Mr. Marter's candidate was defeated on that occasion by a majority of 303, and the Government of Ontario instead of being doomed to defeat, has grown stronger in the Legislature and the country as the years have rolled by. Though deposed from the nominal chieftainship to make way for Mr. Whitney, Mr. Marter remains one of the Conservative leaders and is Conservative candidate in North Toronto. On Saturday he was sent for by the Conservative managers of London and the west, to aid in getting the Conservative candidate in East Lambton out of the field, so as to permit Mr. McCallum, the Independent-P.P.A. candidate, to face Mr. Pettypiece, the Liberal nominee, alone. Mr. Marter accordingly met Mr. McCallum, Mr. A. T. Gard, the Conservative-P.P.A. nominee in West Lambton; Mr. Willoughby, the Conservative candidate in East Lambton; Dr. Rooome, the Conservative organizer; Mr. Beattie, M.P., for this city. In London on Saturday Mr. Marter was the peacemaker of the 'happy family,' and he urged that Mr. Willoughby should get out, and let Mr. McCallum tackle the Liberal nominee alone. This was finally resolved on, and Mr. Marter journeyed back to Toronto. Then the spirit of prophecy came upon him. He told the credulous scribe of the Mail and Empire that someone had told him that Mr. Beck would defeat Col. Leys by 300 votes. He expressed himself confident that Col. Leys would be defeated, just as he asserted that he knew Mr. Hobbs would be overcome by the Marter-Whitney candidate in 1894. Mr. Marter's present reckless prophesying, both as regards London and the Middlesexes, have really no better foundation than his ridiculous contentions as to the outcome of Mr. Essery's candidature. Mr. Marter's visit to London is nevertheless not without interest to many, as it effectively exposes some things that the more cunning Conservative politicians are anxious to keep out of sight."

THE ARMS OF DEATH

Closely and Firmly Enfolded George Dougherty of Ridgetown.

He was Given up to Die—But Dodd's Kidney Pills Saved His Life—Brights Disease and Dropsy Again Vanquished by Dodd's Kidney Pills

MORPETH, Feb. 8.—A most unique state of affairs exists in this district. Some little time ago the neighboring town of Ridgetown was thrown into a state of amazement by the appearance on the streets of George Dougherty, who had been bed-ridden night and day for a full year, attended by three local doctors and several outside medical men. He had Bright's Disease and Dropsy. He was given up to die, but his parents spared no expense in their efforts to have his health restored, and it was known that they had expended hundreds of dollars with this object in view.

All their endeavors were in vain it seemed. George grew gradually worse. The shadow of death hovered over the house, and no medical skill seemed great enough to lift it.

One day, however, old Mr. Dougherty read of Dodd's Kidney Pills. He says Providence guided him that day, for he bought a supply of this wonderful medicine and to-day there is no healthier, stronger man in Ridgetown than George Dougherty, who, the doctors said, could not possibly live.

This case is talked of far and near. Everyone knows George Dougherty. Everyone knew he was given up. Everyone knows that Dodd's Kidney Pills snatched him from the very arms of death.

There are not half-a-dozen houses in Ridgetown and Morpeth to-day that are not supplied with Dodd's Kidney Pills, the great and unfailing cure, the only cure for Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Dropsy, and all other Kidney Diseases.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or will be sent on receipt of price by The Dodds Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A RAID ON THE KLONDIKE.

A "Dee" Jameson Raid to Be Made According to a Cable Despatch.

London, Feb. 9.—The Star yesterday, under the heading of "Raid on the Klondike," quoted an anonymous American correspondent, who recently arrived in England, as saying with reference to the relief expeditions to the Klondike, that those who are familiar with the facts "know that this excuse is as flimsy as Jamieson's desire to relieve the women and children of Johannesburg."

Continuing, the anonymous correspondent remarks:

"Every American knows this to be another Jameson raid, and that the Americans intend to keep control of the Klondike. The Klondikers have already announced that the Stars and Stripes will be flying at Dawson City by July 4. It would please a large body of Americans if the Klondike could be made a pretext for war between England and the United States, which would result in the annexation of Canada. There is much more in the same strain."

What Did Mr. Mills Mean?

Ottawa, Feb. 9.—In the Senate yesterday afternoon Sir Mackenzie Bowell said the subsidy given to McKenzie and Mann showed wanton extravagance on the part of the Government. A case for urgency had not been made out.

Mr. Mills, in his reply, made the somewhat startling announcement that there were special reasons of state for rushing construction of this railway. If the Senate knew all the facts not a dissentient voice would be raised.

The report is current to-night that the Government fears lawlessness in the Yukon, and to guard against this contingency will rush more police into the country in the next few weeks.

THE CAMPAIGN.

Toronto, Feb. 9.—Yesterday South Toronto Liberals chose Mr. W. B. Rogers of the Furniture Company as their candidate.

Woodstock, Feb. 9.—The Independents nominated Mr. Louis Kaufmann of East Zorra, to contest the riding with Andrew Pattullo, M.P.P.

Waterloo, Feb. 9.—North Waterloo Conservatives yesterday in convention nominated Dr. Lackner of Berlin as their candidate at the coming election.

Spencerville, Feb. 9.—The Conservatives of the County of Grenville nominated R. L. Joynt of North Augusta as their candidate yesterday.

OTTAWA, July 31st, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Company, Ltd., Ottawa, Ont.

GENTLEMEN,—On the advice of a friend I tried one bottle of your famous rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline, and to my surprise it cured me of rheumatism, from which I have suffered for many years.

It also cured me of dyspepsia, from which I was suffering at the time, so that I feel now like a new man.

I have tried several remedies for rheumatism, some of which did me a certain amount of good, but nothing that I have taken has done so much for me as your Phrenoline, and I have much pleasure in recommending it to other sufferers.

Yours very truly,

THE QUEEN'S SPEECH.

British Parliament Opened by Commission.

REPORT ON THE WEST INDIES.

The Afridis' Outbreak on the Indian Frontier - Larger Expenditure for Imperial Defence - Local Government for Ireland Several Items of New Legislation - The Premier's Speech.

London, Feb. 9.—The fourth session of the fourteenth Parliament of Queen Victoria and the twenty-sixth of the United Kingdom was opened by commission at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, with the customary ceremonies.

Previous to the re-assembling of Parliament the usual party of beef-eaters, accompanied by a number of officials, and headed by Chief Inspector of Police Horsky, made the customary search for imitators of Guy Fawkes. They ascertained that the vaults of the House of Parliament did not contain anything inimical to the safety of the members

Early "Hatting" Seats.

The first member to enter the House was Mr. Robert Ashcroft, Conservative, member of Parliament for Oldham, who arrived at 5.30 a.m. The second member was Mr Thomas Lough, Liberal, member for the West Division of Islington, who entered at 6.30 a.m. He was followed by a continuous stream of members of Parliament, their early arrival being due to the fact that there is not room enough in the House to afford each a seat, hence the annual scramble for places, which are secured by placing a hat, with a visiting card, upon the chosen spot.

The Irish parliamentary party met in room No. 15. Mr. Timothy M. Healy and his supporters, who abstained from attending the party meeting previous to the last session of Parliament, were present. Mr. John Dillon was re-elected chairman, and the whips and secretaries were also re-elected.

Mr. Healy proposed Mr. Edmund Vesey Knox, member for the City of Londonderry, as chariman, and Mr. Michael Davitt proposed Mr. John Dillon, who was elected by a vote of 84 to 14.

The Queen's Speech.

The Queen's speech was as follows:

My Lords and Gentlemen,—My relations with the other powers continue friendly. The negotiations between the Sultan of Turkey and the King of Greece have been brought to a conclusion by the signature of a treaty of peace, under which the territorial relations between the two powers are practically unchanged.

The question of the autonomous government of the Island of Crete has occupied the attention of the powers. The difficulty of arriving at a unanimous agreement on some points has unduly protracted the deliberations, but I hope these obstacles will before long be surmounted.

Intelligence which is apparently trustworthy was received of the intention of the Khalifa to advance against the Egyptian army in the Soudan, and I have therefore given directions that a contingent of British troops should be despatched to Berber to the assistance of His Highness the Khedive.

I have concluded a treaty of friendship and commerce with His Majesty the Emperor of Abyssinia.

Depression in West Indies.

The report of the commission I appointed in December, 1896, to inquire into the condition of certain of my West Indian colonies has conclusively established the existence of severe depression in those colonies, caused by the heavy fall in the price of sugar, which is mainly attributed to the reduction in the cost of production and the great increase in its extent of recent years. But the fall has been artificially stimulated by the system of bounties to producers and manufacturers of beet sugar maintained in many European States. There are signs of growing opinion in these States that this system is injurious to the general interests of their population, and communications are now in progress between my Government and the Government principally concerned, with a view to a conference on the subject, which, I trust, may result in the abolition of the bounties.

In the meantime measures will be proposed to you for the relief of the immediate necessities of the West Indian colonies, for encouraging other industries and for assisting those engaged in sugar cultivation to tide over the present crisis.

The Indian Troubles.

On the north-western border of my Indian Empire an organised outbreak of fanaticism, which spread in the summer along the frontier, induced many of the tribes to break their engagements with my Government, to attack the military posts in their vicinity, and even to invade the settled districts of my territory, I was compelled to send expeditions against the offending tribes, for the punishment of the outrages and to insure peace in the future. A portion of the Afridi tribes have not yet accepted the terms offered them, but elsewhere the operations have been brought to a very successful close. The courage and endurance exhibited by my troops, British and native, have overcome almost insuperable difficulties in the country in which they were operating; but I have to deplore the loss of many valuable lives, both amongst my own troops and those whose services were voluntarily and loyally placed at my disposal by the native princes of my Indian Empire.

The Plague and Famine.

The rest of the speech deals with the recrudescence of the plague and says: "Although the mortality is less alarming than in 1897 it is still such as to cause anxiety, and no effort will be spared to mitigate it."

Her Majesty then rejoices at the fact that the famine is ended, except in a small tract of Madras, and says there is reason to anticipate a prosperous year, both for agriculture and commerce, throughout India.

The Estimates and Legislation.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons—The estimates which will be laid before you have been framed with the utmost desire for economy; but, in view of the enormous armaments now maintained by other nations, the duty of providing for the defence of the Empire involves an expenditure beyond former precedent.

Dealing with the proposed legislation the Speech from the Throne says measures will be introduced for the organization of a system of local government in Ireland, substantially similar to Great Britain's; to secure the increased strength and efficiency of the army, among the present conditions of military service; to enable accused people to testify in their own defence; to facilitate the creation of municipalities in London and to prevent recognized abuses in connection with church patronage. There are nine other measures of minor importance.

The Queen's Speech concludes: "I heartily commend your momentous deliberations to the care and guidance of Almighty God.

In the House of Lords.

On the reassembling of the House of Lords, the new Peers were introduced and took their seats with the usual ceremony.

Premier Salisbury's Speech.

The Marquis of Salisbury then began to speak. He said that he hoped the efforts of the English in Egypt would result in the capture of Khartoum.

Referring to the Chinese question, he said: "I will not use a word which seems to grate on the ears of the Earl of Kimberley, but I may say there is no effort which this country would not make rather than lose our treaty rights. At the same time, no one has evinced the slightest intention of infringing these rights.

"In regard to the loan, it is true that we suggested as one of the conditions the opening of Ta-Lien-Wan as a treaty port. China made some objections, and, finally, as a compromise, I, on the 17th, suggested that the matter be left in abeyance until the railway reached Ta-Lien-Wan, when it should be opened as a treaty port. Sir Claude MacDonald, the British Minister at Pekin, replied the next day that China accepted this, and since then I have heard nothing to the contrary. The old question on the loan is still negotiating."

The Marquis of Salisbury added: "I have received spontaneous assurance from the Russian Government that any port they opened in China will be open to free commerce.

"I may say that similar assurances have been made us by the German Government respecting the territory they recently occupied. Indeed, the German Government went further and were more flattering to us, for the German Ambassador told me they had concluded that our manner of dealing with such things was better than theirs, and that, in this instance at any rate, they intended to imitate our methods.

"Regarding the loan, I hope in a few days to lay the papers on the table dealing with it, but I warn the noble Earl that the information will be exceedingly scanty when it appears."

Turning to India, Lord Salisbury declared that the troubles with the Afridis were not due to the occupation of the Chitral, nor to fanaticism, but to terror at the approach of civilization. It was only intended to occupy such additional posts on the frontier as competent military authorities deemed absolutely necessary.

The address was then adopted, after which the House of Lords adjourned.

TESTED IN DRESDEN.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Win Yet Another Championship.

Dresden, Feb. 7—The report of the wonderful case of J. M. McDonald, of Windsor, has reached Dresden and causes universal and interested comment.

The power of Dodd's Kidney Pills has for some time past been universally admitted in this town, for we have had absolutely convincing proof of it.

Mr. W. G. Crazr, a prominent merchant and ex reeve of Dresden, was for eight years a sufferer from Inflammatory Rheumatism, aggravated by Gout. Our most skilful doctors failed to relieve him, and not till he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills did he find a cure. Six boxes cured him completely. He is now attending to business every day, thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

A Throbbing Heart

Is caused by wrong action of the heart, and can only be cured by correcting and regulating its working. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills do this Here is the proof: Mr. John Griffin, St. Lawrence Hotel, Montreal, says: "They cured me of nervous, throbbing heart beat, dizziness and constant headache. My heart beats as steady as a clock now."

Life Destroying Croup Cured.

Gents,—I have used Hagyard's Yellow Oil in my family for croup and bronchitis during the past 12 years and never found it to fail. It cures every time. I have recommended it to my neighbours and they keep it on hand. I would not be without it for any price.

Milburn's sterling headache powders are easily to take, harmless in action and sure to cure any headache in from 5 to 20 minutes.

MAKING ARTIFICIAL ICE.

How the Plants Are Constructed and Operated In Philadelphia.

Artificial cold or ice may be most readily produced by the evaporation of a more or less volatile liquid. In the first machines constructed this liquid was water. One-tenth of the amount of water used was converted into ice, but as it was necessary to maintain a vacuum in the apparatus its perfect working was a difficult problem. A more readily volatile liquid, therefore, had to be substituted, such as liquefied sulphurous acid and liquefied ammonia. Being gaseous at ordinary temperatures, they are very suitable substances for this purpose. The ammonia ice machine is the one in most general use—in fact, it finds exclusive application in this city. This liquefied ammonia is allowed to expand in coils of pipes which are placed in tanks filled with brine. The temperature of the brine is thus reduced to a point below the freezing point of water—that is, to 14-18 degrees F.

In this refrigerated brine are placed galvanized iron tanks having the shape of the large cakes of ice which one is accustomed to see in the wagons that pass through our city streets. After a period of 48-50 hours this can of water is converted into solid ice. The can is hoisted out of the brine, warmed with hot water, which allows the cake to slip out upon a shoot that runs into the storage rooms. The gaseous ammonia in the pipes can be used over and over again, a large compression engine being a part of the plant, which reduces the expense of the process. From this description it should be plain that there can be no taint of ammonia to give a taste to the ice.

The plants usually employ distilled or artesian water, so that the ice is of the best quality. Whatever impurities the water contains are collected in the white streak found in the center of each cake. The pure water separates from the impure and freezes first. Even ten years ago the demand for ice was supplied from natural sources, the harvests from our own Pennsylvania rivers, which were stored every winter in great houses on the shores of the streams, being supplemented by shipments throughout the summer from Maine. There are now in Philadelphia 16 ice-making plants, some of which yield over 100 tons per day each, and the artificial product for several years has been a serious competitor of the natural article.—Manufacturer.

No Negro In South Africa.

The word "negro" is not heard in South Africa excepting as a term of opprobrium. Over and over again have Afrikander Englishmen stopped me when speaking of Zulus, Basutos, Matabele and so on as negroes. "You in America only know the blacks who come over as slaves. Our blacks are not to be confused with the material found on the Guinea coast."—"White Man's Africa," by Poultney Bigelow.

THE ONLY HOPE!

For Victims of Bright's Disease is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Not a day passes on which the newspapers do not record the death of one or more persons from Bright's Disease. Already its victims number hundreds of thousands. Day by day the awful total grows larger. No class is safe from this destroyer.

War and intemperance, with all their miseries and fatalities, are not responsible for as many deaths as have been caused by Bright's Disease. Yet, there is a way of resisting it; of drawing its poisoned fangs, and making it as harmless as a summer breeze. That great medicine, Dodd's Kidney Pills, has cured thousands of the worst cases. It never fails to cure, hopeless as the case may seem.

Would you safely shield your loved ones from the fatal grip of this curse of mankind—Bright's Disease? Then use Dodd's Kidney Pills, the only cure on earth for this disease.

CASH IN THE TILL

Owing to the very small margin of profit in the Tobacco trade, especially since the Duty was increased, we are compelled to adopt STRICTLY CASH Methods in future.

To continue to give Credit means doing business "blindfold" as others have done—incurring bad debts and losses,—instead of having a DEAD SURE THING and knowing just where we stand by the Cash in our Till.

Therefore, on and after MONDAY, FEB. 7th, SPOT CASH will be the invariable rule in this store. Tobacco manufacturers demand Cash for their goods, and as Cash is the Power in Buying we must make it the Power in selling, in order to keep business on the jump.

SETTLE UP! All parties indebted to us are requested to call and settle immediately.

Peterborough, January 29th.

W. H. HILL, Esq., Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir,—I most heartily thank you for the prompt manner in which you settled my fire claim. My barn and contents were burned a few days ago and were insured in the Northern Assurance Co., through your agent Mr. Thos. Edgar, for $800. I have to-day received a cheque for the full amount of $800 and the settlement is to me in every way satisfactory. I can only say that those having insurance in the Northern Assurance Co. may rest satisfied that, should unfortunately a fire occur, the claimants will be to say the least fairly dealt with.

I have the greatest pleasure in voluntarily giving this testimonial. Yours very truly,

SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC

Cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Erysipelas, Eczema, and all Blood and Skin Diseases.

Mrs. James Stewart, No. 160 Hughes street, St. Thomas, writes:—"Some four or five years ago I was troubled with a complication of diseases and was treated by several of our best city doctors, and tried all kinds of patent medicines, but received no benefit until I tried SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC and I at once began to improve. My left side at one time was paralyzed and I was scarcely able to move, and had to be assisted in dressing. Before I had used one bottle my health improved, and the medicine effected a complete cure.

I can highly recommend SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC for all nervous disorders. It is an Ideal Blood Purifier and will do all that is claimed for it. I will be pleased to give any information I can to any one similarly affected. Since using the medicine I have had no return of the disease. YOUNG'S POINT ALL THE WAY FOR STRATTON.

Another Rousing Rally For The Liberal Candidate.

A GREAT GATHERING OF ELECTORS.

Enthusiasm in Mr. Stratton's Favour—Addresses by the Candidate, Mr. G. M. Roger and Dr. Bell—The Record of the Government Presented—Splendidly Successful Meeting.

That was another magnificent meeting held at Young's Point last night, another advance in the crescendo of popularity and favour with which Mr. Stratton is being received throughout the riding. As before stated, every meeting he has held has been larger and more enthusiastic than in any previous campaign, and the gathering at Young's Point was extremely successful, and is an indication of the strong hold the present Liberal candidate has on the good will of the electors in this part of the riding. Heard's Hall was crowded to the doors; there were many unable to get admission; and there was quite an overflow gathering under the open windows behind the platform (the night being mild) and they had also an opportunity of listening to Mr. Stratton's address on the public questions of the day. There were about thirty ladies present, who occupied seats in front of the hall. Residents of the village say that last night's meeting attracted the largest gathering ever assembled for political discussion in the history of the village, and the temper of the meeting, the evidences it gave of its confidence in the candidate who has so long and faithfully represented the riding, indicate that on March 1st Young's Point and vicinity will break its record in the way of big vote for Mr. Stratton.

Mr. P.A. Kearney occupied the chair, and said in his few opening remarks that Mr. Stratton came before them twelve years ago as the "boy," but he had grown rapidly to political manhood, and had become a prominent public man, whom they were all proud of, and whose splendid representative record would be enthusiastically endorsed in that vicinity on election day. (Cheers.)

was the first speaker, and after referring to the career of the Government and passing an eulogy upon its splendid administrative record, he paid a similar compliment to Mr. Stratton who had so faithfully served and done so much to advance the interests of the riding. Mr. Garvin declared that in doing that he had only done his duty, but Mr. Roger pointed out that in this age there were many that did not do even this, and we should appreciate a representative that has done his full representative duty so faithfully as Mr. Stratton had done. The record of the Government was unique. They had been in power over twenty-five years, and in all that time there had been no coherent charge of corrupt dealing. (Cheers.) The Province of Ontario was prosperous, above the other provinces, and other countries, and the Government was entitled to a large share of the credit of such a condition, and substantially the same party that ruled so well and wisely in Ontario had by the application of the principles of progressive government assisted in bringing about the conditions of commercial and industrial prosperity the Dominion was enjoying from one end to the other.. Mr. Roger indicated generally the benefit of the straightforward and aggressive administration the Government has given the country in the past which entitled them to an emphatic renewal of the popular confidence they had so richly earned. (Cheers.)

Dr. Bell in his opening remarks gallantly referred to the presence of the ladies and the influence they would have with their relatives and friends and he was sure the ladies of Young's Point were taking an active interest in promoting the candidature of Mr. Stratton (Cheers.) He pointed out that though Sir Oliver Mowat had retired and gone upward to enjoy higher honours, he left behind him as strong a cabinet and under as capable a leader (Cheers.) He also pointed out that the Opposition had no real definite policy except the desire to gain office. From the "calf with a cough" policy the transition was natural and easy to the sick pig policy The charge had been made that the government had squandered the resources of the country but it could be shown that the money had been spent wisely, in the interests of the people and to lessen their local burdens, and Dr. Bell went on to show from their past record that the Opposition would not have done as well. He pointed out generally what had been the benefits the country had received from Liberal rule in the Dominion arena, and added that the party in power in Ontario were actuated by the same progressive principles, and he closed his address by appealing to the people to unite in support of the clean, sound, honest and progressive government they had so long enjoyed (cheers), and they would effectively promote this end by unitedly supporting the candidate in this riding, Mr. Stratton, who had so faithfully and successfully served them. (Loud cheers.)

Mr. Stratton's Address.

Mr. Stratton, on rising to address the large gathering was received with very cordial applause. He referred generally to the past cries, which had no political warrant, and he was glad that liberal minded Conservatives and Liberals had united to stamp out these unworthy appeals, and so effectively had they done it that his opponents were now ashamed of them and would be glad to have the people forget them. (Cheers.) He referred to the fact that Mr. Garvin, Mr. John Green, Mr. Charles Stapleton and Captain Carson had visited the Point about ten days ago and had placed the cause of the Opposition before a few of the electors. He asked if in the course of their addresses they had pointed out any practical plan of improvement they would apply to the administration of the affairs of the province. Did they show how they would improve the best system of municipal government and laws any country possessed? Did they show any better way in which they would manage the finances of the province than that which had resulted from the expenditure of eighty-nine millions of dollars without a single charge of corrupt expenditure? Did they show or attempt to show any better way in which they would husband the resources of the country than that which had resulted in a large surplus of assets, and not a dollar of debt? Did they show any better way of promoting the great agricultural interests of the province? If they had not, they had no claim upon the confidence and support of the people, who desired the best Government obtainable, and to secure that end, did not think of party, only of the results of good government the country required. The virulence of party politics as applied to provincial issues, was deprecated, and the people were asked to accept the wisdom of voting with a view of what they thought was in the best interests of the country. If they voted on this principle, Mr. Stratton said he would be perfectly satisfied with the result. (Cheers.) Had Mr. Garvin and his friends any better way to assist agriculture than the splendid system of the Ontario Government, which had placed this country as a dairying competitor in the front rank of the nations? Did Mr. Garvin and his friends show how they would do any better for the people in the matter of legislating in the interests of labour, give any better laws for the protection of the rights and the improvement of the condition of all classes of labour? If they could show no better way, then for the people of Ontario were wise enough to keep a Government that had served them so well. Mr. Garvin and his friends made the broad general charge, unsupported by a single proof, that the Ontario Government had "squandered" the resources of the province. What was the answer in brief? In the past thirty years ninety three millions of revenue had come into the hands of the Government, and of this ninety-three millions all but $600,000 had been expended and he (the speaker) "defied the face of clay" to prove that a single dollar had been corruptly expended. (Cheers.) The Government, like any human organization, had its faults and had not been perfect, but it had done its best to do the right thing by the province, and the results were a splendid tribute to their success. The speaker went on to refer to the charge of dissipating the $3,800,000 surplus of Sandfield Macdonald, and showed that the whole of that amount had been absorbed to meet the grants to railways made by Sandfield Macdonald before he left power—$1,900,000, to which Mr. Blake added two millions, or $100,000 more than Sandfield Macdonald's surplus, and Mr. Stratton pointed out that the Opposition had voted for every dollar of the expenditures on railways.

THEY HAD NO CASE,

IN THE INTEREST OF THE PEOPLE,

All this expenditure was fixed before the Mowat Government came into power twenty-six years ago. When Macdonald got his bearings (for he was not a hoarder but went cautiously till he ascertained the resources of the province) he proceeded to lay the foundations of the splendid system of public buildings and public works the province enjoyed. He let contracts for many of the public buildings which his successors had to build, and which were a pride to the country. He showed a detail how the government spent the public money to carry out John Sandfield Macdonald's undertakings in the way of public buildings and colonization roads, which were an absolute necessity to give the settlers in the newer districts, something of the advantages of communication enjoyed by the older portions in the shape of railways and other traffic facilities. Over three millions of dollars had been distributed under the head of the municipal loan fund and the system of superannuation to teachers, introduced by Sandfield Macdonald, had resulted in the payment of a very large sum. That system had been abolished by the present Government, and payments would cease under it as teachers passed away. Mr. Stratton said he did not believe in the superannuation system. Public servants accepted what they considered (or they would not have accepted) a sufficient salary and they should be given to understand that, as a rule, when their services ceased they had no further financial claims on the Government.

The Opposition charged that the Government had increased the expenditure. But how? asked the speaker. The expenditure on education, to lessen the burdens of the people, had been increased from $351,000 in John Sandfield Macdonald's time to $720,000 at present, and in what better way could the people's money be spent than in the interest of education? The grants to Agriculture had been increased from $76,000 to $189,000, and what class was better entitled to liberal treatment than the great agricultural interest, the base and

and prosperity? For Hospitals and Charities the expenditures had increased from $40,000 to $192,000, and Mr. Stratton's references to the great boon this expenditure was to the poor and afflicted were received with hearty cheers. The expenditure on Public Asylums, etc., had advanced from $171,000 in 1871 to $806,000. We had to maintain in our asylums every day 5,000 unfortunates who need the best of care and attention, and all this costs money; but it was justified, for as a Christian province we were in duty bound to provide for these unfortunates who would have to be maintained at the expense of the municipalities if the government did not look after them. But the charge was made that we did not buy everything by tender. We bought all that could be profitably and practicably bought in this way. Sixteen classes of articles were bought by tender, eleven more than were bought by Sandfield Macdonald. But they say "you buy from your friends." Of course we do. Everybody, other things being equal, favoured their friends in their private deal, and it was the practice of governments. He (Mr. Stratton) published a newspaper during 18 years of Conservative Government and he had never got an advertisement, and had not expected it. These criticisms of our management of public institutions would have some point if they could point to similar institutions in any part of the world that were as well managed and as cheaply. (Cheers.) New York state levied 4½ million dollars in direct taxation to support its asylums, while our asylums were so conducted that they relieved the people from taxation to look after the unfortunates of this class. (Cheers.) Mr. Garvin proposed to improve, as he called it, our Educational system. He would extend the age of teachers to 21 years, and would debar our boys and girls from teaching because they were young. They tried to debar the speaker twelve years ago because he was young, but they couldn't do it. (Cheers.) Reference was made to the increase of the Poor School grants to $50,000), and the grants of $64,000 to technical education—to help mechanics in their callings. In the interests of education the Ontario Government signed a cheque for $1,000 every day for the benefit of the schools of the province. (Cheers) After the Government had done all this, and much more, they had erected all of their public buildings out of revenue without a dollar of borrowed money or a dollar of indebtedness. Besides the Ontario Government had done what no other government on earth had done, decreased the expenditure. When the extraordinary expenditure caused by the erection of public buildings had decreased, and the decrease had been on an average of $100,000 a year for the past eight or nine years. Mr. Stratton exposed the absurd charge of bribery alleged to consist in the votes to railways at the past session, grants which Mr. Whitney, St. John, Mr. Crawford and Mr. Meacham, opposition leaders, had and yet they say we bribe the people in this way. How was the government going to use the James Bay Railway grant as a bribe to a district that was unorganized where there were no elections and no voters? (Laughter) And yet Mr. Garvin and his friends on the stump insulted the intelligence of the electors with such palpable and self evident bosh (Cheers). Mr. Stratton dealt with the timber policy of the government, the Public Accounts, the Engledue matter as have been reported previously and also the school book question. Referring to Mr. Garvins mileading comparison of a dime novel with a Third Reader, Mr. Stratton said there was no argument in comparing a novel that had run its course, outlived public demand and was not wanted, and therefore dropped in price, with a live, well made, well bound school book, and to show the fallacy of such an alleged argument he compared with the Third Reader, Mr. J. Hampden Burnham's book, "Canadians in the Imperial Service," which was sold at the time of publication at a dollar and a half, but could now be bought for fifteen cents, or ten cents, according to the amount of such unsaleable stock a dealer carried. The price went down because there was no demand for the book. Yet that was not an argument to show that the school book was too dear. Mr. Burnham's book was larger, better bound and had better paper, and had the top story gilt edged. Yet it sold at half of the price of a school book. If Mr. Garvin would show a school book of any other province or country of the same size and of equal excellence with Ontario school books he had an argument, but not till then. (Cheers.) Ontario school books could be produced cheaper if, like the Presbyterian Hymnal, they were sent to the old country to be put together by cheap labour. But our Ontario books were every whit Canadian, Canadian authors, printers, bookbinders and paper makers, and we give employment, at union wages, to Canadian workingmen. Under these conditions, they could not be produced cheaper as shown by the sworn testimony of honourable men, than they are now. (Cheers.)

Mr. Stratton concluded by saying that he had tried to conduct a fair discussion of public questions. He believed he had made out a case; if so he asked the support of the electors in preference to a comparative stranger. (Cheers.) He (Mr. Stratton) was sure if he could not get a nomination in Peterborough, after twice trying, he would not have the assurance to go to Simcoe for it. He asked to be judged by his past, and if he had done right, he asked the electors to support him on March 1st. (Loud cheers.)

After votes of thanks to the chairman and cheers for the Queen, Mr. Stratton and the Government, the largest and most enthusistic political meeting ever held in Young's Point came to a close.

CAMPAIGN COMMENTS.

Registration closed this evening at six o'clock, and Mr. Stratton desires to thank his friends for the excellent work they have done in this respect. Up to the hour of going to press, when registering was still going on, there was abundant evidence that a majority of the names added were supporters of Mr. Stratton.

And the evidence is accumulating that in the big registration on March 1st Mr. Stratton and the Government will have a big majority.

Mr. Garvin has been getting from his friends a good many pointers, but judging from last night's meeting he will get mighty few Young's Pointers.

There won't be any soldiers in the procession on March 1st. The Dominion Franchise Act debars soldiers in the permanent militia from voting.

Soldiers can fight, but the can't vote. They can bleed an enemy, but can't mark a ballot.

Mr. Garvin will not March 1st in the procession.

The Opposition deserves credit for encouraging enteprise the manufacture of artificial enthusiasm.

The Opposition poetry machine seems to be getting a rest.

We have been having a good deal of doggrel poetry. Change the combination and give us a little hoggerel poetry.

Mr. Garvin has so far put more poetry and less truth in his campaign oratory.

If Mr. Garvins "piggery issue should get the cholera he won't save his bacon."

Mr. Whitney is fighting for his life in Dundas. Dr. Willoughby in East Northumberland, Mr. St. John in West York, Mr. Marter in North Toronto, and just as likely as not no one of them will have a seat in the next Parliament.

Hon. Mr. Hardy says—I have always tried to stand for the people.

Mr. Whitney will stand—from under.

The Opposition complain that the Government has increased the number of members of the legislature.

But the chief ground of complaint is that the electors have decreased the number of Opposition members.

And the complaint will become chronic after March 1st.

SPEAKING of the attitude of the independent (doubtless meaning in this connection the Patron) element of the electorate, the Farmers' Sun says Mr. Whitney's attitude towards the Patron's has not been friendly. The Sun says:

Mr. Whitney's attitude, on the other hand . . . has been generally hostile. Political wisdom should, we think, have dictated four years ago a general concession to Independent opinion. Fifty thousand voters scattered through ninety ridings were worth courting. Up to this time he seems to have preferred to play the party game with such paltry issues as that of the piggery. He does not see that he is offending public intelligence. If he is prepared to outbid Mr. Hardy it may not even yet be too late to strengthen his chances.

Mr. Whitney and his friends don't learn political wisdom very easily. It took about fifteen years to learn that catch penny politics and harmony-destroying cries did not pay, and even now they don't seem to be able to get much above pigyanne politics. Once the political motive power was bigotry; now it is pigotry.

CAN'T DELIVER THE GOODS.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

SIR,—We have read the references in last night's EXAMINER to ourselves, wherein the impression is given out that we have said that we controlled the vote at the Electric Works, and were working to deliver that vote to Mr. Garvin. Now, sir, we wish to deny these statements, as they are entirely untrue and without foundation.

We are members of Mr. Garvin's committee, but we are not members of any organization to control the vote of the employees of the Electric Works.

It is a known fact that the Canadian General Electric Co. is a non-political concern and allows none of its employees to canvass for political candidates or work in their interests in the works, and we have observed that rule.

The statements were published, as far as we can see, for the purpose to arouse feeling among the employees of the works, and it will also place us in a false light before the members and officials of the company. We request that this contradiction of last night's statement be published.

Yours truly,
CAPT. CARSON,
W. S. ROBINSON,
R. E. LAYFIELD.

[We publish the above communication with pleasure. We always aim to give our opponents fair play. But the inference is plain that these gentlemen are beginning to see that they are not finding it so easy a task to "deliver the goods" they have contracted for. The employees of the Canadian General Electric Company are the best judges of what estimation to place upon the political "guff" that the above trio has furnished for their acceptance, and are not prepared to lie under the humiliation implied in the assumption than any person, no matter who, carries their political convictions and political independence in his pocket.

Talking it Over.

When a party of middle aged women get together alone, a common theme of conversation is their physical ailments. It would be better if these discussions of the ailments peculiar to women took place twenty years earlier in life. If a little of the prudery of modern society were banished, so that young women talked these subjects over among themselves, there would be less suffering among women in middle life.

Good health is the best endowment that a human being can have. Good general health among women is largely dependent upon good local health in a womanly way. Through ignorance and neglect it has become such an ordinary, common-place thing for women to suffer from weakness and disease of the delicate and important feminine organism, that many women have come to look upon these troubles as an unavoidable inheritance. This is a mistake. All troubles of this nature may be cured in the privacy of the home, without undergoing the obnoxious "examinations" and "local treatment" insisted upon by the average physician. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription gives health, elastic strength and vitality to the sensitive organs concerned. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and frees from pain. It tones the nerves and builds up the nerve centers. It makes a woman healthy and strong, and thus prepares her for healthy wifehood, capable motherhood and a safe transition at the change of life.

"I want to testify to the great benefit derived from using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. E. Mason, of Strykersville, Wyoming Co., N. Y. "I commenced using it about three months before confinement. With my former confinement I suffered greatly, while this one was comparatively easy, owing to the use of the 'Favorite Prescription.'"

Prime beeves sold at from 4¼c to nearly 4½c per lb.; pretty good stock at from 3½c to 4c per lb, and the common dry cows at from 2½c to 3¼c per lb. The young calves sold at from $2.50 to $6 each. An extra calf was bought by Mr. Levesque for $11; he bought five good lambs at 5c per lb. Sheep sold at about 3½c per lb. Fat hogs are rather dull of sale, and prices are lower, from 5¼c to 5⅜c per lb.

EMILE ZOLA ON TRIAL

Court Surrounded by Crowds Eager For Admittance.

WITNESSES REFUSE TO TESTIFY.

An Excitable Day in Paris—Intense Feeling Manifested in and Around the Court—All Demonstrations Suppressed by the Government—No Dreyfus Revision to Be Permitted.

Paris, Feb. 8.—The trial of M. Emile Zola, who is being prosecuted by the Government as a result of the letter which he wrote last December to the Aurore, strongly reflecting upon high officials connected with the Dreyfus case, opened yesterday.

The crowds increased in number all the morning. The arrival of M. Henri Rochefort was the signal for shouts of "Vive Rochefort!" and counter cries of "A bas Rochefort." Turning in the direction of the hostile cries, M. Rochefort shouted: "It would seem that, with four of you at five francs apiece, the Dreyfus syndicate will not be ruined."

M. Zola, who arrived in a carriage shortly afterwards, was greeted with vehement shouts of "Conspues Zola!" (spit upon Zola).

To Stop All Demonstration.

An individual who shouted "Vive Zola" was promptly hustled and suppressed.

The proceedings commenced at 1 p.m., under the presidency of M. Delegorgue, who announced that the court would be cleared if there was any demonstration.

While the jury was being selected M. Zola entered the dock. He was pale, and a few cries of "Vive Zola!" were promptly suppressed by the vigorous protests of the majority of the audience. After the reading of the indictment, the Advocate-General explained that the charge was strictly limited to the passage in M. Zola's letter denouncing the Esterhazy court-martial.

No Dreyfus Revision.

The Advocate-General said it was imperative to prevent the proceedings from wandering and "thus playing into the hands of the accused, whose aim is to get a revision of the Dreyfus affair by a circuitous route."

M. Delegorgue read a number of letters of excuse, including a letter from the Minister of Justice, M. Darlan, announcing the Minister for War, Gen. Billot, had not received the authority of the Cabinet to testify.

M. Delegorgue also read a letter from ex-President Casimir-Perier saying he could not testify, except as to facts subsequent to his presidency.

Col. Paty du Clam was then called, and refused to testify.

Mr. Laborie urged the importance of his testimony, adding that unless the court ordered the witness to testify, he might be compelled to demand an adjournment until the next session. Counsel also said he was not prepared to oppose a secret trial, if it was absolutely necessary. But, continued M. Laborie, the allegation that the matter they were discussing was connected with State secrets and the national defense was a mere joke.

The Advocate-General thereupon protested against the national defense being called a joke, to which M. Laborie hotly replied that he would permit no one, not even the Advocate-General, to cast suspicion upon his patriotism. (Cheers.)

The hearing of the case was adjourned at 5 p.m.

Zola Is Not Hopeful.

London, Feb. 8.—David Christie Murray, the novelist and playwright, had a column interview yesterday with Emile Zola, which is published to-day in the Daily News. Zola, it appears, was anything but hopeful of the outcome of his trial, and said:

"We know everything concerning the Dreyfus case; but, it is impossible to describe the pressure to impose silence upon men who are able and ready to reveal the truth. Our documentary evidence is not even looked at, and our witnesses have refused to testify or have been ordered to be silent. There is no room for doubt. There is no question or possibility of a question. The facts are clear and absolutely beyond denial; but, the authorities refuse to allow us to produce our evidence, and then hold up the feebleness of our cause to the derision of the public."

Toronto, Feb. 8.—The second of the Toronto constituencies to come into line is the west riding, which at a harmonious and enthusiastic convention last night placed in the field Dr. James Spence, a prominent west end Liberal, who has long been an active worker in the cause of reform. Killed by a Runaway.

Picton, Ont., Feb. 8.—Mr. Henry Haight of Milford, in this county, was killed last evening by being run over by a team. Mr. Haight and his wife were in town, and started for home about 5 p.m. When just outside of the town, going up Bresben's Hill, they were overtaken by two teams running away, going in the same direction. One of the teams jumped on Haight's cutter, knocking him out and killing him instantly. Mrs. Haight was bruised and badly shaken up, but not fatally hurt. Mr. Haight was clerk of the Division Court of South Marysburg, and about 79 years old.

HUMAN SACRIFICES

On the Altar of Diabetes. Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

Hardly a family in the country is free from Diabetes. Great thirst, failing sight, numbness in the thighs, bleeding gums, swollen ankles, emaciation, nervousness, pale or turbid urine, loss of sexual power, decaying teeth, pains in the loins or small of the back, are all positive signs that Diabetes is in the system.

Do you know how it ends? IN DEATH. A premature, horrible, agonized, pitiful death. The victim has no peace, no ease in life. His days are filled with tortures. His nights are waking dreams of agony. He longs to die, yet fears the terrors of his end. He dies, a bloated, fetid, repulsive mass of corruption. That is the only end of unchecked Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it. They drive it out of the system thoroughly, create new, clean blood, rebuild the diseased kidneys, and restore robust health.

A MOUNTAIN GIRL.

'Tis morning. The rising sun just tops the crest of that portion of the Appalachian chain of mountains between the northern and southern boundaries of the state of Kentucky, tinging its peaks and crags with a grayish vagueness. From every ravine and gorge huge clouds of smokelike mist arise, assuming wondrously odd and fantastic forms in the uncertain light. The stillness engendered by the natural environments and time of day is unbroken save now and then by the faroff bay of a foxhound floating faintly from some mountaineer's cabin or the whistle of a dove's wing as it flies swiftly by to the sedge fields.

The sun climbs higher and, conscious of its might, drives back to earth the quenching mists. The rear guard shadows of the night are mysteriously disappearing. The smoke of the numerous cabin chimneys can now be distinguished rising in curling columns of blue. Along the rutty clay road, or rather mountain path, and hugging the worm eaten rail fence for safety, a red fox slinks under cover of the alder bushes, his whiskers and brush bristling with pendant drops of morning dew. A mother quail and her brood that have been pluming their feathers on a topmost rail, with an affrighted whir, fly to cover.

Presently a soldier in his uniform comes galloping furiously down the road. He passes at full speed. The sound of his steed's hoof beats grow fainter, and silence for a few minutes again reigns, only to be broken by a dozen or more men in uniforms of the other side, who break cover and almost come down the road like mad, their horses reeking with sweat and blood. The first man, farther down where the road forks, has turned to the right. These others take the left hand branch. In a few moments shots are heard, and presently a horse, the one ridden by the first man, comes galloping back to be met and caught by a slim, dark eyed mountain girl, who comes suddenly out of the bushes from somewhere. She stands there holding the bridle reins in her right hand. The left is pressed hard against her heart, as if to ward off an unseen blow. Her eyes, stony in their intensity, look off far up the valley to a break in the mountains, where God's good morning displays its bright rays. Her gaze finally turns toward the pursuers, who at the sound of the shots have ridden back to the forks, and catching sight of the girl and the horse come excitedly up the road toward her.

"Bob Jordan's darter," says one of them.

"Jes' as I thought," iaconically replies he who appears to be in command. "The peaky critter's got warnin from sum'ers or he'd bin'r gone fawnskin afore now. Whut air your a-doin heah at this time uv day?" he demands of her. For the first time the girl seems to take full notice of their presence.

"Did you heah whut I sed?" he demands more commandingly.

"I'd like ter know whut consarn that is uv your'n?" she replies, turning to him defiantly.

"Ain't er body got a good right ter go whar they please 'thout bein stopped in ther road an pestered ter death 'bout hit by er lot uv big, cowardly men? Ef you air erbliged ter know, though, I'm er goin down to Bob Blackmore's ter help his mother. She air sick in bed an helpless."

"Did you mean ter ride Bob's hoss down thar? I 'low of my eyesight ain't er failin me that that air is his critter. Whar's Bob now?" he continued coaxingly.

"I don't know nothin 'bout him. Ef you uns want ter find him, you'd better look fer him."

"Whar'd you git his critter then?" breaks in one impatiently.

"I stopped him in ther road, right heah, as I come down ther path thar. The critter wuz comin lopin up, when I run out an headed him off."

After parleying a few moments the spokesman again turns to her.

"We uns think thet more'n likely you wuz tellin ther truth jes' now," he ventures. "Specully es you air a member uv ther church, an your daddy wuz, too, an er elder besides. Sissy," he insinuates, "nobody ever heerd uv your tellin no lie afore. Which way did you say ther critter wus kummin from?" She looks him steadily in the face.

"That way," she says, indicating with a wave of her hand the opposite direction. "Ther Lord fergive me," she mentally pleaded, "fer tellin er lie fer him."

"That won't do, Sissy. We uns jes' kum that air way ourselves, right after him. We uns had better look fer him right around heah, I reckon. I hear tell," he said for the girl's benefit, "that whar thar's enny petticoats erround Bob Blackmore ain't fur erway."

"You better look out fer yerself," she scornfully replies. "He un is mighty handy with his weepins an with his fists too. I reckin you know that, too, don't you, Jim Wooten? I hev heerd tell that you an him had er fight ter wunce, an Bob didn't kum out no little end uv ther horn, neither."

"We uns will fix all that thar ef we ever get our hands on ther on'ry, good fer nothin scoundrel ergin. He uns ain't fit ter live noways."

"He's er sight mo' fitten than you air," she breaks in hotly. "He's allus bin er hardworkin, sober man, an taken keer uv his mammy; sumpin you never done. 'Sides that, he's er gentleman, an allus minded his own business. Do you uns call this wah?" she demands, with rising vehemence. "Too cowardly ter go away frum home an fight yerselves, but lay round heah an take everything ennybody's got left. An soon's somebody—that's Bob Blackmore — who's fightin fer his side heahs his maw's sick an slips off ter kum an see her, ter boun him like er dog an try ter kill him. Hit's jes' 'cause he's better'n you air."

The faint winding of a horn down the road arrests their attention, and hurriedly mounting their horses they ride off, calling back to her:

"We've got him, Sissy. That's Tom Winburn. I tole him ter kum up ther road so's to head him off an meet we uns heah."

The pursuers proceeded down the right hand road beyond the forks, from whence the sound seemed to have come, where the road makes a sudden dip into a dry ravine. Down these a man lies still in death, his cheek pressed heavily against the delicate ferns that grow luxuriantly out of the cool shadows. The trees meeting overhead almost exclude the light, but now and then a recreant bough, straying from its place through bidding of the gentle morning breeze, lets in a feeble ray of sunshine that touches up the dead man's face with a pallid coloring. The nodding ferns caress his pale cheek in vain. The morning songsters sing their lays to unheaving ears. The pines and hemlocks, mingling their foliage with the poplars and bowing their good mornings to the beeches and young hickories, sought in vain to arouse or soothe the sleeper. He will never again take cognizance of earthly things nor inhale the beauty and vitality of his native mountains—his spirit has gone before the last tribunal. A round hole in the center of his forehead shows where the messenger of death has entered, bringing its inevitable summons. His slouch hat lies where it had fallen, a few feet away, his right hand still clutches a pistol, his finger within the guard and grasping the trigger. His garb is the same as they wear who find him.

He had sought unfairly to take human life, and with his own had paid the penalty. Coming from farther down the mountain to meet his comrades and seeing the fugitive, he had ridden aside into the ravine, intending to slay him unawares as he passed. But he had seen the interceptor and was prepared, and as the other fired at him going by, he, too, had fired in return and slew him. It was but a moment's work to exchange his steed for the fresher one of the dead man and ride furiously forward again. The horse deserted, frightened at the realization of something wrong and scared at sight of the dead man, gallops back to be met and caught by the girl.

But now, heartbroken, overwhelmed and frightened at sights of the inanimate body they shortly bring up the road toward her, she flees stricken and crushed, thinking it to be the other one. And thus it is for days and long, weary days, until by chance she learns the truth.

The war's over. Another bright morning. A man rides leisurely up the road, where it forks he catches sights of a woman's form sitting on a fallen tree, where she has evidently stopped to rest.

"Mawnin, Miss Sissy," he says. At the sound of her name the girl looks up quickly, and then as quickly down again, a flush surmounting her usually colorless cheeks.

"Mawnin, Bob," she quietly responds. "We 'lowed up ter our house es how mayho you uns had forgot us. How's your maw?" quickly changing the subject.

"Hit did look bad in my not erkummin ar see you all afore now," he rejoins, ignoring the last question. "But I had ter kinder straighten up around home a bit afore I got out much."

"I thaut you wuz killed wunce, Bob," she ventures by way of further conversation. Instantly he dismounts, leaving his horse standing in the road, and goes up and sits down beside her.

"Why did you uns think that?" he asks.

"I wus er goin down for your maw's an stopped your critter in ther road up thar that time, an then they brought he un that wuz killed, an—an"— She could go no further at recollection of her misery.

"An did you keer, Sissy?" he asks, leaning eagerly forward.

"You warn't dead," she protests.

"Well, then, uv ther fact that you thaut I wus dead?"

She answers him nothing. A few dry leaves flutter in the autumn air and fall at their feet. A wild grapevine nods its approval and swings in the breeze and the branches of the trees overhead rustle with the gambols of a young fox squirrel. A flame crested woodpecker flies to a dead pine and begins pingging unmolestedly away. He puts his arm around her and draws her to him.

"Who writ that thar note, then, Sissy, that wus shoved under ther door that night ter warn me? You will tell mo that, won't you? An who tuck keer uv my mammy when she wuz sick? Sissy, honey"—the arm draws tighter—"won't you marry me?" She hides her face against his breast.

"You air shore good at axin questions, Bob," she says, "an I love you."—Louisville Times.

The Fiendish Butcher.

"Dearest," she said, and there was a slight tremor in her voice, "will you have a slice of bacon?"

He would, as he had been married only a week, and would have accepted a slice of sandstone or papyrus from her hands with equal willingness.

"I thought," he said, as with difficulty he removed his eyes from the dainty morning jacket surmounted by her lovely face to the sordid bacon, "you said we would have some of those meat balls I like so well for breakfast."

The lovely eyes filled with tears.

"George," she said, with rising indignation subduing her grief, "it was that horrid, mean butcher's fault, and I want him never, never to dare to expect my patronage again."

"Never mind, dear," he said, "it doesn't matter. Forget to send the meat, did he?"

"No, he sent the meat, but not what I ordered. After I had planned having this nice dish for you this morning, after I had taken the pains to go in person and explain carefully to him the kind I wanted, and after I was so happy at the thought how you would enjoy the meat balls, to have my whole pleasure spoiled by that detestable butcher's mistake almost breaks my heart."

More tears.

He went round the table and comforted her.

"I ordered," she sobbed, "some round steaks to make the balls with, and, George, the ones he sent were—as—flat—as—your hand!"—Detroit Free Press.

The camel is a beast of great strength and endurance. Nothing hurts it until the proverbial "last straw" is added to its burden. The human digestive system is very much like a camel. It is really astonishing how much abuse it will stand. Sometimes, however, something worse than usual will be eaten, and will go through the stomach into the bowels, and there it will stick—that's constipation. Nine-tenths of all human sickness is due to constipation. Some of the simplest symptoms are coated tongue and foul breath, dizziness, heartburn, flatulence, sallowness, distress after eating, headaches and lassitude. A little thing will cause constipation, and a little thing will relieve it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a certain cure for constipation. They are tiny sugar-coated granules, mild and natural in their action. There is nothing injurious about them. Sold by druggists. Physicians' Medicines Drove Her Almost Crazy.

Hears of CUTICURA. Husband Goes Twenty Miles for It.

First Application Gives Perfect Ease in Five Minutes, and a Night's Sound Sleep.

My hands were completely covered with Eczema, and between my fingers the skin was perfectly raw. I had to sit with both hands held up, and away from the fire. My husband had to dress and undress me like a baby. I tried the best physicians, but their medicines gave me no relief, and drove me almost crazy. I was advised to try CUTICURA REMEDIES, and did so, although my husband had to go twenty miles to get them. As soon as he got back, I used the CUTICURA (ointment), and five minutes after the first application I was perfectly easy, and slept soundly all that night. Before I commenced using CUTICURA REMEDIES I could get no ease night or day. I could not bear to get warm, it would put me in a rage of itching. I always keep CUTICURA REMEDIES in my house now, and recommend them to everybody, because of their wonderful effect. YUKON RAILWAY BILL.

The Measure Is Introduced by the Hon. Mr. Blair.

THE TERMS OF THE CONTRACT.

Public Interests Safeguarded—The Deposit Made in Cash—Benefits to the Country of the New Road—The Debate in Parliament on the Measure—Conservatives' Criticism.

Ottawa, Feb. 9.—It is not the practice of Parliament to discuss a bill upon the motion for the first reading, but the extraordinary importance of the measure to ratify the Yukon Railway contract, which was submitted yesterday, justified a departure from the custom. The Minister of Railways and Canals, who presented the bill, made an able statement to the House in explanation of the conditions of the bargain entered into with Messrs. McKenzie and Mann, and in justification of the prompt action taken by the Government to meet the situation created by the discovery of the riches of the Yukon and the mad rush of the people to possess them.

Yukon Railway Bill.

Hon. Mr. Blair introduced the Yukon Railway Agreement bill. He explained that the bill did not correspond entirely with the one legalizing and confirming the contract with the C.P.R., introduced by the late Government in 1881. That bill simply conferred upon the Governor-General-in-Council general powers to issue the charter and incorporate the company. In this instance Parliament would be asked to incorporate the company and confer upon it what powers they thought it should have, and but little was left for the Governor-General-in-Council to do. He reminded the House of the importance of the problem in the Yukon which the Government had to solve, and the need of immediate action. The officials of the Department of the Interior estimated that as many as 250,000 people would go into the Klondike this year, and no estimate fell below 50,000. The transportation of these people and of the provisions which they required was, he said, an important problem, upon which depended the maintenance of law and order and civil government in that district, and the Government would have been unworthy of the confidence of the people who placed them in power if they had failed to act in accordance with their information. It was also essential to secure for Canada the trade of that district before it settled into channels from which it would be difficult to divert it afterwards. Having dealt with the situation as the Government found it, both by personal observation of the Minister of the Interior and by the reports of officers, Mr. Blair told how it was that the Stikine River route was selected. Competent officers were engaged to investigate the feasibility of the five passable routes into the Yukon country. An interim report was received by the Minister of the Interior in December and the final report in January, so that the Government did not waste time before taking action. Four of the passable routes were rejected because they traversed a portion of territory in the possession of a foreign government. The distance between the Stikine River and Lake Teslin is almost 150 miles. Vessels will not be able to go from Victoria or Vancouver direct to Glenora, where the railway begins, but will have to tranship to river steamers at Fort Wrangel, in United States territory. It is not anticipated that there will be any interference with the free transportation of merchandise up the Stikine River to Telegraph Creek or Glenora, but should the United States Government place obstacles in the way the railway might be extended southward to a port unquestionably in Canadian territory, thus increasing its length by about two hundred miles. The Minister, having established the wisdom of selecting the Stikine River route, proceeded to justify the promptness of the Government in entering into a contract with Messrs. Mann and McKenzie without going through the process of inviting public tenders. In the first place, the Minister of Railways said, the Government had not time to call for tenders, as the urgency of the case precluded such a delay as would have been involved. In the second place, it was a class of undertaking in regard to which no one would propose to advertise for tenders. It was incumbent on the Government to act without one minute's delay. When Mr. Blair laid down the proposition that it is idle under the circumstances to talk about inviting public tenders he was met by the unsympathetic laughter and mock applause of the Opposition. "If," said the Minister, "the country realizes as strongly as we realized the imperative duty that rests upon us we would simply be making a laughing-stock of ourselves if we were to advertise for tenders." The Minister never heard of a more irrational, absurd or childish proposition than that tenders should have been invited on ten days' notice. Mr. Blair indicated the ability of Messrs. McKenzie and Mann to perform the task which they have undertaken.

Mr. Blair then proceeded to discuss in detail all the clauses of the contract, which is given elsewhere in to-day's paper.

The Opposition Attack.

Mr. Haggart led off in the attack on the project, and he was seconded by Messrs. Wallace, Montague and Robertson, all of whom, contrary to the opinion of their leader, Sir Charles Tupper, united in condemning the contract as a bad bargain.

The Second Reading.

The second reading of the bill will be proceeded with on Tuesday next, and it will have right of way day after day until disposed of. All available information will be furnished in the meantime, so that the members may be in a position to discuss the question intelligently.

Hammond Gets a New Trial.

Toronto, Feb. 9.—Yesterday in the Divisional Court Chancellor Boyd and Justice Robertson held that the evidence given by W. J. Hammond, the condemned murderer of his wife, Katie Tough, at the inquest was not admissable on the capital charge, and the capital sentence is now set aside and a new trial ordered. Justice Meredith, the trial judge, dissented.

THE SPEECH OF LORD SALISBURY

The Premier of Great Britain Puts Up an Earnest Plea for Prudence and Moderation—The Election of Kruger—The British House of Commons—Cable News.

Paris, Feb. 10.—In spite of the special precautions taken to prevent them, there was a repetition of the scenes witnessed yesterday when the trial of M. Emile Zola and M. Perreux was continued to-day in the Assize Court of the Seine. When Gen. Boisdeffre was called he refused emphatically to testify, under the plea of professional and State secrecy. M. Delegorgue, the presiding judge, consented that Madame Dreyfus should be allowed to testify on condition that her evidence was restricted to the Esterhazy case. Over 900 barristers, in their robes, gathered at the public entrance and indulged in horse play. When the presiding judge ordered them not to obstruct the passage the barristers made a demonstration against the judge. Thereupon the commandant of the Republic Guards sent a detachment of troops to quell the disturbance. The intervention of the military was ill-received and led to a violent affray. The barristers rushed upon the Guards and struck them.

AN ADVOCATE OF PRUDENCE.

Lord Salisbury's Speech in the Lords—France's Breach of Faith.

London, Feb. 10.—Lord Salisbury, in his speech in the House of Lords yesterday, said that the Earl of Kimberley, in his speech, had repeatedly warned the Government against the dangers of excessive acquisitions. Lord Salisbury declared that he heartily concurred with the noble Earl, and added:

"I believe there is danger in our public opinion of a reaction to the doctrine of 30 or 40 years ago, when it was thought that it was our duty to fight everybody and take everything. I think that a very dangerous doctrine, not merely because we would thereby excite other nations against us—and the reputation we are now enjoying in Europe is not by any means pleasant or advantageous—but because there is a much more serious danger of overtaxing our strength.

"However strong we may be, there is a point beyond which our strength does not go. It is courage and wisdom to exert that strength to its attainable limit, but madness and ruin to pass it. It is of extreme importance that we do not allow party feelings to prevent the discovering and following of the narrow lines that separate undue concessions and undue terror from the rashness which, more than once in history, has been the ruin of nations as great and as powerful as ourselves."

France Ahead as Regards Madagascar.

Lord Salisbury admitted that France had got the better of England as regards Madagascar. He said that the French armies had invaded the island with the avowed intention of maintaining the protectorate. If they had adhered to their intention the British treaties with the Queen of Madagascar would have been safe, but when the French were masters of the situation, they suddenly changed the protectorate to annexation, and with the latter the British fell. Lord Salisbury repudiated responsibility for this condition of affairs, declaring that if there was any responsibility, it belonged to the Gladstone Government for allowing the French to invade Madagascar.

Lord Salisbury added: "The real truth is, we have ground for discontent with the treatment we have received at the hands of the French Government. We have protested against it very strongly. We conceive that the adverse tariff now being inflicted upon us is one which the French Government, according to the ordinary rules of international amity, is not entitled to enforce. I do not know whether the Earl of Kimberley blames me for not having gone further. I do not think he does, but I do not conceal in the least my impression of the manner in which the French Government has set aside its clear pledges as to the purpose of the expedition to Madagascar."

BRITISH HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Michael Davitt's Amendment Which Proposes Relief for Ireland.

London, Feb. 10.—The debate on the address, in reply to the Speech from the Throne, was resumed in the House of Commons yesterday. Mr. Michael Davitt, member for South Mayo, moved an amendment, calling attention to the distress in Ireland and the failure of the potato crop. The motion was seconded by Mr. John P. Hayden, member for South Roscommon, and was supported by Mr. John Dillon, chairman of the Irish Parliamentary Party, and member for East Mayo, who said the misery in Ireland was a scandal to the Government. Mr. Dillon added that the distress was aggravated by evictions of the starving, and he called upon the Government for immediate comprehensive proposals for the relief of the sufferers.

After Messrs. Plunket, Redmond and Healy had spoken, Mr. Gerald Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, denied that the Government had been slow to recognize the distress in Ireland. He fully acknowledged the situation was grave and called for exceptional measures, and defended the relief measures adopted.

The Chinese Loan Falls Through.

CAPTAIN RAY

Took the Law Into His Own Hands and Established a Beneficent Military Dictatorship in the Yukon.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Habard Wells, the special courier who brought Captain Ray's despatches from the Yukon, reached Washington last evening. He did not bring the full copy of the despatches, these having been expressed by General Merriam from Seattle. Speaking to an Associated Press reporter, Mr. Wells said: "I cannot properly say anything as to Captain Ray's report, but I can say that I left him in a rather critical position, and the sooner the Government gets support in to him the better. Captain Ray had only one man with him, Lieut. Richardson. They reached Fort Yukon somewhat ahead of a mob of between 80 and 100 of the toughest men that could be picked out of Dawson and when I left the Captain he was standing off this mob from the provision caches, largely by virtue of his nerve.

"When the food panic struck Dawson this mob of toughs left for Fort Yukon, knowing that the Weare Company and the Alaska Commercial Company each had a cache of provisions there. The Dawson men intended to appropriate these supplies and let the rest of the camp shift for itself. Captain Ray learned of this and he posted himself at one end of the cache, while Lieut. Richardson guarded the other. They were in uniform. The mob tackled the Captain first and ordered him to give up. He refused and for a time it looked as though there would be shooting, but between his uniform and nerve, the mob was overawed.

"Ray then established himself as a sort of military dictator, superintended the sale and distribution of provisions and will make an account to the companies when it is all over. When I left he had the support of about 50 of the decent element, and there are about 500 of the better element there also, but a few bad men in a place of that sort can usually make trouble and run things if they get started.

"As to provisions, the people will need the Government relief by the time it reaches them, but there is no reason it should not get in all right. I came out by the White Pass, and the road is good, though the Dyea trail has recently been buried by a big snow slide.

"One thing cannot be too strongly impressed on those who contemplate joining the spring rush. Major Walsh, the Canadian commissioner, will allow no man over on Canadian soil who does not bring 1,000 pounds of provisions. To start without that will be to turn back."

Navvies From Newfoundland.

St. John's, Nfld., Feb. 10.—The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has sent a representative here to engage 1,500 laborers to proceed to British Columbia to work on the construction of the Crow's Nest Pass Railway. The wages offered are $1.50 per day.

THE SWING OF VICTORY

Liberal Candidates Nominated at Ottawa.

MESSRS. LUMSDEN AND O'KEEFE.

Liberals Out in Grenville and Carleton—Hon. G. W. Ross Delivers a Forcible and Telling Speech in Defence of the Government at Palmerston—He Corrects Some Opposition Misstatements.

Toronto, Feb. 10.—Four more Liberals placed in nomination yesterday in the two Ottawas, Carleton and Grenville, almost completes the roll of Liberal candidates lined up to take part in the momentous struggle of March 1. In East Toronto, the only one of the four city ridings in which the candidate are not facing each other, the convention has been called for next Saturday evening. In Ottawa the liberals selected the old member, Mr. O'Keefe, and Mr. Alex. Lumsden, the latter replacing Mr. Bronson, the hon. gentleman who, as a Minister without portfolio, has so long represented the Federal capital in the Cabinet as well as in the House, and who now retires from public life amid the regret of his fellow-citizens of all parties. The team selected is a powerful one and will no doubt come out of the contest with the old-time Ottawa majority.

In Carleton and Grenville strong and popular local men have been selected and a vigorous fight will be made to rescue those constituencies from the Toryism to which they have been so long wedded.

The Premier was at Cathcart yesterday, Mr. Ross at Palmerston, and Mr. Whitney got in a couple of speeches at Owen Sound and Wiarton.

The Education Question.

Palmerston, Feb. 10.—In response to the invitation of the Young Men's Liberal Club of Palmerston, Hon. Geo. W. Ross addressed the electors of West Wellington and North Perth in the Town Hall here last evening. The building was crowded, and many were unable to find room in the hall with the electors of the two ridings and their wives and lady friends, who turned out in large numbers and evinced the deepest interest in the proceedings.

In the course of his address Mr. Ross took up the criticisms directed against the Education Department, and showed the inconsistency of Mr. Whitney, who some years ago did not want a Minister of Education, but who now wanted one with an advisory board tacked on. His declaration that he preferred the system of responsible government under the British constitution which is now in force was greeted with applause. He enumerated the numerous reforms he had effected in the department, by which the efficiency of the schools had been increased and the educational facilities for the boys and girls improved, and declared amid loud cheers that he would rather walk out of office to-morrow than consent to any changes which would impair the efficiency of the schools or deprive the children of Ontario of the opportunity to acquire that education so essential to success in life. He declared that his aim is to make the system a thorough one, and expressed the opinion that the children could not stand many more subjects being added to the course, but he thought that elementary agriculture might perhaps be added with advantage. The price of text-books and other matters in connection with the department were discussed, and Mr. Ross resumed his seat amid enthusiastic cheering.

CANADIAN HORSE BREEDERS.

Proceedings of the Third Annual Meeting Held in Toronto.

Toronto, Feb. 10.—President Robert Davies presided over the third annual meeting of the Canadian Horse Breeders' Association, held last evening in the Albion Hotel. After routine, the following resolutions were passed:

"That in view of the fact that the foreign horse trade of the Dominion for the last two years has shown a falling off, and whereas that of the United States has increased and that the Government of that country are making strenuous attempts to further improvement, we do petition the Government at Ottawa to appoint a commission of enquiry as to the best steps to be taken to develop the trade in horses with foreign countries and encourage the breeding of horses;

"That we, the members of the Horse Breeders' Association of Canada, do petition the Legislature of Ontario at its next session to establish an inspection and licensing system for all horses standing for service in Ontario; and that Messrs. Dr. Smith, Davies, Innes, Miller, Graham, Beith, Sorley, Wilkie, Davies, Crossley and Hendrie, be a committee to that effect to consider the details of a system to be adopted and to secure the introduction of a bill in the Legislature founded thereupon."

The officers elected for the ensuing year are: President, Robert Davies, Toronto; first vice-president, Dr. A. Smith, Toronto; second vice-president, Robert Beith, M.P., Bowmanville.

A Boston newspaper complains that the famous Bunker Hill monument, which when first erected was the tallest creation of man in this country, has now become quite insignificant in height. It is 220 feet high, or 327 feet shorter than city hall tower in Philadelphia.

Sufferers from any disease caused by impure blood should never be discouraged about taking Hood's Sarsaparilla because other medicines have failed to give relief. Remember Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail. Read this statement:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Dear Sirs:—I think it my duty to let you know what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I was suffering with severe headaches daily and also with catarrh. One day a paper was left at my house and in looking it over I read of your great medicine's value to my fellow sufferers. I reasoned that if it cured them, why would it not cure me, although I must own I had some doubts about it, as I so-called cures which had failed even to relieve me. At last I procured a bottle and after taking all the medicine the headaches had left me and my catarrh trouble was much better. LASSWADE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Through the patience and good management of Mr. J. Radcliffe and J. W. McLean, Lasswade has a literary society. It is a great help to the young, and old, too, as they all have a chance to take part in the programme. The subject of the last debate was "A shiftless, good-natured man and an industrious, ill-tempered man." The decision was given in favour of the shiftless man. Everybody come. Lots of amusement at the literary meetings.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Win Yet Another Championship.

Dresden, Feb. 7—The report of the wonderful cure of J. M. McDonald, of Windsor, has reached Dresden and causes universal and interested comment.

The power of Dodd's Kidney Pills has for some time past been universally admitted in this town, for we have had absolutely convincing proof of it.

Mr. W. G. Craggs, a prominent merchant and ex-reeve of Dresden, was for eight years a sufferer from Inflammatory Rheumatism, aggravated by Gout. Our most skilful doctors failed to relieve him, and not till he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills did he find a cure. Six boxes cured him completely. He is now attending to business every day, thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

DYSPEPSIA DECAMPS

When its Victim Begins to Use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

A Domestic Tragedy Averted—Divorce Prevented by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—They are the Only Cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, and all Stomach Troubles.

He loved his wife and she loved him. Life should have been happier for both.

But he did not like her pies. They were not like the pies his mother used to make. They gave him dyspepsia. He grew sallow and thin. His temper became irritable and uncertain. Life was miserable for them both. They quarrelled, and talked of the divorce court.

One day he read of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. But he had lost faith in everything, and didn't believe what was said of them. Then a friend told him that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets had cured him of Dyspepsia in two weeks.

He bought a box. So much benefit did he get, that when this box was finished he bought another. That one cured him totally. He used two Tablets after each meal.

Now he eats his wife's pies every day, and says they cannot be equalled. He and his wife are happy—thanks to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are the one and the only medicine known to man that can cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Biliousness, Wind on the Stomach, Foul Breath, and all disorders of the stomach and digestive system.

One or two tablets after each meal are all you need. Use them and eat any wholesome food. It will nourish you, as it should. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets digest the food, give the stomach a rest, tone, and strengthen it. In each box of the Tablets is a supply of small, brown tablets that regulate the bowels, causing them to do their work promptly, thoroughly, naturally and regularly.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, each box containing full double treatment, are sold by all druggists, at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or they will be sent, on receipt of price, by the Dodds Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

The farmers are all busy getting out their beef, pigs, wood and straw, grain, all of which there has been no better prices for the last twenty years, and every farmer that has paid attention to his business is in easier and better circumstances accordingly.

The Austin meeting at Frankhill School House on Friday night was addressed by the candidate, but owing to one of Mr. Stratton's meetings the same night at Ennismore the attendance was not so large, but Mr. Austin is meeting with more than the most sanguine expectations in Emily township, this encouragement with his large hopes north insures victory for his election.

A number of Ennismore farmers in good spirits were here last week shipping pigs and declare that the country and farmers are as safe as can be under such able men as Mr. Stratton.

THE SURGEON FOILED.

Wanted to Perform an Operation.

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS RENDERED IT UNNECESSARY.

Too many doctors are too ready to use the knife. Many a one is sacrificed on the altar of a surgeon's ambition to operate who could be saved by the use of Dr. Chase's K.-L. Pills The case of MRS. W. B. AIKEN, of Zephyr, Ont., is one in point. Her husband says that she had been doctoring with several doctors for Inflammation of the Bladder for over a year.

"The last bottle I got from the doctor he said if that did her no good she would be compelled to have an operation performed. I luckily picked up a sample of Dr. Chase's K.-L. Pills in Mr. Dafoe's store, and my wife took one pill that night and one in the morning, and she has never felt the least sign of pain since. I will always keep Dr. Chase's Pills in my house for all our family complaints."

The element of permanence which attaches to the erection of any memorial to the dead renders it highly desirable that no mistake be made in the selection either of design or of materials.

A mistake is a serious matter. Let us help you to make a right decision. Our specialty is the erection of monuments which are unique without being grotesque, and artistic without being over-decorated.

We manufacture from all first-quality granites, and as WE SELL DIRECT TO CUSTOMERS, we save the latter all agents' profits. Then, too, there is a decided advantage for the buyer in dealing with one responsible firm for both the manufacture and the setting of a monument

MRS. F. "I must apologise for my very early call, Mrs. S., but circumstances prevent me seeing you later in the day. Our friend, Miss Church, informed me yesterday that you had quite banished your dyspepsia and nervousness by using Paine's Celery Compound. Can you truly recommend the medicine?"

MRS. S. "My dear Mrs. F., all that you have heard from Miss Church is quite true. Paine's Celery Compound is indeed a most marvellous medicine, pleasant to use, and has done more for me than my doctor could do. I cannot possibly give you a stronger recommendation."

MRS. F. "Well, candidly, Mrs. S., I have suffered terribly from indigestion and frequent attacks of painful neuralgia, and have used many medicines, but I am as bad to-day as I was six months ago. Upon your recommendation I shall give Paine's Celery Compound a trial."

MRS. S. "I am pleased to hear of your wise decision! I am sure you will not be disappointed. I heard a few days ago that our minister's wife was using Paine's Celery Compound for her rheumatism, and is now able to be out again. Really, Mrs. F., my faith in Paine's Celery Compound gets stronger every day."

TO DOWN SIR CHARLES

Conservatives Revolt Against the Tupper Leadership.

THE YUKON RAILWAY POLICY.

The Old "Nova Scotian" Forced to Change His Views - Will Oppose the Land Grant Effect of the First Caucus on the Party Baffled Conspirators—Ottawa News.

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—Intermittent Klondicitis is the most catching disease at the capital. Its victims are to be found everywhere, in the House and out. The Opposition had a severe spasm yesterday at its first caucus of the year, and the result is an increase of the general debility from which it has been suffering since June, 1896. The Yukon Railway bill, which was discussed at some length in caucus, bids fair to cause serious disturbance. It will be remembered that when Sir Charles Tupper first heard of the signing by the Government of the contract for the construction of the railway he said in an interview in the Montreal Gazette: "I have no doubt that the measures that they have taken to secure the prompt construction of a sled road between the Stikine River and Teslin Lake, to be made into a good trail as soon as the snow disappears, and followed by the construction of a railway to be opened by September next, will meet with the approval of Parliament. I regard these measures as of incalculable value to Canada, and shall be only too glad to give the Government the best support in my power on a question of such vital importance at this moment."

Anti-Tupperites Active.

In another interview on the same day Sir Charles said Messrs. McKenzie and Mann were probably the only men in Canada who could put the undertaking through in the time specified. Nothing in all this about the land grant in return for the work being too large. Nothing about the inadvisability of the Government making a contract just before the meeting of Parliament. Nothing to lead one to imagine that the Opposition proposed to make a party issue out of this great measure for the opening up of the Yukon. "I regard these measures as of incalculable value to Canada, and shall be only too glad to give the Government the best support in my power." Within 24 hours the enemies of Sir Charles within his own party, those who desire to get him out of the way, had begun an agitation against him for committing the party without consultation. Mr Foster in the Ottawa Citizen, Mr. Maclean in Toronto, Mr. Clarke Wallace at Weston, all rallied against the project. In some quarters the cry was raised that Sir Charles had betrayed the party because he had an interest in the Yukon Railway. When the House met a week ago, in a white heat of indignation Sir Charles denounced this insinuation as the most cowardly attempt so slander his character he had met in public life. The scene with Mr. Maclean followed, and it began to look as if the feud between the Tupper and anti-Tupper element would reach a culmination at once in the complete overthrow of one faction or the other. Not merely were Sir Charles' enemies in Ontario active, but there was evidence of co-operation from Quebec. Sir Adolphe Chapleau, who is credited with exercising a good deal of influence over the policy of La Presse, the French Conservative organ of Montreal, saw a chance of unhorsing his enemy, and La Presse attacked Sir Charles so vigorously that the latter threatened a libel suit. The charges of personal corruption in connection with the affair were thereupon withdrawn, but yesterday La Presse again returned to the attack and pointed out that as President of a Yukon transportation company, if not personally, Sir Charles was much interested in the securing of an all-Canadian route by way of the Stikine River.

In the Party Vise.

This organized outbreak against a policy which Sir Charles had promised to aid the Government in was inspired not so much by objection to the features of the project on the part of the anti-Tupper Conservatives as by a hope that it would give opportunity for forcing Sir Charles out of the leadership. The agitation against the Yukon bill was directed against Sir Charles Tupper rather than the Government. The old leader was astute enough to see this, and yesterday's proceedings proved that he will not yield the leadership to the malcontents unless after a serious struggle. He does not propose to place himself in a false tactical position to oblige the foes within the ranks. The caucus said the party should oppose the Yukon Railway bill. Some of the members expected that Sir Charles would say: "In an interview two weeks ago I spoke strongly in favor of it. I think it in the interest of Canada, and if you must fight it as a party permit me first to resign the leadership, because I cannot make a right-about-turn in such a short time in the face of the whole people of Canada." This the malcontent doubtless hoped would be the attitude of Sir Charles. Instead, he reiterated his views that the route was the best that could be selected, that haste was something that could not be objected to, but added that he was with them in fighting the conditions of the land grant, etc. This middle course involves some humiliation for Sir Charles, and at the hands of men whom he has no love for, but it leaves him in possession of the leadership and nullifies what was a very promising movement for his deposition. The conspirators are baffled once more, but they are watchful and hope that another opportunity will speedily arise. The Yukon bill will go through the Commons after a full debate next week, and unless Sir Mackenzie Bowell gets greater encouragement than he has yet received in his campaign against it in the Senate there should be little difficulty in passing it through the Senate also. It will have an important place in the history of Parliamentary intrigue, however, as having been one of the obstacles put in Sir Charles Tupper's way by his party "friends" in the hope that he would trip over it and come to grief. The party which prided itself on its instinct for government is rapidly developing an instinct for conspiracy that is truly Fosterian.

Manitoba Wants Foreign Fruit.

The Winnipeg Board of Trade has sent a telegram to Hon. Sydney Fisher protesting against the proposed prohibition of the importation of foreign fruits. The letter points out that as no pears, plums or peaches are grown in Manitoba and the Northwest, and every attempt to import fruit from Ontario or British Columbia has resulted in loss, the enactment of such a law would be a very serious matter to Manitobans. The Minister of Agriculture has replied that he has intimated to the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association that the prohibition of the importation of foreign fruits is practically impossible.

Women Ready to Emigrate.

Word has been received from the Government agent at Boise City, Idaho, that about twenty women, who are good cooks and housekeepers, are anxious to go to the Northwest Territories, but have not the means to pay their railway fares. Their ages run from 18 to 35 years, mostly farm girls. Encouraging reports are also received from the agent of the Interior Department working in the Western States. From all appearances the heaviest emigration to Western Canada will be from Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Michigan, Kansas and Nebraska.

An Order Regulating Coal Oil.

An important Order-in-Council has been issued by the Department of Inland Revenue that is of interest to coal oil dealers. Hitherto oil in barrels has had to be placed on a dealer's premises and the original package only drawn from or tapped. Under the new regulation these barrels may now be emptied into a permanent metal tank on the premises if a label or card is attached showing the full inspection marks of the original package. This prevents considerable loss from leakages.

Personal and General Notes.

Major Cartwright arrived in Ottawa yesterday to take up his duties as Assistant Adjutant-General.

Mr. McCarthy, M.P., introduced a Collingwood deputation to Mr. Tarte yesterday to ask for further improvements at that port.

Hon. William Pugsley of St. John is in the city in the interest of the railway which it is contemplated to build from Edmonton northwesterly through the Peace River country towards Dawson City. Three other syndicates are asking for charters over this identical route. Mr. Pugsley, however, has the advantage of them. Last year the town of Edmonton secured the only existing charter from Parliament for this route, and Mr. Pugsley having secured it, he expects to ward off all rivals.

SAVE THE MOTHERS

Dodd's Kidney Pills Their Only Safety in Female Diseases.

You have seen a flower nipped by frost, fade and die in the flush of its beauty. That is how women die when attacked by any of the diseases peculiar to their sex.

Woman's burdens are woefully heavy. Her sufferings are agonizing. Her patience is grand. Disease preys upon her. The light dies out of her eyes, her steps become slow and dragging; she loses flesh; grows sallow, listless, droops like a flower. Then she dies. Her family is left to the cold mercy of the world.

"Mother's dead!" What a piteous phrase. What sufferings have been endured before it was used. Why should mothers, wives, sisters suffer so? They need not. Dodd's Kidney Pills will quickly and thoroughly cure all cases of Female Weakness. They never fail. They give health, strength, courage: a new lease of life.

ADVERTISING IN THE EXAMINER PAYS

CASH IN THE TILL

Owing to the very small margin of profit in the Tobacco trade, especially since the Duty was increased, we are compelled to adopt STRICTLY CASH Methods in future.

To continue to give Credit means doing business "blindfold" as others have done—incurring bad debts and losses,—instead of having a DEAD SURE THING and knowing just where we stand by the Cash in our Till.

Therefore, on and after MONDAY, FEB. 7th, SPOT CASH will be the invariable rule in this store. Tobacco manufacturers demand Cash for their goods, and as Cash is the Power in Buying we must make it the Power in selling, in order to keep business on the jump.

DEAR SIR,—I most heartily thank you for the prompt manner in which you settled my fire claim. My barn and contents were burned a few days ago and were insured in the Northern Assurance Co., through your agent Mr. Thos. Edgar, for $800. I have to-day received a checque for the full amount of $800 and the settlement is to me in every way satisfactory. I can only say that those having insurance in the Northern Assurance Co. may rest satisfied that, should unfortunately a fire occur, the claimants will be to say the least fairly dealt with.

I have the greatest pleasure in voluntarily giving this testimonial. Yours very truly,

MRS. F. "I must apologise for my very early call, Mrs. S., but circumstances prevent me seeing you later in the day. Our friend, Miss Church, informed me yesterday that you had quite banished your dyspepsia and nervousness by using Paine's Celery Compound. Can you truly recommend the medicine?"

MRS. S. "My dear Mrs. F., all that you have heard from Miss Church is quite true. Paine's Celery Compound is indeed a most marvellous medicine, pleasant to use, and has done more for me than my doctor could do. I cannot possibly give you a stronger recommendation."

MRS. F. "Well, candidly, Mrs. S., I have suffered terribly from indigestion and frequent attacks of painful neuralgia, and have used many medicines, but I am as bad to-day as I was six months ago. Upon your recommendation I shall give Paine's Celery Compound a trial."

MRS. S. "I am pleased to hear of your wise decision! I am sure you will not be disappointed. I heard a few days ago that our minister's wife was using Paine's Celery Compound for her rheumatism, and is now able to be out again. Really, Mrs. F., my faith in Paine's Celery Compound gets stronger every day."

TO DOWN SIR CHARLES

Conservatives Revolt Against the Tupper Leadership.

THE YUKON RAILWAY POLICY.

The Old "Nova Scotian" Forced to Change His Views - Will Oppose the Land Grant Effect of the First Caucus on the Party Baffled Conspirators—Ottawa News.

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—Intermittent Klondicitis is the most catching disease at the capital. Its victims are to be found everywhere, in the House and out. The Opposition had a severe spasm yesterday at its first caucus of the year, and the result is an increase of the general debility from which it has been suffering since June, 1896. The Yukon Railway bill, which was discussed at some length in caucus, bids fair to cause serious disturbance. It will be remembered that when Sir Charles Tupper first heard of the signing by the Government of the contract for the construction of the railway he said in an interview in the Montreal Gazette: "I have no doubt that the measures that they have taken to secure the prompt construction of a sled road between the Stikine River and Teslin Lake, to be made into a good trail as soon as the snow disappears, and followed by the construction of a railway to be opened by September next, will meet with the approval of Parliament. I regard these measures as of incalculable value to Canada, and shall be only too glad to give the Government the best support in my power on a question of such vital importance at this moment."

Anti-Tupperites Active.

In another interview on the same day Sir Charles said Messrs. McKenzie and Mann were probably the only men in Canada who could put the undertaking through in the time specified. Nothing in all this about the land grant in return for the work being too large. Nothing about the inadvisability of the Government making a contract just before the meeting of Parliament. Nothing to lead one to imagine that the Opposition proposed to make a party issue out of this great measure for the opening up of the Yukon. "I regard these measures as of incalculable value to Canada, and shall be only too glad to give the Government the best support in my power." Within 24 hours the enemies of Sir Charles within his own party, those who desire to get him out of the way, had begun an agitation against him for committing the party without consultation. Mr Foster in the Ottawa Citizen, Mr. Maclean in Toronto, Mr. Clarke Wallace at Weston, all rallied against the project. In some quarters the cry was raised that Sir Charles had betrayed the party because he had an interest in the Yukon Railway. When the House met a week ago, in a white heat of indignation Sir Charles denounced this insinuation as the most cowardly attempt to slander his character he had met in public life. The scene with Mr. Maclean followed, and it began to look as if the feud between the Tupper and anti-Tupper element would reach a culmination at once in the complete overthrow of one faction or the other. Not merely were Sir Charles' enemies in Ontario active, but there was evidence of co-operation from Quebec. Sir Adolphe Chapleau, who is credited with exercising a good deal of influence over the policy of La Presse, the French Conservative organ of Montreal, saw a chance of unhorsing his enemy, and La Presse attacked Sir Charles so vigorously that the latter threatened a libel suit. The charges of personal corruption in connection with the affair were thereupon withdrawn, but yesterday La Presse again returned to the attack and pointed out that as President of a Yukon transportation company, if not personally, Sir Charles was much interested in the securing of an all-Canadian route by way of the Stikine River.

In the Party Vise.

This organized outbreak against a policy which Sir Charles had promised to aid the Government in was inspired not so much by objection to the features of the project on the part of the anti-Tupper Conservatives as by a hope that it would give opportunity for forcing Sir Charles out of the leadership. The agitation against the Yukon bill was directed against Sir Charles Tupper rather than the Government. The old leader was astute enough to see this, and yesterday's proceedings proved that he will not yield the leadership to the malcontents unless after a serious struggle. He does not propose to place himself in a false tactical position to oblige the foes within the ranks. The caucus said the party should oppose the Yukon Railway bill. Some of the members expected that Sir Charles would say: "In an interview two weeks ago I spoke strongly in favor of it. I think it in the interest of Canada, and if you must fight it as a party permit me first to resign the leadership, because I cannot make a right-about-turn in such a short time in the face of the whole people of Canada." This the malcontent doubtless hoped would be the attitude of Sir Charles. Instead, he reiterated his views that the route was the best that could be selected, that haste was something that could not be objected to, but added that he was with them in fighting the conditions of the land grant, etc. This middle course involves some humiliation for Sir Charles, and at the hands of men whom he has no love for, but it leaves him in possession of the leadership and nullifies what was a very promising movement for his deposition. The conspirators are baffled once more, but they are watchful and hope that another opportunity will speedily arise. The Yukon bill will go through the Commons after a full debate next week, and unless Sir Mackenzie Bowell gets greater encouragement than he has yet received in his campaign against it in the Senate there should be little difficulty in passing it through the Senate also. It will have an important place in the history of Parliamentary intrigue, however, as having been one of the obstacles put in Sir Charles Tupper's way by his party "friends" in the hope that he would trip over it and come to grief. The party which prided itself on its instinct for government is rapidly developing an instinct for conspiracy that is truly Fosterian.

Manitoba Wants Foreign Fruit.

The Winnipeg Board of Trade has sent a telegram to Hon. Sydney Fisher protesting against the proposed prohibition of the importation of foreign fruits. The letter points out that as no pears, plums or peaches are grown in Manitoba and the Northwest, and every attempt to import fruit from Ontario or British Columbia has resulted in loss, the enactment of such a law would be a very serious matter to Manitobans. The Minister of Agriculture has replied that he has intimated to the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association that the prohibition of the importation of foreign fruits is practically impossible.

Women Ready to Emigrate.

Word has been received from the Government agent at Boise City, Idaho, that about twenty women, who are good cooks and housekeepers, are anxious to go to the Northwest Territories, but have not the means to pay their railway fares. Their ages run from 18 to 35 years, mostly farm girls. Encouraging reports are also received from the agent of the Interior Department working in the Western States. From all appearances the heaviest emigration to Western Canada will be from Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Michigan, Kansas and Nebraska.

An Order Regulating Coal Oil.

An important Order-in-Council has been issued by the Department of Inland Revenue that is of interest to coal oil dealers. Hitherto oil in barrels has had to be placed on a dealer's premises and the original package only drawn from or tapped. Under the new regulation these barrels may now be emptied into a permanent metal tank on the premises if a label or card is attached showing the full inspection marks of the original package. This prevents considerable loss from leakages.

Personal and General Notes.

Major Cartwright arrived in Ottawa yesterday to take up his duties as Assistant Adjutant-General.

Mr. McCarthy, M.P., introduced a Collingwood deputation to Mr. Tarte yesterday to ask for further improvements at that port.

Hon. William Pugsley of St. John is in the city in the interest of the railway which it is contemplated to build from Edmonton northwesterly through the Peace River country towards Dawson City. Three other syndicates are asking for charters over this identical route. Mr. Pugsley, however, has the advantage of them. Last year the town of Edmonton secured the only existing charter from Parliament for this route, and Mr. Pugsley having secured it, he expects to ward off all rivals.

SAVE THE MOTHERS

Dodd's Kidney Pills Their Only Safety in Female Diseases.

You have seen a flower nipped by frost, fade and die in the flush of its beauty. That is how women die when attacked by any of the diseases peculiar to their sex.

Woman's burdens are woefully heavy. Her sufferings are agonizing. Her patience is grand. Disease preys upon her. The light dies out of her eyes, her steps become slow and dragging; she loses flesh; grows sallow, listless, droops like a flower. Then she dies. Her family is left to the cold mercy of the world.

"Mother's dead!" What a piteous phrase. What sufferings have been endured before it was used. Why should mothers, wives, sisters suffer so? They need not. Dodd's Kidney Pills will quickly and thoroughly cure all cases of Female Weakness. They never fail. They give health, strength, courage: a new lease of life.

CASH IN THE TILL

Owing to the very small margin of profit in the Tobacco trade, especially since the Duty was increased, we are compelled to adopt STRICTLY CASH Methods in future.

Therefore, on and after MONDAY, FEB. 7th, SPOT CASH will be the invariable rule in this store. Tobacco manufacturers demand Cash for their goods, and as Cash is the Power in Buying we must make it the Power in selling, in order to keep business on the jump.

A FEBRUARY WEDDING.

Nuptials of Mr. Erastus Davidson and Miss Minnie Anderson.

The home of Mr. John Anderson, Stewart street, Ashburnham, was the scene of a very pretty wedding last evening, when his daughter, Minnie, was united in marriage to Mr. Erastus Davidson, of North Monaghan.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Jas. G. Potter, in the presence of about seventy friends. The wedding march was played by Miss Octavia Wood.

The bride who was given away by her father, looked very pretty in her costume of white organdie, over pink, and was assisted by her sister, Miss Frankie Anderson, who was attired in a beautiful dress of pale blue with ribbon and lace trimmings. Both carried beautiful bouquets. The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Delbert Davidson.

After the ceremony the gathering sat down to a sumptuous wedding supper and the young couple received the hearty congratulations, after which a few hours were spent in games and song.

Both young people are well and favourably known, as was shown by the large number of beautiful and costly presents of which they were the recipients.

The young couple left for their new home, carrying with them the best wishes of all their friends. They will reside in North Monaghan.

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Miss Sophia Lamb and Mr. Edward M. Taylor.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized last evening at the residence of Mrs. John Taylor, Reid street, when Miss Sophia Lamb and Mr. E. M. Taylor, both highly popular young people in town, were united in the bonds of matrimony.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. O. Crossly, pastor of the Charlotte street Methodist church.

The bride was most attractingly gowned in purple silk with garniture of white silk lace and chiffon and was assisted by Miss Katie Boyce.

The groomsman was Mr. Harvey Taylor.

After the wedding party had enjoyed a most elaborate wedding dejeuner Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left for a trip east followed by the congratulations of their many friends.

TOMMY COURSEY GOES UP.

He is Sentenced to Two Years in the Central Prison.

This morning Tommy Coursey was up before Police Magistrate Edmison, charged with the theft of $35 from Mr. T. Fitzgerald. He entered a plea of guilty and the heavy penalty of two years in Central Prison was imposed.

Coursey has been working off and on for Mr. Fitzgerald during the winter, and when the till was found to have been robbed on Tuesday, suspicion at once fell on him, as he had been hanging round during the day. The matter was placed in the hands of the police, and the lad was arrested and at once confessed to his guilt, pleading in extenuation that he was under the influence of liquor at the time. As the prisoner had figured in the police court on several previous occasions, no extenuating circumstances were considered and the above named penalty was imposed. Nearly all the money was recovered.

SEDUCTION CASE.

It is Adjourned Until Monday Next—All the Parties Live in Belmont.

A charge of seduction was preferred yesterday before County Magistrate Edmison against Wm. Purdy, son of J. F. Purdy, of Belmont. The young lady in the case was Annie Rupert.

All the parties concerned reside in Belmont, and the complainant was a domestic in the employ of the prisoner's parents.

After a number of witnesses had been heard yesterday, the case was adjourned until Monday next.

Mr. R. E. Wood is conducting the prosecution, and R. B. Hall, of the firm of Stratton & Hall, represents the defence.

A WORTHY WORK.

ANNUAL MEETING OF ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

REV. DR. TORRANCE PRESENTED WITH A GOWN.

The Reports for the Year Submitted From the Various Church Organizations—Progress Evidenced—Vote of Thanks to the Choir.

The annual congregational meeting in connection with St. Paul's church was very largely attended last evening. Mr. Richard Hall presided, and a most pleasant incident of the evening was the presentation to Rev. Dr. Torrance of a handsome corded silk gown by Sheriff Hall, on behalf of the ladies of the congregation. The pleasant duty, Sheriff Hall stated, had been imposed on him by the ladies. They had felt that while they esteemed him for his worth's sake, and for the qualities which had endeared him to every class in the congregation, that the degree of Doctor of Divinity not only conferred an honour on their pastor but on his congregation as well, and therefore they were desirous of presenting him with a gown which would be a fitting accompaniment to the degree, coupled with the hope that he might be long spared to grace it, and that his ministry might continue to be one of increasing fruitfulness and usefulness.

Dr. Torrance was almost too much overcome with surprise and pleasure to acknowledge the gift, and briefly but heartily thanked the ladies for their remembrance of him.

The following reports were presented and adopted during the evening:

REPORT OF SESSION.

The past year has not been a very eventful one in the history of the congregation. The additions to the membership were fifty-two twenty-six by certificate and twenty-six in profession of faith. Three were removed by death, twenty by certificate and twenty-nine other names were taken from the communion roll. Hence the membership is the same as it was at the close of the previous year. There has been an increase of ten in the number of families.

The losses by death have been fewer than for many years. Mr. Wm. Walsh, Mrs. Wm. Tully and Mrs. Crommie, the three members of the church who were removed by death, were held in high esteem by all. Mr. Walsh had been an elder for some years, and took a deep interest the welfare of the church. Mrs. Tully was one of our oldest members.

Rev. Wm. Bennett became a member of Session during the year, and has taken charge of the district in the south part of the town, which has been so long without an elder, as is also the district on either side of the road between Monaghan and Smith.

There can be no doubt that a deepening of spiritual life is much needed in the congregation. If there was more complete consecration on the part of the members of the church, there would be far more power in connection with the services of the sanctuary. Prayer could secure as great blessings for us as it has secured for other congregations. In answer to earnest and believing prayer, the spirit of God would work, and there would be a large increase in the membership, and a greater interest in missions at home and in foreign lands.

The number of families in the congregation is 276, and the number of communicants 765.

E. F. TORRANCE,
Moderator of Session.

The report was adopted.

REPORT OF MISSIONARY ASSOCIATION

was submitted as follows by Mr. J. D. Collins:—

Since the adoption of the present method of raising our missionary money there has been a large decrease in the number of contributors. In the year 1894 there were in the congregation 330 families and 705 communicants. Of these 275 were contributors to our Mission Fund. In the year 1896 there were 276 families and 755 communicants, and of these only 196 were contributors to our Mission Fund. In the year 1893 there was $967 to be allocated at the annual meeting, for the year 1897 there is $935. While some have been increasing their contributions, a large number have been withdrawing their contributions altogether. It is far from satisfactory that with 276 families in the congregation there should only be 196 contributors to our mission schemes. Your committee would recommend that every family be asked to contribute a definite sum to missions—monthly, quarterly or annually.

J. D. COLLINS,
Chairman.

Mr. Collins and Mr. Hay moved that the $908.47 which was on hand be allocated as follows:—Home Missions, $400; Foreign Missions, $400; French Evangelization, $108.47.

In amendment Mr. Robt. Innes and Rev. Wm. Bennet moved that $75 00 be given the Klondyke mission out of the sum, and the remainder be then allocated as suggested.

The amendment was lost and the original motion was carried.

The officers of the Missionary Committee were then elected as follows:—

President—J. D. Collins.
Vice-President—D. H. Moore.
Treasurer—Robt. Innes.
Committee—R. Mulholland, A. J. Johnston and J. Connal.
Auditors—J. Crane and F. H. Pope.

REPORT OF BOARD OF MANAGERS 1897.

The Treasurer's Statement submitted exhibits a financial condition unworthy of this large independent congregation. True the balance due the Ontario Bank is nearly $200 less than last year but we must not overlook the fact that the extraordinary expenditure is over $1000 less than in t years.

The receipts from collections were over $200 less in 1897 than in 1896, $346 less than those of 1895 and $1000 less than those of 1892. All reasonable efforts are made by the Board for the economical management of the church and for the last two or three years their attention has been directed towards the lighting of the church which cost in 1896 the large um of $197. This is the first year that a test could be made of the saving from the use of both Auer light in the schoolroom and incandescent light in the church with the gratifying result that $165 has been saved during the year or in other words our light is costing less than half of what it previously did.

The envelope arrears for 1897 amount to 225 which have been reduced by the sum of 125 since the beginning of the year.

Some large contributors have been lost during the past few years but the Board think there are many members of the congregation who might assist in making up the deficiency if they would only conscientiously consider their duty in the matter.

The Board mourn the loss of one of their members by death the late William Walsh who for many years had taken a very active interest generally in the business affairs of the congregation and particularly as Chairman of the Pew Committee where he exercised the tact, patience and courtesy so necessary to the successful management of the difficulties the work of this Committee entails.

Mr. Walsh was always ready to help in any way possible and continually sought out means of improving the spiritual and material prosperity of the congregation. His kind genial presence and valuable counsel will be much missed by all who had the privilege of his acquaintance.

The surviving members of the Board retiring this year are Messrs. A. Hall, W. G. Ferguson and Thomas A. Hay.

These gentlemen are eligible for re-election for a further term of three years and the vacancy created by Mr. Walsh's death will also require to be filled.

Auditors for the ensuing year will also be appointed. All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. W. BENNIT,
Secretary.

The report was adopted.

LADIES' AID.

In this, the fourteenth annual report of the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's church, we have very little change to report. The meetings have been held monthly (except July and August) and the districts visited regularly, cases needing assistance having been carefully attended to.

The Home Department has been carried on very successfully by the ladies. The membership has been gradually decreasing, only twelve being enrolled during 1897, which is not at all encouraging to us, and we would like to see more of the young ladies come forward and help us in our work.

At the anniversary held in May we had the pleasure of hearing Rev. Louis Jordan, B.D., of

WAS HE KICKED?

Sudden Death of Mr. Matthew Woodbeck Near Lasswade.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Lasswade, Feb. 8th.—Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Woodbeck of this vicinity drove to Coe Hill on the 26th ult. When they arrived home Mrs. Woodbeck went in the house to get tea. As none of the boys were at home Mr. Woodbeck stopped to put the horse out. Not coming in when she got the tea ready, Mrs. Woodbeck went out to call her husband, and was horrified to find him lying at the stable door speechless. A doctor was immediately summoned but he could find no marks of any kind to show a kick from the horse, which was found in the stable untied. Mr. Woodbeck never rallied and died on the 28th and was buried on the 31st ult. He leaves a wife and a large family of grown up children. He will be greatly missed as he was a great favourite with all his acquaintances. He was the first to be buried in the English burying ground, Rev. C. Lord taking the funeral service.

MUD LAKE BRIDGE.

The Matter of its Reconstruction Thoroughly Threshed Out.

The Joint Committee of the Town Council and the County Council held a conference yesterday afternoon in the Town Clerks office in reference to the rebuilding of the Mud Lake Bridge. Those present from the County Council were Warden Pearce and Councillors Casement, Middleton, Shaw, Brown, Anderson, Eastland and Peck. The town was represented by Mayor Davis and Councillors McWilliams, Beat and Langford. A large delegation was present from Ennismore including Reeve Paul Costello and Messrs. Doran, Mann, Telford, P. Flood, Jas. Scollard, G. Galvin, M. Gannon, J. Gannon and W. B Kelly, Bridgenorth.

Reeve Costello addressed the committee urging the construction of a permanent bridge. He stated that at a public meeting held the evening before in Ennismore it had been resolved to give a grant of $1,200 towards such a structure—nothing would be given for the re-building of the present bridge. The importance of the erection of a permanent structure was dwelt on to some length, and the importance of the connection to Peterborough was represented by the fact that during the year farm products were brought into town from Ennismore to the following amounts: Wheat, $36 000; oats, $20,000; peas, $10,900; hay, $2,000; vegetables, $20,000; cheese, $8,000; cattle, $8,000; wood, $2,000, horses, $1,000; poultry, butter and eggs, $3,000—aggregating in all $91,000 from Ennismore alone. From 80 to 90 per cent. of the receipts from the sales were left in Peterborough.

Mr. Telford followed, stating that by means of the bridge he was brought within 8 miles of the town of Peterborough, without it he was 16 miles away. Besides the products of Ennismore, the farmers of Harvey marketed fully $80,000 worth of produce, and another $30,000 came across the bridge from Emily and Verulam which would otherwise go to Lindsay.

After a protracted discussion the following proposition was submitted by Councillor Langford:—"That the town will pay this year one-half of the expenditures of keeping up the Mud Lake bridge, the town to be consulted regarding all expenditures, and that the county engineer procure information as to the cost of a filled-in bridge and the best place for it, etc., and that the county and town send deputations to wait upon the Dominion and Provincial governments to ask them to give grants toward the construction of the bridge."

It was moved by Councillor Fitzgerald, seconded by Councillor Middleton, that Mr. Langford's resolution be accepted by the county.—Carried.

Mayor Davis named Councillors McWilliams and Langford as the deputation to represent the town. Warden Pearse named Councillors Casement and Middleton to represent the county. The warden also suggested that the reeve of Ennismore be consulted to appoint a committee from that township.

Both town and county representatives appeared to be united in the wish to do something regarding the erection of the much-needed House of Refuge, and the following committee will endeavour to obtain information on the subject:—County Councillors Anderson and Casement and and Town Councillors McWilliams and Langford.

CAMPAIGN COMMENTS.

The Opposition have stolen the Government's re-forestry policy. They are trying to grow Pyne in East Toronto.

But Pyne is poor material for cabinet making. It needs a more Hardy sort of timber.

Mr. Garvin's Electric trio deny that they are members of any organization to control votes. Yet they say they are members of Mr. Garvin's committee.

If they don't control votes then they are no good; perhaps they write the poetry.

If they don't control votes they are like Mr. Garvin's advisory board, which he says will not control the Minister of Education.

HARDLY a day passes in Peterborough in which persons who toil for wages are not beneficially affected by the laws in favour of labour placed on the statute book by the Ontario Government. These laws have become of such common operation that their real benefits are like many other common blessings, not appreciated. We could better appreciate the blessings of sight if we should become blind; and labour would not fully appreciate the benefits flowing from the Ontario Government's wise and liberal labour legislation unless they were deprived of it.

Mr. Garvin, in his correspondence department in the Review, calls Mr. Stratton a Czar. He is next thing to it—in the matter of capturing the confidence of West Peterborough—he is a Cæsar.

Pot calling kettle black is nowhere with Mr. Garvin accusing Mr. Stratton of egotism. We all know that Mr. Garvin is the most modest and diffident man in the country.

Mr. Garvin or some of his amanuenses, writing in the Review as "Freeman, honours Mr. Stratton with no less than eight high-sounding titles.

That's too generous. The only title he wants is M.P.P., and the electors will decorate him with that on March 1st.

When Mr. Garvin attacks Mr. Stratton's record, he should remember that the electors know it better than he does. They have known Mr. Stratton as a citizen all his life, and as a faithful representative for twelve years, and the electors are the judges in this matter.

It may be retorted that in this case the electors are interested parties. Of course they will vote for their own interests in retaining a representative who has served them so well.

Mr. Garvin "entering his committee rooms at 9.45" and being received with hearty cheers, must be quite a dramatic stroke. There'll be whiskers on the moon when he enters the house under similar circumstances.

Did Mr. Garvin learn that dramatic way of "entering his committee rooms at 9.45" from "Brown the tragedian?"

The Electric thrill of enthusiasm at Mr. Garvin's committee rooms seems to have gone off a few volts—re-volted as it were.

The Examiner makes the amende honorable to Capt. Carson and Messrs. Robinson and Layfield. If its language in Tuesdays issue can be any way tortured into accusing them of having any political influence, it abjectly apologizes.

Ever since the beginning of the present campaign the electors of the province have looked in vain for a definite pronouncement from Mr. Whitney as to his policy. They may be pleased to hear that it has at length been made public by Mr. J. Pliny himself in his speech at Kingston. According to the News (Con.), he said:

"Well, now I believe a man's a fool who does things by halves, and when a man wants to go to work, and thinks he has got the proper audience to swallow it, and can produce a great, big, thumping, whopper, he is a fool if he produces a small one—(great laughter)—because a small one may not excite the enthusiasm of his listeners, whereas a large one will startle them so that they will believe it against their will."

Quite intelligible isn't it. Shows a wonderful grasp of public affairs, doesn't it. And that is the kind of rubbish that is being offered to intelligent electors.

There's one comfort, that it is not likely to win many votes. They are reserved for the able and honest Hardy Government—the government with a record.—St. Thomas Times.

Mr. Garvin and most of his stumping colleagues show an affecting loyalty to Mr. Whitney's Kingston policy.

Only the electors of Peterborough are not easily startled.

The Mail says Mr. Whitney "stands" for freedom; he'll be lucky if he "sits" for Dundas. The Mail means "freedom" from the cares of office.

In Hon. J. Dryden the Province has as Minister of Agriculture a practical farmer, an able administrator, and a man to whom even those who differ from him in politics, have to give credit. The energetic manner in which he grappled with the San Jose scale trouble proved that he was the right man in the right place. In this connection, Mr. Pay, of St. Catharines, is reported as saying:

"My politics are opposed to the Government of Ontario, but I must say that in Mr. Dryden the present Administration has a most competent man. When he asked me to come to Toronto to look over his bill, I and those with me expected that we were necessary to the perfection of that bill. But we were not. The bill had been drafted and was submitted to us for our approval. We found the ground well covered, and instead of teaching the Minister how to preserve the fruit, we found ourselves listening to Mr. Dryden's plans. It would be impossible to find a more capable Minister of Agriculture in the Province. We are delighted with him."

That is the kind of cabinet material Mr. Hardy has surrounded himself with. Who has Mr. Whitney that could fill the office of Minister of Agriculture nearly so well, and the same applies to the other Cabinet positions.

The Opposition won't grumble over the cares of office if they can only get the care of the cash.

And if office shouldn't last longer than the cash, under their management, their day would be short.

The newly-registered voters amount to about eight hundred, and the big majority of them will join the big majority to be rolled up for the Government candidate on March 1st, polling day.

A VOICE FROM THE ELECTRIC WORKS.

A Little Reference to the Trio That Claim to Have the Votes of the Workmen "in Their Mit."

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I have been quite interested in the little skits you had in the EXAMINER in reference to the great political influence of Capt. Carson, Mr. W. S. Robinson and Mr. R. E. Layfield, who seem to claim that they control the vote of the men in the Electric Company's Works, and I was amused at their letter in reply, and at what appeared in the Review in regard to the matter, and the absurd claims made of the interest of these men, and Mr. Garvin in the working men. There is a song which says, "Speak of a man as you find him," and I am going to do that. It is not long since (April, 1895,) when the Electric Company made demands on the workmen which the men considered unjust. The result was that the men went out rather than submit to injustice, and almost every citizen in the town sympathized with them, and every workingman in the town was on their side. I said every working man, but I went too far. I would like to ask Capt. Carson which of the employees of the Electric Company it was at that time, who forsook the striking employees, and stood by the company and assisted the company in standing out against the just demands of the men and girls. Capt. Carson can tell better than any one else who went to the railway stations to meet the "scabs" which were imported to take the place of the town employees and euchre them out of a job, and who steered them to the works, and whose conduct was condemned by every union and non-union workingman of the town. As the prophet said to David, "thou art the man." I would like to ask Mr. W. S. Robinson what foreman was it that stayed with his job which another man doesn't feel very well over the way it was got. I would like to ask Mr. R. E. Layfield what member of the clerical staff, that after pretending for a few hours to go out with the men, went back and stood by the company, and thus helped the company to hold out against the men. And yet these men we are told by the Review are not only the warm friends of the working men, but are going further in their kindness and going to instruct their fellow employees how to vote. That is quite useless, the men at the works know how to vote and they will vote on political questions on their merits, and not at the dictation of men that stood by "scabs," instead of their fellow-workmen, less than three short years ago. If the men at the works feel as I do, there will be about as many go out and vote for the Liberal candidate, as "went out" in 1895, and about as many stay in to vote for his opponent as "stayed in" in 1895. If the workmen feel as I do, the great majority of them will not forget the warm interest Mr. Stratton, in co-operation with others of our leading citizens, took in assisting the men to get their rights, and to induce the company, which to their credit (from my point of view) they did do, to recognise the justice of the claims of the men. I believe it is only fair upon the part of the workingmen of Peterborough to stand by the Government that has stood by the labour interest and passed many good laws for their benefit—more good laws than any other country has—and supporting the Government means voting for their candidate, Mr. Stratton.

Mr. Garvin is in very good company when he has such brilliant and worthy champions as Capt. Carson, Mr. W. S. Robinson and Mr. R. E. Layfield on his platform advocating the claims of the workingman, but I tell the workingmen that they must speak of a man as they find him—and where have these men being found in the past, and Mr. Garvin must be judged by the company he keeps.

Yours Truly,
ONE OF THE MEN AT THE WORKS.

THE EAST RIDING CAMPAIGN.

Mr Blezard Still Unopposed—He is Covering the Field—His First Meetings in Douro.

So far no opposition to the candidature of Mr. Blezard in East Peterborough has been announced. But he is not to be caught napping in case opposition should suddenly develop, but is meeting with the constituents that have rallied around him and given him their support for the past nineteen years.

He held the first meeting of his campaign at Garbutt's school house, Douro, on Monday night, and though political interest is lessened by lack of opposition, there was a fair attendance. Mr. Bullock occupied the chair, and Mr. Blezard addressed the electors on the public questions at issue.

Tuesday night Mr. Blezard had a large and successful meeting at the Douro town hall. Mr. Wm. Moher occupied the chair, and Mr. Blezard gave an address of an hour and a half on the questions of the day.

Mr. Strickland, of Lakefield, spoke a few minutes in the interests of the (at present) unknown quality of the Opposition candidate.

Mr. D. O'Connell, barrister, of Peterborough, made a capital speech and created an excellent impression, was accorded a vote of thanks, and shared in the cheers for the Queen and Mr. Blezard, with which the highly successful meeting closed.

DOURO.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. T. Blezard addressed a number of his constituents at Garbutt's school house, Douro, on Monday evening, and delivered an eloquent address on the politics of the day, and discussed the important questions now at issue, showing the fallacy of the speeches of the Opposition, and made a good defence of the government in conducting the legislation of this the most important province of the Dominion.

Mr. Blezard spoke for about an hour and was listened to with the greatest attention. Mr. W. J. Bullock, ably filled the chair. After cheers for the Queen, Mr. Blezard and the chairman, the meeting dispersed.

A Hint for Merchants.

A little advertising may be unprofitable when a great deal would pay handsomely. Short-time advertising seldom pays. This is the reason that ads. in the many ephemeral "schemes" that come to every business man are never profitable. It is continuous, consistent, courageous, intelligent advertising in the best newspapers that always and infallibly bring good returns. —Charles Austin Bates.

A man has to have pluck to make a success of any calling. A man must have the backbone to take knock-down blows and get up again and again and fight on.

Pluck and stamina are largely a question of good health. It only takes one knock-down blow to finish a man with a headache. It only takes a small setback to disconcert a nervous and shaky man. A bilious, headachy man goes into bankruptcy at the first embarrassment. A nervous man who does not sleep at night and gets up shaky in the morning gives up the battle of business at the first discouragement. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best of all health-makers and health-keepers. It makes pure, rich blood. It forces out all impurities and disease germs. It does not make any difference what the disease may be called, so long as it has its inception in improper or insufficient nourishment—this great medicine will cure it. It may be called dyspepsia, kidney disease, "liver complaint," skin or blood disease, or nervous prostration—all these have the same starting point. The "Golden Medical Discovery" reaches that point. It will cure these diseases absolutely. None of them can retain their hold on the system when the arteries are filled with rich, pure blood.

"I am 54 years old," writes Mr. F. G. Bledsoe, of Leesville, Henry Co., Mo. "For 25 years I suffered from torpid liver, constipation and indigestion which severely affected my nerves. Having to make my living by hard work, I would keep on until I would have to give up. Sometimes my friends would pick me up and carry me to bed. What little sleep I could get was tortured with horrible dreams. I took six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It relieved the pain in my back and between my shoulders, braced up my nerves, and to-day I am a well man."

Mr. Kinsley says: "I was cured of kidney and bladder weakness by three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills I often had to rise five or six times in the night on account of bladder weakness. HOME DECORATION.

Fancies of the Moment In the Way of Household Adornment.

Cushions, or, rather, couch pillows, of painted bolting cloth are seen in great variety this season, and they are usually of a most elaborate character, the bolting cloth being placed over satin and the pillow being trimmed with frills, folds and puffings, to say nothing of lace and embroidery. Such cushions are, of course, utterly useless, as they are too delicate to be handled, much less leaned upon, but they are expensive and dainty and catch the eye of the lavish purchaser. Cushions covered with bagdad stripes or other substantial oriental fabrics, not too light in color, are also greatly liked, and are much more practical, as they can be put to real service.

Moths always find some special attraction in particularly valuable articles, and they show a decided preference for costly eastern rugs, as the owners of such articles of luxury but too frequently learn to their dismay. Formerly it was difficult, if not impossible, to get these rugs properly repaired, but lately firms of Armenians have established themselves in the shopping districts of most of the large cities and make a specialty of mending rugs, curtains and similar oriental goods in the oriental fashion. Eastern rugs are so much more used than they were formerly and are so liable to moth ravages that this innovation is most advantageous.

Sachets of all kinds—for gloves, handkerchiefs, veils and nightgowns—are works of art this season, and the most costly materials and the finest work are put into them. Panels of bolting cloth, decorated with water color paintings, are a favorite ornamentation, as they are for pillows, and heavy silk cord, lace ruffles and satin plaitings form a fringe at the edges.

A picture is given of a blouse of bretschwants. It has a valois collar and revers and a short, plain basque. It is lined with white satin and belted with a girdle of silver filigree set with colored stones. The toque of ultramarine velvet is trimmed with shaded violets and black coq plumes.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Another Holmes Caper Gone.

Burlington, Vt., Feb. 7.—Chief of Police Jerome Dumas of this city died Saturday night of Bright's disease. He was instrumental in the capture of H. H. Holmes. He was born in Iberville, Que., and began life as a boatman on Lake Champlain. He makes the tenth death among those connected in Holmes' capture and conviction.

No Appeal in the Poirier Murder Case.

St. Scholastique, Que., Feb. 7.—Judge Taschereau has rejected the motion presented by the defence to appeal in the case of Cordelia Vian, convicted of the murder of her husband, Isidore Poirier. The defence will now have to apply to the Procureur-General for permission to appeal in accordance with Article 742 of the criminal law. Parslow's trial is fixed for June 27.

Governor Pingree's Milage Book.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 7.—Judge Donovan of the Curcuit Court on Saturday ordered issuance of a mandamus against the Michigan Central Railroad in the suit brought by Governor Pingree to compel the railroad company to sell him a 1,000 mileage book, good not only for himself, but for any member of his family for $90.

THE DAY WE GATHERED GOLDENROD.

A day of glancing arrow points,
Yet swathed in shadows, olive deep,
When curling leaves were shaken down
And drifted in a pungent heap,
When scarlet flowers fell asleep,
Each in a filmy pillow pod,
And all the world was half a-dream—
The day we gathered goldenrod.

So still the air, in passing by
A rick of gathered corn we heard
A harvest spider's startled flight
Wherein a yellow blade was stirred.
Some late and lingering autumn bird
Sang low, his lazy head a-nod.
No haste nor harshness seemed to mar
The day we gathered goldenrod.

Wild brambles trailed a thorny web.
The sumach's lighthouse towered high,
And dunson plums made purple spots
In orchards that we wandered by.
A light was in the autumn sky,
A warmth was in the autumn sod,
Deep autumn turquoise tipped the heights,
The day we gathered goldenrod.

Our ways have somehow slipped apart
Since then, and you would think it strange
The trifles of one idle day
Arise through every bitter change
And follow me in life's wide range.
To me perhaps it seems as odd
That time will never let me lose
The day we gathered goldenrod.

—Hattie Whitney in Woman's Home Companion.

A Pertinent Question.

Old Aunt Dinah was a colored woman with a remarkably strong voice who would sing and cry "glory" with such vigor as to be heard above all the rest of the congregation, but she was of an unpleasantly "saving" disposition. It was the custom at the missionary meetings which she attended to take up the collection during the singing of the hymn "Fly abroad, thou mighty gospel," in the midst of which Aunt Dinah always threw back her head, closed her eyes and sang away at the top of her lungs until the plate had been passed. The collector, who was an old man of plain speech, observed this habit, and one evening when he came to her seat he surveyed her rapt countenance and then said bluntly, "Look a-heah, Aunt Dinah, what's de good ob yo' a-singin an a-singin 'Fly abroad, thou mighty gospel,' ef yo' doan' gib nuffin to make her fly?"—Exchange.

APPALLING DEATH

From Kidney Disease Prevented by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

"Kidney Disease." Do you know what it means? It means that the kidneys are either rotten, or rotting; the blood is full of poisonous, death-dealing corruption; that the Kidneys can't do their work; that the victim is a walking charnel-house; that his hours are numbered; that the victim MUST take Dodd's Kidney Pills if he does not want to die.

Have you Kidney Disease? Is your skin hot and dry; memory failing; breath short; urine, reddish, or pale colored; does it scald when passing; is your appetite changeable; do your ankles swell; have you bitter taste in the mouth on getting up mornings; is there a brick-dust deposit in your urine?

Any of these signs is proof positive of Kidney Disease. Will you be cured, or will you die? Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only means on earth that will cure you. They never fail.

A TRUE SHARK STORY

PATHETIC ACCOUNT OF AN OCEAN MONSTER'S DESTRUCTION.

The Fatal Feud of the Little Blue and Gold Pilot—The Lump of Fat Pork With the Concealed Hook—Death by Torture With the Inevitable Finale.

"How very hard it is to provide for a young, fast growing family nowadays!" said the mother shark, turning, for the hundredth time that morning, upon her broad side in order to get a better view of what might be stirring above. For nearly a week she had been fasting—in fact, ever since she came in hurriedly at the close of a great feast upon the stripped carcass of a recent whale. There, by dint of the energy of her massive shoulders, her 14 feet of length and fivefold rows of triangular teeth, she had managed to secure a respectable proportion of the spoil for the replenishing of her own huge maw as well as for the up keep of the 14 sharklings that were now restlessly darting in and out of their cosy cave at the far end of her capacious throat.

Within the immediate range of her glance a vast black shadow obscured a wide, irregularly shaped area of the blazing sunshine. It was so calm that the shadow seemed stationary. In the direction of this cool penumbra her gaze lingered earnestly, for hereditary instinct as well as long experience gave her the knowledge that from the substance of such shadows came food dropping down, varied and toothsome, actually alive on rare occasions. Somewhat impatiently she wondered at the long time that her little blue and gold attendant had been gone.

He was so seldom absent from his place between her eyes for a whole minute that she got quite uneasy, but while she fidgeted fretfully, with many twitchings of her flexible "gaff topsail," back came the pilot fish in a tearing hurry. "Now, then, partner, move along, do. There's a lump of fat pork almost as big as your head hanging over that ship's stern. I don't quite understand why it doesn't sink, but it is good. I nibbled just a crumb, and you can be sure this time that it is no bagful of cinders like that nasty mouthful that gave you the obstacne so bad this morning." The latter part of this energetic exordium was lost upon mother shark, being drowned in the wash set up by her great tail fin, which was going in grand style, starting her off at such a rate that two or three stragglers of the family had to skip like shrimps to get indoors before they were left behind and lost.

Straight as an arrow to the mark went the tiny guide, keeping just in front of his huge friend's snout. Together they swept into the shadow, where, sure enough, a mass of meat hung just below the sea surface, though gently lifted almost out of water every now and then. "Oh, do look, mamma! There's a big fish. Is he going to eat up that pretty little one, do you think?" "Oh, no, my little man," struck in the mate, "but you watch him now!" As he spoke the great gray body took a curve latterly, a dazzling glare of white appeared, and there beneath the speaker was a crescentic gap in the smooth, livid underside fringed with innumerable points like chevaux de frise and as big as the gap of a coal sack. Around it the small pilot circled excitedly at top speed. Slowly the mate as gently slacked away, there was a gulp, and the big joint disappeared. There was a flash, a splash and an eddy. Then the rope attached to the shark hook concealed in the pork groaned over the rail as it felt the strain.

"Lay aft the watch," roared the mate, and amid the trampling of many feet, a babel of directions and a tremendous tumult alongside, through the writhings of the captive monster, she was transferred forward to the lee gangway, where, by the aid of a stout watch tackle, she was hoisted out of water.

"Don't take him aboard," cried the captain. "Make such an infernal mess if you do. Just spritsail yard him and let him go agen." So a piece of scantling was got from the carpenter, pointed at both ends, about four feet long. This they drove between her jaws from side to side. Another wedge shaped piece was planted diagonally down through her broad snout, the upper end pointing forward. Then they cut off the wide pectoral fins, letting the quivering carcass fall into the sea again by the simple expedient of chopping the hook out. "What abominable cruelty," muttered a gentle faced man among the crowding passengers, as he turned away sick at heart. But the bustling seaman looked pityingly at him, wondering doubtless at his lack of sporting instincts. Thus disabled, the miserable monster plunged blindly in uncertain directions, unable to steer herself, unheeding the frantic caresses of her faithful little satellite, who had almost exhausted himself by leaping up at her as she hung struggling against the vessel's side. Neither did she notice the puzzled, wavering movements of her wondering brood. So she disappeared from the view of the laughing, happy crowd on deck. But whichever way she rushed she always fetched up to the surface promptly, because of the vane in her head. Thus for a day and a night she fought aimlessly with all the forces of amazing vitality pent up in her huge body against these torturing disablements, until mercifully she fell in with a couple of ravenous congeners. Scenting fresh blood, they made for her straightway. Like mad things, they fell upon her. Long and hard they strove, tearing their way through the tough framework until assistance came from all quarters, and a motley multitude of various hungry ones cleaned up every shred of the welcome banquet, leaving only the deserted pilot to seek another partner.—London Spectator.

NEW YORK'S GROWTH.

The City Has Never Halted Since It Was First Fairly Started.

Ernest Ingersoll writes a paper on the Greater New York, entitled "Reasoning Out a Metropolis," for St. Nicholas. Mr. Ingersoll says:

The people of New York, Brooklyn, Staten Island and certain nearby northern towns resolved to join themselves together into one city, which is now the Greater New York. It embraces 341 square miles of territory and includes a population of nearly 3,400,000.

Besides these at least another million dwell on the New Jersey side of the Hudson river, quite as near and as closely identified with the great city on Manhattan Island as are those of the northern and eastern suburbs. This makes a population of nearly 4,500,000 which may be said to belong to New York, making it not only by far the largest center of human life and interests in America, but, excepting only London, the most populous spot on the globe.

How has it happened that this vast city has grown up where it stands? Why did not the American metropolis arise somewhere else? Is its position all an accident, or does history show sound reasons for its situation? The earliest settlement here was merely a trading station that gradually became a small seaport, like a dozen others along the coast. Before the year 1700 these were so nearly alike that he would have been a wise prophet who truly foretold which would thrive. Indeed many men of that day firmly believed that Newport and Annapolis were to be the two great American seaports.

Great cities arise at the points where the greatest number of people find it convenient to meet at first for business and later for pleasure. You cannot force a city to grow in an unnatural or unsuitable situation, and it is no easier to prevent a city from growing in its proper place. But the conditions that change a village into a big town and expand the town into a city or metropolis are not the same in different parts of the globe and vary with the march of the centuries; so that now many an ancient world market, like Nineveh or Memphis, has totally disappeared, while towns like Berlin have lately increased with amazing rapidity, after a long history as small and insignificant places. As for New York, it has never halted or gone backward for a moment since it was fairly started on its career in 1623.

Try Holding Your Breath.

The modern quick moving elevator, when it sinks suddenly, gives many persons an unpleasant, qualmish feeling. Into a well filled elevator in a big shopping store the other day stepped from one of the floors two women.

"Do you know," said one of them to the other, "that if you hold your breath going down in an elevator you don't have that unpleasant feeling; you don't feel it at all."

Of course nobody in the elevator listened intentionally, but nobody could help hearing what she said. Conversation instantly ceased, and everybody drew a long breath. The elevator shot downward in silence.

"Ground floor!" said the elevator man as he threw back the door, and the women streamed out from the car upon the floor, talking now gayly, and there was one at least who said that the plan was effective.—New York Sun.

One For the Debating Club.

A group of half a dozen physicists, all eminent; a sheet of paper, a pencil. With the latter one of the group draws a pulley, a cord over the pulley, a tree, a bough from which the pulley hangs. To one end of the cord is attached a stone, to the other cord clings a monkey. The stone balances the monkey. If the monkey proceeds to climb up the cord, what will happen? Will the stone rise or fall? Heated discussion; break up of the party; no result. Can any of your readers help to settle this question? —Alfred Jingle in Engineer.

The sick man knocking at the door of health gets in if he knocks the right way, and stays out if he doesn't. There are thousands of ways of getting sick but only one way to get well. Do whatever you will, if you do not put your digestion in good order, and make your blood rich and pure, you will not get well. Rich, pure blood is the only thing that can bring perfect health. Constipation is a disease of the blood. A large part of all diseases are traceable directly to impurities in the blood, and can be cured by eliminating them with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The first thing it does is to put the whole digestive system into perfect order. It stimulates the appetite, excites a copious secretion of the digestive fluids and promotes assimilation. It searches out diseased germs wherever they may be, kills them and forces them out of the system. The "Golden Medical Discovery" has been used with unvarying success for over 30 years.

Effects of a Bee Sting.

An English physician relates an instance of a lady who was stung by a bee. At the first moment she seemed to pay very little attention to it, but very soon her face became flushed and spots appeared all over her body. Suddenly she developed a most severe attack of asthma, finding great difficulty in breathing. Another instance is that of a young lady who was stung on the back of her head by an ordinary honey-bee. In less than five minutes her face began to swell, and very marked red and white spots appeared all over the surface of the body. The swelling extended over the entire person, accompanied by severe pain, burning and giddiness. The eyes were almost closed and the countenance was so distorted as to be unrecognisable. Very free bathing in soda water, with a little soda taken internally, and hot applications to the feet and thorough massage finally afforded relief, but it was some hours before the patient recovered from what was truly an alarming condition. Violent attacks of nervousness accompanied the trouble, and the sense of suffocation was almost intolerable. The young woman had been stung a number of times before without any apparent unpleasant result. The physicians were of the opinion that the bee had been feeding upon some extremely poisonous plant, which became concentrated in the venom of the sting. Be that as it may, the condition was such as to excite grave apprehension, the more so as it was several days before recovery was complete.—New York Ledger.

Y. P. S. C. E.

Although we have to report a slight decrease in attendance during the past year yet the work of the society has in many respects been most effective and encouraging.

The membership at present is 48 active and 29 associate members, while the average attendance is about 45.

The Flower, Calling and Relief Committees have sent flowers with a verse of Scripture attached to the sick, supplied the charitable institutions and stations with good reading matter, and at Xmas distributed 18 baskets of provisions to the poor.

Our Social Committee held several social gatherings during the year, one being especially worthy of note, namely "The Dumtochty Tea," as a result of which $30 was donated to the Young Women's Christian Association. From our funds we also subscribed $5 to the furnishing of Endeavour Room in the Y.W.C.A.

The Prayer Meeting Committee adopted the Plan of Study as recommended by the General Assembly and found the topics both interesting and helpful. They would also acknowledge the kind aid of those who lent their time and assistance.

A prayer meeting is held on Sunday at 10.45 a.m., to which all are cordially invited.

Great assistance has been rendered the Sunday school by the Sunday School Committee supplying vacancies on the teaching staff, and looking up absentees.

The Lookout Committee have issued invitation cards welcoming strangers to the church, which are kindly handed out by the ushers.

As usual our Missionary Committee have done excellent work by their plan of systematic giving, having raised $99.31. $30 of this was paid to the Presbyterial Union for Home Mission, $5 to the Knox College Mission, while the balance of $61 31 goes to our Mission in Japan, as recommended by the Foreign Mission Committee.

We have not reached our ideal as a society yet, humbly. Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength, we are striving to do whatever he would have us do, and believe that in our efforts we have God's blessing.

Respectfully submitted,
W. A. BEATON,
Secretary.

SABBATH SCHOOL REPORT.

As we look back over the past year we can thank our Heavenly Father for His many mercies unto us. Death has not entered our band, and though one or two have passed through serious illness, the school has been mercifully kept from much sickness.

The average attendance of teachers and officers has been 20 out of a possible 28. The average attendance of teachers and scholars is the same as last year—257. This is too low an average from a membership, at the close of the year, of 416. The largest attendance of scholars was 340 on Dec. 18th; the lowest was 185 on August 23rd.

The amount contributed for missionary purposes was $344.14, including $96.18 from the Home Department.

We are pleased to state that fifteen from the school and Bible class united with the church on profession of faith during the year.

The Primary department, under the leadership of Miss Beckett, is worthy of great praise for the grand work it is doing.

The Pastor's Bible class should be more largely attended than it is by the members and adherents of the congregation. We would like to see this class with a membership of over 100, instead of forty-five, as at present.

The Home Department has not increased very much in membership during the year, but in many cases it has proved to be a blessing and is a great help toward the systematic study of God's Word. This department of our school has almost doubled its missionary collections over the previous year.

The picnic at Jubilee Point was successful in in every respect except financially. Our desire is to give a free outing to all the scholars without drawing on our school funds. This can only be done by the liberal support of the parents and other friends of the school, many of whom were conspicuous by their absence last year.

We would also like to see more of the parents with us on Review Sundays.

The memory work for the ensuing year will be published in the annual report. We are not giving prizes for attendance this year, having adopted a system by which a certain percentage for punctual attendance, correct recitation of Catechism and Golden Texts and good conduct will entitle the scholar to a reward.

The whole teaching staff were sorry to lose the valuable services of Mr. Gilchrist from the office of superintendent. He was forced to retire owing to his frequent absence from town. This took place in May and was followed by my election to that honourable office. While I feel my own unfitness for the position, none can appreciate the honour more highly, St. Paul's being my alma mater in Sunday school education. I dearly love to see the school a success in every way, and will do all in my power to make it so.

In closing, it is only right to say that no superintendent could possibly have a more loyal staff of teachers and officers than we have. They are always ready to do whatever is considered for the best interest of the school. I am sure under such a band of consecrated teachers, who are constrained by the love of Christ to do what they can for the advancement of His kingdom, we will see many of our scholars brought to a saving knowledge of the truth, as it is in Jesus.

A. J. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

The report was adopted.

On motion of Messrs. T. A. S. Hay and Albert Lech, a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Crane and the choir.

In speaking to the motion Mr. Hay stated that Mr. Crane, through his genial disposition, had been able to gather around him the best talent in the town, as well as developing that which had hitherto been latent. The church should be proud of its choir.

During the evening Miss Montgomery and Messrs. Crane and Brownlee kindly contributed several selections.

BENSFORT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. Jos. Wood is busy drawing pipe for a tube from a pond back of the blacksmith shop for the purpose of supplying water to the stock.

Mr. P. Rutherford, proprietor of the cheese factory, is erecting a pen to accommodate a large number of hogs.

Mr. G. Castle is moving his implements to Mr. J. Finnie's farm.

Mr. L. Nicholson's little boy, who was kicked by a colt, is progressing favourably.

The authorities here are on the look out for young men who indulge in furious driving.

Mr. Wm. Dodds, of Manitoba, is visiting at his home in Benafort.

Measles are keeping a number of children away from school.

A party of young people from Emily last week spent an enjoyable evening at Mr. J. Moncrief's. Unfortunately Mrs. Moncrief sustained a severe shaking up from a fall, which happily did not interfere with the evening's enjoyment.

A Banker's Experience.

"I tried a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for a troublesome affection of the throat," writes Manager Thomas Dewson of the Standard Bank, now of 14 Melbourne Avenue, Toronto. "It proved effective I regard the remedy as simple, cheap and exceedingly good. It has hitherto been my habit to consult a physician in troubles of this nature. Hereafter, however, I intend to be my own family doctor."

ROCKDALE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On Thursday, the 3rd inst, Mr. Chas. Toms, of Central Belmont, passed quietly away to his long rest. Deceased was a much respected, kindly disposed young man of 23 years. From a mere boy he followed lumbering in all its departments, and the exposure to which he was subjected while at this brought on that dreadful disease consumption. In May last he was forced by it to leave the drive and begin doctoring, but it was then too late. He died in the zenith of Christian hope. The funeral took place on Saturday from his home to St. John's church, Havelock, and from there to the Havelock cemetery. Rev. Mr. McGinnis officiated at the church and at the grave.

Miss M. Cornell has returned to her home in Trenton.

Mr. Stephen Dorland, of Frankford, was here on business last week.

Mr. J. M. Brown and his mother, Mrs. John Brown, returned from Ashtabula, Ohio, last Thursday.

Miss Agnes Young is visiting friends at Madoc this week.

A Sure Cure For Consumption.

There is no such thing. Scott's Emulsion comes the nearest to it, but even that will not cure advanced cases, but taken in time it will cure this disease.

Will You Try ?

Will you try to get rid of constipation if we tell you how? The remedy is Burdock Blood Bitters. It puts the stomach, liver and bowels in perfect order. We prove what we print: "I think there is no equal to B.B.B. for constipation," says Mrs. Thomas Tamblyn, Oshawa, Ont. "It cured both my husbands and myself after using only five bottles in all."

How to Cure all Skin Diseases."

Simply apply "Swayne's Ointment." No internal medicine required. Cures tetter, eczema, itch, all eruptions on the face, hands, nose, etc., leaving the skin clear, white and healthy. Its great healing and curative powers are possessed by no other remedy. Ask your druggist for Swayne's Ointment. Lyman Sons & Co., Montreal wholesale agents.

Cracking The Acorns and Blotting Out Prices

These are the days in which people are buying where they can buy cheap. They don't care a fig for commercial ethics. They dote on Bargains. Cheapness captivates them. When once the people are convinced that a store really sells GOOD GOODS CHEAP their patronage is secured. If its prices are at cost, well and good ; if below cost, so much the better.

Blotting Out Oak Hall Prices

and writing them down to a fraction of their former selves, is what we are busy doing every day with the Oak Hall Stock. These altered prices speak for themselves. All the price tickets show that Oak Hall Prices are back numbers, although the Clothing is UP-TO-DATE.

A TALK ON TEA, YES, EVERYBODY READ IT.

A lady from a village near Peterborough called on us last week and said that she wanted to get some of that fine tea that she had seen advertised in the "DAILY EXAMINER" and sold at the People's Price Tea Store, 338 George street. After critically examining the tea she made a purchase of a quantity and promised to send her friends to buy from us, as she said our tea was clean, beautiful and bright—no dust, no mixing or dosing—the grades are the very best. Another lady in town says that her mother will not have tea from any other store than ours. She buys the very best Ceylon Tea which cannot be excelled in strength and purity. Another question asks what on earth do you do with the large quantity of teas that I see at your establishment. Some of the large chests of Ceylons must be valuable and come up to money; yes, they do but the people soon buy them up. You have a large stock of Canned Goods which would be a credit to any store in town; yes we have, and we are selling 3 for 25c. A prominent party in town offered to take the lot and give us a cheque for the amount, but we promised to give the working people the benefit of this bargain and we are doing it. We have a fine assorted stock of choice Groceries, Teas, Sugars, Spices, Canned Goods, Butter, Lard, and our own raising of Pickled, Smoked Salted Hams and Bacon, completely eclipsing anything on the market. We do not destroy the meat with salt or saltpetre, but cure them on the very best methods which are a secret to ourselves. Our own home made Pickles at 10c per bottle, our own Jams, Jellies—pure articles and at prices to suit all. Come to the best, get the best, and save your money by buying at the PEOPLE'S GROCERY, 338 George Street.

DEATH OF G. M. ROSE.

The Well-Known Toronto Publisher Passes Away.

HE SUCCUMBS TO PARALYSIS.

Outline of His Active Business Career—The Long Connection of the Deceased Gentleman With Canadian Publishing Houses—His Activity in Public Affairs—His Personality and Family.

Toronto, Feb. 11.—Mr. George Maclean Rose, head of the well-known publishing firm of Hunter, Rose & Co., Toronto, died at an early hour yesterday morning at his residence, 97 St. Joseph street.

Deceased, who for several months had been in poor health, succumbed to an attack of paralysis. The end was not unexpected.

George Maclean Rose was born in Wick, Caithnesshire, on March 14, 1829. After leaving school he entered the office of the John O'Groat Journal. In 1850 he accepted a position on the Northern Ensign. In this office he remained a year and then emigrated to Canada. At Montreal, with his brother, Henry, he started a job printing office under the name of H. & G. M. Rose. In 1858 Mr. Rose came to Toronto. He accepted a position in the printing office of Samuel Thompson, afterwards editor and proprietor of the Colonist. Mr. Thompson soon after got the contract for Government printing and sent Mr. Rose to represent him at Quebec. Mr. Thompson wishing to retire, a new company was formed. A year after this Mr. Thompson retired and the business fell into the hands of Hunter, Rose & Co. When the Government, in 1865, removed to Ottawa, the firm followed, doing the work for the Government at the Capital. Mr. Rose then came to Toronto in 1871, where the firm removed their business.

Mr. Rose was widely known as a temperance worker, though he took no active part in politics. He was an office-bearer of the Unitarian Church.

In 1856 Mr. Rose married Margaret C. J. L. Manson, a daughter of the late William Manson of Oxford County. There were ten children, nine of whom are still alive—six sons and three daughters. Two of the sons, Daniel A. and William M., are connected with the publishing firm.

ALL FRANCE IS AROUSED.

Riots Which May End in Revolution—15,000 Go to the Trial.

New York, Feb. 11.—The Herald's Paris correspondent, describing the turbulent scenes attending the trial of Emile Zola, says: The uneasiness as to the future, while reflected in the press, is much deeper than the newspapers care to admit, and one of the leaders of the anti-Semitic movement has gone so far as to declare that France might have another Saint Bartholomew, in which the Jews would be the sufferers. Certain it is that the cries "A bas Zola" have been succeeded by those of "A mort" (to the gibbet with him). As the Echo de Paris says, "The hourse voice of riot is muttering." Wherever scribe's report is colored according to the opinions of himself, and of his paper, it is a matter of extreme difficulty to diagnose the public feeling through the press reports. Wednesday afternoon possibly 15,000 people gathered in the neighborhood of the Palais de Justice, to be present at or near the trial of Emile Zola.

Proposal to Have a Joint Herd Book for the Whole Dominion—Election of Officers and Representatives.

Toronto, Feb. 11.—There was a large attendance yesterday at the Albion Hotel, when Vice-President William Smith took the chair at the annual meeting of the Dominion Ayrshire Breeders' Association.

The secretary's report showed the association to be in excellent financial standing. The membership had increased 18, and $192 more had been received by the treasurer in registration fees during 1897 than in the corresponding period in 1896.

Considerable discussion took place on the proposal to amalgamate the Dominion Association Herd Book with the Canadian Herd Book of Quebec. Finally a committee was appointed to meet at Ottawa to discuss the matter. The committee will be comprised of Messrs. Hodson, Ballantyne, Youill, Smith and Wade.

The year's receipts, $1,184.49, have been balanced by expenditures.

Officers and Representatives.

Following are the officers for the ensuing year: President, William Smith; first vice president, Alfred Kains; second vice-president, J. C. Smith; provincial vice-presidents, William Miller, P.E.I.; H. Perlie, New Brunswick; George Steele, Montreal; H. Manness, Assiniboia; J. C. Wells, British Columbia; J. C. Smith, Ontario; W. E. Edwards, Quebec; directors, Messrs. Ewell, Davies, Stewart, Stacey, Ballantyne, Brooks, Hume, Hodson, McCormack.

Representatives of the association on the various exhibition boards were elected as follows: Industrial Exhibition, Toronto, W. W. Ballantyne and William Stewart; Western Fair, London, Alexander Kane and R. S. Brooks; Ottawa Exhibition, James Youill and J. C. Smith.

The following were chosen to act as judges at the various exhibitions: David Benning, William Stewart, John Douglas, James Boden, J. C. Smith, D. Drummond, A. Kains, John Crosby, Robert Hunter, Robert Ness, James Youill, Alexander Hume. Robert Robertson will act as a special judge for the Maritime Provinces.

A motion was passed to do away with the registration of appendix cattle, and in future all such animals will be known as grade cattle.

A resolution was carried to allow the Maritime Provinces to amalgamate with the Dominion Association in order to permit of one year book being used.

AGAINST CANADA.

Senator Frye's Bill to Prevent Canadians From Securing Too Much Business for Their Vessels.

Washington, D C., Feb. 11.—Senator Frye, from the Committee on Commerce yesterday, reported to the Senate and secured the passage of a bill amending the navigation laws in important particulars affecting the coasting trade of the United States. The bill is of general application, but it is intended especially to prevent Canadian vessels from securing an undue share of the carrying business between Alaskan and other American ports. Complaint has been made that Canadian vessels were attempting to participate in the trade by starting from their own ports and then stopping successively at more than one American port and taking on passengers and freight from one American point to another on the theory that all were embraced in one voyage.

The bill provides for the forfeiture of any merchandise shipped from one American port to another "either directly or via a foreign port" in any other than an American vessel. A like provision is also made in regard to the transportation of passengers by a foreign vessel from one American port to another, except that the penalty in this case is placed at $100 each. The penalty under the existing law is $3.

The bill is made to take effect one month after its passage.

The C. P. R. and the Grand Trunk.

Montreal, Feb. 11.—The assumption in railway circles is that the difficulty between the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific has not improved any within the past few days. On the contrary, the breach is believed to be widening. This seems all the more likely in view of the inability of Messrs. T. G. Shaughnessy and Charles M. Hays to arrive at any understanding which could be mutually subscribed to. The two gentlemen in question have not come together for the past three days.

Bought Too Many Reindeer.

Christiana, Feb. 11.—From 300 to 400 reindeer above the requirements of the United States Government, having been purchased, but unpaid for, by Lieut. D. B., Devore, U.S.A., Military Secretary of the Secretary of War, to be used by the Yukon Valley relief expedition, are detained here until the Lieutenant furnishes security to the amount of 30,000 crowns.

Davitt's Motion Rejected.

London, Feb. 11.—In the House of Commons yesterday the motion of Mr. Michael Davitt, moved as amendment to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, at the re-assembling of Parliament, calling attention to the distress in Ireland and the failure of the potato crop, was rejected by a vote of 235 to 153.

The Government's Offer Made to the Rothschilds.

THEY DECLINED TO ACCEPT IT.

Conservative Members Discuss the Terms—Some Few Corrections—Sir Louis Davies Exposes Some Wild Statements—The Rothschilds' Offer—Why It Was Rejected—The Road Canadian.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—Since the announcement of the terms of the Yukon Railway contract Conservative politicians and newspapers have been denouncing the deal as one of the most scandalous exploitation of the public domain that the history of this country affords. The assertion has been made over and over again, both in and out of Parliament, that Messrs. Mann and McKenzie have been granted a concession in mining lands and a monopoly in transportation that will net them fabulous returns. It was with no small degree of astonishment that the House learned to-day that an invitation to construct the road had been declined by the greatest financiers in the world, the Rothschilds. Such was the statement made by Sir Louis Davies. All the information at the disposal of the Government was placed before the representative of the Rothschilds in this country, who, after giving the fullest consideration to the proposition and consulting with his principals in the old land, refused to undertake the work on the terms offered. That which failed to tempt the Rothschilds, with their enormous resources and experience in great enterprises, was accepted by Mann and McKenzie.

The Dominion Franchise.

That bone of political contention, the Dominion Franchise, was again thrown into the arena, when Mr. Fitzpatrick, the Solicitor-General, introduced the Government bill to repeal the existing franchise law, and substitute therefor the provincial lists in so far as the qualification of voters, polling subdivisions and the preparations of the list are concerned.

Mr. Davin introduced a bill to further amend the Mounted Police Pension Act, which was given its first reading.

Mr. Bennett continued the debate on the address. Mr. Bennett was rattling along, hurling charges of corruption right and left, and no one made a move to check him until he trod upon the corns of the Minister of Public Works. Mr. Bennett repeated the charges that Mr. Tarte has denied many times, that he got $3,000 from the C.P.R. and $20,000 from the Drummond County Railway.

Mr. Tarte sprang to his feet and said: "There is not one word of truth in what the hon. gentleman says; not one word of truth."

Mr. Bennett paused a moment to collect himself, and then replied "I regret that I have not under my hand the evidence in the Grenier case."

"There is no evidence in that action of what my hon. friend says. There is not one word of truth in it, though he may say it again," answered Mr. Tarte.

"I read the evidence in that celebrated case. Surely the hon. gentleman will not deny that he got a loan of $3,000 from Mr. Shaughnessy; does the hon. gentleman deny that?"

"I do deny it, sir. The facts of the case are that years ago Mr. Shaughnessy came to me, when I had made great financial losses, and offered me a loan of money. I declined to take the loan from him, and then it was suggested that my sons, who were in the printing business, might get an advance which would be repaid in printing. The money has been repaid in printing from the very first to the very last dollar." (Ministerial applause.)

The Drummond County proposition, he said, was one of the most outrageous deals ever put before the people of Canada. He prophesied that the Government would be obliged to withdraw the project because Parliament would refuse to sanction it.

Mr. Craig charged the Government with not fulfilling their ante-election pledges in regard to the reduction of the tariff. Before a perfectly neutral House, with no applause from the Opposition and no interruptions from the dozen Liberals still present, Mr. Craig criticised the Yukon Railway bill until he repeated the error made by Mr Bennett of saying that the company would have a right to charge whatever rates they chose. Then Sir Louis Davies corrected him, pointing out that the rates for the first four years were to be fixed by the Governor-General-in-Council, and after that to be reduced automatically. Then Mr. Craig naively confessed that he had not yet read the bill.

Dr. Sproule followed in a speech of some magnitude, devoted entirely to the Yukon bill, which he condemned on every count. The contract was entered into too hastily and without sufficient information; too much was given to the contractors in return for building the road, or, as he contemptuously styled it, the tramway, and, worst of all, it was a secret contract, creating a dangerous monopoly.

Mr. Uriah Wilson reviewed the address in a thirty-minute speech.

He was followed by Mr. Rufus Pope, who began with some satirical remarks about Mr. Tarte and his selection by Mr. Laurier to represent the Conservatives in the Cabinet, as spoken of by Mr. Wilson in a quotation from a speech by Mr. Tarte. He criticized the Prime Minister for not having in the Government any of the representatives from Quebec who sat behind him while he was in Opposition. Mr. Pope opened his attack on the Yukon bill by insisting that it should be called a tramway. In an outburst of enthusiasm he declared that within three days he could produce an organization of Sick Headache and Dizziness—All Cured.

Little Girl Has Grown Plump and Rosy Since Taking Hood's.

Nervous mothers and sickly children endure a vast proportion of the suffering which is caused by impure and impoverished blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives relief by purifying and enriching the blood. Read this statement:

"I was bothered with sick headaches and dizziness. I also had nervous prostration and weakness in my stomach, which made me feel very ill indeed. I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, which was highly recommended by many, and by the time I had taken four bottles I was in perfect health. About a year ago my little girl, then six years old, had bronchitis and chicken pox. We were told that her was the careful treatment she might receive at the hospital. We took her there and for eight days they had no hope of her recovery, but later she had a change for the better. Her sickness, however, left her very delicate and weak, and she did not grow any for a year. It was then I thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla, inasmuch as I had used it for myself and found it such a good medicine for building up a constitution. She had not taken two bottles before she had improved wonderfully. She has grown rosy and plump and is quite herself again. I have great faith in Hood's." MRS. M. ONTARIO'S MINING INTERESTS.

Perhaps no action of the Ontario Government has been more persistently distorted and misrepresented than the granting of certain mining concessions to Colonel Eagleduc and his associates, better known as the "Eagleduc syndicate." Mr. Whitney calls the grant a "deal;" he has even gone so far as to call it a "steal." Notwithstanding that Hon. Mr. Gibson, Commissioner of Crown Lands, has fully answered at different times the criticisms of the leader of the Opposition, and shown the absurdity of the position taken by him, he still persists in the use of strong language and much misrepresentation in his fruitless endeavours to make a point against the Government in this connection. There is nothing in the nature of dissatisfaction in the western part of the Province, where the facts are best known, and in the older portion of Ontario people everywhere have come to the conclusion that in this matter the Government have done an excellent stroke of business. A brief narrative of the facts will show that the Opposition leader is either ignorant or dishonest in his publicly expressed views of this transaction, and that his professed suspicions of the bona fides of the Government in this matter are unworthy both of himself and them.

The people of Ontario are beginning to realise the value of the vast heritage in the northwestern part of the Province which was secured to them by the vigilance and determination of Sir Oliver Mowat and his colleagues, and in which not one "stick of timber," not one lump of lead, iron or gold," would have been their property had the Conservative Government at Ottawa—backed up by the local Opposition—had its way. Discoveries of gold and other metals have followed fast upon one another in northwestern Ontario during the past few years, and bright hopes were warranted that if capital could be interested in undertaking serious development work a permanent industry, particularly in gold mining, would be established. That this object of ambition was a worthy one on the part of any Government, not even Mr. Whitney will deny. There is no better market for manufactured goods and agricultural produce than a mining camp in steady operation. Large quantities of all kinds of supplies, of flour, pork, beef, butter, cheese, vegetables, fruits, etc., are required by a mining population, which is usually precluded from growing anything for its own use by the unsuitableness of the ground on which it is situated. To meet the varied demands of such a community means better times for manufacturers and better prices for farmers. No more successful means could be found of settling the wild agricultural lands of the Crown in northern and western Ontario than the opening up in their vicinity of a large and prosperous industry with its thousands of busy miners to be clothed, housed and fed.

There was no question as to the importance of the end; the only difficulty lay in bringing it about. Capital is capricious, and there are fashions in investments just as there are in ladies' bonnets. There are other gold fields in the world, and for a number of years the United States, South Africa, West Australia, and, more recently, British Columbia, have been engaging the attention of investors in Great Britain, the money centre of the world, to the exclusion of other countries. But the agitation for free silver was undermining the confidence of British investors in the United States; political disturbances in South Africa were rendering hazardous gold mining ventures in that part of the world; and it was being found that in Western Australia the undoubted richness of the deposits was offset by the want of water, fuel and other necessaries for working them. The time appeared opportune to make a departure from the ordinary methods of dealing with the mineral resources of Ontario, not necessarily by permanently changing the Government's mining policy, but by attempting to divert a part of the stream of British capital to our own Province. Here was a great expanse of unexplored territory, proven by prospectors and miners in various places to be gold bearing, and here were not only abundance of wood and water, a plentiful supply of efficient labour, facilities of transportation, ease of access, but also stability of institutions and security of life and property as great as in any other part of the British Empire. The opportunity presented and was taken advantage of by the arrangement with the Eagleduc syndicate, by which the syndicate deposited $20,000 cash with the government as a guarrantee of good faith, that the syndicate will expend $30,000, $40,000 and $50,000 in each of three successive years in exploring a plot of 32,000 acres, and if any gold bearing deposits are discovered the syndicate will have to survey and locate like other prospectors. And work has been going on and is going on in diligent exploration, and Canadian labour, which is the only labour employed, is being given profitable employment. The object of the government was to interest British capital and British capital to the extent of $120,000 is being spent in our north western gold fields, and if, as is expected, gold is found in paying qualities, the result will be a large influx of British capital, and what we have long sought—capital to develop our great mining resources—will become an actual fact instead of a fond dream, and all through the wise and enterprising action of the government.

MR. WHITNEY AND THE FARMERS.

Mr. Whitney, if he expects to be elected at all, must expect to be elected by the votes of the towns and cities, for he doesn't seem to have any use for the farmers. "Bystander," in the Farmer's Sun, says: "Not the least effective part of the Liberal ammunition in the Provincial campaign is a reproduction of the brutal attacks of Mr. Whitney in the Local House, and Mr. Bennett in the Dominion House, on the Patrons. The natural resentment which Mr. Bennett's hostility excited was Mr. Roger's excuse if not his justification, for refusing to vote with Mr. Bennett against the Liberal Government when his principles as a Patron would rather have pointed to that course. To call Mr. Whitney's attacks on Mr. Haycock brutal is to use an inadequate term. His language was such as could only have been addressed by one conscious of his infinite superiority to those who were as the dirt beneath his feet. 'Who are these farmers, that they should dare to claim for themselves an interest in politics and a voice in the administration of the State? Who are these political vagabonds that they should dare to exercise their franchise according to their own consciences and not according to the dictates of the authorised organizations? Mr. Whitney, if not Mr. Bennett, now probably wishes his words unsaid."

THE YUKON RAILWAY.

man who would build the road for a less amount than that named in the bill. This was not a bluff, and if the agreement which the Government had made was not a just one they would have an opportunity of seeing, and the country could see, that McKenzie and Mann were not the only contractors in Canada.

Mr. Rogers, the Patron member for Frontenac, deprecated so much personal abuse in the House as they had been compelled to listen to.

Mr. Clarke of Toronto paid a graceful tribute to Sir Wilfrid Laurier when he said that no person was better qualified to represent all classes of Canadians in Great Britain during the jubilee celebration than the leader of the Government. While commending the energy and promptness of the Government in making provision for the maintenance of order in the Yukon country, he reminded the House that but for the existence of such an excellent force as the Mounted Police such measures as had been taken would not have been possible. The Yukon Railway contract, he said, was one of the most extraordinary that had ever been entered into. He would prefer to have given his vote in favor of a definite sum of money for the construction of the road rather than give a monopoly to the contractors and a tract of the public domain, the value of which he did not know. He made the statement that the grant was equivalent in extent to a strip of land 18 miles in width from Toronto to Montreal. Mr. Clarke asserted that a firm of contractors had undertaken to build a road from the Lynn Canal by way of the Chilkoot Pass for 5,000 acres a mile and no monopoly. The name of this firm was Smith & Bratnover, a firm of which Sir Louis Davies said he had never heard. "Will the hon. gentleman (Sir Louis Davies) say," Mr. Clarke asked, "that no offer was ever made for the construction of a road into the Yukon territory by way of the Chilkoot Pass?"

"The Government were determined," replied Sir Louis, "that the road should be a Canadian road on Canadian soil, and we did not consider the construction of a road with one of its terminals on American soil."

"It would have been in the interest of the country," went on Mr. Clarke, "if the Government had placed before the contractors of Canada all the information and data they had at their disposal so that all might have tendered on an equal footing."

It was in response to this utterance that Sir Louis Davies made the statement that shows what the Rothschilds think of the bargain: "The gentleman who then represented the Rothschilds in this country had the offer made to him," he said. "After considering the whole question, after examining all the information that the Government could place before him, and after cabling to his principals at home, he wrote to the Government declining to touch it at all."

The fact that the Rothschilds had been invited to undertake the work was, in Mr. Clarke's opinion, a reason why Canadian contractors should have been given an opportunity to tender. He asked that the cable message sent to the Rothschilds and the reply should be laid on the table of the House.

It was not to make a speech, but to extract information, that Mr. Ingram, the member for East Elgin, arose. In response to his questions Sir Louis Davies made this further statement: "The letter received from the representative of the Rothschilds declined to have anything to do with the building of this road under condition that it should be built by next September. It was received a short time before the Government agreed with McKenzie and Mann. No contract had been made with McKenzie and Mann until we had received the final answer from the Rothschilds' agent."

"Were any Canadian contractors furnished with any information that they might be permitted to tender for the work?" asked Mr. Ingram.

"I am not in a position," said Sir Louis, "to answer the hon. gentleman whether any Canadian contractors outside of McKenzie and Mann were asked to tender. There may have been several for all I know. The Minister of the Interior or the Minister of Railways will answer that question."

Mr. Ingram's comment was that while the Minister of Railways had said that there was no time to give Canadian contractors information it had been given to the Rothschilds.

Whatever doubt there may have been as to Mr. Osler's view of the railway bargain was soon dispelled by that gentleman himself, who unequivocally condemned it as imprudent in the face of the statement that the Rothschilds had refused to be tempted by the offer. Mr. Osler stated, and defied contradiction, that if he went to London to-day with the contract now offered to Messrs. McKenzie and Mann of 3,750,000 acres of the best land in the Klondike he could sell that land for more money than the whole of the 25,000,000 acres of land granted to the Canadian Pacific Railway would ever have brought. He was not saying that all was gold that glittered, that all that Mr. Ogilvie had said was true, but if the Government believed what Mr. Ogilvie had stated, and that it was absolutely necessary to build a road into the country at once, then they would have been justified in spending their money themselves, and were absolutely wrong in locking up such an enormous quantity of land. By the terms of the contract they had made a slave of every prospector who went into that country, because the contractors would have men watching them, and, with their great advantages, these men would reach the registry office first and register the claim ahead of the prospectors.

Sir Louis Davis explained that if Mr. Osler had read the regulations he would see that this was impossible, as the miner did not have to go to an office to register; that any five miners could get together and constitute one of their number a registrar, and register with him on the spot.

Mr. Osler replied that only the one miner could register, but Sir Louis assured him that any number could do so.

Mr. Osler attacked the agreement on the ground that the rails to be used were the cast-off 25-pound rails of the Lethbridge road, which had proved too light for the work required of them.

Sir Louis again corrected him, stating that while there was nothing in the contract specifying the weight of rail, a clause called for a standard equal to that of the Kaslo & Slocan line, which is laid with 45-pound rails.

Mr. Osler continued that if there were private reasons why the road should be built at once, that was an additional reason for its being built by the Government. In closing Mr. Osler declared that if the supporters of the Government could swallow the bill in its present shape he would never again refuse to believe that either Jonah swallowed the whale or that the whale swallowed Jonah.

Mr. Taylor, the Conservative whip, repeated the insinuation that the deal had been hastily arranged with Messrs. McKenzie and Mann in order to raise money for the Ontario elections, and charged the Patrons with having "sold out" to the Government.

Mr. Dupont of Bagot attacked Mr. Langelier in connection with the Quebec elections, charging that offices were held open for political purposes. He also criticized the Yukon bill, repeating in French many of the arguments which have been levelled against it by his English-speaking friends.

Mr. McNeill moved the adjournment of the debate.

It was after midnight when the House adjourned.

DEAR SIRS—
There are many remedies advertised to cure Kidney troubles, but in my opinion the best and most successful is Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. In my case they succeeded after the failure of the others.
I spent $200 in doctoring but received very little benefit until I began using Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. Before I had finished the first box I gained flesh, appetite and sound sleep, and three boxes entirely cured me. I have had no kidney trouble since.

Moccasin Pot Pie.

Word has been received from a wood gang back north, of an appetizing pot pie that was recently served up to satisfy their ravenous appetites. It appears that a number of moccasins were hanging over the stove to dry and when the cook was stirring the pie one of the shoes dropped in, but the cook nothing daunted stirred up the mixture and with a sang froid worthy of a Parisian Chef, placed the dish before the men. The complimentary language of the man who fished out the moccasin cannot be found in our office Bible. He has since left for a better camp where moccasin pot pie is an unknown delicacy.

THE GIRL'S GUILD.

The Tea, Sale and Concert Proved an Immense Success—Miss Alma McCollum's Farce.

The tea and sale, followed by a programme, given under the auspices of the Girls Guild of St. John's church, in the Sons of England Hall, last evening, proved such a success that doubtless the young ladies will feel sufficiently encouraged to hold another of a like description in the course of a few weeks.

The arrangements were perfect in the way of providing an enjoyable evening for those present, and the hall was crowded almost too much for comfort.

Mr. R. M. Denniston occupied the chair, and the programme was presented follows:

Instrumental duet.....The Misses English
Vocal Solo, "Rory Darlin"....Miss Wilhelmine Carnegie
Vocal solo, "Queen of the Earth".....Herbert Morphet
Reading.....J Hampden Burnham
Vocal solo, "The Miller's Daughter".....Mrs Parker
Recitation, "Seein' things at night". Master Holden Blackwell
Vocal solo.....Mrs Parker

The evening's programme was concluded by the presentation of a farce prepared for the occasion by Miss Alma McCollum. Those assisting took the following characters:

Granny Snow.....Miss Alma McCollum
Jo-hanna Jem-mina Snow (a woman's rights).....Mrs P Campbell
Louisa... } (Twins)..... { Miss Flo Belcher

Miss Yaller Bluff Snow (an artist)..Miss Belcher
Miss Wing Foo Snow (a sweet Celestial)..Miss Birdie Hall
The late lamented Mis Snow (in wax).....Mrs Rufus Stevenson
Gravy (the coloured soup)..Master Warren Dean

By the unstinted applause bestowed it was evident that the clever play upon words introduced was fully appreciated by the audience. Granny Snow had every reason to be proud of her pretty family, and Miss McCollum is to be congratulated on the talent which she summoned to her aid in producing her farce.

AN "AT HOME."

Court Langton, Canadian Order of Foresters, Entertains its Friends.

Court Langton's comfortable quarters were formally opened last evening by an "At home," which was well attended by the members and their friends.

The apartments are those formerly occupied by the local lodge of the Sons of Canada, and are most suitable for the purpose to which they are now devoted. Flags and bunting decorated the rooms last evening, and they presented a very inviting appearance.

The chair was occupied by Mr. A. J. Mathers, and the programme which was provided was contributed to by the most popular talent in town. It passed off exceedingly well, the numbers being given in the following order:

PART I.

Instrumental .... Miss Hurley and Miss Bullen
Recitation.....Miss Aggie Patterson
Vocal duet..... Mrs B Brown and Mr James Brown
Recitation.....Miss Strong

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR.

St. Andrew's Young Peoples' Society Meeting.

A pleasant evening was spent on Monday last. The topic, led by Mr. Cunningham, was "The Christian's Confidence." Now, in order to trust an earthly friend it is necessary first to know that friend. It is impossible to know a friend without entering into fellowship with that one, for without a knowledge or personal communion how can we tell whether it is wise or safe to put confidence in them? Neither can we understand what confidence in Christ means without a personal acceptance of Him. How true when we know Christ what implicit trust we have in Him, who is our Heavenly Friend and who will never deceive nor forsake while submission of heart and all is rendered to His holy will. What encouragement to those who are trusting this True Friend! Many expressions were given by members showing firm confidence in that "Friend that sticketh closer than a brother." The meeting closed with prayer and the benediction.

KLONDYKE OUTFITS.

An Interesting Room in Mining Clothing and Complete Regulation Equipments for the Klondyke, at Gough Bros.

Ever alert to the demands of the times, the wide-awake firm of Gough Bros. have been making a study of the best outfits for the Klondyke gold fields, and have employed during the past few weeks, the services of experts in the business to make a critical examination of the most reliable goods in the market. After careful investigation, they have arranged to supply any number of outfits of prospectors' suits, overcoats, underwear, boots, caps, hoods, sleeping beds, etc., which can be seen at their store on George street in all their Arctic-comfort glory. Nothing but the best quality of goods which practical man could recommend have been selected. Among the different samples shown are the following:

The "Caribou" sleeping bag is a rubber-lined bag, full man's size, all ready to tuck into, safe from the frigid terrors of an Alaska night.

The "Arctic" sleeping bag is an oilcloth outfit, proof alike against flood and frost.

The "Chilkoot" sleeping bag is a waterproof duck outfit, which possesses the advantage of lightness and durability, but without lessening the amount of warmth and comfort.

The "Klondyke" Suit is made of heavy English corduroy, specially close-woven, and are in brown and drab colours, and tweed lined.

The "Mackinaw" Suit is made of Karsh's waterproof, the best and most highly recommended for the purpose.

Underwear made of heavy 24-ounce material, and band-knit. Miner's belts, in leather and rubber, and Arctic socks.

The "Carboo" cap is a picturesque piece of head gear, made of coon fur, with adjustable ear lugs and peak. Red River hoods and face and ear protectors are formidable looking shields.

The "Yukonite" mining boot is soft tanned, waterproof and laced clean to 15 inch top, with waterproof bellows tongue and horse-hide soles.

An examination of the different parts of these outfits will prove very interesting to travellers going to the Klondyke.

Messrs. Gough Bros. have also shown another instance of their resource and ingenuity in window dressing by putting in a Klondyke window. In the centre of the large central plate glass show window is shown a prospector's tent which has been erected and furnished inside a la Klondyke miner. Here and there are to be seen glittering gold nuggets as they are turned up from the miner's hand and exposed in careless recklessness in broad daylight. Miners' spades, picks, shovels, revolvers, knives, and other indispensible articles that compose the miner's kit are all displayed to the public gaze. Go and see it to-night.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mrs. James Beavis—Interred With Salvation Army Honours.

One of the early settlers of Otonabee has passed away to join the great majority in the person of Mrs. James Beavis, who died at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. James Murray, of town.

Mrs. Beavis was very popular with all who knew her and was an active worker in the Salvation Army, in the ranks of which she will be mourned with a genuine sorrow.

She was born in Ireland in 1833 and came to Otonabee 1836. Some years ago she and her husband came to reside with their daughter in Peterborough, where she died Jan. 30, 1898, and was interred with Salvation Army honours on Feb. 1st in the Little Lake Cemetery.

ROMANCE IN AN EGG-SHELL.

Equal to the Occasion—Mutual Interchange of Confidence.

Last July a citizen bought a number of eggs at a grocery store, and on examining his purchase he found a line written with a lead pencil, asking the purchaser to communicate with Miss Maggie M——, Erinsville, who was a lone spinster, not too bad-looking and in search of a husband. Signding himself David Sprung, the citizen wrote a card to the direction given. Yesterday he received the following letter from the poor, lone spinster:

"Mr. David Sprung:

"I just received your card yesterday, which you wrote last July 27th. It was mislaid, as the address was not just correct. But I am real glad you enjoyed the egg so well, but so sorry it was not double-yolked as you would have appreciated it much better. I am sorry to hear that you are so lonely a bachelor, and I such a lovely maid, but if there is anything I can do to make your miserable life happy, just let me know, and I will do all that is within my power. You wanted to know where we could meet. I will leave that to you to appoint. Hoping to hear from you soon. Write at once. My address is Miss Maggie ——, Erinsville, P.O., Ont."

The recipient of the letter will write at once and ask Maggie to send her photograph, and enclose a few tender enquiries as to her mother's health; or perhaps "Maggie" is some young man who is writing to see whom he will catch.

The bankrupt stock of C. F. KUTZBACH, 379 George street, will be sold regardless of cost. Store open at 8 o'clock, Saturday morning, 12th Inst. Come along. Come early and secure bargains.

NEARING THE END!

Can't keep it up for ever! Selling Suits to order at $14.00, $16.00 and $18.00 is doing business for the fun of doing it. It's the same with the Trousers we are making for $3.50 and $5.00. But we've had a busy January and made a bigger reputation for ourselves, and helped the store to the best kind of an advertisement.

During the balance of February you still have choice of any material in the store for these Suits or Trousers. Enough left to make it worth your coming to-morrow. Wish we had another storeful to carry us through another month. Nothing to equal it has ever been known in Peterborough before. The finest of Merchant Tailoring, remember, for less than the usual cost of ready-made.

MR. STRATTON IN NORTH MONAGHAN.

A Successful Meeting at Brealy's School House.

ANOTHER STRIDE TOWARDS SUCCESS

Addresses by Mr. Stratton, Mr. O'Connell and Dr. Bell—Public Questions Fully and Fairly Discussed—Effects of the Application of the Principles of Good Government.

A very successful meeting was held in Mr. Stratton's interest at Brealy's school house, North Monaghan, last night. The speakers were heartily received, and the arguments presented were logical and convincing.

Mr. D. O'Connel', town, was the first speaker. He pointed out that Mr. Stratton was coming to the electors for the fourth time, on the record of the Government for the past twenty-five years, and also on his own record as a faithful and painstaking representative who has looked after the interests of the riding in a capable and satisfactory manner. He was one of the most promising of the rising representatives of the House, and a riding like West Peterborough was of sufficient importance to insist on good representation. It required a representative who was well acquainted with its various needs, and such a representative they had had in Mr. Stratton, who had devoted the greatest personal attention to the interests of his riding. Mr. O'Connell urged that no single charge could be made that Mr. Stratton had neglected any duty that confronted him. He was not only entitled to a renewal of confidence on his personal record, but on account of the record of the Government, which was unique in the history of nations. The present Government began its career when this country was in comparative infancy, with unlimited resources in timber and minerals, which presented the greatest possible temptations to men who might have been inclined to seek to turn their positions to personal or party advantage, yet they had ruled the Province without a misstep, and without affording ground for a single charge of having allowed one dollar to be corruptly spent. At the same time the enormous amount of about forty-four millions of dollars had been for public services for their benefit, with the direct result of lessening local taxation, and every branch of the public service had been maintained in the highest state of efficiency. With all this there was not any debt, but a surplus of assets of over five millions of dollars, which yielded about $235,000 a year in interest, while Quebec, which had started on even terms with Ontario, had rolled up an enormous debt which required an annual payment of a million and a half dollars in interest alone. The speaker briefly referred to the unworthy issues which in default of substantial grounds of objection, had been advanced in previous campaigns, but which the electors—the broad-minded of both parties—had stamped out and discredited, so that now in default of reasonable grounds of complaint, the chief charge of the Opposition was in connection with a frivolous matter, like the piggery issue, which was dealt with to show that if there was any fault to be found it was was to be found, not with the government, but with the Dominion officials, who had taken complete official charge of the piggery, and had disposed of the diseased animals. After an eloquent tribute to the excellence of the government, Mr. O'Connel closed his address with cheers.

Dr. Bell was the next speaker. He devoted some time to setting forth the benefits that had accrued to the country from Liberal rule in the arena of Dominion and Provincial politics, under which the country had entered upon a new lease of national life and an era of prosperity and progress that was giving the greatest satisfaction to the people. Similar good results had followed the application of Liberal principles of Government to the province of Ontario. Referring to the change in the Ontario Cabinet, Dr. Bell pointed out that while Sir Oliver Mowat had stepped—up and out, becoming Lieutenant-Governor, he had left behind a successor, Hon. Mr. Hardy, who had had a training of twenty years under one of the best premiers any province ever had, and Mr. Hardy became premier with twenty years' experience, which Sir Oliver Mowat himself did not possess when he became premier. Reference was made to the able colleagues which Mr. Hardy had associated with him, which constituted a strong Government, amply capable of successfully and satisfactorily administering the affairs of this great province. Dr. Bell pointed out the economical and capable manner in which the Government had administered the financial affairs of this Province, and suggested that from the record of their party in Dominion politics the Opposition would not have managed our affairs so well. He also devoted some attention to the Eagledue mining concession and showed that it was an excellent arrangement which brought a large amount of British capital to assist and give a stimulus to the development of unlimited mineral resources. Dr. Bell concluded his address by claiming the support of the electors for a Government with a clean, honest and capable record and its supporter from this riding, Mr. Stratton. (Cheers.)

Mr. Stratton's Address.

Mr. Stratton, who was warmly received, after a few general and introductory remarks, submitted that it was not a matter with the electors which of the two candidates or two parties should be successful, but which candidate and which party would best serve the interests of the province,—not a mere personal or party triumph. A couple of years ago the friends of good and progressive government had appealed to the people, and had pointed out to the people that better administration and increased prosperity would follow a new system of administering the public affairs of the Dominion. A new government has been in power at Ottawa and the results have justified the promises of improvement in methods of administration and in the prosperity of the country which were evident on every side. At the time of the elections, and at the time of the adoption of the new tariff, they had been told by Mr. Kendry that the Auburn Woolen Mills would close down as the effect of a Liberal government coming into power. But what was the result? These mills had never been in a more prosperous condition then at the present time. They were and had been running and would have to be kept running night and day owing to the pressure of work and there was hardly room enough in the establishment for the number of hands required. Then The William Hamilton Manufacturing Company's Works were running day and night and every resource of this great establishment was taxed to its utmost to keep in sight of their orders and their buildings had become too small. The Canadian General Electric Company's Works had shared in the general business revival and had been and were still running to their full capacity on orders that could be attributed to the results of a policy developing the unbounded natural resources of the country. The Peter Hamilton Works were also busy to the full limit of their capacity to meet the increased demand for agricultural implements that resulted from the increased prosperity that had come from better prices, improved conditions for the future (Cheers.) The canoe manufacturing companies in town were as busy as bees and would employ more hands if their premises would admit of it. These conditions of industrial activity could be traced to the aggressive and energetic policy of the Government that had promoted the development of our natural resources, strengthened our markets, increased the facilities for reaching our markets and created a demand for the mechanical means of developing our resources, and had helped the farmers to get their products to a better market with greater advantage. Such results had been promised as a consequence of returning the present Government to power, and the promise had been kept (Cheers) It was not in the power of governments to create better crops or prices, but they could help in the way of facilitating transport to market, and thus by a lessening of expense, make a better price—they could by a progressive and aggressive policy create conditions that would cause a greater demand for manufactured products and thus create a better demand and market for the products of the farmers. If, Mr. Stratton said, the promises of such results made by himself and others had been fulfilled so satisfactorily, then in presenting a few truths for their consideration. He had not at any time deceived the people, but had tried, and he believed successfully, in dealing justly with both friends and opponents, and they could accept with confidence the facts he would present to them which should lead them to feel the force of the fact that in regard to governments it was best to leave well enough alone. Mr. Stratton then went on to refer to the financial and administrative record of the Government, and successfully combatted the charge of the Opposition that the Government had "squandered" the resources of the country by showing that they had expended the money of the people for the benefit of the people. In this way, nearly half of the eighty-nine millions spent by the Government in the past twenty-six years, or over forty-three millions, represented money directly returned to the people to lessen local taxation. Of this amount the share of Peterborough had been $780,000, and if the money received from county licenses were deducted, we had a round three-quarters of a million distributed to the people of this county. That was not squandering, but using the public funds as a public trust, and giving the people the fullest possible benefit for the expenditure of their own money. Could Mr. Garvin assure them, that he or his party would give any better financial administration, any better code of municipal laws, any better code of labour laws, any better system of education, with better Public, Model and High schools and universities, or could he or they point to any country in the world where the total cost of school books to take a child from the Kindergarten all the way through the Public school course, as $4 95? Reference was made to the Sandfield Macdonald surplus, which had been pledged by him and Mr. Blake before Mr. Mowat took office and his Government were compelled to spend what their predecessors had pledged. The interests of agriculture were dealt with, and it was pointed out that in spite of the fact that in 1887 every Opposition member had voted against a Minister of Agriculture, the benefits the farmers had received were simply incalculable. Mr. Stratton dealt in clear detail with the timber question, with the Provincial Auditor and with the Public Accounts question, and referred to the benefits the people had received from the expenditure and maintenance of our public institutions, which were maintained more cheaply than than those of any other country in the world, and had been erected out of current revenue without a dollar of debt or a dollar corruptly spent. Mr. Stratton followed his usual line of address previously reported, establishing by abundant proof that the resources of the province had been wisely husbanded, the expenditures wisely made, the legislative wants of the province attended to, and that the Government of Ontario had in every way justified their claim to being a progressive, economical, clean, honest and capable government. (Cheers.)

AND A HOPEFUL OUTLOOK

THEY COULD TRUST HIM

WAS AS SMALL A SUM

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the chairman, and cheers for the Queen, Mr. Stratton, Mr. O'Connell and Dr. Bell.

CAMPAIGN COMMENTS.

After shivering on the brink for a couple of months, Dr. Ford of Norwood, has taken the plunge. Yesterday he consented to be a candidate in East Peterborough.

It won't take the Blezard long to freeze that Ford to a stand-still.

Mr. Garvin claims to have several aiders, but he doesn't seem to have many (a)betters.

Mr. Whitney has no use for the farmers, and Mr. Garvin is a consistent follower of his leader. He was nominated without the help of the farmers, and the farmers think that he will have to also run this contest without their help.

The Opposition try to make party capital out of the Eagledue mining arrangement, but the Government has extracted British capital out of it.

Mr. J. Hampden Burnham took occasion at Mr. Garvin's meeting on Wednesday to refer to a business matter, in respect to some recent changes in the Lock Works Company, and used the occasion to again attack Mr. Stratton personally. Mr. Burnham, who was not proud enough of his little stab in the dark to have it reported with the rest of his luminous speech, may desire the community to think that he is a great man and an authority on political, business and professional matters; but, for his own sake, he had better leave the business interests of any company to its shareholders. The less he says about labour and the employment of labour the more sense the electors will think he possesses.

A propos of Mr. Burnham's capacity of discussing the best methods of business success, may be quoted the old proverb—"Bachelors' wives and maids' children are well trained."

Mr. Poussette, as reported in the Review, spoke at Mr. Garvin's North Monaghan meeting on Wednesday evening, thus:

He reminded the audience that the Hon. G. W. Ross at the Stratton-Ross meeting admitted the liability of the province upon railway certificates of $3,750,000, but stated that the trust funds held by the Dominion Government for the province were sufficient to wipe out this debt and leave the surplus claimed. This mode of producing a surplus was characterized as utterly dishonest, these trust funds being held simply in trust, and not in any way applicable to the general liability of the province, was exactly the same as the man having a large personal liability, but holding a large amount of trust funds for other persons, which he might convert to his own use and pay off his own debts and then claim that he had a surplus.

Mr. Ross was right; even with the railway liabilities (extending over a period of forty years) paid out of the surplus, there would be left $2,370,000 of a surplus.

But what business man would be guilty of the business idiocy of using trust funds paying 5 per cent. to discharge liabilities bearing only 3 per cent.

Yet some persons seem to have conducted business on some such slop-work principle very much to the disgust of creditors.

Mr. Poussette's brilliant scheme would sacrifice nearly sixty-three thousand dollars a year, enough to pay off railway liabilities as they fall due.

Mr. Poussette has a very tender heart for trust funds. Just read over, gentle reader, the last part of the extract from his speech quoted above and decide whether it applies to the Government's method of dealing with trust funds or to—something else.

That may be Mr. Poussette's idea of dealing with trust funds, but the man that has been bitten by such methods will not be much in love with such ideas.

It depends altogether upon whose ox is gored.

If Mr. Poussette were a safe counsellor in respect of trust funds, he should know that the Dominion Government would be mighty glad to hand over the trust funds to the Ontario Government.

The Dominion doesn't like the idea of paying 5 per cent. on trust funds.

The Ontario Government has got a better business head than to sacrifice 5 per cent. interest-bearing securities to pay 3 per cent. liabilities that extend over a period of forty years.

Some such business methods as Mr. Poussette's comparison implies have, perhaps, been applied in Peterborough, but the dividends will be found in the unexplored region that will contain Mr. Garvin's majority on March 1st.

If "Canadians in the Imperial Service" don't give better services than some "Canadians in the Campaign Service," it's no wonder they are put into a museum, as military curios.

The Klondyke of good Government—Yukon get there by Stratton's route; but Yukon't get there by Garvin's root (hog or die.) You'll Stickeen the mud and fail after all your Teslin.

The way to get good Government for another four years will be to March 1st.

EAST PETERBOROUGH.

Mr. Blezard's Progressing Campaign—A Grand Meeting at Stewart's School House—Dr. Ford Accepts the Candidature for the East in Opposition.

Mr. T. Blezard, the Government candidate for East Peterborough, held another highly successful meeting at Stewart's school house, Otonabee, last night.

Mr. Geo. Stewart occupied the chair, and presided over a large gathering of the electors.

Mr. G. M. Roger, town, opened the speaking with an excellent and effective address.

Mr. Blezard made a capital speech, dealing exhaustively and effectively with the leading issues of the day. He is meeting with the old time favour with his constituents, who will repeat the verdict of the past half dozen elections in the east.

Dr. Ford, who declined the nomination last December, has had his discretion tampered with, and yesterday at Norwood consented to become a candidate, and a ratification meeting will be held at Norwood at a date to fixed by the Executive on Saturday—probably early next week.

Dr. Ford, however, is in the field, and will doubtless proceed at once to feel the pulse of the electors. Personally only favourable mention can be made of him, but politically—well he's in too bad company and in too good a riding to expect success. The prognosis in Dr. Ford's case is decidedly unfavourable.

"You Owe It to Her."

If you are the mother of a young girl who is approaching the time when girlhood merges into womanhood do not hesitate to speak freely and frankly with her about the things which most closely concern her future happiness. If she is subject to any weakness of the delicate, special organism of womanhood, make it your business to see that this is properly corrected, and that she starts upon womanhood's career with full womanly strength and capacity. She will bless you for it all her life.

There is no need of "examinations" and "local applications." Sound professional advice may be obtained free of charge, by writing to Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., whose thirty years' occupancy of this position has made him recognised among the most eminent of living specialists in the treatment of woman's diseases.

Every case submitted to him by mail receives careful consideration. Efficient and inexpensive home-treatment is prescribed whereby delicate, feminine complaints may be promptly alleviated and cured. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the only proprietary medicine in the world designed for this special purpose by a regular physician—an educated, experienced expert.

Miss Cora L. Russel, of Leemont, Accomac Co., Va., in a letter to Dr. Pierce, says: "From April, 1896, until the following October, I suffered severely from painful menstruation. For about twelve hours before the appearance of the menses I would feel giddy, have a severe headache, pain in my back, in fact I felt as if every bone in my body was breaking. Nothing did me any good. I wrote to Dr. Pierce and he recommended his 'Favorite Prescription,' and after using three bottles of it I am glad to say I am cured."

THE LATEST ADMISSION.

Dominion Shorthorn Breeders Absorb the Maritime Herd Books—A Long Agitation Succeeds.

Toronto, Feb. 10.—An important matter which has engaged the attention of the leading men of the Dominion Shorthorn Breeders' Association for years was satisfactorily adjusted shortly after the opening of the annual meeting of the association yesterday. There has been long on foot a movement for the admission of Maritime Province breeders to the privileges of the Dominion Association. There are no less than three herd books down there, one for each province. The animals are admittedly of an inferior grade for the most part, but there are several live dealers in the provinces, and they have long desired the absorption of their herd books in the superior publication of the Dominion Association.

Last fall, at the request of the executive of the Dominion Shorthorn Breeders' Association, John I. Hobson, the big Guelph breeder, visited the Maritime Provinces and arranged a basis of amalgamation. This basis was approved by the executive last night. The proposition was that Maritime Province breeders should have the privilege of registering eligible animals for twelve months free of charge, and that penalties be suspended for that time. After some discussion this proposition was adopted.

The Association's Progress.

The herd books since 1887 have recorded 55,928 pedigrees. That for 1896 recorded 2,714. The 1897 record will be about 3,000.

The number of paid-up members in 1897 was 537, as against 494 in 1896, 410 in 1886, and 164 in 1883, in the old British America Association.

The financial statement shows receipts of $11,159, of which $6,781 is cash on hand.

Officers and Representatives.

The following officers were elected: President, James Russell, Richmond Hill; 1st vice-president, John I. Hobson, Guelph; 2nd vice-president, R. Miller, Brougham.

Provincial vice-presidents — William Linton, Aurora; F. G. Bouger, Georgetown, P.E.I.; J. H. Ladner, Ladner's Landing, B C.; J. A. Cochrane, Hillhurst, Que.; George A. Fawcett, Sackville, N.B.; J. A. Turner, Millerville, Alberta; C. A. Archibald, Truro, N.S.; John E. Smith, Brandon, Man.; F. W. Green, Moosejaw, Ass.; secretary-treasurer, H. Wade, Toronto.

J. M. Gardhouse, Highfield, was added to the list of directors in place of William Linton, Aurora, who had been made a vice-president. The retiring President, Arthur Johnston, Greenwood, was made a life member of the association.

The following were appointed to represent the association on the various Exhibition Boards:

Industrial Exhibition—Hon. John Dryden, Brooklin, and John I. Hobson, Mosboro.

Western Fair—Henry Smith, Hay, and C. M. Simmons, Ivan.

Ottawa Exhibition—R. R. Sangster, Lancaster.

Halifax Exhibition—F. L. Hassard, Charlottetown, P.E.I.

A SHORT DAY.

The House Works Hard at Introducing Bills and Listening to Mr. Davin in the Debate on the Address.

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—There were two reasons why the House adjourned at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon; the first, that the Premier might preside at and the members might attend Mr. Ogilvie's lecture on the Klondike at the Russell Theatre, and the second, because Sir Richard Cartwright had invited the Liberal old guard to dinner. In the three-hour sitting that took place public legislation of importance was initiated by private members and some progress was made with the debate on the address.

Mr Davin, who is more remarkable for the frequency and length of his speeches than for anything else in Parliament, except it be now and then a burst of eloquence or a flash of wit, consumed all the time available for the debate in a general criticism of the Government.

Mr. Leduc, the member for Nicolet, who carried his county by about 300 majority, was introduced by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Bernier and took his seat.

Dr. Reid introduced his bill to regulate freight rates on railways, and Mr. Taylor his alien labor bill.

The bill was read a first time, as was also Mr. Penny's bill to make Federal election days statutory holidays.

Mr. McMullen's bill to authorize the appointment of a Board of Civil Service Supervisors was read a first time.

Bills by Mr. Penny to amend the criminal code, respecting cruelty to animals, and by Mr. Britton, also to amend the criminal code, in respect of corroborative evidence, and for appeals for new trials. Mr. Britton's bill, if carried, will strike out of the criminal code the section under which Mrs. Sternaman was granted a new trial.

Upon the orders of the day being called Sir Charles Tupper drew the Government's attention to the fact that the Yukon Railway bill was characterized by an important omission. The object of supporters of the measure was to provide an all-Canadian route. It was therefore necessary that it should be stipulated in the bill that the charter would not pass into the hands of foreigners.

The Premier could not promise further than that the matter would be considered by the Government.

Mr. Davin resumed the debate on the address, and after one of his long rambling speeches,

Mr. Bennett moved the adjournment of the debate, and at 6 o'clock the House adjourned to give the members an opportunity of hearing Mr. Ogilvie's lecture on the Klondike.

A PRESIDENT MURDERED.

Guatemala's Chief Official Assassinated—The Vice-President in the Chair—No Details Yet Received.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Senor Lazo Arriaga, the Guatemalan Minister to the United States, yesterday afternoon received an official cablegram from the Minister of Foreign Affairs of Guatemala announcing the assassination of President Barrios and the succession to the Presidency of First Vice-President Manuel Estrada Cabrera. No details whatever were given. The despatch came from Guatemala City, the capital, where President Barrios has lived and the Government departments are carried on. It added that entire calm prevails. This last assurance, coupled with the immediate succession of the First Vice-President, in accordance with the constitutional methods of the country, is a special source of gratification to the officials of the Guatemalan Legation here. The new President, Mr. Cabrera, is a man of prominence in Guatemala, and is one of two chosen by the Congress to fill the Presidency in case of a vacancy.

General D. Jose Ma Reyna Barrios, President of the Republic of Guatemala, was born in San Marios in 1859, 39 years ago. He was a nephew of the former president, Justo Rufino Barrios, who was killed in 1885. The General was educated abroad, and after his collegiate course he made a trip around the world. In his ideas he was always liberal, and when the Conservative party was ousted, he clearly adhered to his uncle's principles. In the ensuing war of federation, the purport of which was unification of the Central American States, the General was placed in command of a division of the Liberal troops. During the war of 1885, when his uncle, the President, was killed, the General succeeded him as commander of the forces. Later, when President Barrillas was in control, he banished the young General from Guatemala, and he went direct to California and resided in San Francisco for about a year.

Nine years ago General Barrios was Consul in Hamburg, Germany. In 1895 General Barrios succeeded Barillas as President, his term of office being six years, expiring in March of this year. Last year he publicly declared himself dictator of Guatemala, and from all reports he enjoyed the fullest confidence of his party. His partisans say that under his administration the country prospered and developed extensively, but his enemies claimed the contrary.

Fearful Affair at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 10.—A fire of mysterious origin was discovered about 8 o'clock last evening in the six-storey cold storage plant of the Chautauqua Lake Ice Company. An explosion of whiskey occurred at 11.15, which blew out the alley wall on one side with terrible results. At the time the alley was filled with firemen, policemen, newspaper men and others. Many were caught by the falling walls. At 2 a.m. six bodies had been taken from the ruins.

The Bid Was Undersize.

The Washington Post is responsible for this piece of capital gossip: A bright little boy—one of the pages of the senate—sat at one of the senate entrances the other day, when a lady approached him with a visiting card in her hand.

"Will you hand this to Senator Blank?" she said.

"I cannot," replied the boy, "for all cards must be taken to the east lobby."

The woman was inclined to be angry and went away muttering. Then a thought struck her, and taking out her pocketbook she found a 25 cent piece. With it in her hand she went back to the boy.

"Here, my lad," she said in a coaxing tone, "here is a quarter to take my card in."

"Madam," said the boy, without a moment's hesitation, "I am paid a larger salary than that to keep cards out."

I had to urinate too frequently and the urine was of a very high color. I used many medicines without relief and was getting worse. I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and started taking them. TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

AN EPISODE.

"This is a charming spot—for two," he said, seating himself comfortably at her feet.

"We are lucky to find it unoccupied," she said, "especially at one of Mrs. Gurdon's garden parties. She will be pleased. I don't believe there is a square inch of the lawn to be seen."

"The whole world is here. I know, Miss Lindsay; I have shaken hands with it."

"It is one of the penalties of being a great author."

"Or of being notorious."

"You are too modest, Mr. Holland. Have you not shared the honors of the afternoon with the prince and the latest lion—just imported from South Africa, was it not?"

"And felt like a martyr all the time. But there you have the proof, Miss Lindsay. Don't think I am complaining. Fame and notoriety mean the same—in London. And in this"—he indicated the screen of shrubbery which cut off the little nook from the rest of the garden, but did not shut out the strains of the Blue Hungarians or the hum of many voices—"in this I have my reward. I forgive the lion hunters."

"It is a relief to be out of it," she admitted. "Do you know, Mr. Holland, that these nooks—yes, there are more of them—are a pet idea of Mrs. Gurdon's?"

"I must thank her. She is a woman of genius."

She laughed merrily. "Oh, no, she is only an incorrigible matchmaker—and finds them useful."

"So she, at least, believes in love?" he asked, picking up the thread of a former conversation.

"Or in marriage. It is not always the same thing, is it?"

"It should be," he replied, with an air of the deepest conviction. He was looking up into her eyes.

"What does somebody say—that in woman love is a disease; in man it is an episode."

"I seem to recollect that," he said. "But it is nonsense; love cannot be summed up in an epigram."

Again she laughed. "I am afraid you have a very bad memory, Mr. Holland. Is it another of the penalties of—notoriety?"

"In my case I am afraid so. Is Meredith the culprit?"

"I must leave that to your conscience, sir. The sentiment appears in a brilliant study of society entitled 'Providence and Mrs. Grundy,' for which, if the title page is to be trusted"—

"Ah, I remember now. Please spare me, Miss Lindsay. You don't know the evil effects of paraseme king—it saps a man's morals until he has not even a nodding acquaintance with the truth. And you have taken your revenge."

"But, really, Mr. Holland, I trusted to your—your knowledge of human nature, shall I say? I was glad, for my own sake"—

"For what, if I may ask?"

"That 'in man it was an episode.' It makes life so much easier to believe so."

"You will let me retract in sackcloth and ashes, Miss Lindsay? Honestly I have some reason to do so. It is three years since I wrote that miserable book. Can you guess my excuse?"

"It seems to infer a compliment—somewhere," she said rather doubtfully.

"I am very much in earnest," he said, getting up and standing above her. And he looked it. "I didn't know you then. If I had, the thing—call it an epigram if you like—would never have been written. How could it when"—

Here the bushes were parted, and a face—a tanned, handsome, open face it was, albeit just now the expression was not too pleasant—showed in the interstices. Miss Lindsay nodded brightly.

"Come in, Ralph," she said.

"Very sorry, I'm sure," said the newcomer. "I didn't know, Nell"— Then he disappeared.

Miss Lindsay smiled.

"Captain Havelock seems—out of sorts," remarked her companion, sitting down again.

"Probably he is looking for my mother," said she. "I told him to attend to her."

"He is a capital fellow," he said indifferently. "Done something in India, hasn't he?"

"A small affair of outposts," she replied in the same tone. Only perhaps it was as well that he was not studying her eyes very intently at that moment. "He held a fort somewhere on the frontier for a fortnight against a couple of thousand tribesmen, with only a European sergeant and 50 Sikhs under him, and he was reduced to 30 rounds of ammunition and no provisions before he was relieved. It is quite a common thing out there. He told me so himself."

"He is modest—as well as lucky," said Holland. "You and he are old friends, Miss Lindsay?"

"We were brought up together."

"Like brother and sister?"

"Exactly. We quarrel quite as much, at least."

"And make it up, I dare say? But I am sure the quarrels are not serious. Apropos, am I forgiven?"

"Was there a crime, Mr. Holland? Really, I have forgotten."

"We were discussing"—

"'George Meredith,' was it not?"

"Then I am not forgiven for that unfortunate fault of my youth? You are very hard, Miss Lindsay. You have taught me the error of my ways, and yet you refuse to credit the conversion! How can I convince you? I am quite serious"—

"Oh, I hope not," she said. "It is too warm for anything but frivolity." He reddened a little and nervously plucked the grass round him. Miss Lindsay watched him with some curiosity out of the corners of her eyes; the symptoms were not unknown to her. "There is a green thing on your coat, Mr. Holland," she went on.

"Thanks." He flicked the insect off. "I have something to say, Miss Lindsay—a kind of confession. It is stupid, but I don't quite know how to say it."

"Is it necessary?" she asked innocently. "I don't like confessions, Mr. Holland. We are low church people."

"It means a lot to me," he continued, and again there was silence. Then he arose for the second time, perhaps feeling that an upright position conduces to a proper dignity.

She perceived her opening and rose also. "It is time we were returning," she remarked.

"Don't go just yet, Miss Lindsay," he pleaded, putting out a hand to detain her. "I want you to listen to me for a moment. I won't keep you if"—

But already she was half hidden by the shrubbery, and her only answer was a bewildering smile. He had perforce to follow.

"It seems more crowded than ever," she said as they picked their way through the throng. "Ah, there are my mother and Captain Havelock! Shall we join them? I hope you are attending to your duties, Ralph. Mr. Holland and I have been discussing Moredith and things. Tired, mother? Oh, you must be! Mr. Holland, will you find my mother a seat somewhere—near the band, if you can? The Hungarians are so good."

"Delighted," he replied. Then lower, "I may see you again before you go, Miss Lindsay?"

"If you can," she repeated.

She watched them until they were lost in the crowd, and then deliberately led Captain Havelock back to the little nook. Some girls have no originality. But it was still empty.

"Better sit down, Ralph," she said, taking her old place.

"Thanks; I prefer to stand," he said.

"It is a matter of taste—or of comfort." She gave him a swift glance. "Not up to Simla, is it?"

"I'm sick of it. Beastly pack! I haven't had a chance of speaking to you all afternoon, Nell."

"Philanthropy is its own reward," she said.

"It's not that—Mrs. Lindsay is all right. But there's that scribbling fellow who's always dangling after you."

"He is very amusing and clever."

"Is he? He doesn't know one end of a gun from the other, and I suppose he thinks that horses were invented to drag the Chelsea bus, or wherever he stays."

"Why, dear boy, to be a groom is not man's chief end. And you are very rude. Mr. Holland speaks very nicely of you."

"Confound his impudence!" And, by way of relief, he proceeded to kick a hole in Mrs. Gurdon's turf. "Look here, Nell," he said presently, "I'm going off to Egypt."

"Indeed! I thought winter was the proper season. Won't it be rather warm there just now?"

"That is, if they'll have me," he continued, paying no heed. "I've volunteered for Dongola. Kitchener is going up to Khartum in the autumn—at least I hope so."

"In Cook's boats? What fun!"

"It will be—for Fuzzy and the dervishes. But you might have the decency to say you are sorry, Nell. I mayn't come back, you know."

"So that is why you told me?" she asked. "Don't you think it is rather crude, Captain Havelock?" But she was not looking at him, being engaged in tracing fancy patterns on the grass. Not that it would have mattered, for he, on his part, was also regarding the point of the sunshade with apparent interest.

"Oh, I dare say that writing chap would have done it better," he said savagely. "It's his trade. I suppose you mean to marry the beggar, Nell?"

"His name is Holland," she suggested.

"I know that. You can see his portrait in any illustrated paper for a sixpence. It's in them all."

"Which is really no reason why he shouldn't be addressed properly, is it? I have some idea that I have seen another portrait in the same places, with the letters D. S. O. after the name."

"You need not get disagreeable. Besides, you haven't told me yet if you are engaged to him."

"Well, you see"—here she ventured another glance—"he hasn't asked me yet."

"I suppose you will marry him, though," he persisted. "It's natural enough, perhaps—he's a genius and all that—and of course I'm not. Wait a minute, Nell! I can't stand this any longer, and I'm bound to have it out for good. You were always cleverer than I was, but you know what I've wished for ever since I was an unlicked cub at Eton. I wasn't afraid to tell you then. You remember, Nell?"

"I remember thinking that those lickings—which you did not get—might have done you good."

"Well, you didn't say so! And all the time I was stewing in India it was the same, and when I was down with fever in the plains I kept shouting one name—so the doctor told me."

"It was in very bad taste," she murmured.

"Oh! Then that fort on the frontier, with the Waziris howling round—and not five minutes' sleep on end for fear they should rush us—and the grub running out—and the only idea in my head was to see it through somehow and get home to ask you to marry me! There, Nell, it's out at last!"

She was looking at him now, but there was a world of reproach—and perhaps something else—in her eyes. "You haven't asked me yet!" she cried.

"But, Nell—good heavens!—you don't mean to say"—

And then—well, in some mysterious fashion he managed to gain possession of her hands and to say the rest without words. As for her:

"You might have seen it, you foolish boy!" she said.

And that was all.

Except that, a little later, she met Mr. Holland.

"I have been looking for you, Miss Lindsay," he said. "I have something to say. Not going already surely? I may call tonight then? I need not tell you what it is—perhaps you can guess—I—I hope so."

"I think it would be better not to come, Mr. Holland," she replied, giving him her hand. "I am sorry, but—will you oblige me by considering the episode as closed? I am engaged to Captain Havelock."—David L. Johnston in Chambers' Journal.

A MOTHER SPEAKS.

Tells how Dr. Chase Saved her Boy.

His Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine a Precious Boon.

MRS. A. T. STEWART, Folgar, Ont., says: "From the 7th of January to the 30th, we were up night and day with our two little boys, employing doctors and trying every kind of patent medicine we ever heard of. At this time we did not know of Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine until after the 30th, when our youngest darling died in spite of all we could do. Sometime in February the doctor told us our other boy couldn't live till spring. We were about discouraged, when I got my eye on an advertisement of Dr. Chase's Syrup.

"I tried at once to get some, but none of the dealers here had it. A neighbor who was in Kingston managed to purchase two bottles which he brought straight to us, and I believe it was the means of saving our only boy.

"One teaspoonful of the Syrup stopped the cough so he could sleep till morning. Our boy is perfectly well now, and I would not be without Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house."

NIGHT.

The sun has vanished out of my sight,
And the moments sadly roll,
For my heart is dark with the thought of night,
And the night is in my soul.

The day is set and never will rise,
And my heart is sick and sore,
For the sweet, sweet light of my true love's eyes
Will shine for me no more.

My very sleep of rest is shorn,
I am full of pain and care—I
Sick with the thought of what I have borne
And of what is left to bear.

I see the rose with blushes fired,
I hear the brook run by,
But I am tired, so sick and tired,
I almost long to die.

For I know the sun will dry the stream,
And the flow'ret fade in the frost,
And I know that my dream is all a dream
And the charm of the dream is lost

There will never, never be any more light,
For my hope and I must part,
And my soul is dark with the thought of night,
And the night is in my heart.

—Alice Cary in New York Ledger.

The sick man knocking at the door of health gets in if he knocks the right way, and stays out if he doesn't. There are thousands of ways of getting sick but only one way to get well. Do whatever you will, if you do not put your digestion in good order, and make your blood rich and pure, you will not get well. Rich, pure blood is the only thing that can bring perfect health. Constipation is a disease of the blood. A large part of all diseases are traceable directly to impurities in the blood, and can be cured by eliminating them with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The first thing it does is to put the whole digestive system into perfect order. It stimulates the appetite, excites a copious secretion of the digestive fluids and promotes assimilation. It searches out diseased germs wherever they may be, kills them and forces them out of the system. The "Golden Medical Discovery" has been used with unvarying success for over 30 years.

BACK FROM DAWSON CITY.

A THOUSAND HUNGRY MEN ON THE ICE.

Shortage of Food—The Toils and Frightful Risks of the Journey—Few Will Gain Anything.

The appended letter from Dufferin Patullo of the Klondyke appearing in the Globe will be read with interest. Mr. Patullo is an old Woodstock boy:

"It is a hard proposition," is what the poor fellows say who are tramping out from Dawson over the 600 miles of ice to escape famine and starvation. The greatest mining town the world has ever known is struggling with the problem of how to feed its people. Doctors, lawyers, merchants, miners, men of all professions and walks in life are on the tramp, tramp, tramp, to reach the coast, from thence to scatter abroad to all parts of America. What the hardships of such a journey are even the poor fellows themselves can hardly tell. It seems all the harder that in many cases old timers, men who have been in Dawson for years, have been forced to leave, while the new comers, who were sensible or fortunate enough to go in with a good supply of provisions, are able to put in the winter there. A fellow whom everybody calls Happy Jack, passed here yesterday on his way out. Happy Jack is part owner of a claim on the Eldorado, which is now under bond for $150,000, but with all his gold he is unable to spend the winter in Dawson, and is forced to take the awful tramp, along with the other poor pilgrims. Happy Jack says the other two steamers at Fort Yukon will be eaten up, boilers and all.

THE RETREAT BEGINS.

About a month ago the retreat from Dawson began. First came poor fellows who were carrying packs on their backs, and who reported the trail in no condition to draw a sled. These men travelled without tent or stove, and with only a blanket or a robe to protect them from the cold which at this time ranged from 50 to 70 below zero. Then began to follow men with sleds and the trail began to improve. Then followed men with both dogs and sleds and these latter are making much better time and travelling much more comfortably. They have small tents and stoves with apparently plenty of provisions to carry them out, and appear to be in much better condition than the first pilgrims. The weather, too, is milder, this very morning as I am writing being 4 degrees above zero. But the very best circumstances and the most favourable weather cannot make the trip anything but hard. A gentleman, a lawyer from Montana, who had been a member of the State Legislature, spent last evening at my tent. He had first started with an outfit who were travelling without a tent, and he said he had slept out in a temperature of 71 below zero and eaten his meals outside for a distance of 200 miles, from Dawson to Selkirk. Here he fell in with Happy Jack and his partner and, joining them, had come on to this point. He said he was now travelling like a monarch, the only trouble being fearfully sore feet from the cutting ice and from travelling over the heavy jams.

One McKay, well known in this country, passed out the other day with his wife and four passengers. I have been told a Seattle newspaper is offering $2,000 to the first woman who comes out over this trail this winter, and the day before yesterday a Winnipeg boy called at the camp and he informed us that about five days previously a girl had gone out dressed in men's clothes and pulling a sled. We are all sorry she escaped detection.

HARDSHIPS ENDURED.

It is worthy of note that nearly all the people coming out have more or less money, but it is a lamentable fact that their money is of no use to them in this country. It is marvellous how selfish circumstances force one to become up here. But what can one do? If one were to give every man coming out but one meal each, he would soon have nothing whatever left for himself, and long before feeding the last pilgrim would be one himself, and would have to join the fearful tramp of hurrying feet to the coast. To feed a man to-day means but prolonging his misery if he has not provided for himself, and added to this means the starving of oneself, or the alternative of that awful tramp. No man will pass this camp in absolute want, but no imposition will be suffered. When one thinks of the chances one takes in undertaking a journey from Dawson to Dyea at this time of year it almost freezes one's blood. Just think, if one were to slip and break a leg, which would be the most likely thing in the world to do getting over the fearful ice-jams, what would become of him? He could not go on, and certainly his partners or fellow-travellers could not wait for him? They would would scarcely have enough provisions to carry them out with all the speed they could make, let alone delaying en route. There is nothing left but to leave the poor fellow or perhaps all three perish. It is awful to think of. Or again, suppose one froze his feet, he could not go on and the circumstances would be equally harrowing. A young fellow is now lying in a cabin down at the Five Finger Rapids, about 95 miles from here, with both feet frozen, that is, if he is not now dead. He was coming out with his uncle, a weak, rather sickly man. The young fellow was pulling the sled but got his feet wet and they began to freeze. For five days he continued to tramp with both feet frozen to above the ankles, but at last could go no further. A doctor was fortunately found about 15 miles distant and though he is now in attendance no hope whatever is held out of the boy's recovery. The uncle was forced to go on, leaving the boy to the care of some campers.

Many may be the reports in newspapers that the shortage of food in Dawson has been exaggerated, but you can depend upon it that the men now going out, the vast majority of them at any rate, would not undertake such a journey unless forced to do so from want of food. True it is that some may say they are combining business with necessity, but business and even the greed for gold are very secondary considerations when life itself is at stake.

WEALTH AND ITS PRICE.

There seems to be no question as to the fabulous wealth of this country. Those people coming out estimate the washup this year anywhere from five to fifty tons of gold, and some of the most intelligent men we have come across say they will not be surprised if the washup exceeds twenty tons. And it must be remembered that this is in the face of adverse circumstances and shortage of food. Many of these men say, too, that the hardship of this year will not compare with that of next year if there is anything like the rush to Dawson that is expected this coming spring and summer. The Yukon is too uncertain and the season too short to secure the population of this country against distress under present circumstances, and all I can say and reiterate, as I have a dozen times already, is for people either to stay out of the country until proper transportation facilities are offered, or, if they will persist in coming here, to bring in 18 months' supply of provisions with them. Then only can they be safe and sure against starvation.

This morning, within the last hour, 15 more pilgrims have passed here from Dawson, and as I write my good friend Capt. Bliss has put his head inside the tent door and informed me that four or five more dog outfits are coming up the the river about a mile below here. And the retreat goes on and the tramp, tramp of weary feet stops not; the rush for gold has been superseded by the rush for food, the one with buoyancy of hope, the other with feelings of despair. There are some fine fellows amongst these trampers, men of courage and determination, good-natured and full of hope under the trial of 600 miles of ice, many of them, too, more eager to return to their families in the east than animated by the necessity of the occasion. But the march goes on. There is no such a thing cessation. It matters not if you wake up cold and hungry and tired and sore and stiff, the march is outward, and if you straggle behind there will be no helping hand to stay you. You must push on. If you reach your destination your good friends will no doubt receive you with open arms until you forget the misery of that long tramp, but if you reach not your destination, who is the wiser? There are other poor pilgrims, just as you are, just as anxious to reach their families and friends, and just as likely as you to fall by the wayside; but they will not stop to help you. They will hurry by and struggle to quiet their consciences by assuring themselves they had not noticed your distress.

The man who is willing to pay misery for gold may have it, but he must he must count the cost well. We do not hear of the poor fellows who pay all misery and get no gold. We only hear of the wonderful strikes and none of the suffering. Even from a monetary standpoint we do not hear all. I know of an authentic case of a man who took out $27,000 from his claim in winter. Everybody knew that so-and-so took out $27,000 from his claim, but they did not know that it had cost him exactly $20,500 to get that $27,000. The profit after all was not too great payment for the anxiety and trouble of securing it. After all the paths of life are strewn about equally with rosebuds and thorns. The difference is but superficial. Our happiness in life depends a great deal upon ourselves, and if we go in search of the mortal we cannot expect our reward in the immortal.

LATER NEWS ABOUT DAWSON.

Big Salmon River, Dec. 14, 1897.—Since writing the letter which you will receive by concurrent mail, a gentleman, a banker from Minnesota, who is en route from Dawson to his home, explained the situation in Dawson district very intelligently. He cited a remarkable occurrence which happened there just before he left. As usual he went to the restaurant for his breakfast, as did the three thousand other people accustomed to do so, but on arriving there he found the place closed with the sign up "Closed." Just think of what must have been the feelings of those men without supplies, 3,000 of them, and who had been dependent upon the restaurants for their meals. These men ran in all directions, but everywhere was the sign posted up. Money was no use, for food could not be bought, and the only alternative was to in some way procure an outfit and start on that awful retreat, or else go down to Fort Yukon, which many of them did. As for the poor fellows without money, no one, he says, will look at a man here without money. One meets only the "marble heart" in this country, and if one did allow himself to pity all the poor fellows up here, who are and will be without food, he would have an endless heartache. There is but one hope for Dawson in its food supply, and that is so many people will leave as will guarantee to those who remain sufficient to carry them over until the arrival of the first steamers in the spring of early summer. If the supply at Fort Yukon is not all consumed by the people who have gone down already, the two boats now lying there may possibly run up and be able to relieve the distress somewhat as early as June 10; but if these supplies at Fort Yukon are all eaten up by the people there, then no relief can reach Dawson from St. Michael's before the middle of July at the earliest. Another pilgrim has confirmed the report that on the night of Nov. 24 the principal business block of Dawson was destroyed by fire. Just what will be the loss, and whether any provisions were destroyed, we have been unable to ascertain. We are hoping every day for news from our force there. As for married men coming here, I venture to say 75 per cent. of those coming out will say it is positively criminal for them to think of leaving their families, under the circumstances. The newspapers which have published the reports of plenty for everybody here have a great deal to answer for. I am quite positive I could go out now and bring in a stock of provisions that would net me a fortune without any doubt whatever, and all I would would have to do would be to encourage people to come in, and when they came in make them pay me my prices or starve. There is no doubt as to which course they would pursue. Just as soon as transportation facilities are afforded, then let the people come, for the country is rich, but until then let them stay out of the country. The schemes resorted to in Dawson for making money are certainly ingenious. One can believe but about one-third of what he is told. In spite of the wealth of this country, let no one think that gold is rolling up and down the rivers. It is only got after a great deal of hard labour and endless worry and against a thousand chances. About one in twenty will strike anything at all, and one perhaps in a hundred will make a small fortune. I am quite sure that if I could return east now, I could come back to this country and with every prospect of making a fortune, simply because I am somewhat familiar with the conditions and know how it can be made, and much more quickly and easily than operating a gold mine. But, of course, I cannot do it, and can only stand by and watch the few make money and the many make themselves miserable.

A TALK ON TEA, YES, EVERYBODY READ IT.

A lady from a village near Peterborough called on us last week and said that she wanted to get some of that fine tea that she had seen advertised in the "DAILY EXAMINER" and sold at the People's Price Tea Store, 393 George street. After critically examining the tea she made a purchase of a quantity and promised to send her friends to buy from us, as she said our tea was clean, beautiful and bright—no dust, no mixing or doctoring—the grades are the very best. Another lady in town says that her mother will not have tea from any other store than ours. She buys the very best Ceylon Tea which cannot be excelled in strength and purity. Another gentleman says what on earth do you do with the large quantity of teas that I see at your establishment. Some of the large chests of Ceylons must be valuable and come up to money; yes, they do but the people soon buy them up. You have a large stock of Canned Goods which would be a credit to any store in town; yes we have, and we are selling 3 for 25c. A prominent party in town offered to take the lot and give us a cheque for the amount, but we promised to give the working people the benefit of this bargain and we are doing it. We have a fine assorted stock of choice Groceries, Teas, Sugars, Spices, Canned Goods, Butter, Lard, and our own raising of Pickled, Smoked Salted Hams and Bacon, completely eclipsing anything on the market. We do not destroy the meat with salt or saltpetre, but cure them on the very best methods which are a secret to ourselves. Our own home made Pickles at 10c per bottle, our own Jams, Jellies—pure articles and at prices to suit all. MR. JENNINGS' REPORT

Proposed Routes for Yukon Roads and Railways.

SOME NOTES ON THE COUNTRY.

The Navigation of the Stikine River—The Route by Teslin Lake—An Estimate of the Cost of Building a Railway in That Country—Moderately Easy Route for the All-Canadian Line.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—(Special.)—Yukon, Stikine and Klondike are the names which one hears continuously in the halls of Parliament. Not a day passes but a new phase of this important question crops up. To-day Mr. Jennings' report on the Stikine-Teslin Railway was presented to Parliament and immediately ordered to be printed, so keen are members to know everything about this district.

There was issued from the Department of Customs an important memorandum in regard to the entry of goods into the Yukon district. On this point the Government has adopted the United States laws, so that our neighbors will not be able to find fault. Summed up in brief, the new instructions provide that goods purchased in Canada, destined for the Klondike district, must be carried in British bottoms, otherwise full duty must be paid upon them. This is a regulation which Conservatives will approve.

MR. JENNINGS' REPORT.

Number of Miles and Cost Per Mile, According to His Estimate.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—(Special.)—Mr. Jennings submits two reports, the first or interim one being dated Dec. 15, 1897, and the second or complete report dated Jan. 11. He speaks first of the Stikine River itself, which he says is navigable for powerful steamers of suitable design for 150 miles from the sea between 1st May and 20th October. There are two dangerous points, however, in the river, namely, at Little Canyon and Klootchman Canyon, respectively 96 and 100 miles from the sea. In very high water there is great danger to vessels passing these points, as the wheels and rudders of the steamers are liable to be broken by driftwood. If, therefore, anything goes wrong with the machinery of a vessel she is liable to be driven against the rocks by the swirling waters, and if a hole is knocked in her hull she is liable to go down. The first 50 miles from the sea is good water, not exceeding three miles an hour. Above this point the current is swifter.

Mr. Jennings says: The river has got a bad name hitherto owing to the poor class of vessels which has been employed. It will take a powerful steamer one day to mencing at a point near Little Canyon, on another day to reach Glenora or Telegraph Creek.

Dealing with the proposed railway, Mr. Jennings suggests two different routes. The best route in his judgment is that commencing at a point near Little Canyon, on the left bank of the Stikine River. This would necessitate the crossing of the Stikine further up, but Mr. Jennings thinks it preferable to pay for the cost of a bridge over the river, rather than build the railway on the right bank and run the risk of the track being continuously injured by snow slides from the lofty mountains. Mr. Jennings divides construction work into three diferent classes. The light work he figures out as likely to cost on the average $13,000; the medium at $22,000, and the heavy at $36,000 per mile. His total estimate of the cost is given approximately at $4,000,000, that portion on the Stikine River below the crossing, and including the bridge, costing $740,000 off the total amount.

Mr. Jennings assumes that the Stikine-Teslin Railway would be an electric one, and for the total length of 155 miles he gives the approximate cost as $2,830,000, this including power stations, cars, construction, engines, wire, and everything of that nature. Assuming that the railway would be in operation for six months, he puts the cost of operating it at $55,000 and charges to interest and depreciation account at 10 per cent on the whole sum, $283,000, or a total annual cost or operating of $340,000. He estimates that with three steamers plying on the Stikine, bringing on an average 100 prospectors per day for four months, or 12,000 passengers, the rate paid by these passengers on the railway, 165 miles of rail haul, at 5c per mile, $8.25 each, would give a revenue of $99,000. Three-quarters of a ton of freight for each man, 9000 tons in all, at $50 per ton, equals $450,000, or a total revenue of $549,000. Deducting from this amount the expenses as mentioned above, Mr. Jennings figures that the yearly profit will be $282,000.

It should be stated from the announcements made in the House that it is evident that the Government has discarded the proposed 300-mile section along the Stikine River, as the distance mentioned in the contract with McKenzie and Mann, places the total mileage at about 150 miles. Mr. Jennings classifies the 300-mile river section as medium work, which can be built for $22,000 per mile. The bridge over the river would cost $80,000; docks, sidings and freight houses he puts at $40000, or a total of $740,000.

On the section from the Stikine to Teslin Lake, whether commencing at Glenora, Telegraph Creek or Clearwater Creek, 125 miles are classed as light work at $13,000 per mile, or $1,625,000; 30 miles are put down as heavy work at $36,000 per mile, or $1,080,000; 23 miles are set down as medium at $22,000, equal to $506,000. Adding the 30 miles along the river, the total thus given is 208 miles, at an average for the whole work of $19,000 per mile, or $3,957,000. Mr. Jennings says that a wagon road could be constructed over the route for $1400 per mile, and a trail at an average cost varying from $100 to $250 per mile, according to its completeness and capacity to stand the wear and tear incident to a large amount of travel.

It should be stated Mr. Jennings mentions that a sum of $3000 could be advantageously spent in removing snags and boulders from the Stikine, and in placing permanent cables for use in the heavy water above Little Canyon. He mentions the fact also that at times the water in the river is too low for speed when the steamer has a reasonable cargo. The water, from all the information he could gather, fluctuates very much.

Referring to Teslin Lake, the report states that the lake was open on the 18th of May last year, and was frozen over on the 27th of October. It abounds in fish of various kinds, pike, trout, etc. There is plenty of game in the district, including moose, caribou, bears, foxes, etc. Indians have hunted through the district for years, but the fur trade has gone entirely to the Americans. Teslin Lake is 60¼ miles long, wile the distance from the foot of the lake to Lewes River is 120¼ miles.

Considerable information is given in Mr. Jennings' report of the other prospective railway routes, commencing in American territory and running into the Yukon country, the information having been obtained from Mr. Ogilvie, Mr. McArthur and other surveyors.

For a railway from Pyramid Harbor over the Chilcoot Pass, via Nordenskjold River, to the Yukon (the route generally known as Dalton's trail), a distance of 245 miles, Mr. Jennings estimates a single track railway can be built and equipped at an approximate cost of $5,635,000, or say, $23,000 per mile. The highest attitude on this route is 2200 feet. For a railway over the Chilcoot Pass, from Dyea to Tagish Lake, and thence to Hootalinqua River in Canada, a distance of 111 miles, the estimated cost in $27,318 per mile, or a total of $3,030,000. The highest altitude of this railway would be 3562 feet above sea level.

For a railway from Skaguay over the White Pass to Tagish Lake, thence to Hootalinqua River, a distance of 123 miles, the estimated cost is $26,309 per mile, or a total of $3,236,000. The highest altitude of this route would be 2600.

For a railway from Taku Inlet to Nakinak River and to Teslin Lake, 145 miles, the estimated cost is $24,034 per mile, or a total of $3,485,000.

Mr. Jennings mentions that Taku Inlet, however, is regarded as unsafe for navigators, owing to the very high winds and consequent rough water, and considerable trouble is experienced with ice from the glaciers. The inlet is open from May to October. A distance of about 23 miles up the inlet would have to be covered to reach Canadian territory, but if the line were built to the sea coast it could be operated all the year round. He mentions that a wagon road could be built for $1200 to $1500 per mile, and a trail from $100 to $200 per mile. Food for pack animals is scarce until the summit is reached. Beyond the summit to Teslin Lake, however, it is plentiful.

THE CUSTOMS REGULATIONS.

Information Which Intending Klondikers Will be Glad to Obtain.

The new Customs regulations, which are of the utmost interest to all Canadians who are going to the Klondike, read as follows:

Re-entry of goods into Yukon district and Stikine—The following instructions are issued for the information of collectors of customs and other persons concerned:

1—Goods purchased in Canada, duty paid, or the produce of Canada, may be admitted into the Yukon district or Stikine free of duty when the transportation of such goods by water from any port in British Columbia, direct via a foreign port, is wholly in vessels entitled to participate in the coasting trade of the Dominion of Canada; provided, however, that the goods are identified to the satisfaction of the customs officer at the port of entry in the Yukon or Stikine, and that the regulations and conditions prescribed for the transportation of the goods from ports in British Columbia are duly observed.

2—Except as above provided, all goods arriving in the Yukon district or Stikine from or through Alaska or via the Yukon or Stikine Rivers will be treated, as to liability to duty, as ordinary importations.

3—Goods imported into the Klondike region, Yukon district or Stikine are subject to the same duty and exemptions as if imported into any other part of Canada, and duties are to be levied under the provisions of sections 58 and 5 of the Customs Act as to market values of goods at the time and place whence exported directly to Canada.

4—Wearing apparel, articles of personal adornment, toilet articles and similar personal effects of persons arriving in Canada may be passed free without entry at customs, as travelers' baggage, under the provisions of the customs tariff, but this provision shall only include such articles as actually accompany and are in the use of and as are necessary and appropriate for the wear and use of such persons for the immediate purpose of the journey, and present comfort and convenience, and shall not be held to apply to merchandise or articles intended for other persons, or for sale.

5—Goods purchased in Canada, duty paid, or the produce of Canada, admitted free of duty into the Yukon district or Stikine, shall be subject to the following regulations and conditions for the transportation thereof, from ports in British Columbia: (a) A manifest or invoice containing a description of the goods and their value, with the numbers and marks of the packages, shall be presented to the customs officer at the Canadian frontier port in the Yukon district or Stikine; (b) the certificate of a Canadian customs officer is required to be endorsed on the manifest or invoice, to the effect that the goods described therein have been "shipped duty free from a port in British Columbia; (c) customs officers shall not grant the certificate above mentioned when the shipment from a port in British Columbia is not made by a vessel entitled to engage in the Canadian coasting trade; (d) the said certificate may be signed by special officers of the Canadian customs when stationed at Dyea, Skaguay or Wrangel, but in all such cases the transfer from the importing vessel must be made in the presence of such officer, who must satisfy himself by an inspection of the vessel's manifest and clearance that the goods have not been exported from British Columbia in bond; (e) the certificate of a Canadian customs officer (if any) stationed at Wrangel may be accepted as to the origin and exemption from duty of goods shipped from ports in British Columbia, in transit via Wrangel to the Stikine, when transferred at Wrangel to a river steamer in the presence of a Canadian customs officer.

6—The following regulations issued by the United States Treasury Department are appended hereto, viz: Circular 23, being regulations governing the entry and transportation of merchandise destined for the Klondike region and northwest territory of British Columbia, via the United States sub-ports of Juneau, Dyea and Skaguay, or other customs port in Alaska:

Circular 24, being regulations concerning the navigation of the Yukon and Porcupine Rivers and their tributaries.

7—It may be advisable for parties purchasing goods in Canada for the Yukon district to provide themselves with invoices in duplicate, their attention being directed to the following requirement of the United States Customs regulations in regard to goods passing in transit through Alaska via Dyea or Skaguay:

"Sec. 3—A manifest, and duplicate copy of the entry, containing a description of the merchandise, with the numbers and marks of the packages, shall be presented to the collector at the sub-port at which entry is made, and said manifest and entry, after being duly certified, shall accompany the merchandise on its route through United States territory and shall be delivered with the duplicate copy of the entry to the deputy collector at the frontier for verification by comparison with the merchandise covered thereby."

"For three years I was subject to poor spells. I always felt tired, could not sleep at night and the little I could eat did not do me any good. One day I happened to be looking over some testimonial letters and I thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before I had taken two bottles I began to feel better and in a short time I felt finely and had gained 21 pounds in weight. I have taken nearly five bottles and now I feel like a man again. I am

IN A NUTSHELL.

The Whitneyites, says the Hamilton Times, profess to regard the sums voted as aid to railways as constituting an enormous debt, variously stated, according to the recklessness of the organ, at $5,000,000 to $10,000,000. What are the facts? The aid voted, and to be spread over 40 years, is $2,769,358. The reader may form his own opinion of the character of the men on newspapers which magnify this into a debt of five to ten millions. The Government has evolved and put into use a scheme of selling annuities realizing to the purchasers about 3 per cent. It gets 5 per cent. on its investments. The purchase money of the annuities pays the railway subsidies as they fall due, and by the time the accounts are squared the Government's profit on the interest pays off the annuities and leaves the Government's capital untouched. The Tory cry, "Why sell annuities if you have a surplus?" is a very absurd one. Why should a man sell securities bringing him 5 per cent. when he can get money at 3 per cent., thus making 2 per cent. profit, a rate that in forty years will amount to the original capital?

Blacks That are Blacks.

Three Favourites of the Diamond Dyes.

The Diamond Dye Blacks are scientific successes that are everywhere appreciated by the ladies.

Diamond Dye Fast Black for Wool stands ahead of all other wool dyes for fulness, richness and depth of colour. All wool goods when they have become rusty and soiled can be restored to a deep jet black, equal to the best French blacks, and fitted for long years of wear.

Diamond Dye Fast Black for Cotton and Mixed Goods is the only black in the world for dyeing cotton and all mixed fabrics. It gives a permanent and never fading colour.

Diamond Dye Fast Black for Silk and Feathers is a triumph of the chemical art, and has surprised the world. All silk goods and feathers that are faded, spotted and soiled can be dyed a lovely jet black with this special dye, making old things look equal to new goods.

The Diamond Blacks are the best in the world. Ask for them and refuse all imitations and poor makes.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The Pacific Coast Province Legislature Pledges Support to an "All-Canadian" Railway to the Yukon.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 12.—The British Columbia Legislature was opened yesterday in the new Parliament Buildings. There was not sufficient room to accommodate the large crowd that wished to attend the opening ceremonies. Congratulatory telegrams were read from the Governor-General and Lady Aberdeen, and also a message of regret at not being able to attend.

In the Speech from the Throne the Government pledge themselves to introduce a measure to assist in providing an all-Canadian route to the Yukon and to secure the construction of a railway from Victoria to the mining camps at Kootenay. The House adjourned until Monday.

Notes From Dawson City.

Vancouver, Feb. 12.—There are seven arrivals from Dawson. The latest, W. Kenney, left on Jan. 12. Dawson is now deserted, all the miners being at work on their claims.

A report reached Juneau just before the Topeka left that five men were frozen to death on the summit of Chilkoot, but no names are obtainable.

Another report had it that E. O. Sylvester, merchant, of Alaska, was accidentally shot in the leg.

Ed. Fay, the murderer of McGrath and Rowan, is lodged in Sitka Jail.

Two more Klondike steamers left for the North last night. They were the City of Seattle and the Cleveland. The Seattle had 585 passengers. She had to absolutely decline to take up 240 dogs for the Pierre Humbert party.

It is noted that most Klondikers now prefer to travel via Wrangel, as McKenzie and Mann intend to start a road from there immediately. The Seattle had to refuse to take any of Mann's horses, men or outfits, for want of space.

The Cleveland had 956 tons of freight and 196 passengers. She took up machinery for the Stikine Railway, but no men for the line.

The days are very dark during the winter months, there being light only between 11 and 1.30 o'clock each day. Nothing can be bought in the stores there. A friend of Behnsen, named Heely, recently secured a ton of potatoes for $9,000.

STRIFE AND BLOODSHED

Have Followed Fast Upon the Death of President Barrios of Guatemala.

San Francisco, Feb. 12.—A despatch from San Jose de Gautemala says civil strife and bloodshed have followed the killing of Barrios.

Before the body of the late ruler had found sepulchre the factions were flying at each other's throats, and as a result General Marroquin, the chief supporter of Prospero Morales, one of the aspirants to the Presidency, is dead and his forces are seeking safety in flight. It was last night that General Marroquin attempted to seize the reins of government in behalf of Morales. He made an attack on the palace barracks.

The assault was vigorously resisted, and in the fighting General Marroquin and a few others were killed. Seeing that their efforts would not prove successful the attacking forces, consisting of 2,000 men headed by General Majerca and Colonel Arrevalo, fled from the city.

Yesterday General Toledo, who has been appointed Minister of War by Manuel Estrada Cabrera, the President pro tem. of the republic, ordered the artillery in pursuit of the fleeing revolutionists. The populace and soldiers demand that General Mendizabel be proclaimed President. The situation is becoming complicated and the crisis is acute.

Customs Officers for Alaska.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—The Department of Customs has decided to send two officers to Skaguay and Dyea to furnish information to Canadians going through to the Yukon by that route, and to assist in carrying out the customs regulations there as they relate to British subjects or parties who desire to convey goods in bond across the narrow strip of diputed territory.

His Mind Unhinged.

Vancouver, Feb. 11.—The steamer Empress of China arrived last night from Yokohama. On board was a Methodist missionary named Rev. G. Robinson, who comes from Sault Ste Marie, and suffers from the delusion that his soul is eternally damned. Mr. Robinson has been itinerating up the rivers and working in Shanghai. He will be sent to friends in Toronto.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Win Yet Another Championship.

Dresden, Feb. 7—The report of the wonderfulcase of J. M. McDonald, of Windsor, has reached Dresden and causes universal and interested comment.

The power of Dodd's Kidney Pills has for some time past been universally admitted in this town, for we have had absolutely convincing proof of it.

Mr. W. G. Cragg, a prominent merchant and ex-reeve of Dresden, was for eight years a sufferer from Inflammatory Rheumatism, aggravated by Gout. Our most skilful doctors failed to relieve him, and not till he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills did he find a cure. Six boxes cured him completely. PERMANENTLY CURED.

A STORY TOLD BY A JUSTICE OF THE PEACE.

Attacked With La Grippe which Left him Weak and Worn Out—Kidney Trouble Added its Complications and the Sufferer was Discouraged.

From the Journal, Summerside, P.E.I.

One of the best known men around Bedique and vicinity is Mr. Alfred Scharman, who has recently removed to North Carleton. Mr. Scharman was born in Bedique about seventy years ago. Some twenty-five years ago he was sworn in as justice of the peace, and about twenty-one years ago he was appointed clerk of the county court, in both of which offices he has given every satisfaction. Mr. Scharman was also a farmer on a large scale and like most men engaged in that occupation led a busy life, being compelled to attend strictly to business, but less than a year ago he retired from farming and is now living in a cosy cottage in North Carleton. Before his retirement work, such as only a man engaged in that occupation knows anything about, claimed his attention. His increasing years made the burden heavier, and the spring work of 1893 wore him completely out. This is what he tells about and how he was cured, "In the spring of 1893 the constant toil and drudgery connected with the work of farming wore me out completely, and the breakdown was the more complete because the results were coupled with the bad effects left by an attack of la grippe. One of the results of la grippe was a nasty cough, another was the complete loss of appetite. My spirits were greatly depressed and I felt that I had lived out my days. I always felt cold, and consequently the stove and I were great friends, but the cold effected more especially my feet and caused me great annoyance. Added to this complication was a serious kidney trouble which threatened to prove the worst enemy of all. I was unable to do any work, had no ambition and less strength, and was not a bit the better of all the doctor's medicine I had taken. It was my wife who advised me at last to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I bought six boxes and began taking them. My hope revived because a change for the better was soon taking place, and before they were done I was cured. The six boxes brought back my appetite, strength and ambition, in short, all that I had lost in the way of strength and health. The next spring however my health again gave way and I immediately began using the Pink Pills again and I am happy to say that they effected that time a permanent cure and to-day I am well and hearty as if I were only forty. I strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all who are suffering as I was.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure by going to the root of the disease. They renew and build up the blood, and strengthen the nerves, thus driving disease from the system. Avoid imitations by insisting that every box you purchase is enclosed in a wrapping bearing the full trade mark, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

Picked Up $50,000 in a Day.

Vancouver, B. C., Feb. 11. — Fritz Behnson of Victoria, B.C., writes his brother Karl: "We have struck it rich in an unknown creek across the border, never before seen by man. In the crevices of the rock in one day we picked up $50,000 in coarse gold. Sell your business, or give it away, and come quick, with ten men."

The Behnsons have large business interests here and are thoroughly reliable. The news spread like wildfire, and a stampede to the United States side will result as soon as the locality is located.

Men and medicines are judged by what they do. The great cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla give it a good name everywhere.

Undoubted Evidence

Gentlemen,—I am pleased to recommend your Laxa-Liver Pills for constipation, dyspepsia and sick headache. I have used them for those troubles, and find them a pleasant, sure and quick cure, free from the annoyance griping of other pills I have heretofore used.

GREAT BRITAIN AND COLONIES.

Preferential Tariff Reduction to Be Confined to Them Alone.

CHANGE TO BE MADE AUGUST 1.

Senator Scott's Announcement of This Important Tariff Fact—A Strong Defence of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Course in England—The Premier's Course the Only One to Be Taken.

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—In the Senate yesterday Senator Scott, on behalf of the Government, made the important statement that after the 1st of August next the tariff will be so arranged that only goods from Great Britain and such British colonies as are entitled to the concession shall come in under the minimum tariff. This will make the Canadian tariff a preferential one within the empire only. It was anticipated that the announcement to this effect would be deferred till the Minister of Finance made his budget speech, later in the session, but in answering a series of questions by Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Senator Scott made the announcement, which is of the utmost importance to the merchants and manufacturers as well as to the consumers of the Dominion. In the course of the debate on the address Senator Scott said there was not a word of truth in the charge that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had sacrificed the welfare of Canada by his course in England in giving away the last chance this country had of securing preferential trade within the empire from the mother country. He maintained that had the Premier taken any other course than the one he did he would have failed in securing the denunciation of the German and Belgian treaties. He reviewed the history of preferential trade, and quoted the resolutions proposed and passed and the speech made by Mr. Chamberlain at the Congress of the British Chambers of Commerce held in London in 1896, to show that the Imperial Government never would have adopted the principle of preferential trade. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, he said, had captured the sentiment of the English people by going to them with a tariff which gave English trade a preference in Canadian markets and asking for no return. It was the gratitude of the English people for this patriotic action of the Canadian Government which resulted in the denunciation of the German and Belgian treaties. The result, continued Senator Scott, will be just as we foresaw, that on the 1st of August next Great Britain will be the only country that will enjoy that preference in our markets.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell—Not unless you change your law.

Senator Scott—We propose with the approval of Parliament to bring about that result. The course followed by the Government was the only one by which that could be accomplished.

Senator Macdonald (B.C.)—Will the proposed change in the tariff block out the favored-nation clause with regard to China and Japan?

Senator Scott—Yes; the countries which come under the favored-nation clause in the German and Belgian treaties secured the same advantages in our markets as we gave to the mother country. If we remove that privilege from Germany and Belgium by denouncing the treaties, then no other countries can come in, except those that have rights by our own treaties under Act of Parliament.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell—In making this change in the tariff, you will apply it to the British colonies as well as to Great Britain?

Senator Scott—It is intended that they shall come in as New South Wales does. That is my opinion. Of course I cannot foreshadow what the change will be, but there will be an opening for the British colonies to come in certainly. So the hon. gentleman will see, I hope before this Parliament rises, that we shall succeed in placing Great Britain and the colonies in the position that we all along hoped they would occupy.

Senator Boulton—The free trade basis?

Senator Scott—No. It will be under the reduction of 25 per cent. in the tariff for the present.

Senator Boulton—Do you call that preference?

Senator Scott—It is a preference over every other country.

Senator Mills—It is a march towards free trade.

Senator Scott—I am just as strong a free trader as anyone, but I do not think it would be the act of a prudent statesman to precipitate this country into absolute destruction.

Senator Boulton—That was not your opinion three years ago.

Senator Scott—It was always my opinion. I hope some day or other to see the transition, but it certainly cannot be a rapid one. It would be monstrous not to consider interests which have grown up under the sanction of Parliament.

IN THE COMMONS.

The Debate on the Address in Reply to the Speech Concluded in the Popular Chamber.

In the Commons, the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, which has been so unduly protracted as to become somewhat tedious, was brought to a conclusion early last evening, after an outpouring of patriotic eloquence by Mr. Bergeron, the member for Beauharnois. Before arriving at his peroration Mr. Bergeron declared against the plebiscite and prohibition, and he also made an effort to resurrect the dry bones of the Manitoba school question. He did not succeed, however, in arousing any enthusiasm on the latter subject. A feature of the day was the reply of Mr. McMullen to the criticism and assertions of Opposition speakers. The member for North Wellington, who has for years kept a close watch upon civil service matters, brought in a bill to prevent officials from receiving money from more than one source.

Mr. Campbell introduced a bill to amend the Railway Act. He explained that it provided for the crossing of railways by drains, and also for the protection of farmers living along the different lines of railway from fires originating on the railways, the cause of great damage to property. The difficulty of getting drains across or under a railway line had caused great damage to the farmers of Western Ontario. He proposed at a later stage to have his bill amalgamated with that introduced by Mr. Casey for the same purpose.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper called attention to the press despatch dealing with Senator Frye's report to the United States Senate Committee on Ways and Means on the new coasting regulations bill, which includes in its operation the Yukon country.

Mr. Davin read an advertisement from the Chicago Record, setting forth the claims of the Klondike-Yukon and Copper River Company, a co-operative concern which claimed to have a lease of 50 miles from the Dominion Government in the Klondike, Yukon and other rivers for dredging. He asked Mr. Sifton if such a lease had been granted. The Minister of the Interior replied that of the company named he knew no more than Mr. Davin. The regulations covering leases for dredging had been published, and if any such leases as those mentioned had been granted it was in the usual way. He promised to bring down a list of the leases granted. Mr. Sifton also submitted copies of Mr. Jennings' report on the Yukon Railway routes.

Customs Officers to Be Sent at Once.

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—Instructions have been sent to Collector Milne at Victoria to despatch officers to Dyea and Skaguay to facilitate transit of Canadian goods by that route to Yukon and to afford such information and instructions as will prevent friction as far as possible.

Notes.

Mr. Parmelee gives notice of a bill to prohibit improper speculation in the sale of butter and cheese.

Mr. Richardson will introduce a bill to amend the Railway Act, with respect to the shipment of grain.

The Governor-General has appointed three new honorary aide-de-camps, Lieut.-Col. Hodgins of Ottawa Guards, Lieut.-Col. Drury of R. C. Artillery, and Major Evans of R. C. Dragoons, Winnipeg.

A militia order decrees that the drill instruction allowance will be paid hereafter on the 30th of June instead of at the end of each half year.

The November regulations creating an exclusively gentleman's officers' class, so far as first appointments are concerned, are so drastic that they have been postponed until July 1, presumably that some appointments may be made in the meantime.

Mr. Mills told the Senate yesterday that he had word that Messrs Peterson, Tait & Co would likely be able to float their fast Atlantic scheme.

It has been officially stated that the Government of the Yukon, until new legislation is passed, is in the hands of the Northwest Territories.

OF INTEREST TO MEN

The attention of the reader is called to an attractive little book lately published by that eminent Expert Specialist, G. H. Roberts, M. D., 253 Woodward Ave Detroit, Mich. This book is one of genuine interest to every man and its plain and honest advice will certainly be of the greatest value to any one desirous of securing the perfect health and vigour. A request for a free and sealed copy will be complied with, if addressed as above and the Peterborough EXAMINER mentioned.

A Throbbing Heart

Is caused by wrong action of the heart, and can only be cured by correcting and regulating its working. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills do this. Here is the proof: Mr. John Griffin, St. Lawrence Hotel, Montreal, says: "They cured me of nervous, throbbing heart beat, dizziness and constant headache. My heart beats as steady as a clock now."

Mrs. T. S. Hawkins, Chattanooga, Tenn. says: "Shiloh's Vitalizer saved my life. I consider it the best remedy for a debilitated system I ever used." For Dyspepsia, Liver and Kidney trouble it excels. Price 75 cts.

Anxious Mothers find Dr. Low's worm syrup the best medicine to expel worms. Children like it—worms don't.

Miraculous Results.

A SUFFERER FOR 35 YEARS CURED BY PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND.

A Terrible Case of Dyspepsia is Overcome by the Great Compound.

Had Failure After Failure With Other Medicines.

Mr. Budd says:

"From a Condition of Helplessness I Am Now Well and Strong."

Now Life and Health Await All Who Use Paine's Celery Compound.

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.

GENTLEMEN,—For the benefit of sufferers I gladly give my experience with Paine's Celery Compound. After suffering from Dyspepsia for thirty-five years, and meeting with many failures with other medicines, I decided to use Paine's Celery Compound, having heard of so many cures effected by it. The Compound, after I used it for a time, produced miraculous results and banished my troubles.

From a condition of helplessness—being unable to sleep or eat—I now feel well and strong. I am astonished at the results, as my trouble was an old and chronic one. I have recommended Paine's Celery Compound to some of my neighbours, and in every case it has given satisfaction. I will always strongly recommend its use when I have opportunity.

Yours respectfully,

To Resign Was the Correct Thing.

London, Feb. 11.—The St. James' Gazette said yesterday afternoon: "Senor de Lome has resigned, and it was the right course, whether he wrote or did not write the letter, but the incident is bound to make unpleasantness between the two governments, and add to the chances of trouble about Cuba, which are by no means so few as certain authorities profess to believe."

De Lome's Possible Successor.

Madrid, Feb. 11.—The papers all discuss the De Lome incident and the possible successor of the retiring Minister at Washington. La Correspondencia de Espana mentions Senor Murruaga, but says it is believed that nothing has as yet been decided.

THE ONLY HOPE!

For Victims of Bright's Disease is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Not a day passes on which the newspapers do not record the death of one or more persons from Bright's Disease. Already its victims number hundreds of thousands. Day by day the awful total grows larger. No class is safe from this destroyer.

War and intemperance, with all their miseries and fatalities, are not responsible for as many deaths as have been caused by Bright's Disease. Yet, there is a way of resisting it; of drawing its poisoned fangs, and making it as harmless as a summer breeze. That great medicine, Dodd's Kidney Pills, has cured thousands of the worst cases. It never fails to cure, hopeless as the case may seem.

Cracking The Acorns and Blotting Out Prices

These are the days in which people are buying where they can buy cheap. They don't care a fig for commercial ethics. They dote on Bargains. Cheapness captivates them. When once the people are convinced that a store really sells GOOD GOODS CHEAP their patronage is secured. If its prices are at cost, well and good; if below cost, so much the better.

Blotting Out Oak Hall Prices

and writing them down to a fraction of their former selves, is what we are busy doing every day with the Oak Hall Stock. These altered prices speak for themselves. All the price tickets show that Oak Hall Prices are back numbers, although the Clothing is UP-TO-DATE.

THE THIRD WEEK of Gough's TRIUMPHANT Sale of the Oak Hall Stock shall be a Banner Week, with inducements greater than ever.

PRICES HAVE BEEN SHORN TO THE SCALP

Everything in the store is for sale except the proprietors and clerks. With Gough Bros. the love of doing business is as great a the love of money.

THE TALE OF THE TILL!

Since we adopted the Spot Cash System, the cash is flowing more freely into the till. Our most esteemed patrons commend our new plan heartily, as they note the substantial results in still further Reduced Prices. But the best prized ecomiums come from new patrons—people specially particular about qualities, and who buy whenever they can buy the cheapest. "CASH AND ONE PRICE" (if that price is the lowest) is the drawing fashion of modern trade.

What is the Secret of Gough Bros'. Great Success With Their Oak Hall Stock?

Because They Have Got the Oak Hall Stock at 62½ Cents on the Dollar, and the Sandford Company's Goods are Always Quoted at a Premium.

SHEDS COLLAPSED.

In the Commercial Hotel Yards This Morning—Small Damage.

This morning that portion of the sheds of the Commercial Hotel located in the south-east corner of the yards suddenly collapsed owing to the weight of snow on the roof, which had become very heavy through becoming water soaked with the rain, which fell all night.

Fortunately the collapse took place at an early hour before any teams from the country had been stabled there. As the sheds are well patronized on market days the loss might have been heavy if the accident had occurred a couple of hours later.

A SEVERE ACCIDENT.

A Little Daughter of Mr. I. Elliott of Smith, Badly Cut.

On Tuesday afternoon last, the five year old daughter of Mr. I. Elliott, of the 12th concession of Smith, near Selwyn, met with a severe accident. It appears the little girl was playing on a wood pile in the shed, when she fell out of the door on top of a scythe which was leaning against the building. She struck the scythe with her face, which laid open her left cheek from the nose down, and cut into the bridge of the nose. Dr. D. Fraser, of Lakefield, was called, and had to administer chloroform in order to sew up the wound which took seven or eight stitches. The little one is progressing very favorably, but the wound will leave quite a scar.

KLONDYKE OUTFITS.

An Interesting Boom in Mining Clothing and Complete Regulation Equipments for the Klondyke, at Gough Bros.

Ever alert to the demands of the times, the wide-awake firm of Gough Bros. have been making a study of the best outfits for the Klondyke gold fields, and have employed during the past few weeks, the services of experts in the business to make a critical examination of the most reliable goods in the market. After careful investigation, they have arranged to supply any number of outfits of prospectors' suits, overcoats, underwear, boots, caps, hoods, sleeping beds, etc., which can be seen at their store on George street in all their Arctic-comfort glory. Nothing but the best quality of goods which practical men could recommend have been selected. Among the different samples shown are the following:

The "Caribou" sleeping bag is a rubber-lined bag, full man's size, all ready to tuck into, safe from the frigid terrors of an Alaska night.

The "Arctic" sleeping bag is an oilcloth outfit, proof alike against flood and frost.

The "Chilkoot" sleeping bag is a waterproof duck outfit, which possesses the advantage of lightness and durability, but without lessening the amount of warmth and comfort.

The "Klondyke" Suit is made of heavy English corduroy, specially close-woven, and are in brown and drab colours, and tweed lined.

The "Mackinaw" Suit is made of Karsh's waterproof, the best and most highly recommended for the purpose.

Underwear made of heavy 24-ounce material, and hand-knit. Miner's belts, in leather and rubber, and Arctic socks.

The "Caribou" cap is a picturesque piece of head gear, made of coon fur, with adjustable ear lugs and peak. Red River hoods and face and ear protectors are formidable looking shields.

The "Yukonite" mining boot is soft tanned, waterproof and laced clean to 15 inch top, with waterproof bellows tongue and horse-hide soles.

An examination of the different parts of these outfits will prove very interesting to travellers going to the Klondyke.

Messrs. Gough Bros. have also shown another instance of their resource and ingenuity in window dressing by putting in a Klondyke window. In the centre of the large central plate glass show window is shown a prospector's tent which has been erected and furnished inside a la Klondyke miner. Here and there are to be seen glittering gold nuggets as they are turned up from the miner's hand and exposed in careless recklessness in broad daylight. Miners' spades, picks, shovels, revolvers, knives, and other indispensible articles that compose the miner's kit are all displayed to the public gaze. Go and see it to-night.

AN ARMENIAN ARRESTED.

A Woman Pedlar has No License and her Goods are Seized to Pay her Fine.

Last evening an Armenian woman was arrested, charged with selling goods without a license, and a fine of $20 and costs was imposed. As the woman had not sufficient money to pay her fine, her pack was seized.

The above bare statement of facts makes the action of the authorities appear rather inhuman, but this aspect of the case is removed when it is known that the women is only one of a hundred who are employed by a big company in Montreal and are flooding the country with their goods to the detriment of the tradesmen who pay rent and taxes in the town.

The women simulate intense ignorance when questioned as to their names, headquarters, etc., but that all are coming from the same place is evidenced by the fact that the outfit carried by all is the same.

Only a day or so ago extensive seizures of Armenian goods were made in Montreal, they having been smuggled across the American frontier and in all probability the goods now under seizure are of the same lot.

Hereafter the path of the Armenian will be a thorny one in Peterborough, as Magistrate Dumble proposes to suppress the selling of goods without a license, with a firm hand.

AN IMPORTANT FINANCIAL CORPORATION.

One feature that adds particular interest to the report of the thirteenth annual meeting of the Toronto Loan and Savings Company, is the fact that the headquarters of the company have been transferred to Peterborough, and we have now, as a Home company, one of the most thriving and best managed institutions of its kind in the province, with its head offices here, and with the personnel of the management consisting of citizens of the town.

Under this condition the Company has operated the past year, and the results have been most gratifying. The business of the company has thriven, as shown by the fact that the assets have shown a substantial increase—of $74,170.48, or from $1,546,359.50 at the end of 1896 to $1,610,529.98, an unmistakeable evidence to the mind of the president, (Hon. Senator Cox), that "in the steadily progressive town of Peterborough, the commercial centre of one of the very best agricultural districts in Canada, there is abundant room for a strong and successful home company, in which the savings of the people may be deposited at a fair rate of interest, and where those who desire to obtain loans may transact their business direct with the head office of the company in the most satisfactory and least expensive manner possible." The report indicates that the business of the company is in a healthy, progressive condition, an evidence of careful and competent management, as must be the case where the great financial abilities and experience of the President are available. The report is interesting in another sense as indicating a return of general prosperity as shown by the improved payments of the obligations of the clients of the company. The remarks of the President are worthy of careful perusal by all persons who are interested in financial matters—those seeking for profitable and sound investment, or those looking for the use of funds on favourable terms.

AN ALARMING CONDITION.

Of a Gananoque Resident—Flesh Fell off From 214 to 143—Abandoned by Physicians—Dr. Agnew's Cure For the Heart Saved His Life.

Four years ago Jacob Dewitts, of Hay Island—near Gananoque—was dragged almost to the verge of death by dreadful heart disease. Remedies failed. Physicians failed. He was given up to die. From vigorous manhood he had gone to a broken despondent wreck. He procured Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart, used it faithfully, and to-day he weighs 218 pounds and lives to bless the day the great remedy was recommended to him. Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

The Death of Mrs. Francis Pethick in Port Huron on Thursday.

A telegram was received last night by Mr. H. Bacon, No. 31 Westcott street, announcing the death of his sister, Mrs. Francis Pethick, in Port Huron, where she had been visiting with her daughter, during the past two months. Mrs. Pethick was the wife of the late Francis E Pethick, a respected farmer of the township of Smith, who died about seven years ago. For some time before her husband's death, Mrs. Pethick had been in delicate health, and after the loss of her husband decided to visit her daughter in Port Huron, where she has been visiting up to the time of her death which took place on Thursday 10th inst. Her remains were brought to Peterborough last evening and interred in the Little Lake Cemetery on Saturday afternoon. The funeral will take place from the residence of her brother, Mr. Henry Bacon, 31 Westcott street. Mrs. Pethick was the daughter of the late Mr. Henry George Bacon, of Muskoka. Two sons and three daughters and a brother and two sisters are left to mourn her loss. Her son, William Pethick, lives on the farm in Smith, the other son, Frank Pethick, resides in Rochester. Her daughters are Mrs. Percy Hunter of Port Huron, Mrs. Scrimmiger of Rochester and Miss Cora Pethick, who was visiting with her mother in Port Huron. Mrs. Elisabeth Emery of Norwood, and Mrs. Louise Wilkins of Michigan are sisters of the deceased.

GRAND MEETING IN THE GRANGE HALL.

A SPLENDID RALLY OF SMITH ELECTORS.

A Large Attendance—Excellent Addresses of Mr. Richard Hall, Mr. Stratton and Dr. Bell—Public Questions Fairly and Fully Discussed—Solid Old Smith True to its Record.

The weather was bad, the roads were bad, yet, in spite of this fact and in spite of counter attractions in the neighbourhood, there was a large attendance of the electors at the Grange Hall, Smith, to listen to a discussion of the public questions of the hour in the interests of the Government candidate in this contest, and the addresses of Messrs. Richard Hall, Mr. Stratton and Dr. Bell were very cordially received.

Mr. Thomas Hall occupied the chair and, as the first speaker, called upon

Mr. Richard Hall, who said this was the first opportunity he had had of thanking the electors of that vicinity for their support in the late Dominion election, and though he was not elected he was well pleased with the general result, for the Government he had fought for was now giving the country the best government it every had enjoyed. (Cheers.) He was glad to be present to speak a word in behalf of Mr. Stratton, who, during his excellent representative career for the past twelve years had impartially looked after every interest of all classes of his constituents. Mr. Hall also showed the hollowness of the charge brought by the Opposition, that the government had "squandered" the resources of the country. They had not squandered the money of the province, but they had spent it in the interests of the people, and he was aware from personal knowledge that the Nicholls Hospital and similar institutions had been liberally assisted by the government which had used the people's money for the people's benefit. He closed by appealing to the electors to cordially support through their candidate, Mr. Stratton, the government of the province, and retain the good government we had so long been favoured with. (Cheers.)

Mr. Stratton

BEGAN HIS ADDRESS

by expressing his pleasure at meeting so large a gathering of the electors of Smith, and suggested that his past record, was open to the electors, and it was for Liberals and Conservatives alike to say, whether or not that record constituted a reason why he should again have their support. And he appealed to them only on his past course as their representative, for he had never appealed to issues that were not of political importance, issues which the liberal-minded of both parties had stamped out on different general election occasions, and the consequence was we had a peaceable community of citizens of all classes and creeds living in neighbourly harmony and free to devote their attention to a consideration of the real public questions that were vital issues in an election campaign. He incidenally referred to the campaign a couple of years previous, when he and others had assured the people that the return of a government that would apply the principles of good government in the interests of the people would have beneficial results, and the consequence had been, as he pointed out, a great revival of industrial and commercial prosperity and improved conditions of the farmer, who had got better prices, not by direct results of legislation, which could not be expected to operate in that manner, but by the adoption of a policy of developing our great natural resources, and creating conditions that made demands upon our industrial establishments, which in turn created a demand for the products of the farms of the country. If he and these associated with him had made assurances in this connection, which had been realized, it was reasonable to ask the electors that they should trust him to deal fairly and openly with them in presenting reasons why the present Government should be sustained. Especially so when his past as a life-long resident of the county, and a representative for twelve years, was known to them all. They knew that he had kept faith with the people, and that he was in a much better position to serve their interests than a comparative stranger, who had no proper knowledge of the wants and needs of the riding. Mr. Stratton then went on to point out that contrary to the assertions of the Opposition, the province had a Provincial auditor who could be dismissed or disciplined by Parliament alone, who was responsible only to the people through their representatives, and that

THERE WAS AMPLE OPPORTUNITY for a scrutiny as close as could be desired, of the Public Accounts. He also expressed the utter falsity of the charge that had been made in regard to the Moore Lumber Company. He also dealt with the timber criticisms of the Opposition, and showed that more of our Crown timber domains had been sold in four or five years of previous governments than had been sold by the Mowat administration for the past twenty-six years, and that taking the supply of timber in sight and at the past rate of cut and destruction by fire, there was timber enough to last a hundred and fifty years, with the timber dues and ground rents coming in afterwards. He also showed that the government had enacted in deference to public opinion and the demands of a section of the lumbermen, that all logs cut on Crown lands should be manufactured in Ontario. Whether this was the best policy or not time would tell. There was a difference of opinion among those best qualified to know. If it resulted in a comparative stagnation in lumber operations it would affect a larger number of labouring men who earned their living by this means, and would correspondingly destroy the market of settlers in the vicinity for the products of their farms. He demanded if the Opposition could show a better system and record of government than the present government had given; that would give greater benefits to the people. The government had liberally expended money but it had been done in the interests of the people. The large sum of $788,000 had been directly returned to the County of Peterborough—a direct lessening of local taxation and the same fair liberal policy had been practised towards the province at large. In the past twenty-six years the government had spent eighty-nine millions of dollars and of this nearly half represented money returned to the people, and sixty-one millions were spent in services that indirectly relieved the municipalities of taxation, a sum nearly three times larger than the revenue from timber in twenty-six years. Mr. Stratton treated in detail the various services upon which large sums had been spent—agriculture, education public institutions, hospitals and charities etc. Yet with all this expenditure, in respect of which there was no charge of a dollar being corruptly spent the Province had a surplus of assets of over five million dollars, or, even if our railway liabilities were deducted, we had left an interest bearing surplus of $2,370,000. The Ontario Government was the only Government known to history that had reduced its expenditure. During the past seven years the expenditure had decreased by some $300,000 00—since 1891. The Province had built all its public buildings out of the current revenue without borrowing a dollar or without a dollar of debt and without a dollar corruptly applied, while other provinces were plunged in debt or had their public buildings erected by the Dominion Government. After exhaustively dealing with the public questions Mr. Stratton closed by submitting that he had presented matters fairly and shown that the Government he supported was worthy of a renewal of confidence, to which he believed Smith would make a larger contribution than ever before. He would do the best he could for the riding. (Loud cheers.)

DR. BELL SPEAKS.

Dr. Bell said it was a pleasure to appear in that place in support of Mr. Stratton. He referred to the charge that the Government of Ontario had become weakened by the retirement of Sir Oliver Mowat. Hon. Mr. Hardy was a strong man and a capable and an able premier as well. He was surrounded by the same cabinet that Sir Oliver Mowat had trained. The Ontario Government was as strong as ever, and more than ever entitled to the support of the people, for every added year of good Government strengthened their claim upon the confidence of the people of the province. Referring to the financial administration, Dr. Bell showed that if the Opposition had had charge of our funds, they would not have been in the satisfactory condition they were now. He also dealt with Eagledue mining arrangement which had been effective in securing what our immense mineral resources demanded, the attention of British capital and, under the arrangement exploration was vigourously being pushed, Canadian labour remuneratively employed and a market furnished for the products of their rich farms in the district which would be largely increased as time went on and development progressed. Dr. Bell concluded a brief but vigorous address by submitting that Mr. Stratton would make the most useful representative the people of West Peterborough could select (loud cheers.)

After a vote of thanks to the chairman and hearty cheers for the Queen, Mr. Stratton and the government the meeting dispersed.

CAMPAIGN COMMENTS.

March 1st, Polling Day.

The day when, according to private advices from Haldimand, the electors will strike for their firesides and their Holmes, and elect the Government candidate by a big majority.

William Lyon Mackenzie fought part of the people's battles in historic Haldimand, which also elected Dr. Baxter, a Government candidate, continuously for twenty-five years.

Senn will be in the past tense after March 1st—Sennt to the right-about.

THE EXAMINER, with a desire to be fair wishes to do justice to Mr. J. Hampden Burnham.

In yesterday's issue it charged him with making a personal attack on Mr. Stratton's private business.

We reprint the paragraph complained of below, only substituting for Mr. Burnham's name that of the real culprit—Mr. Poussette. With the necessary change made the paragraph reads thus:

Mr. A. P. Poussette took occasion at Mr. Garvin's meeting on Wednesday to refer to a business matter, in respect to some recent changes in the Lock Works Company, and used the occasion to again attack Mr. Stratton personally. Mr. Poussette, who was not proud enough of his little stab in the dark to have it reported with the rest of his luminous speech, may desire the community to think that he is a great man and an authority on political, business and professional matters; but, for his own sake, he had better leave the business interests of any company to its shareholders. The less he says about trust funds and financial management the more sense the electors will think he possesses.

THE EXAMINER owes a double apology—to Mr. Burnham for giving him credit for an unfair personal attack which to do him full justice he denounces severely—to Mr. Poussette for even temporarily depriving him of the glory of a little nasty sub-costal stab, so completely in line with his style of political discussion.

The Review, with that good spirit that marks our business relations, has kindly loaned the EXAMINER its poetry machine,

"Mr. Garvin said something (loud laughter and applause.)"

"Mr. Garvin spoke (loud applause.)"

"Mr. Garvin said the province was millions in debt (uproarious applause.)"

Mr. Garvin is a great general; he covers his retreat well, and it's wise in him to practise a little.

In one place and at one time he promises to give colonization road grants to county councils; at another to the municipalities, and at Harvey to the municipalities wherever possible.

It doesn't make a bit of difference what plan he takes—there'll be electric railways and asphalt pavements all over Galway before Mr. Garvin has a chance of spending any colonization road money.

By the way, Stratton's the man for Galway.

Mr. Stapleton went out north to certify that Mr. Garvin was a highly educated man.

That settles it—an unanswerable authority.

Education is a mighty fine thing.

But mere "book-larnin" won't take the place of natural aptitude for affairs.

There have been cases where highly educated and cultured men—professional gentlemen—couldn't earn more than enough to get 1095 meals in a year.

Mr. Stapleton has had his hammer in the air for 25 years shouting on part of the Mowat Government "Going!" "Going!"

He's now supporting Mr. Garvin, and we'll get out the "gone" when his protege slides under the snow on

Mr. C. H. Bradburn speaking for Mr. Garvin at North Monaghan, complained that the Government had not given the franchise to farmers' sons.

What do the farmers think of that as a sample of the teaching you get under Mr. Garvin's "improved system of education." Mr. Bradburn had better stay at school a little longer or learn a little more law.

The report in the Review of Mr. Garvin's visit to Harvey states that he returned to town "fired by new zeal."

He will return to town "fired" by adverse votes on March 1st.

There is too little preaching of the gospel of health. It is the last thing that anyone thinks of teaching, either to a man-child or woman-child. It is one of the most important branches of an education.

Without health, a man will be a business, and a woman a social failure. When the body of either a man or a woman is properly nourished, the result is the enjoyment of good health. Almost all ill-health is due to improper or insufficient nourishment. If the stomach is right and the liver is right, the blood will receive its normal supply of the life-giving elements of the food and the body will be properly nourished. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts directly upon the stomach and liver. It purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder, nerve tonic and restorative. It promotes the natural activity of the entire nutritive organism. It puts an end to the slow starvation that is at the base of many diseases. It does not make flabby fat like cod liver oil, but firm, muscular tissues. It does not make corpulent people more corpulent but builds up the system to the normal standard.

"I was run down with nervous prostration and female weakness and kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Maranda Ramsey, of Smartt, Warren Co., Tenn. "My bowels were constipated. My whole system was wrecked. My friends thought I would die. I had read of Dr. Pierce's medicines and sent for the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Pleasant Pellets.' In one week's time I began to sit up. In two weeks I could sit up all day, after being so bad that I had to be helped in and out of bed. I have taken four bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two of 'Favorite Prescription' and am in better health than I have been for years."

Constipation is the father of all manner of maladies. If it did not exist, or was in all cases promptly relieved, the majority of medical books could be safely destroyed. It is the easiest sickness to neglect and the simplest to cure. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation every time. They cure it promptly, completely and permanently. They never gripe. They don't get you out 'o nights. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists keep nothing else "just as good."

THE PITTSBURG FIRE HORROR.

No More Bodies Have Been Found, But Many People Are Missing.

Pittsburg, Feb. 12. — The work of searching for bodies in the ruins of Wednesday night's fire was continued through last night by two hundred men, but no more were found. The debris is still piled ten feet high, however, and more than a score of people are missing. That more people were killed Fire Chief Humphrey says there can be no doubt. He saw the walls go down in the midst of a mass of humanity huddled together in a small space, and the number of people killed, he says, will be found to be in excess of any estimate yet made. The search for the bodies is attended by great danger, not only from weakened walls but from 125 tanks of anhydrade known to be still in the smouldering ruins. Anhydrade is ammonia in its most powerful state, and its ignition would result in an explosion which would cause incalculable disaster. The firemen are keeping a number of streams constantly playing on this part of the building.

The record of the fire at this time is: Known dead 11, missing 26, injured 18, property loss $1,500,000, insurance about $1,000,000.

CLERK OF RAMSAY.

Mr. James Caskey Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Kidney Diseases Being Driven Out of Lanark County by Dodd's Kidney Pills—Mr. Caskey's Case Illustrates the Hundreds of Cures Made by this Grand Remedy.

ALMONTE, Feb. 11.—Our township clerk, Mr. James Caskey, is one of the strongest and most enthusiastic endorsers of Dodd's Kidney Pills in this district, and there are hundreds of firm friends of that wonderful medicine in Lanark.

Lanark County is one of the strongholds of Dodd's Kidney Pills. The medicine has been used in many hundreds of cases here, and in every case has worked a permanent cure. Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Stone in the Bladder, Gravel, all Urinary and Bladder Diseases, Blood Impurities, Diseases of Women, and all other Kidney Diseases yield to the influence of Dodd's Kidney Pills, speedily, surely and easily. This has been proved so often, so clearly, and so conclusively, in Lanark County, that the fact is admitted by all, and no other medicine is used for any form of Kidney Disease. As a result these diseases are by no means so common in this county as they were before Dodd's Kidney Pills were introduced.

Mr. Caskey's case is an illustration of the universal success of Dodd's Kidney Pills in all Kidney Diseases. He suffered severely for years with pains across the back, caused by Kidney Disease. He could never tell when an attack would disable him. Very often he would fall down with the severity of the pain.

His sufferings may be imagined. No relief could be got till he began the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Then relief came at once. His cure was thorough and lasting, and Mr. Caskey uses Dodd's Kidney Pills as a general tonic now.

Dodd's Kidney Pill are sold by all druggists, at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or they will be sent, on receipt of price, by The Dodds Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

18 Years Town Constable.

Mr. B. Kinsley, Hagersville, Ont., holds the record of having been town constable for 18 years. Mr. Kinsley says: "I was cured of kidney and bladder weakness by three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills. I often had to rise five or six times in the night on account of bladder weakness. The pills entirely did away with this annoying symptom. I highly recommend them for all kidney or bladder troubles."

THE STOLEN LETTER.

The Spanish Minister at Washington Has Resigned.

HE CRITICISED THE PRESIDENT

In a Letter to a Friend and Hence His Usefulness at the Yankee Capital Has Departed—The Spanish Cabinet Has Accepted the Outspoken Minister's Resignation—Possibilities.

New York, Feb. 11.—Diplomatic relations between the United States and Spain through Minister de Lome are at an end, and correspondence will be conducted exclusively through Minister Woodford, in Madrid, until Spain sends a new Minister to Washington or designates a charge d'affaires, says the Herald's Washington correspondent.

The Cause of the Wrath.

The objectionable paragraphs in the letter are as follows: "The situation here continues unchanged. Everything depends on the political and military success in Cuba. The prologue of this second method of warfare will end the day that the colonial Cabinet shall be appointed, and it relieves us, in the eyes of the country, of a part of the responsibility of what may happen there, and they must cast the responsibility upon the Cubans, whom they believe to be so immaculate. The message (the President's message to Congress) has undeceived the insurgents who expected something else, and has paralyzed the action of Congress, but I consider it bad. Besides the natural and inevitable coarseness with which he repeats all that the press and public opinion of Spain has said of Weyler, it shows once more what McKinley is: Weak and catering to the rabble, and, besides, a low politician, who desires to leave a door open to him, and to stand well with the jingoes of his party. Nevertheless, as a matter of fact, it will only depend on ourselves whether he will prove bad and adverse to us. I agree entirely with you: without a military success nothing will be accomplished there, and without military and political success there is here always danger that the insurgents will be encouraged, if not by the Government, at least by part of the public opinion. It would be most important that you should agitate the question of commercial relations, even though it would be only for effect, and that you should send here a man of importance in order that I might use him to make a propaganda among the Senators and others in opposition to the Junta, and to win over exiles."

How Was the Letter Obtained?

The Tribune says: The members of the Cuban Junta were jubilant yesterday over the capture of the letter of the Spanish Minister, Depuy de Lome. They gathered in large numbers at their headquarters and talked freely of the outcome of the disclosures made from the letter.

All sorts of rumors were afloat around the Cuban headquarters last night. One of them was to the effect that a number of efforts had been made to get the letter out of the possession of the Junta, and that as high as $30,000 had been offered for it.

One of the clerks at headquarters said: "I had a chance to make $5,000 here today, and three others received similar offers. The offer was made to us, if we would work together and steal the letter and give it to the men who approached us."

This is, however, discounted by the fact that the letter had already been forwarded to the State Department.

How the Junta obtained the letter is being carefully guarded, and the exact facts are known to only a few of the leaders.

De Lome's Usefulness Gone.

Washington, Feb. 11.—The State Department yesterday gave out for publication the substance of the cablegram sent to General Woodford, United States Minister to Madrid, in reference to the De Lome letter. The statement is as follows: "There has appeared in the public prints a letter addressed by the Spanish Minister to Mr. Canalejas. This letter, the Minister admits, was written by him. It contains expressions concerning the President of the United States of such character as to end the Minister's usefulness as a representative of his Government in this country. General Woodford, therefore, was instructed at once to say to the Minister of State that the immediate recall of Mr. Depuy de Lome is expected by the President." It is stated that up to this time no response has been received from the Spanish Government.

De Lome Is Out of It.

Madrid, Feb. 11.—At a meeting of the Spanish Cabinet held yesterday under the presidency of the Queen Regent, the Minister for Foreign Affairs, Senor Gullon, read a despatch from Senor Depuy de Lome, the Spanish Minister at Washington, saying that the published letter to Senor Canalejas was written by him, and that his position, consequently, had become untenable, and he begged the Government to accept his resignation. The Cabinet decided to accept the resignation of Senor Depuy de Lome and the Ministers subsequently met and decided to telegraph to Senor Dupuy de Lome accepting his resignation and entrusting the first secretary with the conduct of the current affairs of the legation.

All the comments on the subject bitterly denounce the "business of stealing and publishing a private letter." After the Cabinet Council, the Premier, Senor Sagasta, told the correspondent of the Associated Press that Senor Dupuy de Lome had "bravely" admitted the authorship of the letter.

Found Counterfeit Bills in His Room.

Toronto, Feb. 11.—A prisoner who was taken into custody by Detective Davis yesterday is Charles Lutz, a young man whose home is near Berlin, but who has recently been lodging on Richmond street, this city. Lutz is being held on the suspicion of stealing bicycles, but it is altogether likely that the more serious charge of counterfeiting will be brought against him.

When the Halton county farmers were taken in by the wheel salesman last fall a considerable number of counterfeit bills were passed. Detective Davis found in Lutz's room a number of one-dollar bills of the latest Dominion issue raised to five dollars and ten dollars. The counterfeits were for the most part executed cleverly and in a rush of business would pass without any difficulty, and some of them have been passed in this city. The finely engraved cutting of various numerals were also found and had been prepared for use in raising bills.

In all nearly $5,000 dollars worth of bogus money was found in Lutz's room. The young man is already wanted at Orangeville and Oakville, where he also had been victimizing people. Lutz will appear in the Police Court to-day. He has served two years in the Central Prison.

Japan Keeps Wei-Hai-Wei.

Paris, Feb. 11.—Official advices received by the Foreign Office from Pekin say that Japan has notified China that she intends to keep Wei-Hai-Wei permanently. China, in notifying the Chinese Ministers abroad to this effect, directs them to notify the powers also that, in view of this, no foreign loan is required, as the purpose of the loan was solely to pay the Japanese war indemnity.

HUMAN SACRIFICES

On the Altar of Diabetes, Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

Hardly a family in the country is free from Diabetes. Great thirst, failing sight, numbness in the thighs, bleeding gums, swollen ankles, emaciation, nervousness, pale or turbid urine, loss of sexual power, decaying teeth, pains in the loins or small of the back, are all positive signs that Diabetes is in the system.

Do you know how it ends? IN DEATH. A premature, horrible, agonized, pitiful death. The victim has no peace, no ease in life. His days are filled with tortures. His nights are waking dreams of agony. He longs to die, yet fears the terrors of his end. He dies, a bloated, fetid, repulsive mass of corruption. That is the only end of unchecked Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it. They drive it out of the system thoroughly, create new, clean blood, rebuild the diseased kidneys, and restore robust health.

A RUSE BOTH WAYS.

How an Actress and Doctor Were Fooling Each Other.

In French theaters the doctor of the theater has a seat given him for every performance. He must be there every evening. Naturally, after he has seen the same piece a score of times he longs to be elsewhere and prefers to give his seat to some of his friends. M. Ernest Blum says that when he was a young man a friend, the doctor of the Theatre Porte St. Martin, gave him his seat. Just as he was becoming interested in the first act the stage manager rushed up—the heroine had a nervous attack and required medical aid! Blum had nothing else to do but to follow him. In the lady's dressing room he found the manager with anguish depicted on every feature and the lady wringing her hands and shrieking.

"Now, doctor, quick! What's to be done?"

Blum grew as red as a lobster, and as he could not say anything he just ejaculated: "Hm! Let us see! Let us see."

He took the lady's hand in a wild attempt to feel her pulse. She shrieked more than ever and writhed like a snake.

"Have you poured any water on her head?" he asked.

"Yes."

"And no effect?"

"None."

"Then don't pour any more."

After this display of medical knowledge he continued:

"Give her a sniff of eau de cologne."

"Haven't any," was the answer.

"Then go fetch some."

Off rushed the manager and the stage manager, and Blum was left with his patient.

Suddenly she opened her eyes and smiled.

"Doctor," she said, "you are a good fellow, aren't you?"

"Yes, ma'mselle."

"You must be, doctor. Now listen. There is nothing the matter with me. You would have found that out soon. I want a couple of days off. Can't you manage it?"

"Delighted!" he replied joyfully. "Now, ma'mselle, you're a good fellow too, I am not a doctor. I came in on the doctor's tickets, so you must not give him away."

By this time the manager and stage manager came back, each with a bottle of eau de cologne. He told them that it was unnecessary now. The lady was quite composed and could appear without any danger. But she must have a few days' rest. They made wry faces, but granted the holiday.—Philadelphia Times.

Free Trial To Any Honest Man

The Foremost Medical Company in the World in the Cure of Weak Men Makes this Offer.

HEALTH AND ENERGY ASSURED. HAPPY MARRIAGE, GOOD TEMPER, LONG LIFE.

In all the world to-day—in all the history of the world—no doctor nor institution has treated and restored so many men as has the famed ERIE MEDICAL CO. of Buffalo, N. Y.

This is due to the fact that the company controls some inventions and discoveries which have no equal in the whole realm of medical science.

So much deception has been practiced in advertising that this grand old company now for the first time makes this startling offer:—

They will send their costly and magically effective appliance and a whole month's course of restorative remedies, positively on trial without expense to any honest and reliable man!

Not a dollar need be advanced—not a penny paid—till results are known to and acknowledged by the patient.

The Erie Medical Company's appliance and remedies have been talked about and written about all over the world, till every man has heard of them.

They restore or create strength, vigor, healthy vitality and new life.

They quickly stop drains on the system that sap the energy.

They cure nervousness, despondency and all the effects of evil habits, excesses, overwork, etc.

They give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Failure is impossible and age is no barrier.

This "Trial without Expense" offer is limited by the company to a short time, and application must be made at once.

No C. O. D. scheme, no bogus philanthropy nor deception, no exposure—a clean business proposition by a company of high financial and professional standing.

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, BUFFALO, N.Y., and refer to seeing the account of their offer in this paper.

THE FISH'S COLOR.

Able In a Marvelous Degree to Adapt Itself to Its Surroundings.

It is a familiar fact that fishes can change their colors at will. Many fishes make remarkable changes. Free swimming fishes most commonly preserve their normal colors, though these fishes can change. The fishes that change most are the bottom feeders. For their own protection from other fishes that would prey upon them and the better to enable them themselves to capture food these change their colors to match the bottom they are on so as to make themselves invisible. They do this often to a degree that seems extraordinary.

In one of the smaller salt water tanks at the New York aquarium there are a number of small flatfish. The bottom of the tank is covered with coarse gravel. The great bulk of the gravel is composed of pebbles of a brownish white, a sort of pale iron rust color. Scattered in this are pebbles of a deeper tinge, with now and then one of a brownish gray or brown black.

The flatfish lying on the gravel at the bottom of this tank imitate its colors in their own backs in a manner that is marvelous. They are of a mottled brown, like the colors of the gravel, and the smallest of the flatfish is the most wonderful. They are all thin and lie close to the bottom. The edge of the little one blends with it, and its back is a wonderful mosaic of browns so like the gravel of the surrounding bottom that it appears to be a part of it. Even in this clear water at a little distance the fish is scarcely distinguishable.—New York Sun.

GIRL'S MOURNING HAT.

blossoms, are the correct wear for a bride. Fashion no longer favors wedding prayer books having covers of pearl, ivory or white silk, illuminated covers in the missal style being the latest fancy for the wedding ceremony.

Sideboards and side tables are now covered with linen or silk cloths, heavily embroidered, and small squares, ovals or rounds, embroidered also, are placed under the decanters, etc. Some very elaborate sideboard sets are made of ecru silk, embroidered with flowers and bordered with silver, but these are not very practical, as they cannot be washed. More useful ones are of granite linen or damask, embroidered with linen or wash silk and trimmed with heavy guipure or cut work.

The fancy for very heavily decorated china has decreased, and the most elegant services have now no great amount of painting or gold upon them. A small branch of flowers at the side, a little watteau scene or figure, or, better yet, a simple, painted border in which fine threads of gold appear, is the adornment most in favor among persons who entertain. The bordered plates often have a small cipher or monogram in the middle.

The illustration which is given today shows a mourning hat for a young girl. It is of a sailor shape and is covered plainly with crape. A drapery of crape passes around the crown, the top of the crown being covered by full coquilles of crape, which form an aigret at the left side.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

LIVER, LANGUOR AND CONSTIPATION.

When your liver gets sluggish, inactive, your whole health suffers, your bowels become constipated, tongue coated, complexion muddy, your head aches, you have the "blues."

Helping the liver to resume its proper function, removing the bile that is circulating in the blood and poisoning the system, is the work of Burdock Blood Bitters.

In all these years of its existence B.B.B. has yet no rival for diseases of the stomach, liver, blood and bowels,—never fails in the worst cases of constipation. Here's a remarkable instance.

Miss Mary R. Anderson of Frankford, Ont., says that for five or six years she suffered from liver trouble and constipation so severely that she nearly went out of her mind, she tried doctors in both the country and town, and took medicines too numerous to mention, but all to no purpose. Then she started taking Burdock Blood Bitters which succeeded beyond all expectations, requiring only two bottles to effect a complete cure.

Trying a Dead Man.

It is probably an unusual thing in any country for a court to sit in judgment on the dead, but in a Berlin letter to the Chicago Record an account is given of a trial in which the accused was a dead man.

It was not his first trial. That had taken place in his lifetime, and its result had been a sentence of imprisonment for 18 months. The delinquent was bureau chief in the tax office of Schweidnitz, Silesia, and it was proved that he had embezzled funds and forged documents. Soon after his sentence, however, he showed signs of unsettled reason, and at length died a maniac.

His widow, anxious to clear his memory from the stain that rested upon it, had the case reopened and proved by expert testimony that her husband had been demented at the time he committed the crime.

Thus occurred the peculiar circumstance of a dead man on trial. The trial resulted in the reversal of the former sentence, the court pronouncing the deceased not guilty.

A HEART'S STORY.

With red, red lips she kissed a red rose
And pinned it over her heart.
"He gave it to me," she whispered slow,
"Whose life is of my life a part."

With white, white lips she kissed a white rose
And laid it over his heart.
"Oh, love, thou are dead whom I loved so much—Whose life was of my life a part!"

He who made the red rose and the white,
Who holdeth us each in his heart,
Did purify thus the fair maiden's life
And make it of his life a part!
—Maggie A. Richard in Womankind.

Montreal, Feb. 10.—There were about 425 head of butchers' cattle, 50 calves and 120 sheep and lambs offered for sale at the East End abattoir to-day. The weather was charming and the butchers turned out in full force and trade was good. The prices were slightly higher for all cattle excepting the best beasts, of which sort there were larger numbers than usual. Mr. Martel bought three choice steers at 4¾c per lb. and a very fine fat cow for 4¼c per lb. Pretty good stock sold at from 3½c to over 4c; common dry cows at from 2½c to 3 c, and the thin old cows at from 2c to 2¼c per lb. The calves sold at from $2.50 to $6 each, but none of them were good veals. Sheep sold at about 3½c per lb. and lambs at from 4¾c to 5c do. Fat hogs are rather plentiful, and sell at from 4¾c to 5¼c per lb.

The sick man knocking at the door of health gets in if he knocks the right way, and stays out if he doesn't. There are thousands of ways of getting sick but only one way to get well. Do whatever you will, if you do not put your digestion in good order, and make your blood rich and pure, you will not get well. Rich, pure blood is the only thing that can bring perfect health. Constipation is a disease of the blood. A large part of all diseases are traceable directly to impurities in the blood, and can be cured by eliminating them with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The first thing it does is to put the whole digestive system into perfect order. It stimulates the appetite, excites a copious secretion of the digestive fluids and promotes assimilation. It searches out diseased germs wherever they may be, kills them and forces them out of the system. The "Golden Medical Discovery" has been used with unvarying success for over 30 years.

The Sphinx's Riddle.

Johnny—What is "the riddle of the sphinx?"

AUDITOR'S CERTIFICATE.

I hereby certify that I have carefully audited the Books and Accounts of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, for the year ending 31st December, 1897. All disbursements have been properly vouched for, and the postings and balances of the Company's ledgers have been checked and found correct.

The above statement of Assets and Liabilities shows the position of the Company on 31st December, 1897, and the Profit and Loss Account is a correct showing of the operations of the Company for the year ending on that day. I have also examined the securities and find everything in order.

E. R. WOOD,
Auditor

Peterborough, 26th January, 1898.

The President, in moving the adoption, of the report said :

GENTLEMEN,—I have more than ordinary pleasure in presenting for your approval the Thirteenth Annual Statement of this Company, printed copies of which have for some days been distributed amongst the shareholders, and from which you will be pleased to learn that the result of the year's business have enabled your Directors to pay the usual half-yearly dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, amounting to $36,000 00, to transfer $5,000.00 to the Reserve Fund, which now stands at the handsome figure of $110,000.00, and to make a further addition of $1,736 32 to the Contingent Account, increasing it to $5,193 53.

With your permission I will read the following extract from the remarks I made in moving the adoption of the Annual Report :

"It will be known to most, if not all the Shareholders present, that during the year important changes have been effected in the Policy and Direction of the Company, which it is confidently anticipated, will very much tally promote its future prosperity. By an arrangement with the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, the Toronto office of this Company has been closed, and in accordance with the Provisions of the Charter in that behalf the Head Office and entire business of the Company has been transferred to Peterborough, where it already has important investments, and by the arrangement with the "Central Canada," to which I have already referred, that Company is no longer to compete for business in the counties adjacent to Peterborough, which is to be the future home of this Company. The mortgages now held by the "Central Canada," where it is satisfactory to the borrower, and to the Company, will, as they mature, be taken over and renewed by this Company. This agreement, which it is thought will be mutually profitable to both Companies, by effecting economy in management and closer supervision of business, has been greatly facilitated and strengthened by the cordial co operation of the Peterborough Directors of the "Central Canada," who have kindly consented to throw in their lot with - hat is now to be a home Company. The intimate knowledge and acquaintances that these gentlemen have of this and the adjacent counties to which the operations of the Company are to be restricted, and the long experience that many of them have had in business in this Midland District, will give the Company unusual advantages in acquiring a safe and profitable business in one of the most fertile and prosperous sections of Canada."

I repeat the statement I then made, because it serves to remind the Shareholders of the important change that was then made in the policy of the Company and because the experience of the year just closed has demonstrated in the most satisfactory manner possible that the policy then adopted was without any doubt the correct one. It would not have been surprising if the removal of the Head Office to Peterborough had caused a reduction in the assets, and a temporary check in the growth of the company; but it is very gratifying to know that the reverse has been the case, and that the Assets, which at the end of 1896 amounted to $1,546,268.80, and at the end of 1897 grown to $1 620,529 26, an increase of $74,170.48, an unmistakable evidence to my mind that in the steadily progressive town of Peterborough, the commercial centre of one of the very best agricultural districts in Canada, there is abundant room for a strong and successful home company in which the savings of the people may be safely deposited at a fair rate of interest, and where those who desire to obtain loans can transact their business direct with the Head Office of the Company in the most satisfactory and least expensive manner possible. The Manager and Officers of the Company continue to merit, by their courteous and energetic attention to business, the cordial approval and thanks of the Directors and Shareholders of the Company.

I now move, seconded by Mr. Hall, Vice-President, the adoption of the Report and Statement submitted, and that they be printed for circulation amongst the Shareholders, Depositors and Debenture Holders of the Company.

Before asking for your assent to this resolution, I shall be glad to answer any question or furnish any information that may be desired by any Shareholders present.

Mr. Hall, in seconding the resolution said :—It is also an agreeable duty for me to second the resolution for the adoption of the report. The financial statements that are before you, and what has already been said in moving the resolution, renders any lengthened remarks from me unnecessary, but I am sure the results of the year's business must be highly satisfactory, not only to the Directors and Shareholders, but also to the Debenture Holders and Depositors, many of whom are residents of our town and county. The Company has thus afforded an opportunity to those who have been able to accumulate any savings, no matter how small, to place it at interest where it can be had at any time without notice, and at a rate somewhat higher than is paid by the banks.

Notwithstanding the small margin between the rate paid to Depositors and charged to Borrowers, it is very satisfactory to know that by the careful selection of loans, prompt collection of rent and interest, and economy in management, the Company has been able to pay six per cent. to its shareholders from the date of organization, and has already accumulated surplus earnings of $115,193.53; this, in addition to the subscribed capital of $1,000,000.00 (six hundred thousand of which is paid up) would every dollar have to be lost before the depositors could lose anything. I have much pleasure in seconding the resolution.

Mr. Cluxton also supported the resolution in a few well chosen remarks and said he was sure the Company had a bright future before it.

The report was unanimously adopted.

On motion of Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Hamilton, Mr. E. R. Wood was appointed auditor for the year 1898.

The election of Directors was then proceeded with and the following gentlemen ware declared elected for the ensuing year : Hon. Geo. A. Cox, Richard Hall, Wm. Cluxton, A. L. Davis, Peter Hamilton, H. J. LeFevre, A. A. Cox, D. W. Dumble and James Stevenson.

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors Hon. Geo. A. Cox was re-elected President and Richard Hall and A. A. Cox, Vice-Presidents.

W. F. M. S. IN SESSION.

ANNUAL MEETING OF WOMEN'S FOREIGN MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

An Interesting Address by Mrs. Robinson on Missions in Egypt—Encouraging Reports Showing Increased Growth — Election of Officers.

The sixteenth annual meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbytery of Peterborough was held in Port Hope during the week.

Mill street church, where the meetings were held, was prettily decorated with palms and was altogether bright and comfortable. An efficient choir led the singing and added much to the enjoyment of the meetings.

The first session was held on Tuesday afternoon commencing at three o'clock. In the absence of the President, Miss Gilchrist, the 1st Vice-President, Mrs. J. K. Smith, presided at all the sessions with much ability.

The meeting was opened with devotional exercises, prayer being offered by Miss Forsythe of Peterborough.

Mrs. Smith then gave a short address in which she warmly welcomed the delegates, assuring them that everything possible would be done for their comfort and pleasure. She also spoke of the many causes for gratitude there were in a country such as this with no wars, or famines, or pestilence—nothing but peace within the borders. This should be all the more reason for increased zeal in the mission work, to help those not so much favoured.

Miss M. Dickson, Cor.-Sec., then read her annual report, which showed an increased interest in all branches of the work, with the exception of the mission bands, which showed a slight falling off, much to be regretted.

There are in this society 22 auxiliaries and 8 mission bands with a total membership of 612.

The treasurer, Mrs. Craick, read her statement which was very encouraging. Receipts, $1,641, not including $379 47 spent in providing clothing, prizes and some medical supplies for the Mission School in Indore, India.

After the adoption of the reports the dedicatory prayer was offered by Mrs. Stewart, Peterborough.

Those present were then privileged to listen to a most interesting and delightful address from Mrs. G. L. Robinson of Toronto on "Mission Work among the Mahommedans and Copts in Egypt."

Mrs. Robinson is one of those speakers who are "born not made"—her address throughout was fairly scintillating with bright and clever anecdotes and instances taken from real life. As she was born and brought up in Egypt, she knew whereof she spoke.

She told a little of the history of the country, it has the oldest history in the world dating back to the time of Moses, in fact in the museum in Cairo may be seen, the same Pharaoh before whom Moses stood. She also spoke of the wonderful fertility of the land, sometimes as many as four harvests being reaped in a year, owing to the water of the Nile overflowing the whole country.

But the great theme most dwelt upon was Mission Work in Egypt.

Fifty years ago when missions were first started hardly one woman in fifty could read, now 600 women in Cairo alone are attending mission schools.

Mrs. Robinson spoke of the Egyptians as a race, they have been down-trodden by so many tyrants, by the Persians and later by the Turks, for so long, that now they have no ambition but are content to let foreigners fill all public offices, while they remain as servants like their fathers before them. She gave several instances showing how the Turks tyrannized over them and the effect it had upon them. She compared the two religions of Egypt, the Mahommedan and the Coptic which is nominally Christian, explaining how they affected the women particularly.

Women in Egypt being considered to possess no soul, can be dealt with as the men see fit, and can be divorced on the slightest pretext. She mentioned one case in which a woman had been married and divorced seventeen times. The Coptic women were the dirtiest to be found anywhere, many of them never knowing the luxury of a bath from birth till marriage. But with the entrance of the Gospel all is changed and better habits formed. Mrs. Robinson described a number of marriage customs prevalent amongst the Egyptians, which created some amusement.

After praise and prayer by Mrs. Lord, Grafton, the meeting adjourned.

A public meeting was held in the church at 8 p.m., Dr. Smith presiding.

After devotional exercises the Mill street church choir sang an anthem very acceptably. Mrs. Robinson consented to give a short address, which was much enjoyed, the only regret being that it was necessarily brief.

Owing to illness Dr. Margaret McKellar was unable to be present, Rev. W. P. McKay, secretary of Foreign Missionary Committee, taking her place. He made a powerful appeal for missions and answered many objections which are brought against them.

Mr. McKay made the statement that in the Presbyterian church in Canada it only costs 4 per cent. of the total revenue required to administer the funds of the organization, and in the department of the W.F.M.S., the cost is less than 2 per cent. Mr. McKay has the cause of missions very much at heart and his address must have carried conviction to all who heard it."

A quartette of men's voices sang in good style, "Lend a hand."

Rev. Mr. McIntosh, Centreville, in a short speech gave the greetings of the Presbytery to the women assembled and wished them God speed in the work, emphasising the necessity to be up and doing.

Wednesday morning. The session opened at 9 30. This was for the transaction of business and election of officers for the ensuing year. Reports were given by the representative of each auxiliary when present, all reporting much cause for encouragement, the mission bands promising to do better in the future than in the past.

A number of short, earnest prayers were given, after which the election of officers was proceeded with, the following being the result :

President—Mrs. W. Roger, Peterborough.

1st Vice-Pres.—Miss Forsythe, Peterborough.

2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Potter, Peterborough.

3rd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Stewart, Peterborough.

4th Vice.-Pres.—Mrs. Lord, Grafton.

Cor. Sec.—Miss Dickson, Peterborough.

Treas.—Mrs. J. Craick, Port Hope.

Rec. and Lit. Secretary—Miss Craick, Port Hope.

Wednesday afternoon, was a sort of farewell meeting. A most excellent and helpful paper was read by Mrs. Fife, Peterborough, on "Opportunities." Some people never find opportunities because they never look for them—lost opportunities were also touched upon, many wise proverbs from all countries were given on this subject. The reporter regrets very much that not being a stenographer, she was unable to take them all down.

The paper throughout showed much thought and will no doubt bear fruit in the future with those who heard it.

A few closing words were given by Miss Roger, Peterborough. Votes of thanks were tendered the managers and choir of the church, to the organist who played at all the meetings, to the G.T.R. and to the press, for their notices in the papers, and also to the ladies who opened their homes to the delegates.

A Banker's Experience.

"I tried a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for a troublesome affection of the throat," writes Manager Thomas Dawson of the Standard Bank, now of 14 Melbourne Avenue, Toronto. "It proved effective. I regard the remedy as simple, cheap and exceedingly good. It has hitherto been my habit to consult a physician in troubles of this nature. Hereafter, however, I intend to be my own family doctor."

Baby Mass of Sores

Face Like a Slice of Raw Beef. Cried Night and Day. Would Rub Scratch and Scream.

Moisture from Sores so Great Changed Cloths 12 Times a Day. Hands Tied for Five Months.

After One Application of CUTICURA Child Slept. Cured Without a Scar.

My baby, when one year old (photograph herewith), broke out all over with a rash.

He was a mass of sores. You could not put your finger on him anywhere there was not a sore. His face looked like a slice of fresh beef, and he cried night and day. He would rub, scratch, and scream. The doctor called and left some powder to put on him, but it did no good. It would take two to hold him, and one to put medicine on him. We had to hold him sometimes an hour or two before we could get him quieted down. All said that they never saw such a face or body on any baby as on him. I had to cut the sleeves out of his clothes, and put gauze underwear on him to keep him cool. I had to keep pieces of soft cloth around his neck, it was so wet with moisture from the sores, and had to change the cloths sometimes ten or twelve times a day. I had to tie his hands tight in a cloth, night and day, for five months. My sister had used CUTICURA, and I began to use it and was surprised at the result. After only one application, he lay down and slept as he had not for a month, poor little fellow. After I had used CUTICURA REMEDIES a day he was glad to have me wash and dress him. He has not a scar on him now, and is as fair and his flesh is as soft as any baby just born. He was absolutely cured in three months by one cake CUTICURA SOAP, two boxes CUTICURA (ointment), and one-half bottle CUTICURA RESOLVENT.

TRADE OF THE YUKON.

Ominous Legislation Proceeding at Washington.

A VERY DIFFICULT SITUATION.

A Great Trade in Peril—Proposal to Blockade the Stikine Route—What Canada Must Do—May Commence the Railway Near Port Simpson—Must Have an All-Canadian Route.

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—Events are taking place in Congress which may render it necessary for the Dominion Government to alter somewhat radically the plan for a route to Teslin Lake via Wrangel and Glenora. The other day a bill was introduced in the House of Representatives by Mr. Payne of New York, chairman of the Committee on Merchant Marine, and in the Senate by Mr. Frye of Maine, chairman of the Committee on Commerce, which contains these two important sections affecting the right of Canada to the free navigation of the Stikine River under the Washington treaty of 1871:

"Section 3—That whenever merchandise is imported into the United States by sea for immediate exportation to a foreign port by sea, or by a river, the right to ascend or descend, which, for the purpose of commerce, is secured by treaty to the citizens of the United States and the subjects of a foreign power, the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to prescribe regulations for the transshipment and transportation of such merchandise.

"Section 4—That section 3,109 of the revised statutes is hereby amended to read:

"'Section 3,109—The master of any foreign vessel, laden or in ballast, arriving, whether by sea or otherwise, in the waters of the United States from any foreign territory adjacent to the northern, northeastern or northwestern frontiers of the United States, shall report at the office of any collector or deputy collector of the customs which shall be nearest to the point at which such vessel may enter such waters; and such vessel shall not transfer her cargo or passengers to another vessel, or proceed farther inland, either to unlade or take in cargo, without a special permit from such collector or deputy collector, issued under and in accordance with such general or special regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury may in his discretion from time to time prescribe. This section shall also apply to trade with or through Alaska. For any violation of this section such vessel shall be seized and forfeited."

"Section 5—This Act shall take effect one month after its passage."

A Blockade Intended.

The bill has been pushed along on the plea of urgency, and will be ready for the President's signature by the end of the coming week. Navigation opens on the Stikine about the end of April. It will be observed by the wording of section 3 that the bill applies to the Stikine, by which the Dominion Government hoped to reach Glenora, where railway construction was to have been begun at once by Messrs. McKenzie and Mann. All that the bill on its face provides for is the framing of transshipment and transportation regulations for Canadian vessels using the Stikine, together with the establishment of a permit system. But it is no secret that the Treasury at Washington is being pressed to adopt regulations designed to blockade that route and to thus compel miners going to the Klondike and merchants shipping goods there from the coast to use American routes. The customs regulations recently prescribed by the Treasury for the American routes, starting from Juneau, Dyea, Skaguay, etc., are onerous enough in their treatment of merchandise purchased in Canada. Such goods "may proceed under a warehouse, transportation and exportation entry, without payment of duty, in charge of a customs officer, the cost of whose transportation and maintenance must be paid by the importer;" or they may proceed "upon the filing of a bond by the importer with satisfactory securities" for their due exportation into Canadian territory, "said bond to be in amount equal to the duties and charges on the goods;" or the owner of the goods "may deposit with the deputy collector an amount of money equal to the duties and customs charges," which will be refunded when they have crossed the line into Canada. Regulations like these, enforced in a remote region by officials desirous of harassing those who purchase goods in Canada, are bad enough. But according to all accounts the regulations to be prescribed for the Stikine will be still more burdensome, if indeed they do not as good as deprive us of the use of the Stikine from its mouth to the point some 25 miles above where Canadian territory begins. Moreover, there can be no certainty any more. To-day the regulations for the Stikine might be tolerable, to-morrow they might be superseded by others practically shutting Canadian vessels out of the river and leaving our railway from Glenora to Teslin Lake, if it were built, hanging in mid-air.

Commence Near Port Simpson.

Under these circumstances, all that remains to be done, if Canada is to retain possession of the Klondike and get something in the way of trade out of it for the rest of the country, is to commence the railway at Observatory Inlet, near Port Simpson, so that in its beginning, middle and end it shall be an all-Canadian highway beyond American jurisdiction. The Government foresaw what might happen. Clause 5 of the contract with Messrs. McKenzie and Mann provides, therefore, that "the contractors and the contractors' company shall be entitled to receive in preference to any other person or company during ten years from said first of September, 1898, such aid or assistance in land or money as the Government may be authorized and may see fit to grant in aid of a line of railway from the Stikine River to an ocean port in British Columbia," etc. The construction of a railway from Observatory Inlet would be an undertaking of some magnitude. It is about 180 miles from Observatory Inlet to Glenora. Hence a road from Observatory Inlet to Teslin Lake could not be built very well this year; it might take till September, 1899. Meanwhile what should be done with the Klondike? If the Americans boycott us at Wrangel and prevent us from getting in that way, shall we nevertheless permit them to swarm in by their routes and help themselves to what is here, or shall we place some restrictions upon their entering till we ourselves are ready to take a hand? This pertinent question is doubtless receiving the attention of the Government. There are differences of opinion respecting the merits of the contract with McKenzie and Mann, but everyone, Grit or Tory, must allow that Canada cannot afford to be choused out of the Klondike by a sharp Yankee trick.

Business Dictates U. S. Policy.

The truth is the policy of Congress in this affair is being dictated by the transportation companies and merchants of the Pacific States who desire to out Canadians out of a trade with their own territory that promises to be on an immense scale. Moral claims, treaty rights, fair play between man and man, are of no account in their eyes. The only thing left for the Canadian Government, if Congress bars us at Wrangel, is to construct a route from Port Simpson that is truly all-Canadian and beyond reach of hostile laws and regulations—either this or suffer the Americans practically to steal the Klondike from us. It is gratifying to believe that, should the matter assume this shape owing to legislation at Washington, both parties in Parliament will stand together as one man in upholding the country's interests and the country's honor.

Sir Richard May Go.

It will probably be necessary for Sir Richard Cartwright, Ministetr of Trade and Commerce, to go to Washington on Monday in connection with the proposals now pending in the Senate to restrict the bonding privileges in regard to the navigation of the Stikine.

Parliament Works Hard.

The House has been in session only eight days, yet outside of the Yukon Railway question there is little that is uncertain in the outlook. The Government have announced their tariff policy, and the all-British preference is as popular as it was last year. The franchise bill is before the House, the bill for the abolition of superannuation has been given notice of, as well as a resolution regarding the Drummond Railway investigation. The Yukon bill has been introduced, and the address has been passed without a division. The House has been in session every night except one, an almost unprecedented condition of affairs at this early stage of the proceedings. Parliamentary dwadling is becoming a lost art, and those who predicted a five months' session have already cut a month off their prophecies.

To Prevent Dual Employment.

It is reported that Mr. Mulock is to introduce a bill to prevent civil servants and Government employes generally from acting as ticket sellers, gate-keepers at fairs, ushers at theatres, floral decorators, waiters at Government House receptions and dinners, markers at rifle matches, etc. Ottawa is not mentioned, but the evil here should be remedied, and, of course, will be if the bill is passed. It is the custom here for Government clerks, messengers, watchmen and other employes of the Government to ask for their holidays at exhibition time and during rifle matches, when they find ready employment in the capacity mentioned.

WRECKED BY A WRECK

The Holland-American Steamer Veendam Lost at Sea.

A RESCUE IN THE NICK OF TIME.

Passengers and Crew Transferred to the American Liner St. Louis—Thrilling Scenes at the Rescue Described by a St. Louis Passenger—A Sight Worth Seeing—The Veendam Burned.

New York, Feb 14.—The American Line steamer St. Louis, Captain Randle, which arrived Saturday from Southampton, reported the loss at sea of the Holland-America steamer Veendam, Captain Stenger, from Rotterdam for New York. At quarantine, Captain Stenger, who arrived with passengers and crew on the St. Louis, reported as follows: "Steamer Veendam of the Holland-America Line, Captain G. Stenger, left Rotterdam Feb. 3 with a general cargo, nine cabin, 116 steerage passengers and 85 crew bound for New York. Feb. 6, at about 5.17 p.m., ship's time, in latitude 49.35 north, longitude 90.01 west, we struck submerged wreckage, which probably tore a hole in the ship's bottom and broke her propeller shaft. We found that our ship was making considerable water. We immediately set all pumps to work, but the water gained on us. In the meantime all our boats were made ready, in order to leave the ship at a moment's notice, because she was now sinking rapidly at the stern. Notwithstanding all efforts made by the crew and passengers at the pumps, we found the water to be steadily gaining on us.

"At 1.30 a.m. I observed the masthead lights of a large steamer bearing about east by south from us, made signals of distress, on which the vessel bore down on us. We then decided for the safety of the passengers and crew to abandon the ship. The vessel proved to be the St. Louis of the American Line, Southampton for New York. We hailed her and reported that our ship was sinking, and wished to be taken off.

"At 1.43 a.m. we commenced to transfer our passengers and crew, using three boats of the St. Louis and one of our ship, our men being kept at the pumps.

"At 4.53 o'clock Monday morning everybody was transferred to the St. Louis. When the last boat left, the Veendam was laboring very heavily and sinking rapidly by the stern. The transfer of the passengers and crew, notwithstanding the great difficulties and high sea running, took but three hours and 10 minutes.

"As the wreck was a dangerous obstruction to navigation, we set her on fire. The position of the wreck was then latitude 49.19 north, longitude 19.47 west.

"On board the St. Louis we were warmly received, and the captain and his officers did everything possible for our comfort. We take this opportunity to express our utmost gratitude."

The Veendam was foremerly the White Star Liner Baltic. She was built at Belfast, Ireland, by Harland & Wolff, in 1871. She was a four-masted barquentine-rigged screw steamer. She registered 4,066 gross and 2,767 net tons, and was 418 feet long, 41 feet beam and 31.9 feet deep.

SCENE AT THE RESCUE.

Mr. Archer Brown's Graphic Account of the Rescue of Passengers.

New York, Feb. 14.—Archer Brown of Rodgers, Brown & Company, iron dealers, this city, was a passenger on the St. Louis. Describing the scene on the St. Louis while the rescue was in progress, Mr. Brown said:

"Nearly all of the passengers on the St. Louis were in bed when the news quickly spread that a wreck had been sighted. Then we crowded on deck. We could see the fitful glare of the rockets, as they burst in the air, and we could hear the shrieks of the women on the Veendam. The excitement on board the St. Louis—that is, among the passengers—was intense. We cheered the rescuers as they pushed off for the Veendam.

"It was perhaps three-quarters of an hour before the first lifeboat returned. In it we could see about 25 children, all huddled closely together and crying lustily. Officer Segrave was doing his best to quiet them. Captain Randle received the first child passed up. It caught hold of the captain's beard and set up a howl. Then all the women crowded round the captain and took the baby from his arms.

"I tell you it was a sight worth seeing. The way the well-dressed women ministered to the wants of the poor, wretched creatures who were hauled on board, more dead than alive. The rescued women, after they had partially recovered, began to cry aloud for their children, and when they found them they cried with joy. It seems to me that some of us men snivelled a bit about that time.

"When the men came aboard we were more in our element. We gave them whiskey and it did them no end of good.

"As the last boat hove in sight a glare burst out. The Veendam was on fire. The rescued passengers huddled together and set up a wail. They had nothing in the world except what was on their backs."

Chaia Nyitka, who came to this country with her father from Sushkovalen, Kaliah Gubarna, Russia, spoke for the women who were rescued.

"We were nearly all of us sick," she said, "when the crash came, but we became suddenly well. Our sickness was frightened away When we heard some of the men saying the 'Shema' (Jewish prayer before death) and others saying the Psalms, we thought that the end had come. When all the men were ordered upon the deck, we followed, because we were afraid to stay where we could not see.

Almost Distracted

Dreadful Suffering by a Newmarket Woman.

The Bones in the Nose Affected—Face Would Swell Until Her Eyes Were Closed—How Relieved.

NEWMARKET, ONT.—"I have had a good opportunity of noting the great medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla. My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years, and the disease had gone so far that the bones of the nose had become affected and particles had come away through an opening in the left side. Her eyesight was also affected to the extent that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered and at times was almost distracted. She was treated by four different doctors, one of whom was a specialist. They all said they could not do anything for her, as the disease had gone too far. Her nose would swell about every three days until her eyes would almost be closed. Then it would break through and the swelling would subside for a day or two. About Christmas she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved. She has not been troubled with any swelling since, and the sore on the side of the nose has all healed. She is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it to any person who is suffering with catarrh." W. H. FURSMAN.

Severe Pains in the Head

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not be induced to buy any substitute. Be sure to get Hood's.

THE SAN JOSE SCALE.

With the threatened destruction by the terrible San Jose Scale of the pleasant prospect of Ontario fruit—apples, peaches, plums, pears and grapes—gaining a market in the British Isles and other European countries, and even rivalling the value of the cheese products of the Province, the prompt and vigorous measures to fight this disease invader taken by the Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, are other evidences, if that were needed, of the wisdom which marked the selection by Sir Oliver Mowat, when Premier of the Government, to which he is now Her Majesty's representative, of a practical farmer as the responsible head of a department having to do with the greatest industry in the country.

Under authority conferred by the Legislature the Minister of Agriculture already has inspectors at work in the nurseries and orchards of the districts where the Scale has got a start and it is being thoroughly stamped out.

How serious a matter dealing with this dangerous microscopical pest is may be understood when it is learned that all kinds of fruit trees, shrubs and bushes are subject to destruction by the Scale, and all hard wood growth in our forests as well may be ruined.

The enormous loss suffered in the seventeen states of the neighbouring Republic, where the Scale is ravaging, is but a measure of what this Province will escape by the Government's admirable action.

Quite appropriate in this connection is the following extract from an interview with Mr. Albert Pay, proprietor of the Prospect Hill fruit farm, near St. Catharines, Ontario, in the Buffalo Express of January 8th, instant.

"My politics are opposed to the Government of Ontario," said Mr. Pay, "but I must admit that in Mr. Dryden the present administration has a most competent man. When he asked me to come to Toronto to look over his bill, I and those with me expected to find that we were necessary to the perfection of that bill. But we were not. The bill had been drafted and was submitted to us for our approval. We found the ground fully covered and instead of teaching the Minister how to preserve the fruit, we found ourselves listening to Mr. Dryden's plans. It would be impossible to find a more capable Minister of Agriculture in the Province. We were delighted with him."

"It is the Government's intention," continued Mr. Pay, "to destroy, or cause to be destroyed, every fruit tree that is known to be infected with the San Jose Scale. It is believed that the pest was brought into Canada from United States nurseries, and it has become so fatal to the fruit trees that extreme measures are necessary. The bill provides for compensation to an amount which will enable the grower to replace the trees without expense to himself, and the penalty for neglecting to destroy infected trees is such as to induce every owner of an orchard to see that the law is carried out. When the infected trees are destroyed, we can then start over again under a new law providing for the rigid inspection of all imported nursery stock, and the exclusion of trees affected by the scale."

92 CANDIDATES OUT.

Liberals Now Have Nominees in All But Two of the Ontario Constituencies—Progress of the Campaign.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—Dewart, Spence, Rogers, Caldwell! These are the names with which the four Torontos have come into line, and with the closing up of the ranks in East Toronto on Saturday night by the nomination of Mr. C. Caldwell the Liberals are now in line from one end of the province to the other.

There are 92 Liberal candidates for the 94 constituencies, the only ridings in which the Liberals have not brought out a candidate being Frontenac and West Simcoe, where Messrs. Haycock and Currie, Patron leader and whip respectively in the last Legislature, are opposed by Conservatives only.

There are five constituencies in which the Conservatives [illegible] without a party candidate, not counting the case of Peel, where the Conservative nominee, Mr. H. K. Cameron, has just been compelled to retire owing to ill-health.

Ministers Actively Working.

The Liberal party is waging a hot campaign in the veriest strongholds of the Opposition and one of the surprises of March 1st will probably be the falling into line as supporters of the Government of several constituencies which have long been wedded stoutly to the Conservative party. The Ministers are working actively through the province; their meetings everywhere are enthusiastic, at their back is an enthusiasic Liberaly party, and unless the keenest political observers are far out in their calculations Mr. Hardy will achieve an overwhelming victory.

Fire Emptied the Churches.

RENFREW POLITICS

Excite Less Interest Than Dodd's Kidney Pills' Fight With Disease.

Township Clerk Caskey Cured of Kidney Disease—Fell Down With the Pain—Dodd's Kidney Pills Worked Complete and Lasting Cure.

Arnprior, Feb. 13.—In the county of Renfrew, the coming elections for the Ontario Legislature do not excite such deep and wide-spread interest as is being taken in the contest between Kidney diseases and Dodd's Kidney Pills.

This struggle has never for a moment been in doubt as to the result since it began. Every "bout" has ended in favour of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, all Urinary and Bladder Troubles, Diseases of Women and all Blood Impurities yield quickly and surely to the magical influence of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

And in every instance, where Dodd's Kidney Pills have been used, the disease has been cured. Dodd's Kidney Pills bear exactly similar relation to all Kidney Diseases, as anti-toxine does to Diphtheria—they are an infallible cure.

The case of Mr. James Caskey, Clerk of Ramsay township, has been the principal topic of conversation for some days past. But any one case of a cure by Dodd's Kidney Pills is no sooner reported than another is made known, and so it goes.

Speaking of his experience with Dodd's Kidney Pills, he says: "I suffered for years with severe pains across my back." (denoting diseased kidneys.) "At times these pains were so bad that I would fall down. They were accompanied by great constitutional weakness.

"After commencing the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, I felt immediate relief. This was followed by a complete cure. I have not felt my old trouble since."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or will be sent, on receipt of price, by The Dodds Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

An Ex-Alderman Speaks.

Mr. Jas. Hagan, the well-known ex-alderman of Kemptville, Ont., says: "For some years I have been greatly troubled with pain across my back. Urinary trouble caused me much loss of sleep, and I suffered from a tired, worn out feeling. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me relief in a short time. The pain in my back has disappeared, and I feel that I would be doing wrong not to recommend them to others suffering as I did. They are the best medicine I ever used."

MINING IN COMFORT.

The Latest English Idea in Gold Mining.

THE LAUNCH OF THE RESEARCH.

British Preponderance of Warships in Chinese Waters—The Negotiations With China—Britain Scoops in the Coal—Treachery Feared on the Nile—Mr. Gladstone's Malady —Cable News.

London, Feb. 14.—A stern wheel steamer destined for the Yukon was successfully launched at Queen's Ferry on Thursday, and was named the Research. She embodies the intentions and aspirations of what is probably the most capable and best equipped party that will leave England during the coming season to seek fortunes in the Klondike. She draws two feet six inches of water, has a speed of 10 knots and will carry stores enough for 15 months and most elaborate mining outfits. She has a commodious deckhouse, wherein 22 men expect to pass next winter comfortably. They are confident of success and had a specially designed bullion tank constructed.

Britain Will Have a Big Preponderance.

London, Feb. 14.—The British warships now on their way to China are the first-class battleships Victorious, the first-class battleship Barfleur, the first-class cruiser Gibraltar and the second-class cruiser Bonaventure. When they arrive, on March 5 or thereabouts, Great Britain will have a preponderance of twenty-five thousand tons of warships over Russia and France combined in those waters.

England Negotiating With China.

Pekin, Feb. 14.—England is negotiating with China to open Yuen-Chan-Fu in the Province of Hu-Nan, as a treaty port, and is negotiating also on the subject of the navigation of inland waters. The Chinese Government has paid the agreed indemnity of £4,000 to M. Lyaudet, the Frenchman kidnapped by Tonquin pirates in 1895.

The new year's audience for the foreign Ministers has been fixed for February 15, and the banquet by the Tsung-Li-Yamen will be given the following day. Owing to the long delay the Ministers had declined an audience, but the Tsung-Li-Yamen has now arranged the matter.

Britain Scoops in the Coal.

London, Feb. 14.—A despatch to the Daily Mail from Singapore says that the British admiral, acting under instructions from the Admiralty, has bought all the available Welsh coal at Singapore and at the Chinese and Japanese ports, with the result that the foreign squadrons in the waters of North China are almost immobilized.

The step has excited the foreign community. The despatch adds that the Russian cruiser Russia, which is now in Singapore, has been allowed to take on board 2,000 tons of coal.

China Making Concessions All Round.

Pekin, Feb. 14.—China has consented to the British demand for a railway from Burma to Yunnan, and she also agrees to indemnify the kidnapped Frenchman, M. Lyaudet.

Germany has secured a concession for a railway from Kiao-Chou to Ichau as the price of the murdered sentry, and is now casting about for something else to demand.

Next month the Chinese Board of Revenue will pay half in sycee and half in dollars, owing to the scarcity of copper coin. This is the first occasion of payment in dollars, but the precedent is likely to be followed, and will introduce an extensive use of coined money.

MR. GLADSTONE'S MALADY.

Some Say It Is Necrosis of the Nose Bone, Others That It Is Cancer.

London, Feb. 14.—The Saturday Review says that it hears from good authority that the specific complaint from which Mr. Gladstone is suffering is what some specialists call necrosis of the nose bone. Others fear, however, that his trouble is cancer.

A despatch from Cannes to the Daily News says that provisional arrangements have been made for Mr. Gladstone's return to England next week, in accordance with the plan formed on his departure from home. The News' correspondent declares that he is unable to say whether Mr. Gladstone has benefitted from his visit, but adds that he has enjoyed it even more than he expected.

Mr. Gladstone to Return to England.

Cannes, Feb. 14.—Mr. Henry Gladstone says his father and whole family intend to start west the end of next week for the South of England watering place. Mr. Gladstone's physician thinks his patient has attained the utmost benefit from his stay on the Riviera.

Treachery Feared on the Nile.

London, Feb. 14.—Private letters received here from Egypt, from the front as well as from Cairo, contain a clue to the hitherto somewhat mysterious cause of the anxiety which the authorities have maintained in hastening British troops to Berber.

It seems that for some time past a strong feeling of irritation and discontent has been noticed among the Egyptian and Soudanese soldiers. They complain of overwork, of the severity of the discipline and of their not being allowed to have in camp their wives, who have been kept down the river at the base.

Moreover, there is much reason to believe that a number of the captive Dervishes and Arabs, who have been enrolled in the various black regiments, after swearing allegiance to the Khedive, have been carrying on a secret propaganda in behalf of the Mahdi, and have succeeded in shaking the loyalty of the until now much-vaunted black troops.

Count Kalnoky Is Dead.

Brunn, Feb. 14.—Count Gustav Siegmund Kalnoky De Koros-Patak, former Austro-Hungarian Minister of Foreign Affairs, died here Sunday afternoon.

The late Count Kalnoky, who was born at Lettowitz, Moravia, Dec. 9, 1832, was descended from the Moravian branch of an old Bohemian family. He entered the diplomatic service of Austria in 1850. From 1860 to 1870 he was Councillor of Legation at the Austrian Embassy in London. In 1874 he was Minister at Copenhagen; in 1880 he was sent as Ambassador to St. Petersburg and in 1881 he was appointed Austro-Hungarian Minister of Foreign Affairs, a position he held with distinction until May 16, 1895, when he was succeeded by the present Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, Count Goluchowski.

SENOR CANALEJAS OF SPAIN

Declares That There Must Be War Between His Country and the United States—The De Lome Trouble.

Madrid, Feb. 14.—Senor Canalejas, ex-Minister and editor of Heraldo, the leading organ of Madrid, to whom was addressed the letter of Senor Dupuy De Lome, which has caused a furore both in the United States and Spain, and has resulted in the resignation of the Spanish Minister, makes ominous predictions in El Heraldo. The announcement of El Heraldo is nothing less than that a conflict between Spain and the United States is inevitable. Senor Canalejas says that the situation is becoming intolerable, and the Government is gravely preoccupied by prevailing conditions.

As regards the De Lome incident Senor Canalejas dismisses it with a sneer and insult added to those of De Lome. He says that the letter was produced by McKinley's message and that De Lome was very favorable to the American President before then. In predicting a crisis El Heraldo says:

"Now and menacing incidents tend to arise between Spain and the United States, resulting from the permanence of American warships at Havana, the display of arms and ammunition by a yacht there and the proceedings of the American Congress. This state of things inspires alarm, and the Government is gravely preoccupied by a situation which is becoming intolerable."

The greatest activity characterizes the naval work now in progress in the Spanish yards. Repairs and construction are being pushed under the greatest pressure, and this display of energy on the part of the naval authorities tends to satisfy the prevailing public excitement. It is confidently believed in many responsible quarters that the die has been cast between Spain and the United States and that an outbreak is sure to occur.

Senor De Lome's successor will be Senor Louis Polo Bernabe, son of Vice-Admiral Polo, who formerly represented Spain in the United States.

Must Disavow Sentiments.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Spain must disavow the sentiments expressed by Minister De Lome in his letter to Canalejas, or diplomatic relations with that country will cease. This is the decision reached on Saturday at the meeting of the Cabinet. Not only must Spain disavow the sentiments, but apologize as well for the insult offered by its representative to the President. In case the Spanish Cabinet declines to do this, Minister Woodford was instructed to withdraw from Madrid, thus severing diplomatic relations with that kingdom.

SWARMS COMING FROM EUROPE.

A South African Engineer on His Way to Ottawa re Ontario Mines.

Montreal, Feb. 14.—Mr. C. Rutherford, a mining engineer of Buluwayo, Matabeleland, South Africa, was here Saturday en route to Ottawa. He stated that his mission here is to examine the Michipicoten, Lake-of-the-Woods, and Kootenay gold fields. He added that Canadians have not the slightest conception of the interest in Europe respecting the new Canadian Eldorado. He anticipates a big influx of English gold-seekers.

Anthony Hope on America.

London, Feb. 14.—Anthony Hope has been talking freely regarding America since his return here. He says he believes half the population of the United States is composed of interviewers, "whose predominant characteristics are conceit, as, while every one asked me innumerable questions as to my opinion of the United States and its literature, past, present and future, no one asked me a single question regarding England or the English."

Hope also related many alleged gaucheries of American women to whom he was introduced, adding that they had many ways of expressing that they were frankly disappointed in their expectations concerning his personality.

SAVE THE MOTHERS

Dodd's Kidney Pills Their Only Safety in Female Diseases.

You have seen a flower nipped by frost, fade and die in the flush of its beauty. That is how women die when attacked by any of the diseases peculiar to their sex.

Woman's burdens are woefully heavy. Her sufferings are agonizing. Her patience is grand. Disease preys upon her. The light dies out of her eyes, her steps become slow and dragging; she loses flesh; grows sallow, listless, droops like a flower. Then she dies. Her family is left to the cold mercy of the world.

"Mother's dead!" What a piteous phrase. What sufferings have been endured before it was used. Why should mothers, wives, sisters suffer so? They need not. Dodd's Kidney Pills will quickly and thoroughly cure all cases of Female Weakness. They never fail. They give health, strength, courage: a new lease of life.

WHY DON'T YOU TAKE? HEART HUMBUG. WHY DON'T YOU TAKE?

IT is fashionable to-day to have a new heart scare every 24 hours. The commonest symptoms of dyspepsia or nerve trouble, such as palpitation, weak spells, loss of appetite and poor circulation are magnified and distorted into serious signs of heart trouble, with the object of frightening the public into taking this or that heart remedy. If a hundredth part of the heart trouble we hear about were real, the cemeteries would be filled in a month. A wrong construction is put upon common ailments in order to humbug the people into the belief that heart disease is prevalent, whereas real heart trouble, which is so sadly and suddenly fatal when it does occur, is a rare disease. Lop-sided arguments cannot convince an intelligent people. Iron is the vital element of the blood. You can't have too much. But too little iron means weakness, lack of spirit, pallid cheeks, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, nervousness, loss of vital force, ending in general break-down. The iron in Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills is in the soluble form you need, in combination with other curative agents in such a manner that disease can't resist their action. The blood becomes rich and red, strength returns, spirits revive, good health comes back again. YOU FEEL YOURSELF GETTING WELL WHEN YOU TAKE DR. WARD'S BLOOD AND NERVE PILLS.

The delegates as they arrived reported themselves at the Methodist church, where the Reception Committee received them and directed them to the places where they were billeted.

THURSDAY.

The morning session was taken up by the meeting of the Executive Committee, who transacted the business of the convention and made arrangements for the proper work of the convention.

The session was opened at two o'clock by devotional exercises conducted by Mr. Edmison who occupied the chair until Rev. A. C. Reeves, the president, arrived, who then took the chair.

Reports were read Otonabee, Dummer, Smith and Hastings, which were of a very encouraging character, Peterborough, Havelock, Norwood and Harvey did not send any reports.

In the discussion Rev. Mr. Reeves spoke of the progress of Smith and Lakefield. Mr. Thompson asked for the opinion of the convention along the line of trained teachers. Mr. McLeod spoke of the Baptist Young People's literature courses. Dr Harrison thought a reserve staff of teachers the present great need of the Sunday school.

The following committee was appointed: Dr. Thompson, Mrs. Garvin, Miss White, Miss B. Howson, E. Hawthorne, W. T. Harrison, Mr. McLeod, Miss Bennett, J. White and Wm. Nicholls.

Rev. J. Campbell Tibb, Minute Secretary of the Prv. S. S. Association, was introduced and gave a short address on Provincial Work. He had noticed in his work that county organizations were dropping their interests but that township association were becoming strong every day. It is sometimes said we had too many conventions. Perhaps we had, but not nearly so many as the devil had. In regard to Primary Work he thought it was very essential in the Sabbath School.

A solo by Miss Chisty followed, which was sung in a very pleasing manner.

Mrs. Garvin, in speaking on Primary Work, thought that if parents would take up normal work there would be no difficulty with primary work, for parents can do in the homes what teachers cannot do in the schools. By being one half hour unperceived with the children in a home the moral life of the parents can be ascertained, for the children reflect the life of the parents. Time and consecration are greatly needed for the work among the children.

Rev. Mr. Thompson gave some of the impressions he had received at the Provincial Convention at Hamilton. He emphasized the point that no man was so depraved but that there was some good point about him. We must not get up and speak down at one we wish to help, rather get down and speak up.

A collection was taken up, and the session was brought to a close by singing and prayer.

EVENING SESSION.

The session was opened at 7.15 by a service of praise and prayer, Rev. A. C. Reeves in the chair.

The Rev. D. A. Thompson, of Hastings, delivered a stirring address on "The Three-fold Aim of the S. S. Teacher." In the first place he asked all S. S. teachers to aim at teaching the truth and as much as possible without teachers helps. Some teachers teach without knowing the lesson themselves—by using the helps. Helps were to aid teachers in difficult places, and they should be used in this only and not abused. In using the lesson helps the teacher should also use the scripture, for the scripture was the secret of England's greatness as a nation. In trying to give the child a correct insight to the scripture the teacher should bring before the child the history of such good and great men as Abraham, Paul and others. Paul had all the reverence that a Jew could have but he was devoid of spirit. It was impossible for a teacher to give a scholar a correct idea without a right spirit, and that the testimony of Jesus is a spirit of prophesy. Never fail to set Jesus prominently before the class.

The second aim of the teacher was to live the truth which he or she taught. Set the pattern and let the scholars work up to that pattern. A teacher's influence should be on the side of good always. In using the word "influence" he said it was a word derived from the Pagans. All men's lives exert an influence and that influence is either for evil or good. The third aim of the teacher was to "Lead the children to the truth as it is in Jesus." In order to accomplish this the teacher should aim at the conversion of the class as a whole. This was more easily accomplished in childhood than at any period of life, as an example of this, take John the Baptist, who was converted when young, and for another take Timothy. Most of the eminent men of to-day were converted between the ages of ten and fifteen years. As the unconverted man becomes older the heart greatly becomes surrounded by a crust which is hard to penetrate with the truth. As an encouragement, teachers should take this passage of Scripture: "They who seek Me early shall find Me," which were the words of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. By following these rules teachers will find it easy to lead little ones to Christ.

Mr. Thompson received good attention, which went to show the appreciation of his address by the teachers and parents of the children.

Hymn No. 275 was sung, all heartily joining in.

Rev. J. Campbell Tibb was the next speaker, and spoke of the many remembrances, which he had of Lakefield. One especially being the Trent Valley Canal which he learned had started some centuries ago.

Another remembrance was the Rev. Mr. McEwen, who spent so much time in Lakefield and who was such an able worker in S. S. work.

Mr. Tibb's principal subject was "The Schools in which our children study." He started by asking:

(1) What are the schools?

(2) What are their influences on the children?

There are four schools in which the children receive tuition. The first of these is the home or home school, which is the best of all schools, but it takes two to teach the children at home, viz:—father and mother. Some fathers leave the teaching all to the mother, and spend their spare hours away from home. This, he said, was not right and no one but a mean man would do such a thing.

Parents should do nothing in the presence of their children which they would not have the children do themselves. Those parents should be careful what they allow their children see them do and say.

The second school is the Public School. In this school the child spends six hours a day or 1200 hours a year, and therefore in this school the very best of morality should be taught.

The third school is the Sabbath school, which the speaker made many important remarks, which should be taken in by all Sabbath school teachers and lived up to.

The fourth and last school is the world. Mr. Tibb said that in this school the child receives a great deal of knowledge both good and evil and that we should all try and make the world such that the rising generation would profit by its teaching.

The speaker concluded by saying that in order to have the children take an interest in the school it should be made attractive as some homes were such that the children would be better on the streets.

Rev. Mr. Reeves made a few closing remarks and the meeting closed by singing and the Benediction.

FRIDAY.

The session was opened with devotional exercise conducted by Rev. H. S. Erb.

The first business of the session was the reception of reports. The report of the Nominating Committee was presented.

The following is a partial list of the officers elected:

President—Mr. E. Hawthorne, of Dummer.

1st Vice-President—Rev. D. A. Thompson, of Hastings.

2nd Vice-Presidents—All co-operating ministers of the county and presidents of township conventions.

Treasurer—Mr. Geo. Stewart, Peterborough.

Secretary—Dr. Harrison, Keene.

Minute-Secretary—Miss Laura Bennett, Peterborough.

Supt. Primary Work—Mrs. Garvin, Peterborough.

Assistant Supt. Primary Work—Miss White, Peterborough.

Supt. Normal Work—Dr. Harrison, Keene.

Assistant Supt. Normal Work—Rev. D. A. Thompson, Hastings.

The Treasurer, Mr. Geo. Stewart, presented a very favourable report. The town of Peterborough was a little late in forwarding its contributions, but notwithstanding, there was sufficient money on hand to send to the Provincial Association the usual grant given in the past. The delay in forwarding the county contribution to the Provincial Association was regretted, and it is hoped that it will not occur again.

The Secretary, Dr. Harrison, of Keene, presented a favourable report, except in regard to Normal Work, and the forwarding of the Provincial grant.

The report of the president, Rev. A. C. Reeves, contained two recommendations of interest:—1. That steps be taken next year to more fully organize the eastern portions of the county. 2. That in the future the county convention occupy only one day of three sessions.

Upon motion duly seconded these reports were adopted by the convention.

A conference on Primary Work, occupied the remainder of the morning session. It was led by Mrs. Garvin, of Peterborough, who was thoroughly at home on the subject and brought out many good points, which would be followed very profitably.

Miss White read a paper on "Feed my Lambs."

Miss Aldridge, of Peterborough, also took part in the conference.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

In the afternoon session the programme was a very interesting one and was enjoyed by those present.

A conference on Home Classes was led by Rev. C. E. McLeod, and the discussion that followed proved profitable to all.

Rev. J. G. Potter, of St. Andrew's, Peterborough, presented to the convention a brief "Survey of the Book of Matthew," which was interesting and instructive.

Miss Grundy, of Peterborough, taught the S. S. lesson for the next Sabbath to a primary class of boys and girls.

Mr. Hawthorne, President-elect, being absent on account of sickness in his family, Rev. Mr. McLeod took charge of the meeting.

After singing and prayer, the minutes of the previous sessions were read by Miss Howson, and approved.

The first called on to speak was Rev. S. J. Shorey, of Peterborough. On account of his absence at all the previous sessions he was at some disadvantage as to what had been the topics of those who gave addresses, nevertheless he delivered a very appropriate address.

The speaker's subject was "The use and abuse of Ideals." He started out by saying that an ideal is something which we never reach, because when we reach it, it would be no longer an ideal. He compared ideals to shadows.

It is desirable for people for people to have ideals, and well enough should never be let alone. There is life and there is higher life. Ideals are especially important to Sunday School teachers, and they should never lose sight of their ideal on account of other methods which may be brought before them.

Every Sabbath school teacher is under an obligation to every scholar under his or her control, and also to the souls of the scholars. The speaker said that there is no hope of ever governing the world by rules and regulations. If they master the principles they evolve the rules themselves do the work.

Miss Hendren sang a solo which was greatly appreciated.

Rev. J. C. Tibb gave an address on "Forward Movements in Sunday Schools." The speaker said that the young Ontario boys and girls have the best education of any in any other province or state and that the farmers of Ontario have now better barns than their ancestors' houses were. When John Wesley first started to preach Methodism he was rotten egged, but after all he got a hearing, and freedom of speech is essential to truth. Now $120,000 per year is received for missions from the women of Ontario alone.

The first Sunday school was started in England in 1780 and the children were bribed to attend and the teachers paid one shilling a day for teaching six hours every Sabbath. There are now 300,000 Sunday schools in English-speaking lands and 22,000,000 Sunday school children with 2,200,000 teachers, the unpaid servants of God and who are expected to make continuous work in the Sabbath school work. Yet only one half of the children of Ontario attend Sabbath school and it is the parents, teachers and pastors who are responsible for this. We need more Sabbath schools in our homes and we also need improved Sabbath school rooms. Don't make men and women of little boys and girls before the proper time.

He also spoke highly of Bible reading circles and the Boy's Brigade. We have as weapons (1) the Bible, (2) Prayer. We have a rallying point which is the cross and a Master in General who is the Lord Jesus Christ Himself. Therefore we should strive to obey His will and fight for His cause.

The convention was brought to a close with singing and prayer.

During the convention music was furnished by the choir, composed of representatives from all the choirs in Lakefield and by Miss Hendren, Miss Chasty, Miss Garvin, Miss Helen Smith and little Charlie McDonald and Cora Hunter.

The thanks of the officers of the Association are tendered to all who in any way helped to make the convention a success.

Mayor Davis is still confined to his residence through the effects of a severe cold.

Mr. Robt. Hunter returned to Lindsay Saturday after spending a week in town with relatives.

Mr. W. L. Allen, who is with his parents in Bowmanville, recuperating, is steadily improving, but has not yet decided when he will return to Peterborough.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The Men's Chapter of St. Luke's Guild will hold their next meeting at Mr. Chas. Curtis' house next Tuesday evening. Conveyances will leave the post office and from the corner of Mark and Elizabeth streets at 7.40 for the convenience of residents in Peterborough and Ashburnham. All adult male members are invited to attend. Paper by Mr. E. A. Peck.

St. Luke's Company Church Boys' Brigade has elected the following officers for the year:—Captain, Sidney Tivey; 1st Lieut., Frank Eden; 2nd Lieut., Fred. Macfadden; 1st Sergt., Rose Craig; 2nd Sergt., Howard Bennett; 3rd Sergt., Ernest Wylie.

Rev. Mr. Dykeman occupied the pulpit of St. Andrews church Sunday morning in the absence of the pastor, who preached anniversary services in Kingston yesterday. In the evening the pastor's father was greeted by a large congregation. Mr. Potter took for his text "And the door was shut." He pleaded in earnest tones for young men to embrace Christianity and held the closest attention of his audience for an hour and a half.

Mr. B. Rantenberg, a converted Jew, preached in Charlotte street church yesterday morning and gave the story of his life in the evening. A large congregation was was present in the morning and in the evening the church was far too small to hold the people. Mr. Rantenberg spoke for an hour and yet the people were not tired, so interesting was his address. Master Bernie, his little son of nine years of age, sang very sweetly "The dream of Bethlehem," which was much appreciated. The church is expected to be full again to-night when Mr. Rantenberg will lecture on the Jew and his son will sing several numbers.

IN MR. STRATTON'S COMMITTEE ROOMS.

HIS SUPPORTERS RALLY IN LARGE NUMBERS.

Short Addresses Given by a Large Number of Those Who are Interesting Themselves in the Campaign—The Country is Solid—A Large Majority is Expected in the Town.

Mr. Stratton's committee rooms were totally inadequate to accommodate those who sought admission on Saturday night, and hundreds had to turn away from the doors, being unable to obtain even standing room. A predominating feature was the large number of young men present, and the interest they evinced in the remarks, which were made by those of Mr. Stratton's supporters, who spoke during the evening.

Mr. E. B. Stone started the ball rolling by making one of his characteristic addresses, beaming over with enthusiasm. He had been out in the country with Mr. Stratton during the week and, unqualified success had been the result of the meetings. The country was solid for Mr. Stratton and so was the town. (Cheers.) It was inspiring to see the way in which the supporters gather in the committee rooms night after night. All the old workers were on hand and scores of new ones.

Mr. Richard Hall endorsed all that Mr. Stone had said. He also had been out in the country with Mr. Stratton. South Monaghan would give him a larger vote than ever. The same could be said of Smith, and there was no use in going further back, as the north country was solid. (Cheers.) It had been said that Mr. Stratton would not get the town vote, but this statement was shown to be incorrect by the present meeting. Nothing like it had ever been seen before. Reports from all parts of the country were to the effect that never was the Government representative so popular amongst the farmers. (Applause.) He urged the town committees to put their shoulder to the wheel, and pull up Mr. Stratton's majority in the town to a figure to equal that in the country. Before resuming his seat Mr. Hall stated that he had a friend present who had done a great deal for him in Ennismore in his election, and that assisted him in taking one of the best Liberal votes ever recorded in that township. He introduced Mr. — Lee, of Toronto.

Mr. Lee, whose convincing style of address is well known in Peterborough, stated that he was just returning to Toronto from a trip east, and in all the meetings which he had attended the wave of victory seemed to be sweeping over the country for Hardy as it had swept over it for Mowat so many times. (Cheers.) He had known Mr. Stratton personally for some time and could say that his efforts in Toronto were appreciated. He was one of the best and hardest workers in the Government interests and was true as steel to his constituents. He was a man of sterling character and ability and this was the kind of men who were wanted in Parliament. There were a few in the Province who opposed the Government, but where a party which assails another gets down to such small matters as a pig-sty there cannot be much wrong with the party in power. St. John and Whitney should look to the greater interests of the country—should try and assist the Government in its efforts to enact such legislation as would benefit the working man. The Government has been in power for twenty-six years and if there was anything against them it would have come out long ago. An employer will never make a change in his men unless he is convinced he could do a great deal better. This is just the case in West Peterborough. The riding has a man it knows. (Applause.) He served its interests faithfully (applause) and why should he be left at home for a man who was not known. There were times when the electors should look beyond mere party standpoints and this was just such a case and he felt the electors of West Peterborough would look at the matter in this light and return Mr. Stratton by a largely increased majority. (Cheers.)

Mr. W. G. Ferguson, in a few brief and pithy remarks, stated that in all parts of the country the talk was of Stratton (cheers) and if it was not for the newspapers no one would know, much less of opposition. It was time for a change—in the weather—but West Peterborough would make one of the greatest of errors if it allowed Mr. Stratton to go in with a majority which was less than the last. (Cheers.)

Mr. John Kincaid expressed his pleasure at seeing so many young men present. It gave the old war-horses a chance to lay back on their oars. The young men never had a better cause to work for than the return of Mr. Stratton in the present election, and he was pleased to see that hundreds were starting out the right way. Ontario now possessed the best laws and the best rulers she ever had and he asked the young men to rally and snow the Opposition under.

Mr. Ed. Elliott, of Smith, stated that it was not necessary to say anything for his township. It always repeated itself, and even in conceding Mr. Garvin two-thirds of the doubtfuls, a majority of 250 would be rolled up for Mr. Stratton. (Cheers.) Mr. Garvin might tell the farmers that he had as big corns on his hands as any of them, but the farmers realized that the Government candidate was their friend. (Applause.

Mr. F. D. Kerr would not ask those present to vote for Mr. Stratton as he knew they all would and thousands more. The Opposition might cry that it was time for a change, but there was no reason there should be one. When it came down to a question of ability between the two candidates, the West Peterborough backers of J. R. Stratton were not ashamed of their man, and would elect him not by a hundred, but by many hundreds of a majority. The speaker laughed at the idea of the Hardy Government not being sustained, and concluded by hoping that Hardy would live as long as his government.

Mr. J. H. McClennan, of the People's Coal Co., who has recently taken up his residence here, expressed his pleasure at being able to identify himself with the supporters of the government in Peterborough. He was pleased and proud to be able to work in the interests of such a candidate as J. R. Stratton. He knew him by reputation before he ever met him. The Opposition said it was time for a change. What were we going to change—a stable, honest, progressive Government for a party which has only enough ability to take up the cry of pig? In the case of the great banking institutions of the country, did the directors displace the managers who had financed the concerns to a success, merely to have a change? Does the Canada Life anticipate dismissing Mr. Ramsay from the management simply because he had been working for a long time? Then there was the cry of "No surplus." As well might one say Geo. A. Cox had no surplus, because he probably had only a few thousand dollars of ready cash in hand. His money was invested as was that of the Ontario Government. Is it possible the country could be gulled by such a cry of "no surplus?" All this loud talk about nothing on the part of the Opposition reminded him of an old head line in his copybook when he was a boy "Always whistle going through a graveyard to keep your courage up." (Laughter and applause.) Between Toronto and the Ottawa Valley, Hardy was going to win four seats which had never been held by the Liberals before (cheers). The speaker travelled over this territory himself every week and knew whereof he spoke. Stratton's election was certain. Dr. Willoughby and Whitney would give their boots to have their own constituencies as sure for them as Mr. Stratton's was for him.

Mr. Eyres approved of all that had been said of the present Government and of Mr. Stratton and asserted that it could be said truthfully. When the present representative was A 1 and double extra quality, was it not absurd to say it was time for a change? Where would be the common sense in such an action. Would not the interests of any business be imperilled by changing a tried and true manager for one of unknown quality?

Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald said it was evident as the time passed on that Hon. Mr. Hardy had captured the sentiment of Ontario, and had won the respect and confidence of the people. For a quarter of a century, he said, the Opposition in town and country, in the highways and on the side-lines, have been harping on the eternal "surplus" of Mr. Sandfield Macdonald. As a matter of fact there was no such surplus. What the Opposition claim as surplus had been three-fourths pledged when Mr. Blake came into power, and as a matter of fact he applied it in the manner laid out by his predecessor in office. Anything appropriated in not a surplus. In contrasting the important issues of a few years ago, between the Provincial and the Dominion Government, and those existing now, he said that there was no parallel whatever. Then questions of great Provincial magnitude and national importance were at stake, and they were won—every one of them—through the indomitable energy and pluck of the Liberal Government of Hon. Oliver Mowat, aided and abetted by his first lieutenant, Hon. Mr. Hardy. Among these Mr. Fitzgerald mentioned the case of the disputed territory, and reminded the audience that but for the patriotic action of the Mowat-Hardy Government, against the government at Ottawa—the friends and patrons of the present Ontario Opposition—not one stick of its timber nor one pound of its golden ore would to-day belong to the people of Ontario. He hoped this election, in the province, would give the Sandfield cries and kindred cries their well merited quietus. In concluding he congratulated the various committees and canvassers on the good work they were doing and urged them to persevere with increased vigour, if possible. The best work was always done near polling day. There was a full fortnight ahead, and it was expected that every man would do his duty until the night of the 1st of March, when the two Peterboroughs would be carried, and their efforts, and the efforts of their companion-in-arms throughout the province, would be covered with success and the Hardy Government restored to power with an increased majority. (Cheers.)

Mr. G. M. Roger thought the people of Peterborough had reason to congratulate themselves on two things—on the presence of Mr. Lee during the evening, with his encouraging reports from other parts of the Province and on the acquisition of so fluent a speaker as Mr. McClellan. During the week he had been in the country and could state with certainty that it had never been stronger for Stratton (cheers). There was no doubt but that his majority would be larger than ever.

Mr. J. R. Stratton spoke briefly, stating that in all his meetings he had held his own and much more as compared with his last election. At no meeting had he indulged in personalities, as directed against his opponent, but had discussed the issues of the campaign in a dispassionate manner. The Opposition stumpers in the riding had said some disagreeable things about him personally but he had not stood on the street corners complaining. They could run what kind of a campaign they chose. He could win in spite of it. The newspapers had little tiffs between themselves, and as the Review was getting the worse of the interchange, it was getting very sore over it. He was not using personalities himself when speaking, as he could win without resorting to such methods. The country was with him and the workingmen were with him. Never had he been so cordially received in the manufactories. He would have a majority in the town again as he had done before. He had no hesitancy in saying that of the young men who registered during the week, he would poll the vote of the great majority. He was much pleased to see so many of them present in the committee rooms in the evenings. There was work for them all to do, and he hoped they would not be backward in giving their assistance in the different wards. After referring to the meetings he would hold in the northern part of the riding the coming week, Mr. Stratton said he would return to town on Friday to be present on the platform at Mr. Whitney's Opera House meeting. The enthusiastic cheers that greeted his address showed that he had a band of workers that would carry his candidature to victory.

Mr. Wm. Rudkins addressed his remarks almost wholly to the young men, and that his words aroused enthusiasm was shown by the applause which was freely accorded.

Mr. Wm. Taylor stated that he was never so happy as when in harness for a good cause, as he was at present. He hoped the labouring men would put their shoulders to the wheel and make victory certain by rolling up a majority of a thousand.

Mr. J. J. Hartley stated that by remarks which had been made he understood that a few of the Opposition supporters in the riding claimed to have the workingman's vote in their hands. The workingmen were too intelligent to allow anything like this. They would vote as they thought best. They understood the condition of affairs and the requirements of the case fully as well as those who professed to be so highly educated. Mr. Garvin had not a five-cent piece invested in the riding, he was a stranger, whilst everyone knew Mr. Stratton. It was not at all necessary for a stranger to come to town to tell the electors about him. He had represented the riding for twelve years, and would again, if the workingman's vote could put him there.

The speaking for the evening was brought to a close by three cheers for Mr. Stratton, and the singing of the National Anthem, after which the committees did some good and encouraging work on the lists.

ROUTLEY'S OLD STAND

379 GEORGE STREET.

CAMPAIGN COMMENTS

A bit of prophecy. On June 4th, 1894, the Review prophesied and said:

"Mr. Stratton would like people to think he is sure of re-election. He never was in a worse state since his career of policy and politics opened. He feels that he is facing defeat."

This was on June 4th. On June 26th, when the ballots were counted, Mr. Stratton had 760 of a majority.

The Review says the reports are "strong" all over the province that Whitney will be the next premier. Mr. Meredith, almost as able a man as Mr. Whitney, enjoyed the benefit of such "strong" reports during a great many election campaigns.

Our local cotem. is supersensitive. The EXAMINER can't disprove the false statements of a political opponent, without being charged by it with personal abuse.

If Mr. Garvin will affix numbers—in the order of merit, preferably—the EXAMINER will be saved the necessity of personal reference.

One great cry of the Opposition is against the increase of the officials of the Province. Where is the great increase complained of? It is all very well to make big assertions, but in public discussion some attempt at proof is expected. Now the payment of officials comes under the heading of civil government. Since 1872 the cost of civil government has increased only 42 per cent. in Ontario, while in Quebec the increase has been 105 per cent., and in the Dominion 88 per cent. And in connection with the increase in the cost of civil legislation there has been added one of the most important departments of the Government, that of Agriculture. The expense of another department would account for a good deal of the increased expenditure in civil government, and the increase in the business of the other departments, caused by the increase of the population of the province and the consequently increased demand on the public service satisfactorily accounts for the increase of the item of civil government. It will not do to make general complaints of undue officialism. Some specific charges must be filed in order to make out a case. The Opposition denounce offices in general terms, yet they do not seem prepared to resign any of them in the extremely improbable event of their having the chance to do so.

March 1st.

If Mr. Whitney is so much opposed to officials, why is he moving heaven and earth to get office?

He and his Opposition friends claim that the good laws in the statute book are due to the Opposition.

Then if office is such a baneful thing Mr. Whitney and his friends had better keep out of it.

Why don't he specify what offices he would dispense with?

But this might lead to unsatisfactory results. His leading supporters in the town of Peterborough are so keen after No. 1 that discrimination might be disastrous.

If he should propose to dispense with any officials in Peterborough there would be a tremendous slump in the following of his candidate, and a great falling off in the "9.45 o'clock enthusiasm."

The Opposition are fond of denouncing the Government for its failure to apply the Act requiring the manufacture of logs cut on Crown Lands in Ontario at once, instead of waiting till the end of April. One effect of this would have been endless litigation for breach of contract on the part of lumbermen whose licenses were thus interfered with. Nothing but the extremest emergency would have justified such a course, and the Government was prepared to take this extreme course if the conditions were taken unfair advantage of. The Opposition claimed that the lumbermen who exported would take unfair advantage of the present winter to cut and export an enormous quantity of logs under the authority of existing licenses. The Government foresaw such a possibility and took the straightforward way of dealing with the matter and gave sharp and prompt notification to limit holders that no extraordinary or unusual cutting would for a moment be allowed, and if they did not exercise the privileges represented by their licenses in good faith, steps would be taken to compel them. And the result is that instead of there being an enormous increase of the amount of logs cut for export the amount is over sixty-two million feet less than last year.

Mr. Whitney is down on the Patrons.

Yet his followers in Peterborough are hot-foot after the Patron-age.

The Opposition campaign sheet says the Government passed its timber bill, providing for the sawing of Ontario logs in Ontario, so that the Dominion Government would disallow it.

Mr. Gibson in the House pledged the Government, in case the bill were disallowed to reach the same result by order-in-council. Another lie nailed.

You can't fool the people that way.

Wind wont win on March 1st.

CHALLENGE.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

SIR,—In order to bring to a head the charges and misstatements rampant about the meeting at O'Rielly's School House in Ennismore as to who was the one to begin the appeals to sectarian prejudices, Mr. Garvin or Mr. Stratton, I hereby agree to put up five dollars for prizes in a race to be called the "Garvin race," at each of the next five Ennismore picnics, if he will do the same, the loser to pay if I cannot prove to the satisfaction of any reasonable committee of men to be named at once that Mr. Garvin began the references to sectarian matters at the O'Rielly's school house meeting.

"Is She Your Daughter?"

Have you a young daughter just at the age when young girls most need a mother's loving care? Is she physically strong and well or does she suffer from any weakness of the delicate organism which most intimately concerns her womanhood?

If so, you understand her suffering better than anyone else can. You know that such troubles, unless remedied, mean a life of incapacity and wretchedness for her. You appreciate her reluctance to undergo physician's "examinations" and "treatments;" and you will be glad of assurance from the most eminent medical authorities in this country that in nineteen cases out of twenty these mortifying methods are absolutely unnecessary.

Any mother who will write about her daughters case, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N.Y., will receive free of cost the best professional advice obtainable, and instructions whereby a complete cure may, in nearly every instance, be effected by simple, common-sense home methods.

No living physician has a wider practical experience or a higher reputation in the treatment of diseases peculiar to women than Dr. Pierce. His "Favorite Prescription" is the only proprietary remedy ever designed by an educated authorized physician specifically to cure women's diseases. His great 1000-page illustrated book, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," is of priceless value to every mother. It will be sent absolutely free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of customs and mailing only. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.; or, send 50 stamps for a heavy, cloth-bound copy.

HOME RULE AGAIN.

The Irish Question Brought Up In Parliament.

MR. A. J. BALFOUR'S STATEMENT.

The Attitude of the Liberal Party—The Trial of Emile Zola Continued—Emphatic Protests Against the Novelist's Personality—Trial Likely to Last All Next Week—Cable News.

London, Feb. 13.—In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. John Redmond, the Parnellite leader, moved an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne at the opening of Parliament. It was to the effect that "while the House regards with satisfaction the proposed bill for the reform of Local Government in Ireland, the measure will nowise meet the demand for an independent Irish Parliament."

Mr. Redmond said that the executive had declared that the celebration of the centenary of the Irish rebellion showed that Ireland hated England. There had been times when England could have changed that feeling, and he believed that it might yet be changed in the future. Mr. Redmond criticised the changed Liberal attitude since the retirement of Mr. Gladstone and asked for an expression of opinion from the Liberal leaders.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt Replies.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt, the Liberal leader in the House of Commons, replied, emphasizing the sacrifice which the Liberals had made for Home Rule which he had reiterated in all his speeches. But the supremacy of the Imperial Parliament was a material feature of Mr. Gladstone's bill and had been accepted by the National leaders. The present amendment demanded an independent Parliament, therefore he would oppose it.

Mr. John Dillon, chairman of the Irish Parliamentary Party, said he would support the amendment, but admitted the departure from the policy of the late Charles Stewart Parnell, who had accepted Mr. Gladstone's bills as full satisfaction for the Irish demands. Mr. Dillon warned the Liberals that they would lose the Irish vote unless Home Rule headed their programme.

Not Intended to Be a Step to Home Rule.

Mr. A. J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury and Government leader in the House, said the Local Government bill was not intended as a step toward Home Rule or as a compromise, but rested solely on its own merits, to confer upon Ireland the same local liberties as enjoyed by England and Scotland. Mr. Balfour added: "I firmly believe that sooner or later the people of the two islands will be as closely united as those of any nation in the world."

This remark called forth Irish cries of "Never!" in which Mr. Balfour retorted: "The Irish members neither desire nor hope that. I both hope for and desire it. From study of history, I am convinced that the scheme for a subordinate Parliament is not workable."

Then, amid the laughter and cheers of the Conservatives Mr. Balfour commented upon the "unpalatable position" of the Liberals "in the face of Irish pressure" which, he added, "with or without jam the Liberals will have to swallow."

The Amendment Rejected.

The amendment was eventually rejected by 283 to 65 votes. Only two Radicals supported Mr. Redmond's motion. The remainder of the Opposition voted with the Government, or else abstained from voting.

The Closing of the Lobster Factories.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, replying to complaints against British naval officers for closing lobster factories in St. George's Bay, Newfoundland, said that under the Anglo-French modus vivendi, the factories had been illegally opened and therefore, the naval officers had acted properly in closing them.

Steamer Sunk by H.M.S. Galatea.

Hull, Eng., Feb. 12.—The passenger steamer Marbella, bound from here for Hamburg, was sunk by collision with the bow of the British warship Galatea in Hull Roads last evening. All the passengers and crew were saved. The Galatea was run aground near the entrance to Alexandra dock at this place shortly after high water this morning. The Marbella was a steel screw steamer, built at Port Glasgow in 1894, and registered 933 tons.

Forty valuable race horses were lost on the Marbella.

Spain Making Warlike Preparations.

London, Feb. 12.—A despatch to the Standard from Glasgow says the Spanish Government has requested the Clyde Bank Ship Building Company to push Spanish work. The company yesterday, it is added, despatched to Spain a high speed torpedo catcher, fully manned by Spaniards. In addition, two torpedo boat destroyers are being completed for Spain and the crews for them have arrived at Glasgow.

A NAME TO CONJURE BY.

Dodds Kidney Pills Cured T. Johnston of Diabetes.

Osborne, Feb. 14—Throughout the western peninsula of Ontario the name of Dodd's Kidney Pills is a name to conjure by. The people with the very best of reason have pinned their faith to this grand medicine, and it is used in every house.

The result of this is that kidney diseases, such as diabetes, Bright's disease, etc., are rapidly disappearing from this district.

Mr. Thomas Johnston, of Osborne, is the latest cure. He suffered all the agonies of diabetes for six years, his physicians failing to help him and all medicines failing to give him relief.

Finally he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. His cure began at once. He has used four boxes, and is now strong, healthy and robust.

Mrs. T. S. Hawkins, Chattanooga, Tenn. says: "Shiloh's Vitaliser saved my life. I consider it the best remedy for a debilitated system I ever used." For Dyspepsia, Liver and Kidney trouble it excels. Price 75 cts.

Auditor-General's Report.

Ottawa, Feb. 11. — Auditor-General McDougall's report, bigger and bulkier than ever, was presented to Parliament yesterday. It makes a fine volume for investigation of 1,844 pages. The auditor asks for increases in salary to 18 on his staff, but is told by Mr. Fielding that only three can get a lift. Mr. McDougall calls the attention of Parliament to the fact that the efficiency of his office is likely to suffer by the Government's action. The Auditor-General suggests that it would lighten his responsibility "if it were determined to form a practically permanent but small committee of members of Parliament, who have a taste for accounts, to examine all the differences, including the Treasury Board overrulings, which the year's report shows to have arisen between the departments and the audits office."

TESTED IN DRESDEN.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Win Yet Another Championship.

Dresden, Feb. 7—The report of the wonderful ease of J. M. McDonald, of Windsor, has reached Dresden and causes universal and interested comment.

The power of Dodd's Kidney Pills has for some time past been universally admitted in this town, for we have had absolutely convincing proof of it.

Mr. W. G. Cragg, a prominent merchant and ex-reeve of Dresden, was for eight years a sufferer from Inflammatory Rheumatism, aggravated by Gout. Our most skilful doctors failed to relieve him, and not till he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills did he find a cure. Six boxes cured him completely. He is now attending to business every day, thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

First Year of the Century.

The nineteenth century will end and the twentieth century will begin at midnight between Dec. 31, 1900, and Jan. 1, 1901. The year 1900 will be the last year of the twentieth century. This is because there was no year 0. The first century began with the year 1, and consequently included the year 100, A. D. The nineteenth century accordingly includes the year 1900 A. D.

APPALLING DEATH

From Kidney Disease Prevented by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

"Kidney Disease." Do you know what it means? It means that the kidneys are either rotten, or rotting; the blood is full of poisonous, death-dealing corruption; that the Kidneys can't do their work; that the victim is a walking charnel-house; that his hours are numbered; that the victim MUST take Dodd's Kidney Pills if he does not want to die.

Have you Kidney Disease? Is your skin hot and dry; memory failing; breath short; urine, reddish, or pale colored; does it scald when passing; is your appetite changeable; do your ankles swell; have you bitter taste in the mouth on getting up mornings; is there a brick-dust deposit in your urine?

Any of these signs is proof positive of Kidney Disease. Will you be cured, or will you die? Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only means on earth that will cure you. They never fail.

DANGER IN A SHAKE.

A LEARNED DISQUISITION ON DISEASE TRANSFER.

Microbes of Every Kind Find Lodgment In the Skin—Contact Even of the Cleanly May Spread Contagion—Serious Results From Hand Clasping.

Is it possible for one man to communicate disease to another by the shaking of hands?

If this question be true, should the custom be abandoned or should it be modified under medical instruction so as to minimize the danger?

The existence of micro-organisms inimical to life and health has been established beyond dispute. Dr. Breiter founds his thesis, recently printed in The Medical Record, on this hypothesis. But his leading point, insisted upon with much force, is the danger which is hidden in the apparently harmless and sometimes pleasing custom of shaking hands. He says:

"That the surface of the human body is a very hotbed for the propagation of a great variety of micro-organisms Fuerbinger, Mittman, Bimozero, Magiora and Welch have elucidated most conclusively. It is certainly beyond the shadow of a doubt that in the presence of a predisposing factor and sometimes even without that the microbic diseases are ushered into existence by their individual prototypes, this being essentially brought about by contact in some way of the two contingent forces. Modern surgery is founded on this principle. The carefulness with which we prepare our hands and surgical instruments before and after a surgical operation well exemplifies the importance of a familiarity with its dangers in every sense.

"We recognise that many of our microbic diseases, especially of the exanthematic type, eliminate their toxic element very largely through the medium of the skin, which undergoes extensive exfoliation, disseminating the poison far and wide. Isolation is resorted to and enforced most rigorously, thereby checking the spread of the disease, and then disinfectants lavishly used cause the destruction of the offending armies. In the era of scientific prophylaxis consequent upon the introduction of the microscope, bacteriology and antiseptics we find a steady decline of epidemics either developing in the outer world or in our hospital wards. Yet accidental inoculations of tuberculosis, smallpox and vaccinia, as well as more horrible diseases, still exist and are but demonstrations of either an unavoidable cause or a faulty observance of established data."

Dr. Breiter gives a thorough discussion as to what may be the result of contact of the hands. He declares that with men who are of cleanly habits, but who have acquired disease and such as they would wish to hide from their fellow men, the specific bacillus of this disease has been found in filth collected from the hand. He has found tubercle bacilli in the dirt taken from the hand of the man suffering from tuberculosis, the Klebs-Loeffler microbe among cases of suspected diphtheria and had no doubt that the specific germs of every microbic disease may and would be found in millions on the surfaces of the hands if proper experimentation were made. He proceeds as follows:

"Many victims of scarlet fever, both in the early and desquamative stages, especially the latter, are walking the streets of every large city ready to ingraft upon the moist hand of any chance acquaintance the prolific virus of the disease. The same may be said of persons with pulmonary tuberculosis, whose hands and handkerchiefs, through constant wiping of the mouth, are foul and saturated with the bacteria laden expectoration of the disease. Tuberculosis of the hand, the lesion large or small in area, often painless and unrecognized as such for a long while and perhaps untreated, is by no means an infrequent occurrence. Scabies, we know, has a marked predilection for the hand. Need I mention others? Now whether these conditions are the result of hand to hand contact or not does not matter. The conditions themselves are dangerous elements, and it is the consideration of such factors in the causation of disease that we are studying.

"Of course the mucous membrane serves as a better pabulum for the invasion and development of micro organisms, but the skin is not absolutely negative in that respect, and if it were it would make little difference, as the two, skin and mucous membrane, are very often in close apposition with each other. We know that the hand has carried bacteria to the mouth, disseminating contagion in that way. Typhoid fever, Asiatic cholera, diphtheria and other diseases are known to have been produced that way. Why search through medical libraries for similar and perhaps more conclusive evidence? The subject has passed the stage of novelty. So while we professional people are by reason of our profession forced to invite and then to battle—for we have antiseptics—with these enemies, there is no reason why we should unnecessarily and under the cloak of custom invite them and then leave them to do their harm.

"Some may look upon this subject with derision. Nevertheless the truth is this: No matter how small the percentage of evil consequences arising from this universal handshaking, the total number, in view of its extensiveness, must necessarily be great. The subject is deserving of serious consideration. Conscientious physicians and surgeons will accord it."

The need of a good Spring Medicine is almost universal and Hood's Sarsaparilla exactly meet this need. Be sure to get Hood's.

QUEER AUTOMATONS.

EXAMPLES FROM THE DAYS OF DÆDALUS TO THE PRESENT.

A Wooden Venus That Walked and a Brazen Man That Talked—A Wonderful Mechanical Duck—The Greatest of All the Fraudulent Automatons.

There are few things more attractive to the generality of men or more calculated to excite their wonder and admiration than a dexterously and mysteriously contrived automaton. There is, indeed, something almost uncanny in the sight of a figure made by men's hands acting like a creature of flesh and blood, and this uncanniness is one of the most subtle of fascinations. Hence the silver of the onrious readily finds its way into the pockets of men ingenious enough to invent such marvels.

This passion for the automaton is certainly no new thing. One meets it in almost the earliest books, sometimes veiled in myth, sometimes more directly stated. Vulcan, it will be remembered, made automatic tripods for the gods of Olympus — stools which advanced of their own accord to the banqueting table and so retired when the feast was over.

Aristotle tells us that the human automata which Daedalus made were so active that it was necessary to keep them tethered for fear they would run away. The same philosopher describes a wooden Venus who walked about and gives also the secret of the phenomenon. She was filled with quicksilver—a somewhat crude device. Albertus Magnus is credited with having made a brazen man who talked and St. Thomas Aquinas with having pounded it to pieces with a club, suspecting it to be a work of satan. Some marvelous feats of mechanism are credited to John Muller, otherwise known as Regiomontanus, who flourished in the fifteenth century, and in dealing with him we perhaps touch firmer ground. One was an iron fly which flew around a table, another a wooden eagle which went out to meet Emperor Maximilian on his entry of Nuremberg on June 7, 1470, and returned with him to the city gates.

Whether due or not to the stimulus given by Louis XIV, the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries were in France times of great automatic activity. Indeed, the first named century marks the beginning of the really historical era of automata. In the eighteenth century lived Mr. Vaucanson, perhaps the most wonderful of all makers of automata and the creator of the famous duck which first appeared before the public in 1741. The duck was Vaucanson's masterpiece and completed a reputation already made wide by his mechanical flute player and an automatic musician which not only blew upon the flageolet, but also kept time to it on a tambourine. The bird was of life size, and not only was it outwardly an exact imitation to a feather of a real duck, but its internal anatomy was absolutely true to life. So, indeed, were its movements, for it swam, dived, walked, quacked, ate, drank and by an ingenious device even seemed to digest its food.

This automaton disappeared after its inventor's death, but turned up again in 1840 in a garret in Berlin and was purchased by a George Tiets, who took four years to put it in proper working order again. At the end of this time it was exhibited in a room in the Palais Royal, Paris, where Mr. Houdin, the celebrated conjuror, saw it, and, indeed, afterward, when something happened to one of its wings, took charge of and repaired it. No doubt it is still in existence. Of more modern automata this is scarcely the place to speak, for they are private secrets. Let us confine ourselves to merely mentioning Mr. Maskelyne's "Psycho" and "Zoo."

Like most things, automata have not always been what they seemed. Of many frauds upon the wonder loving public perhaps the completest was that of the famous automatic chess player of Mr. Kempelen, which was exhibited all over Europe at the end of the last century and afterward in America. It was the figure of a life sized Turk seated behind a large box, the top of which was marked in the middle for chess. Prior to the automaton's meeting an opponent the front of the box was opened and skeptical lookers on were shown an arrangement of strings, pulleys and cylinders. After this they were allowed to examine the interior of the figure, which was hollow. Then Mr. Kempelen wound up his Turk with a key, and it was ready to play, which it did by moving the pieces with its left hand and giving three nods for check to king and two for check to queen. All the noted chess players of Europe succumbed to the figure's superior strategy, and its skill so impressed the Empress Catherine II of Russia that she wished to buy it and was with difficulty persuaded by Mr. Kempelen to give up the idea. It was not for years that the secret was discovered; but, like most secrets, it leaked out at last. The real chess player was a Mr. Wronsky, a Polish ex-captain, both of whose legs had been amputated at the trunk in consequence of a wound from a cannon ball. While the spectators were examining the box Wronsky was in the Turk's body, and when they turned to inspect that an ingenious mechanism slid him back into the box. To the fact that Wronsky was a chess player of consummate skill the wide fame of the automaton, which he secretly controlled, is to be attributed. After this disclosure Mr. Kempelen's automaton naturally enough ceased to move mankind to wonder.—New York Post.

Strict Sunday Laws.

Swinemunde on the Baltic has strict Sunday laws. Shipmasters who enter the port are fined heavily by the town authorities if they have their ships washed or painted on Sunday or church holidays. As foreigners are not acquainted with the German church calendar they are frequently caught.

The sick man knocking at the door of health gets in if he knocks the right way, and stays out if he doesn't. There are thousands of ways of getting sick but only one way to get well. Do whatever you will, if you do not put your digestion in good order, and make your blood rich and pure, you will not get well. Rich, pure blood is the only thing that can bring perfect health. Constipation is a disease of the blood. A large part of all diseases are traceable directly to impurities in the blood, and can be cured by eliminating them with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The first thing it does is to put the whole digestive system into perfect order. It stimulates the appetite, excites a copious secretion of the digestive fluids and promotes assimilation. It searches out diseased germs wherever they may be, kills them and forces them out of the system. The "Golden Medical Discovery" has been used with unvarying success for over 30 years.

I highly recommend them for all kidney or bladder troubles."

CASH IN THE TILL

Owing to the very small margin of profit in the Tobacco trade, especially since the Duty was increased, we are compelled to adopt STRICTLY CASH Methods in future.

To continue to give Credit means doing business "blindfold" as others have done—incurring bad debts and losses,—instead of having a DEAD SURE THING and knowing just where we stand by the Cash in our Till.

Therefore, on and after MONDAY, FEB. 7th, SPOT CASH will be the invariable rule in this store. Tobacco manufacturers demand Cash for their goods, and as Cash is the Power in Buying we must make it the Power in selling, in order to keep business on the jump.

FIRE KNOCKS OUT LABOR.

Ontario Rolling Mills Burned Down and Nearly Three Hundred Men Thrown Out of Work.

Hamilton, Feb. 14.—There was another disastrous fire here last evening, the Ontario rolling mills being burned down. The fire was discovered about 10 o'clock in the main building, a frame, about 250 feet by 100 feet, by Thomas May, night watchman. He got burned badly while running through the flames to telephone an alarm. In a few minutes the big structure was sending big forks of flames heavenward and clouds of live sparks were carried towards the G.T.R. workshops. The whole city was illuminated before the firemen arrived on the scene. The department did excellent work, preventing the flames from spreading to the adjoining buildings. The fire had not burned itself out in the main building at midnight. About 280 men, day and night shifts, are thrown out of employment. It is impossible to ascertain the loss, but it will amount to about $80,000. The building was owned by the G.T.R. and was valued at $6,000. The building and machinery were insured, but not sufficiently to cover the loss.

A GIGANTIC LABOR MOVEMENT.

1,000,000 Men to Make an Effort to Secure an 8-Hour Work Day.

New York, Feb. 14.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has been here for two days to get the unions of this city to enter into a great movement for an eight-hour work day. According to the present plans of labor leaders, a demand for the eight-hour day will be made on May 1 next that will involve fully a million men. The American Federation of Labor will make this demand in one trade at a time, and, according to the leaders, great strikes are expected before the battle likely to follow is decided.

Mr. Aikens, of Millbrook, picked up a car load of beef cattle in this neighbourhood last week. The prices paid were the best for some time.

Mr. John Smith has secured the contract from the council for supplying cedar for culverts, etc., for the coming season, and is now busy drawing from Mr. McAllisters where, we understand, he has purchased quite a quantity.

Mr. McIntyre, contractor, of Ashburnham, has secured several contracts for building and repairing barns and houses in Monaghan.

Several parties are being held in town at present.

Several young people were on their way to Keene on Friday night when the driver tried to see how near to the ditch he could drive, when the softness of the snow rather upset his calculations and the sleigh load was upset in the ditch. Needless to say there was a scramble to see who could come out on top. No one was hurt, but nearly every one was more or less wet.

The members of the Christian Endeavour are progressing favourably. On Tuesday night last the meeting was larger than usual. The hymns were very appropriate and prayers larger than common. The service generally was hurried over more than usual also. The leader's topic was unprepared and his mind seemed preoccupied. At the close of the meeting almost all of the members adjourned to a party and dance held in the immediate neighbourhood.

NIGHTROBES.

Hygienic Value of Flannel Apparel and the Trimming of Such Gowns.

Flannel nightgowns seem to many persons something belonging exclusively to the childish wardrobe—garments for croupy little boys and girls who will persist in throwing off the bedclothes upon cold nights. As a matter of fact, it is not the juvenile population alone who ought to wear them. A large proportion of grown individuals, especially delicate women, living in a cold climate, would be much better off if they adopted woolen gowns instead of muslin and lawn ones. Of course lace and nainsook embroidery are very pretty, but they are also very flimsy for frosty weather, for even in the most carefully regulated houses the heat will go down during the night, and as the vitality is lower during sleep than at any other time insufficient protection at night becomes a serious matter in a climate where throat and lung troubles are as prevalent and as serious as they are in a large part of America.

It is possible to make flannel nightgowns quite as pretty as muslin ones. If thin Scotch flannel is used instead of the ordinary thick kind, the large proportions of cotton will keep it from shrinking, and the light weight will allow of ample fullness. Plain white or pink or blue and white goods may be used, the trimming being of heavy medici or torchon lace or bands of silk braid or silk feather stitching in white or colors. The oxford robe pattern, such as is used for wrappers, is pretty for flannel nightgowns, or they may be made with a yoke or with plaits at the top.

An illustration is given of two novel sleeves. The first, intended for a dinner gown, is of nile green mousseline de soie gathered transversely throughout its length and draped at the shoulder and the elbow by large white velvet daisies, the foliage of which is carried down the outside of the sleeve. A puff of tulle falls over the hand. The second sleeve, for a ball gown, consists of a printed guipure cap mounted on a shoulder strap consisting of strings of pearls held together by jeweled bars. A double frill of lace is placed under the edge of the sleeve.
